Good Sign For Ford On Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government index of wholesale prices gained only 0.1 per cent in September, giving President Ford the first encouraging economic news since taking office.

It was the smallest increase in a year.

the index on wholesale prices released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics today was 167.2 — meaning wholesale goods that cost $100 in 1967 cost $167.20 today.

On an unadjusted basis the index was actually down 0.1 per cent but the adjusted figure better reflects economic trends.

Ford has made the economy his top priority issue and this week proposed to Congress 31 steps to take to help fight inflation. Since taking office in August, Ford has only heard of higher consumer prices, higher wholesale prices and swelling unemployment.

But the wholesale price index generally signals how prices of consumer goods will increase or decrease at a later date. The small wholesale increase last month could be reflected in lower consumer prices later.

The September increase was the smallest since October 1973 when there was a drop of 0.1 per cent but it was still 19.7 per cent higher than a year ago.

The statistics showed prices of foods edged downward 0.3 per cent after two months of higher prices.

This decline, however, may be short lived if grain crop setbacks continue. Beef and veal accounted for most of the decline in consumer food prices. Higher prices were reported for sugar and confectionary, fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, processed poultry, dairy products, processed fruits and vegetables.

The index of farm products declined 1.9 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis, the first month to month drop since June after two months of increases of around 7 per cent each month.

The index for industrial commodities, the basics for industries, gained 1 per cent, the smallest increase since an 0.8 per cent rise in October, 1973.

Since passenger cars did not decline as they usually do in September, prices of consumer durables moved up 1.6 per cent. Household appliances and furniture were also higher.

Higher prices were reported for industrial chemicals, fabricated metal products, iron and steel, electric power, plastic products, motor vehicle parts and some refined petroleum products.

Lower prices were reported for propane gas, residual fuel oil, lumber, inedible fats and oils, and textile products.

Some of the price declines reported are also symptoms of a sluggishness in the economy.

For example, lumber and wood products declined for the fifth consecutive month, explained in part by the slump in construction where unemployment is higher than 10 per cent.

Lumber and wood products prices were actually 0.8 per cent lower than a year ago. The only other major commodity group showing a drop from last September was farm products, down 8.8 per cent from September, 1973, and down 3.4 per cent from last month.

The most striking rise from last year was the 117 per cent increase in prices for sugar and confectionary goods. These prices were up 10.2 per cent from August.

While the price of refined petroleum products was 85 per cent higher than a year ago these goods declined 0.4 per cent from August.

Bomb Threat Mars Vote As Britons Rush To Ballot

LONDON (UPI) — A bomb scare today forced evacuation of Liberal party headquarters in London as Britons streamed in a heavy turnout to vote for a new parliament for the second time in seven months.

Police searched the building near the Strand, one of London's main downtown thoroughfares, but found nothing and allowed staff to return after 35 minutes.

Telephone operator Penny Sander said a man with a deep voice who did not identify himself called at 12:45 P.M. and said "There is a bomb there. It is going off in 15 minutes."

Police were called and ordered the building evacuated but said after a close search it apparently was a hoax.

The Liberal headquarters was ransacked in a break-in on election eve yesterday.

A spokesman said at first "This looks like another Watergate." But police said later it appeared to be a plain case of burglary.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's governing Labor party, campaigning with strongly leftleaning policies including state control of wide sections of industry still in private ownership, was heavy favorite in opinion polls to win — perhaps by a landslide.

But polls indicated up to 4 million of the nearly 41 million registered voters were still undecided as late as last night on how they would ballot.

Resurgent Scottish Nationalists in Scotland appeared poised to seize a number of parliamentary seats from the Labor party.

All this, commentators said, could mean another hung election, similar to that on Feb. 28 when no party won an overall majority in parliament, or even an upset result.

The London Daily Express called it "the most baffling as well as the most crucial election Britain has known in years." A London Daily Telegraph headline spoke of a possible stalemate.

Both Wilson and Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath voted early in the Westminister district of London, near the Houses of Parliament — a district which has had a large Conservative majority for more than 50 years.

Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe voted with his wife Marion at the Devonshire village of Cobbaton, where he has a country cottage.

The voting percentage in February was 78.8 per cent, nearly a record for Britain where election turnouts normally are smaller than in some other European countries where an 85 per cent vote is normal.

British commentators predicted a 75 per cent vote this time, though they said the apparently high percentage of eleventh hour "don't knows" could hit the over-all total.

Joerger's Growth Vow Is Flayed

By ERNEST MURPHY

Challenger William Kortum yesterday accused incumbent Sonoma Supervisor Phillip L. Joerger of reneging on a promise to seek county support of Petaluma's fight to save its growth-control ordinance.

Despite Joerger's pledge, Kortum said during a news conference, records show he never afterward asked the board of supervisors to allow a county legal brief in support of the controversial Petaluma plan, and because a court-imposed deadline has passed, it is now too late for the county to act.

Joerger responded by calling Kortum's charge a "cheap shot," and called it "just another political ploy to hurt my credibility."

The incumbent supervisor said, "I pressed just as hard as I could" to get support for Petaluma's fight.

Kortum, seeking to replace Joerger in the election next month, presented the following timetable, which was confirmed by a check of county records and by county officials:

On May 7, Sonoma County Counsel James P. Botz asked the supervisors to authorize him to file an amicus curiae (friend of the court) brief with the Ninth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, where Petaluma was planning to appeal an adverse decision by federal District Judge Lloyd H. Burke. The judge had ruled in January that Petaluma's 500-units-a-year growth limit was unconstitutional because it restricted free travel rights of citizens.

The county board sidestepped Botz' request by instructing him to investigate whether Burke's ruling would adversely affect the county.

On May 10, Joerger, a former Petaluma city councilman, announced he would henceforth support Petaluma's growth limiting effort, and he promised to ask the county board to join the city in appealing Burke's ruling.

On June 20, Botz returned to the board with his findings. His conclusion was that the ruling against Petaluma would cripple the county's own planning effort because "under Judge Burke's decision, if (land-use planning) results in a limitation on the housing market, it is unconstitutional." Botz again asked the board for permission to join Petaluma's appeal, but no action was taken.

Supervisor Charles Hinkle of Santa Rosa was asked whether Joerger had sought county support of the Petaluma plan.

Since the day he announced his support of it, Hinkle said, "he hasn't done a thing" to enlist the county in the court fight.

Once before, Hinkle said, he himself had made a motion asking that the board help Petaluma in court but "it didn't get a second —not even from Phil."

Petaluma City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said this week that more than 30 cities and counties and a half-dozen semipublic agencies such as the Sierra Club have joined Petaluma's appeal by filing amicus curiae briefs before Sept. 30, the last day the circuit court would accept them.

Briefs came from the County of Marin and the City of Los Angeles, among others, although none was offered by Sonoma County.

"It makes Petaluma look bad in court to have the county which surrounds it not supporting it," Kortum said at his press conference yesterday.

Joerger said he plans soon to offer more detailed and "well thought out" rebuttals of Kortum's charge.

"This has been his strategy

Worker Shot In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A maintenance man was killed shortly after midnight today when he was hit by gunshots from a hotel facing the building roof where he and other members of a business workers's union were meeting, police reported.

Longshoremen, grain handlers, foremen and other workers at Buenos Aires Harbor were called off the job by their unions today to protest the murder of a union leader yesterday.

Police said that the victim this morning was identified as Horacio Oscar Avalo, and that it was not clear whether his killer was aiming for Avalo or another member of the labor group, the Business Employees' Association of the cities of Lanus and Avellaneda outside Buenos Aires.

Directors Switch Marin City Policy

Vote Would Spread Cheaper Housing

By PAUL CANE

Reversing a long-held position, directors of the Marin County Housing Authority last night decided that they want both phases of Marin City redevelopment to provide for housing low and moderate-income families.

Over the strenuous objection of board chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., the board voted 4-1 to meet with the county redevelopment agency to push for 20 per cent low and moderate-income housing in the Richardson Highlands development.

The price ranges to be used as guidelines in determining inexpensive housing are to be those of the federal government — which are considerably lower than county standards — the board said.

Planned for the development are 139 townhouses in the first phase, and 240 apartments in the second. Currently, only the second phase is slated to provide some inexpensive housing, and the authority previously approved that plan.

Directors Dorothy Oczkus and Myrna Bergerson are to meet with representatives of the county redevelopment agency to plead the case of additional housing for low and moderate-income families. The date for the meeting, and the redevelopment agency representatives, have not been determined.

The authority took the position at the request of representatives of the Marin County Legal Aid Society, speaking for the Marin City Tenants' Council. L. Naomi Wilkes of legal aid told the board that it should "reaffirm support" for housing the poor, and endorse the tenants' drive to add more low and moderate-income housing to redevelopment plans.

(Legal aid has threatened to sue to halt the project, on the grounds that residents were not consulted in the planning process.)

(That threat has drawn angry complaints from the county board of supervisors that the Legal Aid Society was misusing the legal process to overturn a political decision, limiting inexpensive housing to moderate income levels.

(Supervisors also reject the claim residents were not consulted in the planning, noting that the matter has been thrashed out in public debate and hearings within the community, before the housing authority and redevelopment agency and at meetings of the supervisors and the county planning commission.)

Ehrlich, in voting against the endorsement, said, "I'm 100 per cent behind the tenants. But I don't think we should reverse the position we've held during months of discussion without a report from staff or a meeting with the redevelopment agency."

He proposed that fact-finding meetings with the agency be held before the board considered changing its mind on inexpensive housing in the first phase.

Discussion of the proposal was marked by spirited debate between Ehrlich, other directors, and members of the small audience at Manzanita Center, Marin City.

"To think about this for a while is to minimize antagonism with the redevelopment agency," Ehrlich said.

"At the expense of the poor people," charged Miss Wilkes.

"No, at the expense of two weeks or a month," Ehrlich retorted.

Mrs. Oczkus, a newly appointed director, concluded the debate when she said she didn't want any more staff reports or delays. "Studies, studies, studies — I'm tired of them all," she said.

"How could you be tired of them? You've only been on the board three weeks," Ehrlich observed.

Three Win Nobel For Medicine

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — An American and two Belgians who worked closely together in human cell biology today won the 1974 Nobel Prize in medicine for their research on the causes of cancer and its early detection and treatment.

George Emil Palade of Yale University and Belgians Christian de Duve and Albert Claude, both of whom did research at Rockefeller Institute in New York, shared the $123,000 prize for "their discoveries concerning the structure and functional organization of the cell."

Dr. Nils Ringertz, a spokesman for the Caroline Institute which handed out the award, said Claude's findings have meant much to research into causes and treatment of cancer.

He said due to his cell research and by using a centrifugal method "we can find the tumors very quickly." This method uses a spinning motion to separate the nucleus of the cell from the rest of the cell.

Prof. Sten Orrenius, another member of the Institute, said their research in repairing and defending the human cell, had led to discoveries of substances which can destroy "medicines that otherwise could cause cancer."

He said Claude was "the one who started the whole thing with cell biology. In 1945 he worked out a method called differential centrifugation.

The institute officials said Palade was Claude's pupil and helped him develop the method. "De Duve found out how the cell can absorb or destroy good or bad substances without killing the whole cell," officials said.

Another member of the institute, said, "Thanks to de Duve's discoveries we can now discover disease when a baby is still in the womb and therefore interrupt the pregnancy."

Claude, 75, informed in Brussels of the prize, said "I hardly dare to believe it."

De Duve said in New York, "Well, I'm very surprised, very pleased."

"Are you sure?" Palade asked in Halifax, Nova Scotia, where he was on a lecture tour. "Fabulous! wonderful!"

New Trial In Water Case Seen

The Marin Municipal Water District and a San Rafael developer, which locked horns in February over Marin's water moratorium, may have to fight the legal battle all over again, and pay for it all over again. (Another water district story, page 4).

That's because a court reporter's shorthand notes of the two-day trial were stolen from her car Sunday.

Without the notes, the state court of appeals can't reivew Marin Judge E. Warren McGuire's decision that the moratorium is illegal.

Water district attorney Douglas P. Ferguson said today that the situation could be resolved in one of three ways:

He and Albert Bianchi, attorney for the McCarthy Co., could stipulate, or agree, on a set of facts which could be used by the appelate court.

Judge McGuire could develop his own set of facts and give them to the appeals court.

Or the entire trial could be held again.

While not ruling out the first two possibilities, Ferguson said he is doubtful they would come about.

In its suit, the McCarthy Co., which wants water for a 292-unit housing project near the Civic Center, argued the water district board enacted the moratorium in an illegal attempt to control growth.

McGuire agreed, ruling that the district had no power "in the field of zoning, land use, density of population control."

But pending the outcome of the appeal, the moratorium remains in effect.

Court reporter Annemarie Olding of San Leandro said a thief broke into her car in Richmond and took a suitcase containing the notes, which are a verbatim account of testimony at the trial.

Government Export Control Said Here

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford's decision to stop the sale of grain to Russia means, in effect, government control of exports, an Ohio State University grain marketing economist said yesterday.

Dr. John W. Sharp said Ford had been motivated by consumer groups who believe that fulfilling the sale of grain to Russia would shorten supplies and cause an increase in prices in this country.

Kortum, seeking to replace Joerger in the election next month, presented the following timetable, which was confirmed by a check of county records and by county officials:

On May 7, Sonoma County Counsel James P. Burke. The judge had ruled in January that Petaluma's 500-units-a-year growth limit was unconstitutional because it restricted free travel rights of citizens.

The county board sidestepped Botz' request by instructing him to investigate whether Burke's ruling would adversely affect the county.

On May 10, Joerger, a former Petaluma city councilman, announced he would henceforth support Petaluma's growth limiting effort, and he promised to ask the county board to join the city in appealing Burke's ruling.

On June 20, Botz returned to the board with his findings. His conclusion was that the ruling against Petaluma would cripple the county's own planning effort because "under Judge Burke's decision, if (land-use planning) results in a limitation on the housing market, it is unconstitutional." Botz again asked the board for permission to join Petaluma's appeal, but no action was taken.

Supervisor Charles Hinkle of Santa Rosa was asked whether Joerger had sought county support of the Petaluma plan.

Since the day he announced his support of it, Hinkle said, "he hasn't done a thing" to enlist the county in the court fight.

Once before, Hinkle said, he himself had made a motion asking that the board help Petaluma in court but "it didn't get a second —not even from Phil."

Petaluma City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said this week that more than 30 cities and counties and a half-dozen semipublic agencies such as the Sierra Club have joined Petaluma's appeal by filing amicus curiae briefs before Sept. 30, the last day the circuit court would accept them.

Briefs came from the County of Marin and the City of Los Angeles, among others, although none was offered by Sonoma County.

"It makes Petaluma look bad in court to have the county which surrounds it not supporting it," Kortum said at his press conference yesterday.

Joerger said he plans soon to offer more detailed and "well thought out" rebuttals of Kortum's charge.

"This has been his strategy

Worker Shot In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A maintenance man was killed shortly after midnight today when he was hit by gunshots from a hotel facing the building roof where he and other members of a business workers's union were meeting, police reported.

Longshoremen, grain handlers, foremen and other workers at Buenos Aires Harbor were called off the job by their unions today to protest the murder of a union leader yesterday.

Police said that the victim this morning was identified as Horacio Oscar Avalo, and that it was not clear whether his killer was aiming for Avalo or another member of the labor group, the Business Employees' Association of the cities of Lanus and Avellaneda outside Buenos Aires.

Coal Miners Returning In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Under orders from United Mine Workers (UMW) officials, hundreds of coal miners began returning to the pits today, ending walkouts triggered by roving pickets protesting so-called immoral textbooks used in Kanawha county schools.

Not all of the miners were expected to be back on the job today but coal industry officials expressed hope the walkouts would be over by the end of the week.

The protest itself tapered off, according to Kanawha County Sheriff Kemp Malton, whose office has been the target of a dozen anonymous phone calls threatening to blow up the jail unless a leader of the protest was released.

"It's quiet for a change," Malton said. "There's been nothing to the threats so far."

The sheriff's office said it had received "a dozen calls made by male callers that a bomb would be detonated at the jail early this morning if the Rev. Ezra Graley is not released."

Graley, a fiery leader of the book-banning forces, was sentenced to 60 days in jail earlier this week for violating a court order banning picketing.

"We have 10 patrol cars with 20 men," said a police official. "State police and city police are helping, too. We cannot allow people to do this. It's just a terrible situation."

BRIEFING — With part of the newly arrived force of 400 riot policemen standing in formation in the background, top police officials discuss the explosive situation in racially torn Boston.

400 Riot Police Arrive In Racially Torn Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Four-hundred riot-trained state and metropolitan police arrived in racially torn Boston today to help protect children and enforce a court ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools by busing.

The reinforcements were called to help local police cope with the widespread violence that has erupted in both white and black sections of the city, in schools and outside them, throughout the day and night.

State and Metropolitan District Police were ordered here after U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity turned down a dramatic appeal for U.S. marshals by Mayor Kevin H. White, who conceded the city no longer could maintain the peace and implement the busing order.

Meanwhile, in Washington, President Ford said yesterday in response to a reporter's question at his news conference:

"I deplore the violence that I have read about and seen on television. I think that is most unfortunate. I would like to add this, however:

"The court decision in that case, in my judgment, was not the best solution to quality education in Boston. I have consistently opposed forced busing to achieve racial balance as a solution to quality education and, therefore, I respectfully disagree with the judge's order."

Ford urged that "the citizens of Boston respect the law" and added: "I hope and trust it is not necessary to call in federal law enforcement officials."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mills Linked To Auto Incident

Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills appeared intoxicated and had blood and scratches on his face when his car was stopped for speeding with its lights out near the Jefferson Memorial early Monday, according to U.S. Park Police.

"An occupant who got out of the car identified himself as Congressman Mills," a police report said.

A woman passenger of the car, who appeared drunk and highly emotional, jumped into the Tidal Basin near the memorial.

She was rescued and later was taken to a mental hospital for observation.

A Mills aide said earlier that Mills was not at the scene of the 2 a.m. incident, but had loaned his car to a neighbor that night.

18 Workers Die

MANILA (UPI) — Scaffolding around a skyscraper in suburban Makati collapsed today and at least 18 construction workers plunged to their deaths, the official Philippine News Agency reported.

Thirteen of the workers were dead at the scene. The other five died on arrival at the nearby Makati Medical Center, PNA said.

The accident occurred on the 15th floor of the U.S. First National City Bank project.

Gas Comes Ashore

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Several containers of a highly toxic poisonous gas believed buried safely at sea shortly after World War II apparently tore loose during stormy weather and washed ashore yesterday on Florida's east coast.

Dr. Dave Crane, Brevard County health officer, said he considered the gas containers a lethal menace.

Crane said Civil Defense authorities would not give out much information, but they said the gas canisters are believed to be those buried out at sea shortly after World War II.

To Televise Shot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The launch of two cosmonauts from Russia's Baikonur spaceport will be televised live to the United States for the first time, under a new international agreement.

John P. Donnelly, assistant NASA administrator for public affairs, said the agreement outlining news coverage of next July's Soviet-American spaceflight also calls for transmission of all the radio communications from the Soviet Soyuz spacecraft to the U.S. Apollo control center at Houston where it will be released to the public.

Russ Space Shots

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The North American Air Defense Command, the nation's watchdog of orbiting satellites, says the Soviet Union placed 11 more payloads into space in September, boosting the total number of man-made objects in outer space to 3,233.

The Soviets also led the count in August with seven payloads, compared to two for the United States and one for The Netherlands. The Russians now have a total of 22 pieces of debris in space, along with the payloads.

More Rounded Up

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli troops today rounded up two more groups of religious jews near Jericho who tried to set up squatters camps in opposition to a return of parts of the occupied West Bank to Jordan.

Local newsmen said about 100 persons scattered through the rocky gullies at Ein Qilt were being collected in buses after the soldiers picked up another group of 45 at dawn near Ma'ale Adumim, the traditional site of the New Testament's Inn of the Good Samaritan.

Alderman Convicted

CHICAGO (UPI) — Alderman Thomas E. Keane, Mayor Richard J. Daley's righthand man, was convicted of mail fraud and conspiracy yesterday. U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson said the jury's guilty verdict represented the "conviction of a system."

Keane, 69, faces a maximum sentence of 90 years in prison. Defense attorneys said they would appeal.

To Visit UN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Polish Communist leader Edward Gierek, a former coal miner, likes to tour industrial areas as well as conduct affairs of state.

Today he was to indulge in both by visiting Pittsburgh and the United Nations.

Gierek was to leave Washington early today aboard a special Air Force plane for New York to address the United Nations. Afterward, he was to travel to Pittsburgh. He will visit Houston later in the week.

Quints Eating

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Russell, Michelle, Sandra, Belinda and Jennifer — the quintuplets born to a Maryland couple — have taken their first gulps of regular air and their first taste of real food.

The quints were given their first taste of food by mouth yesterday. They also breathed room air instead of oxygen inside an incubator. And they were presented to their mother for the first time.

They were born Tuesday.

Summit Still On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has publicly confirmed that the fourth U.S.-Soviet summit conference in Washington in 1975 is still on, and that he may meet with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev even before then.

At his third news conference, Ford told newsmen that he would "certainly consider" meeting Brezhnev before the 1975 encounter "if there is a reason for us to meet."

Kennedy's Wife Hits Other Car

McLEAN, Va. (UPI) — Joan Kennedy, the wife of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was charged with drunken driving yesterday after her convertible bumped into a car stopped at a red light in suburban Virginia.

There were no injuries, and total damage in the three-car collision was estimated at $1,400.

Edward McGrath, whose car was struck, said Mrs. Kennedy, 38, "was very concerned about the accident and very upset. I really thought she was a nice lady.

"She said over and over again she was really sorry that it happened and just thankful that no one was hurt."

Mental Health Crisis Unit Delayed Again On License

Yet another delay in the long quest by the crisis unit of the Marin Community Mental Health Services for a state license appeared this week when a two-month continuance was granted for a necessary hearing for the license.

A public hearing on the need for a 14-bed "intermediate care" crisis unit had been scheduled for Oct. 17 before the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin, but it has been postponed 60 days. No time for another hearing has been set.

Joan Ripple, executive director for Comprehensive Health Planning, said the crisis unit staff asked the postponement in order to provide more data on costs of the unit and need for such a facility.

Such data had been requested by staff of Comprehensive Health, a body which determines and certifies need for both mental and physical treatment facilities.

Approval of Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin and also of the Bay Area council is needed before a state license for the crisis unit can be provided.

The crisis unit currently is treating both mental patients and alcoholics (in a detoxification setting), and some of them remain more than 24 hours. If they were not kept overnight, the facility would not need a state license, officials said.

Last July, the Marin Hospital District board, which rents space in its building in Greenbrae to the crisis unit, finally agreed to a new contract with county officials on the assumption that a license for the facility was forthcoming soon.

LIVING ROOM LOBBYING

John Bell (standing) of Novato, a Pan-American Airlines copilot, tells a gathering of fellow employees and their families in the Tamalpais Valley home of Gary Harmon, how they can help in the fight to overcome the giant company's economic woes. The scene yesterday was similar to others taking place recently throughout the nation as members of the airline's Employee Action Committee, like Bell, urged a passive push to force the U.S. Government to end preferential treatment given foreign competing air lines. One lobbying employee is reported even to have joined Sen. William Proxmire's daily jog in Washington.

Mental Health Crisis Unit Delayed Again On License

Yet another delay in the long quest by the crisis unit of the Marin Community Mental Health Services for a state license appeared this week when a two-month continuance was granted for a necessary hearing for the license.

A public hearing on the need for a 14-bed "intermediate care" crisis unit had been scheduled for Oct. 17 before the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin, but it has been postponed 60 days. No time for another hearing has been set.

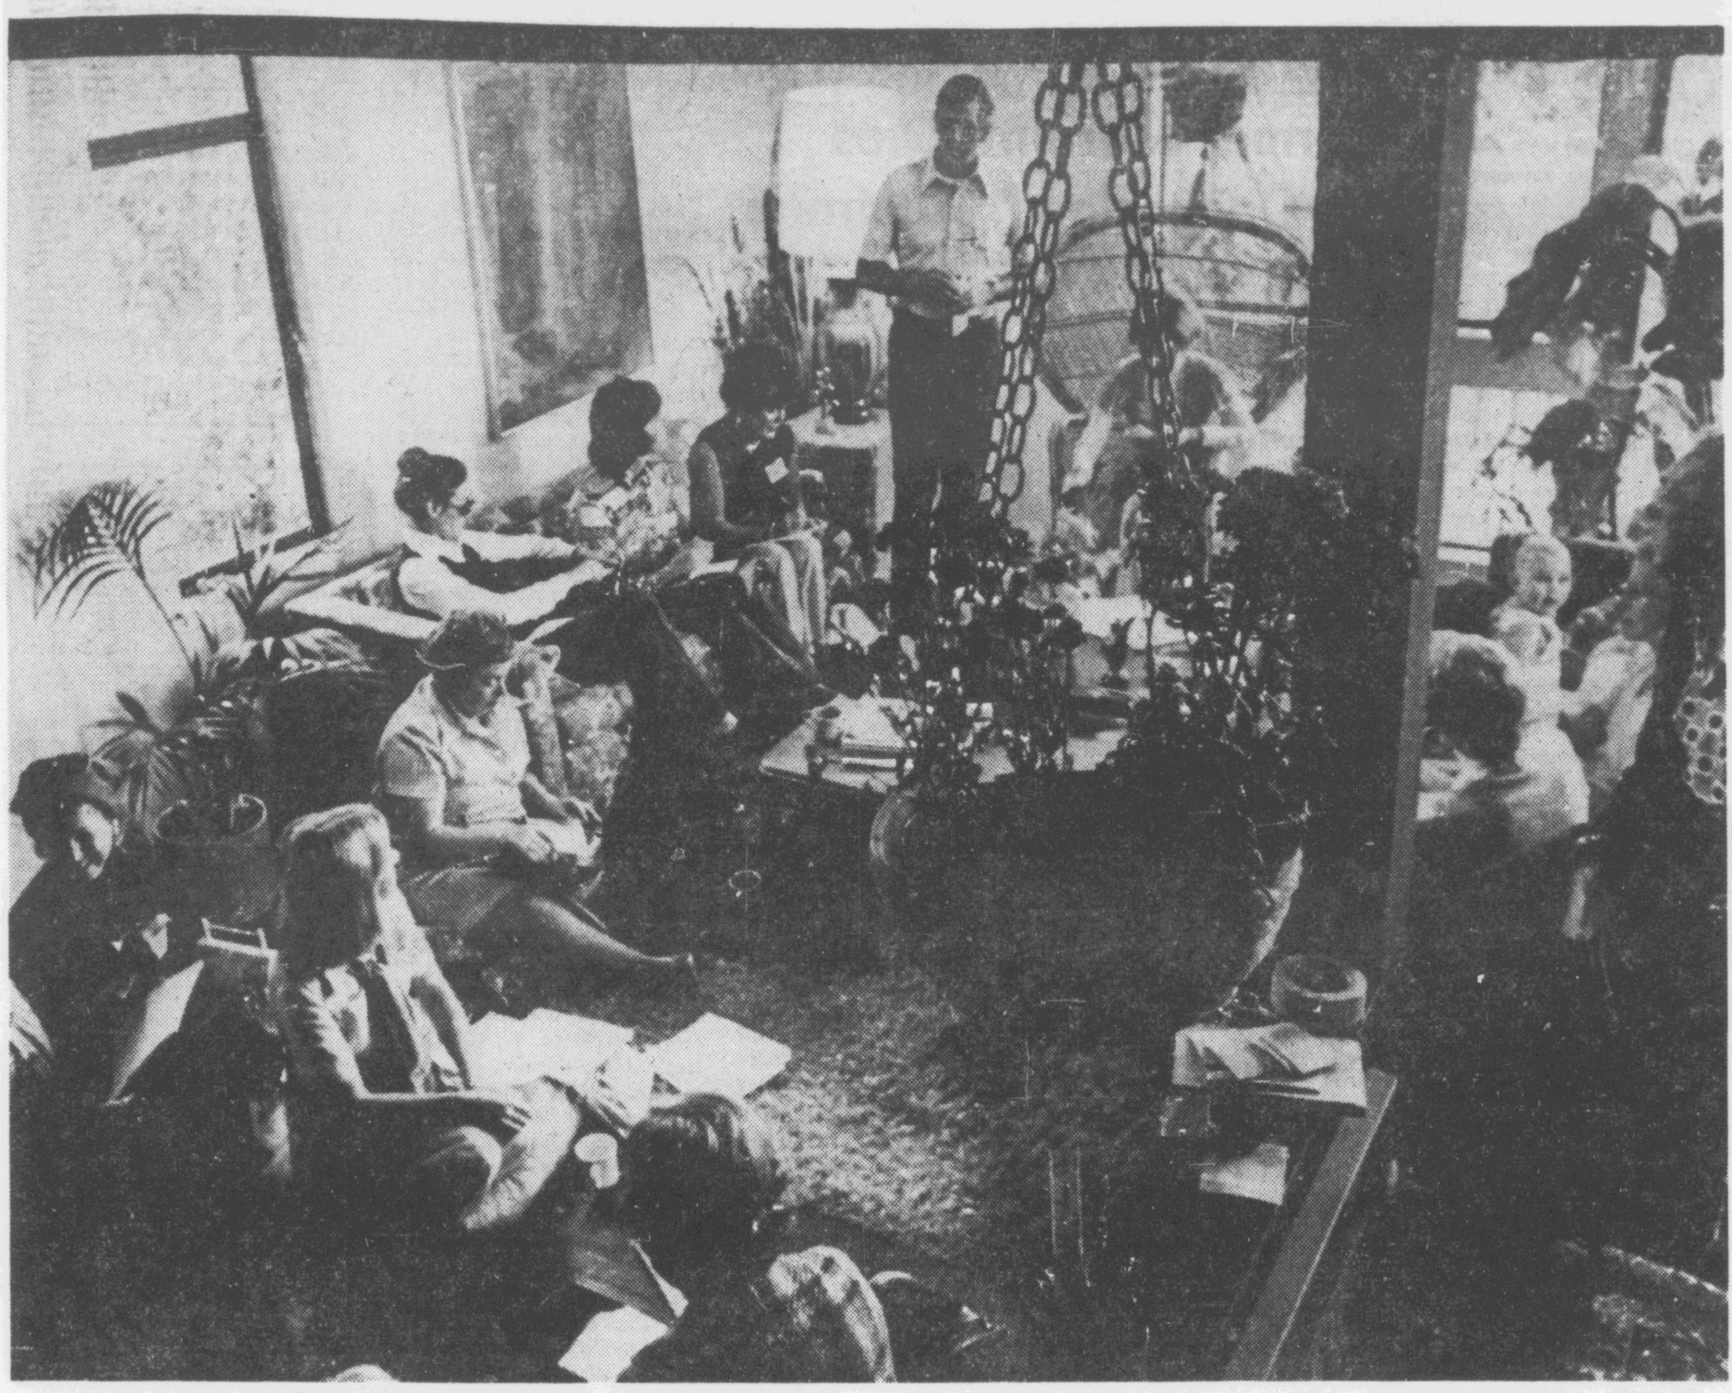
Joan Ripple, executive director for Comprehensive Health Planning, said the crisis unit staff asked the postponement in order to provide more data on costs of the unit and need for such a facility.

Such data had been requested by staff of Comprehensive Health, a body which determines and certifies need for both mental and physical treatment facilities.

Approval of Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin and also of the Bay Area council is needed before a state license for the crisis unit can be provided.

The crisis unit currently is treating both mental patients and alcoholics (in a detoxification setting), and some of them remain more than 24 hours. If they were not kept overnight, the facility would not need a state license, officials said.

Last July, the Marin Hospital District board, which rents space in its building in Greenbrae to the crisis unit, finally agreed to a new contract with county officials on the assumption that a license for the facility was forthcoming soon.



LIVING ROOM LOBBYING

John Bell (standing) of Novato, a Pan-American Airlines copilot, tells a gathering of fellow employees and their families in the Tamalpais Valley home of Gary Harmon, how they can help in the fight to overcome the giant company's economic woes. The scene yesterday was similar to others taking place recently throughout the nation as members of the airline's Employee Action Committee, like Bell, urged a passive push to force the U.S. Government to end preferential treatment given foreign competing air lines. One lobbying employee is reported even to have joined Sen. William Proxmire's daily jog in Washington.

Jury Choice Altered By Judge Sirica

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In apparent response to prosecution complaints, presiding Judge John J. Sirica today issued orders that altered slightly the final jury selection process in the Watergate coverup trial.

Sirica's order would give the defendants five of the final six peremptory challenges instead, as Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski alleged, the final nine challenges.

On the eighth day of jury selection, Sirica continued questioning in closed court prospective jurors on whether they should be eliminated for cause.

After this process is completed, expected before the end of the week, defense lawyers will be permitted to make 15 peremptory challenges.

Jaworksi hinted in court documents yesterday that some prospective jurors — whom he said Sirica had retained for possible jury serivce — felt that if would be unfair to prosecute the defendants since former President Richard M. Nixon had been pardoned.

Returned Water Service Cost Up

Residents whose water service is turned off for nonpayment of bills will pay more to have water turned on again, the Marin Municipal Water District directors decided yesterday. (Another water district story, page 1.)

Directors also dropped the requirement of a $10 deposit by renters or new occupants of homes to turn on water service. Marin municipal was the only one of eight major water districts still requiring such deposits, according to Gen. Mgr. J. Dietrich Stroeh, and staff time and bookkeeping costs were not offset by the approximately $3,225 the district collected in fees.

New costs to restore service to water users who don't pay their bills will be $10 during the workday and $25 after work hours, up from a $5 flat fee.

The Marin Municipal Water District directors also:

TIME OFF — Eliminated compensatory time off, requiring nonmanagement employees be paid overtime rate for hours worked over eight per day, to conform with the 1974 Fair Labor Standards Act requirements.

SPILLS — Approved $25,000 budget to eliminate drains to streams or lakes at San Geronimo and Bon Tempe treatment plants to prevent alum spills.

MUIR WOODS — Ordered annexation of uninhabited parcels of Muir Woods National Monument to the district.

PURCHASE — Awarded a $3,484 contract to Curtin-Matheson Co. of Brisbane for purchase of laboratory instruments.

METERS — Awarded a $8,538.35 contract to Rockwell Manufacturing Co. of San Francisco for 250 water meters.

ANALYSIS — Awarded water quality analysis contracts to Cook Research Laboratory in Menlo Park for $932 and Breje and Race of Snta Rosa for $200.

REPORT — Received year-ending financial report.

CLAIMS — Approved ordinance on procedures for claims of money or damages against the district.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 1 p.m., Oct. 16, at the district office, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera.

Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. It was the second consecutive year that three men have shared the Nobel Prize for medicine.

The announcement by the Swedish Academy of Sciences said the award was for "their discoveries concerning the structure and functional organization of the cell." Dr. Miklos Muller, a colleague of de Duve's at Rockefeller University in the department of biochemical cytology said the research was connected ith the fight against cancer.

"I think it's highly justified," Muller said. "He is a devoted scientist who's done a large number of important discoveries in cell biology. The major thing connected with his name is lysomos — these structures are the structures involved in the digestion within the cells and the theoretical as well as practical and medical aplications. They are a new approach to cancer research."

The Swedish academy said Claude was a pioneer in the 1930s and 1940s in the art of using the electron microscope and centrifugation to study cell structure and by these methods had made a breakthrough in modern cell biology.

Claude's methods, the academy said, were used and further developed by Palade who was his co-worker at the Rockefeller Institute and also was among the first to combine those two techniques.

"In a series of extremely elegant papers, Palade and his co-workers ... demonstrated many fascinating details of the secretary process (of the cells)," the academy said.

De Duve, according to the academy, used Palade's findings as a basis for his own research on lysosomes, parts of the cell that function both as repairmen of faulty cell parts and as defenders against foreign organisms.

The academy said the 1974 medicine prize winners together have created modern cell biology.

It said they had also demonstrated that what used to be a cell with often mysterious parts is really a sophisticated organization with units for the production of ... life and units for disposal of worn out parts and for defense against bacteria and other foreign organisms.

Palade, was born in Jassy, Romania and received his bachelors of arts degree from Hasdeu Lyceum, in Bazau, Romania and his M.D. from the University of Bucharest. He came to the United States in 1946 and became a naturalized citizen in 1952.

New Water Service For Olema

The state public utilities commission has approved a plan to have the North Marin County Water District take over water service to Olema, letting the Olema Water System go out of business.

The approval Tuesday allows the district to buy out the Olema system before Jan. 1 for $6,500. Each agency, and town residents, supported the change.

The commission found the Olema system had lost nearly $800 in the first four months of the year, and said that the water district could do a more efficient job of handling the water needs of the approximately 40 customers in the area.

The transfer is in the best interest of the residents of the area, and no public hearing is required, the commission ruled.

Kissinger In Mideast Conference

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met for two hours today with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi on the first full day of his new Middle East mission. He said "we are working fast" on the groundwork for the possible start of Arab-Israeli peace talks.

There were minor differences between Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Kissinger on the start of the peace talks. Sadat, who met with Kissinger briefly last night, wants them at an early date but Kissinger prefers extended negotiations, including more talks in Washington to settle some outstanding issues, before the Geneva talks resume.

One of the items to be discussed includes an Israeli withdrawal from the occupied Right Bank of the Jordan, a problem complicated by attempts by a group of Israeli religious Jews to set up permanent settlements there. Israeli forces have been trying to force them out.

Another was a report from Beirut that Syria was not willing to extend the U.N. peace keeping mandate in the Golan Heights area when it expires Nov. 30. Kissinger hopes to get the mandate extended for six months but Syria demands further Israeli withdrawal, especially around the town of Quenitra.

Despite the many difficulties Kissinger told newsmen today after his meeting with Fahmi — which was extended a full hour — "We are working fast."

"We had a good talk in preparation for the meeting tonight with the president," he said. "We discussed the situation in detail and, as I said before, President Ford is committed to continuing U.S. efforts to achieve peace."

Following his talks with Fahmi, Kissinger put aside his diplomatic dealings to visit several Cairo tourist sights.

Kissinger said he would return to Cairo for further talks after a meeting Sunday with King Faisal in Saudi Arabia.

"I will come back here Sunday," he said.

Truck Injures Stockton Man

Leroy Stricklin, a 54-year-old construction worker from Stockton, was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital with fractured ribs and multiple bruises received earlier when hit by a truck on private property near the freeway bypass at Atherton Avenue and Armstrong Street.

Stricklin was standing in the front of his truck talking to another truck driver, when Bell made a right turn in front of the Johnson truck and ran over Stricklin.

through this whole campaign — to destroy my credibility," Joerger said, "and I don't think the people of the second district are going to go for it."

In a three-way primary race in June, Kortum finished well ahead of Joerger but fell about 50 votes short of the number necessary for election. The third candidate, Rohnert Park Mayor Louis G. Beary, was eliminated.

Mailing Foul-Up Swamps Voters With Fact Sheets

A mailing foul-up at the Civic Center has resulted in three — and in some cases eight — election "fact sheets" having been sent to each household of unincorporated areas around San Rafael.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella has told supervisors that his office was responsible for the snafu, which the estimated cost local taxpayers about $800.

"I'd like to apoligize to the board and the public," Campanella told supervisors Tuesday.

The election fact sheets were sent to voters in the proposed county service area No. 19, which, if formed, will finance improved fire protection to Santa Venetia, Bayside Acres, California Park, Bret Harte, Los Ranchitos, McNear's and possibly Country Club.

"Fortunately it was in (Supervisor Robert A.) Roumiguiere's district," needled colleague Arnold M. Baptiste.

Banker, Family Freed In Ransom

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — An Ypsilanti banker, his wife and two children were freed today after the banker paid an undisclosed ransom to four masked gunmen.

State police said only that the banker, Richard Green, and his family were reunited safe and sound.

Authorities said Green, an assistant manager at an Ypsilanti branch of the State Savings Bank, told them the four men entered his home at 9 p.m. yesterday, seized him and his family and held them overnight.

Nuclear Fueled Additions Set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Half of new electric generating capacity to be added by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. through 1980 will be nuclear fueled.

PG&E President John F. Bonner said yesterday that a quarter of the company's plants will be hydroelectric and about one sixth geothermal.

Bonner said 13 per cent of the 4.5 million kilowatts of added generating capacity will be in oil or gas plants and these will be primarily used for meeting peak loads.

Plan Discussion Set

A citizens committee studying a new general plan for Mill Valley will discuss proposals for the East Mill Valley area today at 7:30 p.m. in the city library board room, according to Planning Director Tom W. Newton.

Former Marinite Dies In Queensland, Australia

Former Marin resident Ailleen (Lee) Cranston Hirsch has died at her home in Yeppoon, Queensland, Australia, after a short illness, friends here reported today.

She and her husband, Bertram H. Hirsch, moved to Australia last spring on his retirement from the Bechtel Corp., with which he had been an engineer for more than 25 years.

Mrs. Hirsch, 59, was a native of Sydney.

She and her husband lived in Marin since 1946, and were long-time residents of Tiburon. Mrs. Hirsch was active in tennis circles and was instrumental in developing boys junior interclub tennis tournaments throughout the Bay Area in the mid-1960s.

A member of the San Anselmo Women's Tennis Club and the Mill Valley Tennis Club, she was cited four times for service to tennis by the Northern California Tennis Association. She also taught San Anselmo recreation program tennis.

Mrs. Hirsch was a member of the Marin County Republican Central Committee, the Ross Hospital Volunteers and the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley. She also worked on committees for the incorporation of Tiburon.

She is survived by her husband and a brother, John Harper of Dunedin, New Zealand.

New Water Service For Olema

The state public utilities commission has approved a plan to have the North Marin County Water District take over water service to Olema, letting the Olema Water System go out of business.

The approval Tuesday allows the district to buy out the Olema system before Jan. 1 for $6,500. Each agency, and town residents, supported the change.

The commission found the Olema system had lost nearly $800 in the first four months of the year, and said that the water district could do a more efficient job of handling the water needs of the approximately 40 customers in the area.

The transfer is in the best interest of the residents of the area, and no public hearing is required, the commission ruled.

Kissinger In Mideast Conference

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met for two hours today with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi on the first full day of his new Middle East mission. He said "we are working fast" on the groundwork for the possible start of Arab-Israeli peace talks.

There were minor differences between Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Kissinger on the start of the peace talks. Sadat, who met with Kissinger briefly last night, wants them at an early date but Kissinger prefers extended negotiations, including more talks in Washington to settle some outstanding issues, before the Geneva talks resume.

One of the items to be discussed includes an Israeli withdrawal from the occupied Right Bank of the Jordan, a problem complicated by attempts by a group of Israeli religious Jews to set up permanent settlements there. Israeli forces have been trying to force them out.

Another was a report from Beirut that Syria was not willing to extend the U.N. peace keeping mandate in the Golan Heights area when it expires Nov. 30. Kissinger hopes to get the mandate extended for six months but Syria demands further Israeli withdrawal, especially around the town of Quenitra.

Despite the many difficulties Kissinger told newsmen today after his meeting with Fahmi — which was extended a full hour — "We are working fast."

"We had a good talk in preparation for the meeting tonight with the president," he said. "We discussed the situation in detail and, as I said before, President Ford is committed to continuing U.S. efforts to achieve peace."

Following his talks with Fahmi, Kissinger put aside his diplomatic dealings to visit several Cairo tourist sights.

Kissinger said he would return to Cairo for further talks after a meeting Sunday with King Faisal in Saudi Arabia.

"I will come back here Sunday," he said.

Leroy Stricklin, a 54-year-old construction worker from Stockton, was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital with fractured ribs and multiple bruises received earlier when hit by a truck on private property near the freeway bypass at Atherton Avenue and Armstrong Street.

Stricklin was standing in the front of his truck talking to another truck driver, when Bell made a right turn in front of the Johnson truck and ran over Stricklin.

In a three-way primary race in June, Kortum finished well ahead of Joerger but fell about 50 votes short of the number necessary for election. The third candidate, Rohnert Park Mayor Louis G. Beary, was eliminated.

Banker, Family Freed In Ransom

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — An Ypsilanti banker, his wife and two children were freed today after the banker paid an undisclosed ransom to four masked gunmen.

State police said only that the banker, Richard Green, and his family were reunited safe and sound.

Authorities said Green, an assistant manager at an Ypsilanti branch of the State Savings Bank, told them the four men entered his home at 9 p.m. yesterday, seized him and his family and held them overnight.

McGowans Safe In Honduras

Word has been received by family friends in Marin of the safety of the Charles McGowan family of San Pedro Sula, Honduras.

Nuclear Fueled Additions Set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Half of new electric generating capacity to be added by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. through 1980 will be nuclear fueled.

PG&E President John F. Bonner said yesterday that a quarter of the company's plants will be hydroelectric and about one sixth geothermal.

Bonner said 13 per cent of the 4.5 million kilowatts of added generating capacity will be in oil or gas plants and these will be primarily used for meeting peak loads.

Plan Discussion Set

Mailing Foul-Up Swamps Voters With Fact Sheets

A mailing foul-up at the Civic Center has resulted in three — and in some cases eight — election "fact sheets" having been sent to each household of unincorporated areas around San Rafael.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella has told supervisors that his office was responsible for the snafu, which the estimated cost local taxpayers about $800.

"I'd like to apoligize to the board and the public," Campanella told supervisors Tuesday.

The election fact sheets were sent to voters in the proposed county service area No. 19, which, if formed, will finance improved fire protection to Santa Venetia, Bayside Acres, California Park, Bret Harte, Los Ranchitos, McNear's and possibly Country Club.

"Fortunately it was in (Supervisor Robert A.) Roumiguiere's district," needled colleague Arnold M. Baptiste.

CLOTHES TO AID HONDURAS STORM VICTIMS

Gladys Locke (left) folds clothing while Mabel Heino and Ida Resanovich sort clothing by size and weight in boxes at the Fairfax Seventh-Day Adventist Church. It's to be sent to hurricane flood victims in Honduras. Sinaloa Junior High School students in Novato collected the clothing and it is being packed by the church volunteers to go to the church's West Coast disaster aid warehouse in Watsonville to be shipped to Central America. The church has been designated a clothing collection agency for Honduras by the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Dramatic Savings Seen By Cutting Driving Pct.

DETROIT (UPI) — American motorists could save more than 22 billion gallons of gasoline a year by cutting back their driving by about 20 per cent. They could also pocket a cool $13.3 billion in savings.

To conserve energy and fight inflation, President Ford has appealed to American motorists to drive fewer miles. Considering there are about 100 million cars on U.S. highways, traveling more than a trillion miles a year, the potential fuel savings can be dramatic.

Analysts at the Ford Motor Co.'s Customer Services Division estimate the average car owner drives about 13,000 miles a year. The Environmental Protection Agency's recent gas mileage tests of 1975 models indicates the mathematical average car gets 13.6 miles per gallon.

Using those figures as a guide, the average motorist consumes about 956 gallons of gas in 12 months. Based on the current 60 cents a gallon price of gas, the yearly expenditure for fuel would be $576 per motorist.

Cutting back to 12,000 miles a year, the average car would consume 882 gallons of gasoline at a cost of $529. That 7.7 per cent reduction in miles covered each year would mean a $45 saving for the average driver.

Cutting driving by 15.3 per cent — to 11,000 miles a year — would drop fuel consumption to 809 gallons at a cost of $485, or $89 below the cost of driving 13,000 miles a year.

A dramatic reduction would occur if drivers cut their mileage by just over 20 per cent to 10,000 miles a year. That driver would use 735 gallons of fuel at a cost of $441 — a saving of 221 gallons of fuel and $133.

If all of the 100 million cars on the road achieved a similar reduction, the potential savings for the nation in a year's time would be about 22.1 billion gallons of gasoline and $13.3 billion.

Nature Film To Be Shown

Ford Hasn't Changed Mind

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald Ford is still a "probable" presidential candidate in 1976.

The President was asked at his third news conference yesterday if the harsh reaction to his pardon of former President Richard Nixon and the illness of his wife Betty have altered plans stated at his first news conference that he would probably be a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1976.

"The words that I used, if I recall accurately, were that I would probably be a candidate in 1976," Ford said. "I have seen nothing to change that decision and if and when there is, I will promptly notify you."

Chief Says Boy Wasn't Mistreated

Police Chief Lawrence R. Kelly of San Rafael today released portions of a report disputing contentions by a Terra Linda mother that her son was improperly treated during a murder investigation.

The report — in the form of a six-page letter to asst. Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas — takes issue with claims made by Jeannette Pomeroy that the civil rights of her 12-year-old son, Daniel, were violated by San Rafael police inspectors.

Kelly, who was reported yesterday to be unwilling to release the letter, said he is doing so now because his offer to meet with Mrs. Pomeroy to discuss the matter has not been accepted.

Kelly did not permit the Independent-Journal to read the letter, saying it describes evidence uncovered during the investigation into the knife-and-bludgeon slaying of Lucy Ann Gilbride Aug. 27. But he did paraphrase portions of it.

An investigation of the conduct of inspectors Bart W. Stinson and Raymond Maynard showed young Pomeroy was not held for more than five hours, as his mother charged, but for about two and one-half hours, the chief reports.

Stinson and Maynard went to Pomeroy's house at about 3 p.m. Aug. 30 to talk to the youth. The three then went to the police station, arriving at 3:23, according to police logs, and Pomeroy was allowed to leave with his mother about 6 p.m., said Kelly.

Replying to the charge that the officers lured the youth to the station, Kelly said Pomeroy volunteered to go with them.

The inspectors did give one explanation when they first asked the youth to accompany them and changed it once they left the house, Kelly said, but this was so they would not have to question the youth in front of two sisters who were home at the time.

Kelly said young Pomeroy never asked to make a telephone call, but when Stinson brought the subject up he said he wanted his mother called. Stinson immediately called Mrs. Pomeroy, Kelly said.

He also countered Mrs. Pomeroy's contention that her son was kept in a chilly room. The youth never complained about being cold, but when Kelly brought up the subject and young Pomeroy said he was a little cold, a jacket was given him, the chief said.

Watercolors To Be Shown In Greenbrae

DEATH IN THE HARBOR

Thousands of anchovies who died Monday float on the water in Ocean Shores, Wash., where local officials were readying for clean-up operations, hopefully with the help of the tide and seagulls. The six-inch fish, possibly fleeing predators, swam into a boat basin and suffocated when they used up all the oxygen in the water.

Elusive Man Nabbed In Marin City

Marin sheriff's deputies searching a Marin City apartment yesterday arrested in connection with at least seven criminal cases a young man who had eluded them several times before.

Deputies said they entered the apartment for a different matter and recognized the girlfriend of Terry Lee Grinner, 23, prompting a thorough search of the residence.

Lifting a blanket which covered a television stand, a deputy found Grinner rolled up in a ball.

Later yesterday, he was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on the six Marin cases, then ordered to return to court today for consideration of reducing his $10,000 bail.

The most serious Marin charges facing Grinner, of 945 Drake Avenue, Marin City, are felony counts of assaulting a policeman and his former girlfriend on separate occasions.

He also is charged with resisting arrest in at least four escapes from officers, and of two counts of driving without a license.

Also pending are Sonoma County charges of armed robbery, felony assault and rape, and a San Francisco warrant, said Marin deputies.

Political Hiring by GSA Claimed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional subcommittee said today civil service hiring laws were violated by General Service Administration officials to get government jobs for political favorites.

The report said a GSA "special referral unit" used pressure to get jobs for chauffeurs of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder.

The report also said a number of "referrals" from Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., were given "special" treatment by the GSA unit.

The House subcommittee on manpower and civil service made public previously classified findings by Civil Service Commission investigators into hiring practices of the GSA.

The report noted that Robert Kunzig, appointed by former President Richard M. Nixon as GSA administrator in 1969, created the "special referral unit" within GSA to better respond to job placement requests from congressmen and administration officials.

The commission said an investigation of 20 individual hiring cases showed "in at least 12 cases either a clear violation or evidence indicating a probable violation of law, regulation, policy or merit principles."

The report was compiled in September, 1973, and subcommittee Chairman David Henderson, D-N.C., said disciplinary actions recommended by the commission against a number of GSA officials were still pending a year later.

"During the course of the investigation, allegations were received from several sources that appointments and promotions to some positions required a prior political clearance by the White House," the commission report said.

It cited individual cases such as the placing of Tom Wince, former chauffeur for Mitchell when he was chairman of the Committee to Re-Elect the President, as a "confidential assistant" in GSA headquarters.

In another case, the report said, Carl Foster, identified as a "driver aide" to Magruder when the latter also worked for the Committee to Re-Elect the President, was hired by GSA as a forklift driver in a GSA warehouse at Franconia, Va.

Chief Says Boy Wasn't Mistreated

Police Chief Lawrence R. Kelly of San Rafael today released portions of a report disputing contentions by a Terra Linda mother that her son was improperly treated during a murder investigation.

The report — in the form of a six-page letter to asst. Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas — takes issue with claims made by Jeannette Pomeroy that the civil rights of her 12-year-old son, Daniel, were violated by San Rafael police inspectors.

Kelly, who was reported yesterday to be unwilling to release the letter, said he is doing so now because his offer to meet with Mrs. Pomeroy to discuss the matter has not been accepted.

Kelly did not permit the Independent-Journal to read the letter, saying it describes evidence uncovered during the investigation into the knife-and-bludgeon slaying of Lucy Ann Gilbride Aug. 27. But he did paraphrase portions of it.

An investigation of the conduct of inspectors Bart W. Stinson and Raymond Maynard showed young Pomeroy was not held for more than five hours, as his mother charged, but for about two and one-half hours, the chief reports.

Stinson and Maynard went to Pomeroy's house at about 3 p.m. Aug. 30 to talk to the youth. The three then went to the police station, arriving at 3:23, according to police logs, and Pomeroy was allowed to leave with his mother about 6 p.m., said Kelly.

Replying to the charge that the officers lured the youth to the station, Kelly said Pomeroy volunteered to go with them.

The inspectors did give one explanation when they first asked the youth to accompany them and changed it once they left the house, Kelly said, but this was so they would not have to question the youth in front of two sisters who were home at the time.

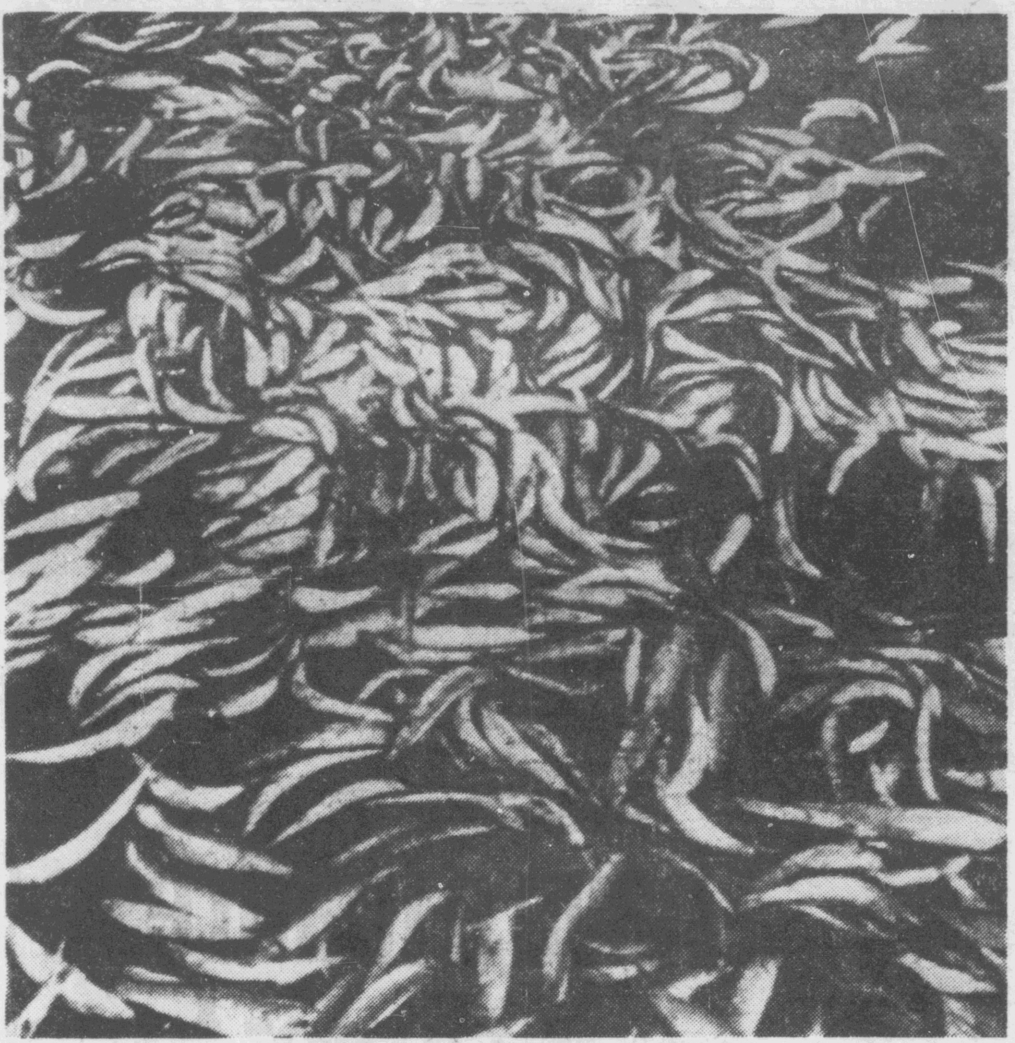
Kelly said young Pomeroy never asked to make a telephone call, but when Stinson brought the subject up he said he wanted his mother called. Stinson immediately called Mrs. Pomeroy, Kelly said.

He also countered Mrs. Pomeroy's contention that her son was kept in a chilly room. The youth never complained about being cold, but when Kelly brought up the subject and young Pomeroy said he was a little cold, a jacket was given him, the chief said.

Watercolors To Be Shown In Greenbrae

Paintings by the Marin County Watercolor Society will be displayed Saturday through Nov. 12 at the Ross Valley Medical Clinic, 1350 South Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae.

The showing of landscapes will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturdays.



DEATH IN THE HARBOR

Thousands of anchovies who died Monday float on the water in Ocean Shores, Wash., where local officials were readying for clean-up operations, hopefully with the help of the tide and seagulls. The six-inch fish, possibly fleeing predators, swam into a boat basin and suffocated when they used up all the oxygen in the water.

Elusive Man Nabbed In Marin City

Marin sheriff's deputies searching a Marin City apartment yesterday arrested in connection with at least seven criminal cases a young man who had eluded them several times before.

Deputies said they entered the apartment for a different matter and recognized the girlfriend of Terry Lee Grinner, 23, prompting a thorough search of the residence.

Lifting a blanket which covered a television stand, a deputy found Grinner rolled up in a ball.

Later yesterday, he was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on the six Marin cases, then ordered to return to court today for consideration of reducing his $10,000 bail.

The most serious Marin charges facing Grinner, of 945 Drake Avenue, Marin City, are felony counts of assaulting a policeman and his former girlfriend on separate occasions.

He also is charged with resisting arrest in at least four escapes from officers, and of two counts of driving without a license.

Also pending are Sonoma County charges of armed robbery, felony assault and rape, and a San Francisco warrant, said Marin deputies.

Political Hiring by GSA Claimed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional subcommittee said today civil service hiring laws were violated by General Service Administration officials to get government jobs for political favorites.

The report said a GSA "special referral unit" used pressure to get jobs for chauffeurs of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder.

The report also said a number of "referrals" from Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., were given "special" treatment by the GSA unit.

The House subcommittee on manpower and civil service made public previously classified findings by Civil Service Commission investigators into hiring practices of the GSA.

The report noted that Robert Kunzig, appointed by former President Richard M. Nixon as GSA administrator in 1969, created the "special referral unit" within GSA to better respond to job placement requests from congressmen and administration officials.

Reagan Declares Brown Takes Dictatorial Stance

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "It sounded like 'Sieg heil,'" Gov. Ronald Reagan said while asserting that the Democratic gubernatorial candidate was taking a dictatorial stance.

The governor was speaking about Edmund G. Brown Jr. yesterday while campaigning for the Republican candidate for the governorship, Houston I. Flournoy.

"Sig heil" was the salute phrase to Germany's Adolf Hitler during his Nazi regime.

Reagan asserted that Brown "sounded very dictatorial" during a televised debate against Flournoy and revealed a "total ignorance of the workings of state government."

"We have a Constitution and a Bill of Rights, but he was talking about reorganizing the legislature himself," Reagan declared.

Flournoy said he believed Brown's statements were "somewhat overblown," but that he would not use "Sieg heil" in describing them.

Brown called Reagan's remarks "absurd and beneath the dignity of his office." He also held that the governor's desire to help Flournoy's "faltering campaign caused him to exercise extremely poor judgment."

During the debate, Brown had accused Flournoy of standing for "recycled Reaganism."

Flournoy agreed in general that he would follow the Reagan philosophy but said he differed with the governor in that he favors additional school appropriations and state help in home purchases.

Reagan has advocated a tight state budget and conservatism.

The governor said "Reaganism is an issue in this campaign." However, "I know Hugh has ideas of his own, and good ones, but I know he will stay with this kind of philosophy," he added.

Flournoy accused Brown, the secretary of state, of employing "cynical double standard" in enforcing California's election laws, contending his opponent had not been fair to Republicans.

In echoing Flournoy's assertions, Reagan said Brown's office was "full of incompetence" and held that "the only room Brown can find in the Capitol is the press room."

The Republican candidate also contended that lobbyists fighting the state's new election reforms had retained the law firm of Brown's father, former governor Edmund G. Brown.

The senior Brown denied the assertion.

Bolinas Couple Protests Pardon

By PAUL LIBERATORE

There it was, tucked among the gray columns of her daily newspaper, a story about a 73-year-old California woman's indignant protest over President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon.

The little old lady, the news account said, was so mad that she returned to the White House an American flag that once had flown over the Capitol, a gift for selling war bonds. And she wasn't paying any more income taxes, either.

That was all the inspiration Judith Weston needed. From her Bolinas home, after obtaining support from her husband, Peter, she fired off a personal letter to Gerald Ford:

"It is with great sorrow and after much deliberation that we have decided to refuse to pay any income taxes to the government this year. We have decided to take this drastic and obviously unlawful step in order to protest your hasty pardon of ex-President Nixon."

For the Westons, after a long string of what they consider government immoralities, this was the last straw. "I paid for the Christmas Eve bombing of Cambodia, but I'm not going to pay Nixon, an obvious criminal, over $800,000," Judith said recently from behind a meeting table at the office of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District Office.

"I've always been concerned about paying taxes for things I don't believe in: the Vietnam war, the secret government of the CIA," Peter said softly. "But I've never done anything like this before."

Both are aware of the possible consequence of their peaceful protest — prison. "It seems frightening, the terrible things they can do to you," Judith said. "but what is more terrible than pardoning Nixon? Many of our friends have told us, 'That's wonderful, what you are doing, I wish I had the guts to do it.' People are so terribly afraid of going to jail."

But the Westons don't plan sitting around and waiting to be prosecuted for their beliefs. They will continue their active roles as participants in the local government of Bolinas. They have three children, ages 6 through 13, to raise, and interests of their own to pursue.

Judith, a brightly attractive woman in her mid-30s with a quick wit and seemingly boundless energy and talents, recently was appointed a director of the public utility district. She also has been a prime mover in the Bolinas planning group, which has completed a general plan for the community.

Until a few weeks ago, she reported on local events for a West Marin weekly newspaper. She wrote two or three outrageously funny columns for the Pacific Sun before resigning by comparing the demands of producing a weekly column with making love to a gorilla. Her crochet work recently appeared in a book and allied exhibit of native folk art. A musician as well as an artist, she plays the banjo, guitar and bass.

Peter, 44, is an intellectual turned farmer. He spent the first 34 years of his life in school, obtaining a masters degree in audiology. He owned and operated rock recording studios in San Francisco and Sausalito before selling his interests in 1972 and buying a small spread in the Bolinas "banana belt," a sunny strip of fertile land along the Bolinas-Olema road. There, he raises laying hens and this year is growing oats on a three-acre experimental plot. He recently was appointed to the Bolinas-Stinson School District board.

Judith gets a flat $175 a month for her utility district work. The rest of the couple's income is self derived, eliminating any possible hassle with employers over withholding their taxes.

Their modest tax protest, which they describe as "a middle-class" gesture, is only one way to influence government policy decisions, they say. "The other way is to run for local office and be honest about it," Judith asserted. "We should push for local government power, which is more manageable. Another way is to be aware of what public officials are doing and be there when they're doing it."

Through it all, the Westons have maintained their sense of humor and their hope that the president will respond to pressures to change his position on the pardon, as evidenced by their final line in their letter to Ford: "You should change your mind, and in that case, you may disregard this letter."

PEACEFUL PROTEST — Pausing outside the Bolinas Community Public Utility District office, Judith and Peter Weston discuss their decision to withhold their federal income tax this year in protest of President Ford's pardon of former president Richard M. Nixon.

Gun-Carrying Initiative Fails

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposed initiative requiring mandatory sentences for gun-carrying criminals and drug pushers has failed to qualify for the statewide ballot.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. yesterday announced that the initiative fell 141,306 voter signatures short of qualifying. The measure received 184,198 valid signatures but needed 325,504 to qualify.

The measure, strongly supported by Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and various groups of police officers, would have appeared on the first statewide ballot after the Nov. 5 election if it had qualified.

Enforced Speed Law Tied To Larger CHP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The highway patrol's new and old commissioners said yesterday more patrolmen will be needed if the state wants to fully enforce the 55 mph speed limit — more than 500 new officers could be needed.

Commissioner Walter Pudinski, who Monday announced his resignation, and Dan Lanza, who was named by Gov. Ronald Reagan to replace Pudinski when he returns to the ranks Nov. 1, said the additional men would be needed if the CHP is expected to enforce the controversial speed limit next year.

Pudinski, who earlier became involved in a controversy over the reduced speed limit, said the additional traffic officers could cost taxpayers $9 million.

If the men were added it would push the number of uniformed officers to 6,100.

Lanza told UPI in an interview, "If the new administration decides that more emphasis should be placed on the 55 mph ... then we are going to need more manpower."

"Right now we just don't have the manpower despite the fact our enforcement is a couple hundred per cent over what it was on speed," Lanza said. "We don't have the manpower to make the proper dent in it."

Pudinski said if the conditions remain the same and the patrol is expected to fully enforce the lower speed a minimum of 550 officers would be needed.

He said the CHP now is preparing two budgets. One includes the additional men and the other does not. The patrol's budget this fiscal year is $177 million.

Pudinski said if California is again hit by gasoline shortages the driving public may again begin obeying the reduced speed limit. Early this year motorists drove slower because of the "energy crisis," he said, but as gasoline became available and summer approached "they returned to their old driving habits."

Lanza said, "We have too many people who are not willing to go 55 to comply with the law. We have too much disrespect for it."

Lanza said the 55 mph speed limit is saving lives and motorists overall have slowed down. But he added until "the motoring public themselves discipline themselves to hold to 55—more so than what they're doing—it's a tough problem."

Beef, Pork Shortages Seen In '75

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new Agriculture Department report on the livestock industry indicates there will be a lot of beef and pork this fall, but the amount of meat in groceries could decrease sharply in the first three months of 1975.

Rising feed prices, anticipated short supplies of feed grain and soybeans and the farmer's relatively low return for meat animals are forcing cutbacks in the livestock feeding industry. The report said hog producers will breed the fewest number of sows this fall since 1965, and the number of cattle on feed is the lowest in more than six years.

Poultry production is being cut one-tenth.

All this means that more beef and pork will be available this fall than during the summer months — figures indicate a 3 per cent increase in commercial beef production and an 8 per cent increase in pork.

But look for lower supplies and higher prices during January, February and March of 1975, as current cutbacks in livestock feeding begin to affect the market.

The report said commercial beef production is estimated to be around 6 billion pounds during the fall, while pork production will be around 3.5 billion pounds. By winter, commercial beef production should fall to 5.8 billion pounds and pork will be down to 3.1 billion pounds.

Cuba Releasing Four Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four Americans who ended up in jail apparently because they got too close to Cuba will be released as a personal goodwill gesture to two senators who visited there.

A spokesman for Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said yesterday the Czech embassy, which has handled Cuban affairs since diplomatic relations were broken some time ago, announced the imminent release of the four.

He quoted the Cuban government as saying the release was a goodwill gesture to the two senators personally "and not to the United States."

They were identified as Susan Lane Brown, Royalton, Vt.; David Bruce Mirenberg, Upper Sagon, Pa.; Philip Burris, Oakland, Calif.; and Richard Peter Johnson, also of California. They were all charged with drug-related offenses.

Burris and Johnson were arrested Nov. 14, 1970, and charged with taking drugs to Cuba and entering the country without visas. They claimed no drugs were aboard, but their plane landed in Cuba because it was running out of gas.

Mirenberg and Ms. Brown were arrested in Cuban waters Sept. 17, 1973, aboard the yacht Sahiva and charged with drug possession.

Pell and Javits visited Cuba 10 days ago, spoke with officials including Castro, and toured areas of the island. They said they were even allowed to speak with several prisoners.

There are 25 American prisoners in Cuba, nine held for political reasons and the rest on a series of charges ranging from hijacking to drug smuggling.

Girl Battles To Survive Rabies Bite

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — A 6-year-old Indian girl battling to become only the third known survivor of rabies remained hospitalized in a coma and in critical condition today.

The child, Kathy Roubideaux, of Mission, S.D., was bitten by a rabid dog two weeks ago while visiting her grandmother on the Navajo Reservation near Window Rock, Ariz.

The girl was admitted to the Bernalillo County Medical Center Monday and has been unconscious since. Authorities said the fact the child has survived longer than most rabies victims is an indication she may be able to survive the disease.

Dr. Michael Hattwick, a staff member of the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., and the physician who treated an Ohio boy who survived rabies last year, is in Albuquerque to advise a local team of doctors working on the case.

Hospital officials said the child was bitten by a house pet two weeks ago and although the animal became ill and died a few days later, the girl's parents did not realize the dog was rabid.

Cuba Releasing Four Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four Americans who ended up in jail apparently because they got too close to Cuba will be released as a personal goodwill gesture to two senators who visited there.

A spokesman for Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said yesterday the Czech embassy, which has handled Cuban affairs since diplomatic relations were broken some time ago, announced the imminent release of the four.

He quoted the Cuban government as saying the release was a goodwill gesture to the two senators personally "and not to the United States."

They were identified as Susan Lane Brown, Royalton, Vt.; David Bruce Mirenberg, Upper Sagon, Pa.; Philip Burris, Oakland, Calif.; and Richard Peter Johnson, also of California. They were all charged with drug-related offenses.

Burris and Johnson were arrested Nov. 14, 1970, and charged with taking drugs to Cuba and entering the country without visas. They claimed no drugs were aboard, but their plane landed in Cuba because it was running out of gas.

Mirenberg and Ms. Brown were arrested in Cuban waters Sept. 17, 1973, aboard the yacht Sahiva and charged with drug possession.

Pell and Javits visited Cuba 10 days ago, spoke with officials including Castro, and toured areas of the island. They said they were even allowed to speak with several prisoners.

There are 25 American prisoners in Cuba, nine held for political reasons and the rest on a series of charges ranging from hijacking to drug smuggling.

Girl Battles To Survive Rabies Bite

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — A 6-year-old Indian girl battling to become only the third known survivor of rabies remained hospitalized in a coma and in critical condition today.

The child, Kathy Roubideaux, of Mission, S.D., was bitten by a rabid dog two weeks ago while visiting her grandmother on the Navajo Reservation near Window Rock, Ariz.

The girl was admitted to the Bernalillo County Medical Center Monday and has been unconscious since. Authorities said the fact the child has survived longer than most rabies victims is an indication she may be able to survive the disease.

Dr. Michael Hattwick, a staff member of the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., and the physician who treated an Ohio boy who survived rabies last year, is in Albuquerque to advise a local team of doctors working on the case.

Hospital officials said the child was bitten by a house pet two weeks ago and although the animal became ill and died a few days later, the girl's parents did not realize the dog was rabid.

Silicone Surgeons Told Of Possible Infections

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said today the nation's plastic surgeons are being notified of a possible infection problem involving thousands of silicone breast implants and testicle replacements.

Involved are about 50,000 pair of breast implants which are used as mammary replacements following surgery or accident, and about 2,000 pair of silicone testicles also used as replacements following surgery or accident.

The FDA said a packaging problem identified by the manufacturer, Dow Corning of Hemlock, Mich., indicated that some of the implants might have been exposed to germs making a post-surgery infection possible.

The FDA said, however, that any problem would develop immediately after surgery and anyone who has received an implant but developed no immediate complications should not be worried.

The FDA said the company is notifying surgeons and distributors that the problem can be corrected by proper sterilization but that the products should not be used until after that has been accomplished. The devices were distributed nationwide and in some overseas countries.

Marine Life Lecture Slated

Dr. Gordon L. Chan, head of a scientific team that recorded marine life of the Pacific Revillagigedo Islands last April, will appear at Dominican College at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to describe his trip.

The lecture in room 26 of Bertrand Hall will be illustrated by slides.

Integration Plan Is Ordered

STOCKTON (UPI) — The Stockton Unified School District has been ordered to carry out an integration plan for the district's 30,000 school pupils.

Superior Judge John F. Keane issued the order yesterday in a four-year-old court battle waged by the California Rural Legal Assistance on behalf of minority race residents.

The schools will be required to present the court with a plan and then carry it out.

State Is Fighting Light Timber Fire

COLFAX (UPI) — The state Division of Forestry was hoping today to contain a fire which has blackened 115 acres of brush, grass and light timber on the south side of the American River's North Fork.

Spokesmen said 150 men were fighting the fire about six miles southeast of Colfax in Placer County.

Soviet-U.S. Economic Ties Eyed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet experts want greater economic co-operation with the United States and energy is one field in which the two nations could work together, Nikolai Inozemtsev, vice-chairman of the Soviet State Planning Committee, said today.

Inozemtsev said Soviet economists are drafting a development program "bearing in mind the prospects of expansion of economic and commercial co-operation with the United States."

In an interview with the official Tass news agency, Inozemtsev said he will announce this at a meeting of the American-Soviet trade and Economic Council meeting here Monday.

The Soviet economist said a wide field for joint activity was "the setting up of new power production facilities in the USSR."

He said most industrial countries were short of fuel and raw materials while the Soviet Union had gas and coal reserves.

A delegation of 15 top U.S. corporate executives is due here tomorrow for the council meeting and for a week-long promotion of better trade relations.

The council was established a year ago with joint directorship and offices in New York and Moscow. The Soviet directors toured the United States early this summer.

The United States will export about $1.6 billion in goods to the Soviet Union this year, up from $600 million two years ago. Soviet exports into the U.S. market have increased from almost nothing to $300 million.

Inozemtsev said he believed expansion of mutually advantageous co-operation between the two countries "is a natural demand of the epoch of the scientific and technical revolution..."

He said the Soviet Union already had close contacts with West European and Japanese companies.

The council, he said, was considering implementation of 30 joint projects on a large scale.

Forms Set To Discuss Sonoma Dam

Supporters and opponents of Sonoma County's controversial Warm Springs Dam will argue the case in a series of public forums jointly sponsored by Sonoma State College and Santa Rosa Junior College.

All the meetings will be at 7:30 p.m.

Sessions are planned for Monday at the Sonoma State College Commons; Tuesday in Burbank auditorium at Santa Rosa Junior College; Wednesday at Kenilworth Junior High School in Petaluma and on Thursday at Sonoma High School in Sonoma.

The forums, which will include discussions and question-and-answer periods, are the idea of Santa Rosa resident Frank La Berge.

Sonoma County voters on Nov. 5 will decide whether to allow the $114 million Army Corps of Engineers project to be built in the Dry Creek Valley northwest of Healdsburg.

Brown To Speak Tuesday At Kent Woodlands Dinner

Edmund G. Brown Jr., Democratic nominee for governor, will speak at a fund-raising dinner for his campaign at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Kent Woodlands home of Roger Kent, 200 Woodland Avenue.

No-host cocktails and a buffet dinner will be served. Admission is $25, or included with the purchase of a $125 ticket to a Brown dinner to be held in San Francisco on Oct. 18.

Brown will be introduced by William Matson Roth of Ross, unsccessful contender in the June primary against Brown for the nomination. Roth got more votes than Brown in Marin in June.

The event will be Brown's only appearance in Marin before the November general election.

Reservations are being handled by the Brown for Governor Committee, 188 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

BEHR — Sen. Peter H. Behr, of San Rafael, Republican nominee for reelection in the Second District, has promised to open an office in Petaluma if he wins next month's election. Sonoma County "deserves a full-staffed legislative office with direct communication to Sacramento," he said. His new district includes the North Coast to the Oregon border.

BURTON — Rep. John L. Burton of San Francisco, Democratic nominee in the Fifth Congressional Distrct, has urged the Army Corps of Engineers to scrub the Warm Springs Dam in Sonoma County from its list of projects to be built. Citing widespread public opposition to the dam, Burton offered to arrange a meeting between corps officials and citizen groups to discuss alternatives to the dam.

Greenland, with an area of 840,000 square miles, is the world's largest island.

Barry Seeks 'Button' Ban

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has proposed a constitutional amendment to limit the power of the president to "push the button" starting a nuclear war.

"I don't think it will happen," said the Arizona Republican and former presidential nominee, "but it would be a good thing to guard against.

"We could come up someday with a fanatic who, as president, wanted to destroy the Soviets and the Chinese," Goldwater said. "Let's say that the president did want to destroy the world. We haven't taken away the power for him to reach in and push that red button."

$230,000 Spent For Rivers Issue

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More than $230,000 has been spent so far by groups for an against the controversial wild and scenic rivers initiative on the November ballot, state records disclosed yesterday.

Opponents have outspent the major group supporting Prop. 17, "Friends of the River," $116,263 to $115,066 since the drive began last January to put the measure on the ballot.

But "Californians Against Prop 17" ran up a $78,174 deficit in its opposition to the initiative, which would halt construction of the Melones Dam on the Stanislaus River near Modesto.

Contributions collected to fight the initiative included a loan of $26,500 from John Hertle of Modesto. Loans totaling more than $37,000 have been made to "Friends of the River," including four loans for $14,000 from Gerald H. Meral of Berkeley and one for $10,000 from Keith Roberts of San Francisco.

The bulk of financial support against Pro. 17 has come from ranchers in the Modesto, Stockton and Manteca area near the Melones dam. The largest contribution was $10,000 from the San Francisco-based farming group Reclaimed Island Lands.

Loans, contributions and more than $45,000 earned selling $2.50 tickets for boat rides on the Stanislaus River made up the $126,000 collected by "Friends of the River."

The remaining 16 measures were put on the ballot by the legislature, 15 are constitutional amendments and one is a $150 million school building aid bond issue.

None of the propositions have drawn anything near the financial interest that Prop. 17 has.

A statement filed by the "Committee for Fair Play" in support of Prop. 5 shows that $49,491 has been spent for passage of the measure, which would eliminate requirements that city, county and public district employees live within the governmental district for which they work.

The group has run up a $29,317 deficit and collected $21,174 in contributions from police officer's and firemen's associations around the state. The largest single contributions were $4,000 from the Inglewood Police Officers Association and $3,340 from the Oakland Police Officers Association.

The only other statement filed with the state shows that $6,208 has been collected in support of Prop. 15, which would repeal the requirement that development and low-rent housing projects be approved by the voters.

A FEMALE FIRST — Reva Richmond answers a call from the dispatcher in the Marin County Sheriff's Office as she prepares to ride out on patrol. The first woman assigned to such duty, Mrs. Richmond is expected to be on her own in the next few weeks, performing tasks that have been relegated, traditionally, to the men in the sheriff's department.

Changing Gloria Also Sees Change

By JOAN LISETOR

"So much has changed, so little has changed since the last time I was here," Gloria Steinem told the audience last night at the College of Marin. Few in the capacity audience of 2,300 raised their hands when she asked how many had been there when she spoke last in the college gymnasium in January of 1973.

Ms. Steinem began her talk, "Future Aspects of Liberation," reading a statement by Inez Garcia, who was recently convicted in Monterey County of murdering a man who raped her. The statement, taken from testimony during the trial, was Ms. Garcia's explanation of why she killed the man.

"This is a symbolic case for women who are fed up that rape is not considered a serious crime," Ms. Steinem said. "This situation, this tragedy expresses why women are not able to plan for the future, because they are too busy struggling for survival."

Those who assume we just want a piece of the pie as it exists are wrong. What we want is change, she said.

"THE REASON we haven't dared to look forward is we have been trained not to look at the future," she said. "The church taught us to live for life after death, and how did they ever get that one over on us? Industry and corporations have told us to work for retirement. This deferred life offers no place for spontaneity. We need to humanize our sense of time and live in the present."

Ms. Steinem cited changes in the past two years — enormous changes in the attitudes of blue collar women (the wives of blue collar workers); the organizing of groups of women, such as blacks, laborers, secretaries and stewardesses ("Some even wear buttons saying 'Don't fly me. Go fly yourself.' "); the progressive steps taken by the Young Women's Christian Association and women's auxiliaries; and political gains.

The greatest gains, she said, are in the area of consciousness.

"We feel differently about ourselves, and we feel differently about other people. In some sense that effect has given us new life, but we must respect the reality that economic and daily life has not improved," she said.

"Yes, we have made symbolic victories, but look at the overall problems. The number of women receiving unemployment and welfare is up. With our rising expectations, we must have reality and think in long and short-term goals."

The woman's utopian dream is not ironclad, she said. Its hallmark is its built-in mechanism for change.

TO REACH utopia there must be reproductive freedom, the right to have children as well as the right not to, she said. This involves the legalization of abortion, organizing clinics, exposing forced sterilization and going after the antifeminists lobbies, which oppose these things and "are funded by the John Birch Society, fundamentalists churches and some insurance companies," she said.

We need to think about nationalist concerns and listen to the futurists who are telling us Brazil is emerging as a fourth power nation.

"Brazil is a Catholic, male dominated country devoted to expanding its population. We need to think about how this change in power will affect feminism," she said.

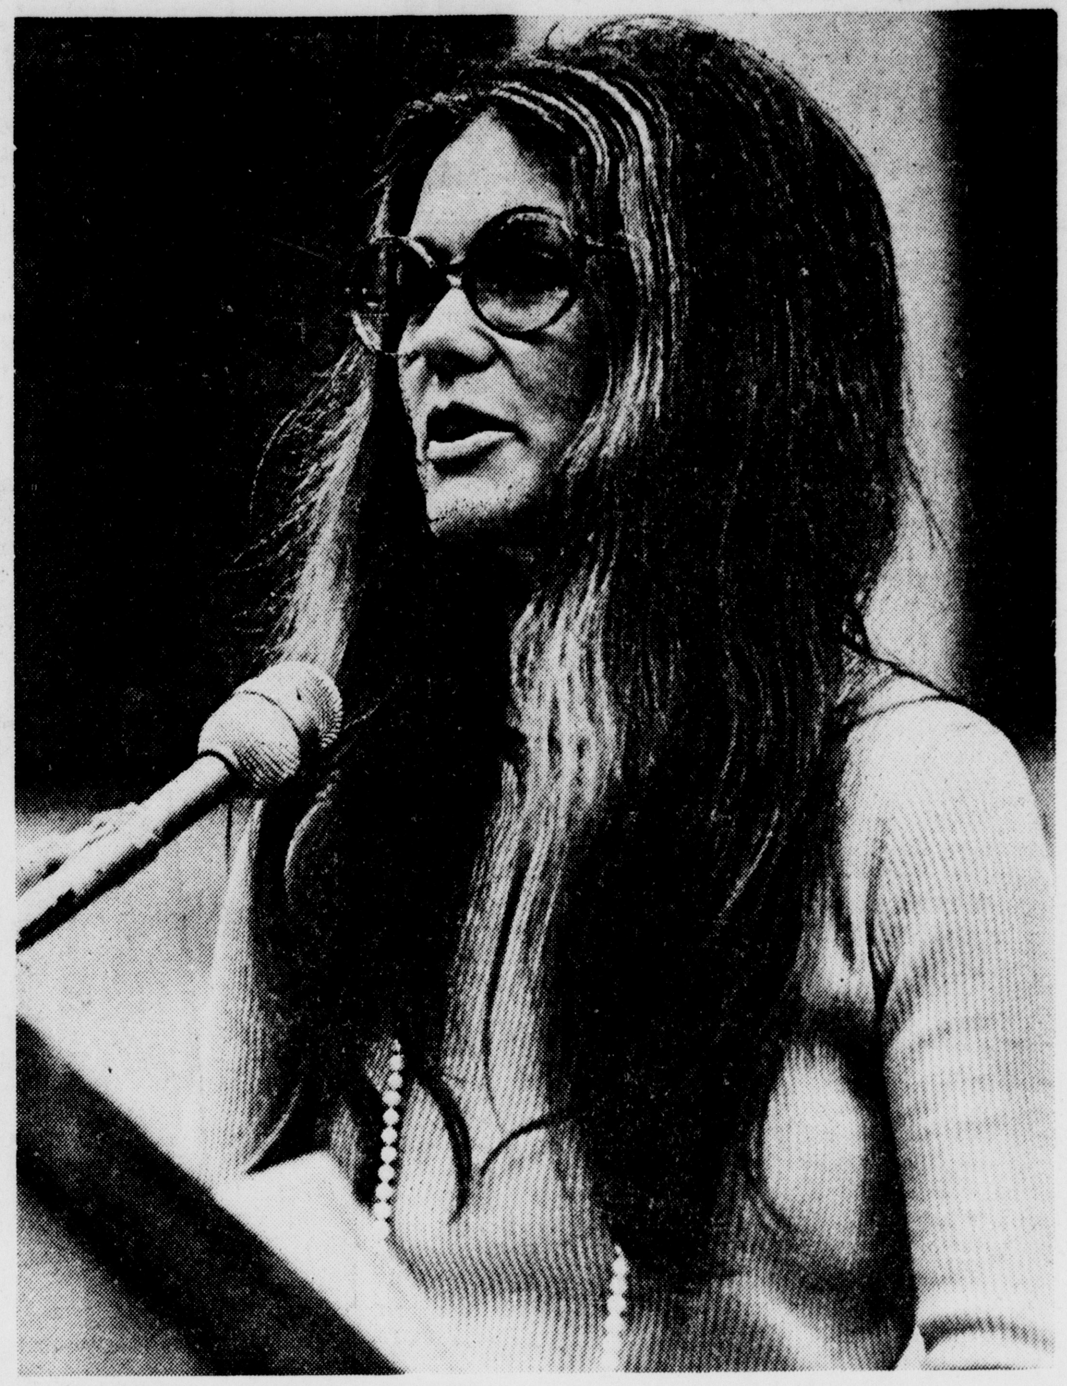
We need to think about the family, she said.

"We don't want to replace an old imperative with a new imperative," she said. "I'm forever asked, 'What are we going to replace the family with?' It's time to start looking for a choice of honorable options — living alone, living with others."

SO MUCH, TOO, about Gloria Steinem has changed. While her style is still easy and warm, some of the sparkle is gone. There is still humor when she says, "People say you can't have a serious revolution about who's going to wash the dishes. Those are the people who don't wash dishes." She can laugh with the movement by saying, "Feminism may be the only decent export this country has ever had."

There is something that goes beyond the external changes. Gone are the Steinem trademarks, the streaked hair, the wire rimmed glasses. For those who are still more interested in what she is like than in what she says, her hair is redder, her glasses horn-rimmed.

The movement is changing and so is its number one spokes-person.



CAPACITY CROWD HEARS GLORIA STEINEM — Speaking last night at the College of Marin Gloria Steinem discussed the changes that have taken place regarding the women's movement in the past two years and the movement's long and short term goals.

Marin's Female Deputy Goes On Patrol In A Man's World

By BETH ASHLEY

People aren's "running off the road" any more when they spot Reva Richmond driving by, but she is definitely a novelty: she is the first woman sheriff's deputy in Marin to be assigned to patrol.

Deputy Richmond began her new assignment last week. For a few weeks more she will "ride double" with her supervisor Sgt. Robert Bertram, but thereafter she'll be on her own, doing work that until now has been traditionally a man's job in Marin.

She expects to be assigned out of the sheriff's main office at the civic center in San Rafael, but she's uncertain whether any limitations will be placed on her: "I'm the first of a kind, and I think no one knows quite what to do with me."

But Deputy Richmond is prepared for anything. She has taken the same courses, passed the same tests, trained in the same pistol shooting and tactics of self-defense as male deputies.

HER DUTIES ordinarily would include answering calls on missing persons, family disturbances, burglar alarms, public brawls. She would check commercial buildings ("If I find one unlocked, I would assume a burglary is in progress. I would go in."). She would make car stops, if she sees a traffic violation or suspected stolen car.

Her first few days on the job, Sergeant Bertram helped her practice car stops and how to approach people or enter darkened buildings with caution.

"No, I'm not scared," she said.

DEPUTY RICHMOND is married to Deputy Robert Richmond, who works out of the Kentfield substation. Does she get tips on patrolling from him? "No, we hardly see each other. He works from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., I work from 4 until midnight. We don't even have the same days off."

Reva Richmond was born Reva Gottlieb. Her father Paul was a bartender for years at San Rafael Joe's and The Chateau, and her mother Dorothy is "the lady in the box office" at the Rafael Theater in San Rafael. She was graduated from San Rafael High School, worked for some time at clerical work in San Rafael before becoming a clerk-typist for the County of Marin.

SHE WAS ASSIGNED to the sheriff's office in 1965 and met her husband-to-be the following year. In 1969 she took a test to become a jail matron, supervising women inmates in the county jail.

"It was a good job, but there was one bad thing — I was confined just like an inmate, in a place with no windows."

Shortly after becoming a matron, her job was upgraded to the "deputy one" classification. In March she took a test to become a "deputy two," and did so well she soon came to the top of the list for appointment to her present job.

Her first assignment was to the civil division, where her job was to serve legal papers for the sheriff's office. She "rode double" until she had learned the legal ramifications of the papers, the geography of country roads and best ways to approach people.

IT WAS DURING this period that she knew her appearance startled the public.

"People were surprised to see me. They'd make remarks like 'You're the prettiest deputy I ever saw.' It's been an advantage, so far, being a female. Many are elated to see a female out there doing a job like this. The only disadvantage I have over a man is physical strength."

But she has taken classes in self defense, and Sgt. George Reuss, training officer, said she is "very competent" with a pistol. She wears a 38 caliber Smith and Wesson special revolver: "It weighs 13 pounds including the belt — it makes a good sauna belt," she said.

She is currently attending Dominican College in San Rafael studying basic law. "I'd say 70 per cent of the deputies are taking classes to qualify for promotions." Next step in the ladder from a deputy two is a sergeant's rank.

"I DON'T HAVE any great ambitions or goals" within the sheriff's office, she said, but she thinks the opportunities are great for the next two women who will be assigned to patrol, Deputies Marty Machado and Mary Anne Brown "They're younger than I am," she said. Deputy Richmond is 45.

She has two daughters. Melody Lane, age 23 and studying for a master's degree at Oregon State University, is "very pleased" at her mother's new career. Becky, 18 and a student at College of Marin, "has found it hard to live in a house with two police officers. When you're in high school, and you know what your friends are doing, you want to do the same things, whether or not a police officer will approve. At age 18, though, it changes. I hope it will be easier for her from now on."

DEPUTY RICHMOND said she is "not a libber" but believes in equal pay for equal work, and equal opportunity for women.

Half of the male deputies on the force have been "real good" about her joining the ranks, "the other half wish it had never come to pass — not that they're against me personally, but they wish times hadn't changed.

"But their attitude in general is they can't change things so they might as well accept it."

Said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, in welcoming Deputy Richmond to the ranks — "Whether they are men or women, every one of our deputies will continue to receive the best training possible so they can do their jobs and be a credit to the people and County of Marin."

Changing Gloria Also Sees Change

CAPACITY CROWD HEARS GLORIA STEINEM — Speaking last night at the College of Marin Gloria Steinem discussed the changes that have taken place regarding the women's movement in the past two years and the movement's long and short term goals.

By JOAN LISETOR

"So much has changed, so little has changed since the last time I was here," Gloria Steinem told the audience last night at the College of Marin. Few in the capacity audience of 2,300 raised their hands when she asked how many had been there when she spoke last in the college gymnasium in January of 1973.

Ms. Steinem began her talk, "Future Aspects of Liberation," reading a statement by Inez Garcia, who was recently convicted in Monterey County of murdering a man who raped her. The statement, taken from testimony during the trial, was Ms. Garcia's explanation of why she killed the man.

"This is a symbolic case for women who are fed up that rape is not considered a serious crime," Ms. Steinem said. "This situation, this tragedy expresses why women are not able to plan for the future, because they are too busy struggling for survival."

Those who assume we just want a piece of the pie as it exists are wrong. What we want is change, she said.

"THE REASON we haven't dared to look forward is we have been trained not to look at the future," she said. "The church taught us to live for life after death, and how did they ever get that one over on us? Industry and corporations have told us to work for retirement. This deferred life offers no place for spontaneity. We need to humanize our sense of time and live in the present."

Ms. Steinem cited changes in the past two years — enormous changes in the attitudes of blue collar women (the wives of blue collar workers); the organizing of groups of women, such as blacks, laborers, secretaries and stewardesses ("Some even wear buttons saying 'Don't fly me. Go fly yourself.' "); the progressive steps taken by the Young Women's Christian Association and women's auxiliaries; and political gains.

GENERATION RAP

Roses Are A Girl's Dad's Best Friend, So Donor Learns

RAP:

I fell in love with this girl at work, but she left for college. She said I could write to her, and I'm tryingto get up the nerve.

We never went out, but we talked a lot. I gave her a dozen roses as a goodbye gift and asked her out to lunch, but she said the girls had planned a lunch for her and she was awfully sorry.

The next day she told me roses were her Dad's favorite flower and she'd served him a birthday dinner by candlelight, with them as a centerpiece. (I'd had a birthday that week too.)

About the only encouragement I had from her was when she brought cookies to work and urged me to have one even though I said "No, thank you." (I'm trying to lose weight.)

Should I write? — R.

DEAR R.:

By all means — write. But don't build up your hopes too much. A girl who said roses are her father's favorite flower (not hers) and uses them to decorate HIS birthday dinner table (not yours), still needs a lot of persuading! — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

When I met Ben I thought he was cute and cool. He was very tan and had hair to his shoulders. On the beach, he looked great. We had wonderful talks. This summer I was pretty sure I was in love with him.

Then he went back home. I saw him again last week (we'd been writing almost every day). H. and S., he's lost his tan, his hair is short, and he even wears his pants too short. He just isn't cute anymore at all.

Can you be in love with a guy by letter, but not in person? — SORTA DOUBTFUL

DEAR SORTA:

I'd say you were in love with a summer memory. Beach romances often fade with the tan. — HELEN

DEAR SORTA:

Why not keep writing (if he does), but cool it to friendship? By next summer, maybe short hair and pants will be less important than a good personality. — SUE

RAP:

You said "Ellynn" (who wrote "What Is Getting to Know Yourself?") has also written "What is a Crush?" and "What is a First Love?" Is there a way I could have a copy of all three? I want them for my scrap book. — COLLECTOR

DEAR COLLECTOR:

Since many of you collectors have asked for a copy of Ellynn's insightful columns, we've had several thousand printed up (all three on one sheet), and we'll send a copy to anyone who encloses a long (No. 10), self-addressed, stamped envelope with their request.

If you want extra copies for your friends, enclose extra stamps.

Address your requests to us, Helen and Sue Bottel, P.O. Box 23057, Sacramento, 95823. — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer — c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Why Do Wives Work? Both For Luxuries, Necessities

NEW YORK (UPI) — To determine the effects of inflation on American households, an employment agency has just completed a national random survey.

The report on the survey by Staff Builders Inc. includes these highlights:

Three out of four or 75 per cent of the nation's housewives are working wives.

Seventy-four per cent of these working wives say they could not maintain their current standard of living if they stopped working.

Fifty-seven per cent said their salaries pay for necessities only; 19 per cent said their salaries pay for luxuries only; 24 per cent said salaries pay for both.

Forty-seven per cent became two-income families in the past two years; 40 per cent in the past year.

Forty-four per cent of working wives responding to the survey have fulltime jobs; 56 per cent hold temporary or part-time jobs.

From the looks of the survey it appears the battle against inflation is a big reason many wives work.

GENERATION RAP

Roses Are A Girl's Dad's Best Friend, So Donor Learns

RAP:

I fell in love with this girl at work, but she left for college. She said I could write to her, and I'm tryingto get up the nerve.

We never went out, but we talked a lot. I gave her a dozen roses as a goodbye gift and asked her out to lunch, but she said the girls had planned a lunch for her and she was awfully sorry.

The next day she told me roses were her Dad's favorite flower and she'd served him a birthday dinner by candlelight, with them as a centerpiece. (I'd had a birthday that week too.)

About the only encouragement I had from her was when she brought cookies to work and urged me to have one even though I said "No, thank you." (I'm trying to lose weight.)

Should I write? — R.

DEAR R.:

By all means — write. But don't build up your hopes too much. A girl who said roses are her father's favorite flower (not hers) and uses them to decorate HIS birthday dinner table (not yours), still needs a lot of persuading! — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

When I met Ben I thought he was cute and cool. He was very tan and had hair to his shoulders. On the beach, he looked great. We had wonderful talks. This summer I was pretty sure I was in love with him.

Then he went back home. I saw him again last week (we'd been writing almost every day). H. and S., he's lost his tan, his hair is short, and he even wears his pants too short. He just isn't cute anymore at all.

Can you be in love with a guy by letter, but not in person? — SORTA DOUBTFUL

DEAR SORTA:

I'd say you were in love with a summer memory. Beach romances often fade with the tan. — HELEN

DEAR SORTA:

Why not keep writing (if he does), but cool it to friendship? By next summer, maybe short hair and pants will be less important than a good personality. — SUE

RAP:

You said "Ellynn" (who wrote "What Is Getting to Know Yourself?") has also written "What is a Crush?" and "What is a First Love?" Is there a way I could have a copy of all three? I want them for my scrap book. — COLLECTOR

DEAR COLLECTOR:

Since many of you collectors have asked for a copy of Ellynn's insightful columns, we've had several thousand printed up (all three on one sheet), and we'll send a copy to anyone who encloses a long (No. 10), self-addressed, stamped envelope with their request.

If you want extra copies for your friends, enclose extra stamps.

Address your requests to us, Helen and Sue Bottel, P.O. Box 23057, Sacramento, 95823. — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer — c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Why Do Wives Work? Both For Luxuries, Necessities

NEW YORK (UPI) — To determine the effects of inflation on American households, an employment agency has just completed a national random survey.

The report on the survey by Staff Builders Inc. includes these highlights:

Three out of four or 75 per cent of the nation's housewives are working wives.

Seventy-four per cent of these working wives say they could not maintain their current standard of living if they stopped working.

Fifty-seven per cent said their salaries pay for necessities only; 19 per cent said their salaries pay for luxuries only; 24 per cent said salaries pay for both.

Forty-seven per cent became two-income families in the past two years; 40 per cent in the past year.

Forty-four per cent of working wives responding to the survey have fulltime jobs; 56 per cent hold temporary or part-time jobs.

From the looks of the survey it appears the battle against inflation is a big reason many wives work.

He Was On Run For 23 Years

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Crippled in his teens, James L. Ward hobbled from job to job through 50 states and 23 years, always looking back for the federal agent he knew would someday arrest him.

In San Antonio, Tex., several days ago, Ward went to San Fernando Cemetery to see his father's grave. Beside it was a tombstone with his own name on it.

Ward knew it was time to end his days as a federal fugitive, a role he began by failing to register for the Korean War draft.

"I tell you it's something else," he said yesterday. "It's the first time I've been able to step outside."

He had just surrendered to federal marshals who confirmed they were no longer interested in prosecuting him.

By his own account, Ward, 41, held 693 jobs during his days on the run and he had the payroll stubs to prove it.

He was in an Oklahoma City hospital when he turned 18 and faced Selective Service registration. But he had been injured in separate auto and motorcycle accidents in 1952.

"I was at Crippled Children's Hospital," he said. "I was supposed to register for the draft and my mom went by the draft board and told them when I got out she would bring me to register."

His sister Dorothy drove him to the draft board office a few months later. He was in a wheel chair and the staff had to go downstairs to talk to him.

"They took one look at him, one look at his legs and told him he would never have to register again," she said. "That was the beginning of it — a misunderstanding."

Ward said he never reported for a physical.

"The people up there saw my legs," he said. "They knew all about it. I just didn't go. My card read 4F."

Ward said he left and worked across the United States, mostly in Ohio.

"When I came back a year later my mother told me the FBI had a stack of warrants for my arrest, enough to put me away for 20 years, and I had better leave town.

"All I had was a bus ticket to St. Joseph, Mo., and $5 on me," he said. "I was crippled and couldn't work. I've got both my hips cut completely out and replaced with steel and grafts."

Agents followed him for years, checking with relatives to see if they had heard from him. He said he was afraid to call home and lost contact with relatives.

"I probably know half the people in the United States," he said. "I've worked in every town."

He said he went to Texas to see his father's grave and "couldn't believe my eyes."

"There were three tombstones, my father, Vinnie, my brother, Lewis, and the other one was me, James L. Ward. I don't know if there's a body in it or not. Maybe it's just a memorial."

SIMONE STIPANICH
Rotary award winner

Rotary Club Fellowship Is Awarded

Simone Stipanich of Mill Valley is winner of the Rotary Foundation's Graduate Fellowship Award, according to Edward Boero, president of the San Rafael Rotary Club.

Miss Stipanich, a graduate of Dominican College, plans to study Hispanic culture at the Universidad Nacional Mayor de San Marcos in Lima, Peru, and later teach Spanish culture to American pupils, he said.

The award pays for expenses during a year's study at the university, he said.

Miss Stipanich is a native of Malta.

An exhibit of the work of photographers Eikoh Hosoe and Kenneth Josephson will open at the College of Marin Art Gallery Oct. 14.

The show will continue through Nov. 1, sponsored by the Visual Studies Workshop.

Japanese-born Hosoe's work on display will be "Kamaitachi, an Extravagantly Tragic Comedy," featuring dancer Tatsumi Hijikata and friends of the photographer, first shown in Tokyo in 1969. Hosoe also has had showings at the Smithsonian Institution, Rice University, the Light Gallery in New York City and Focus Gallery in San Francisco.

Josephson's photos take the amateur album snapshot as a point of departure, blending the multiple exposure, the unintentional photographer's shadow or the chance foreground figure into his humorous and surrealistic show.

Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 10 p.m. weekdays.

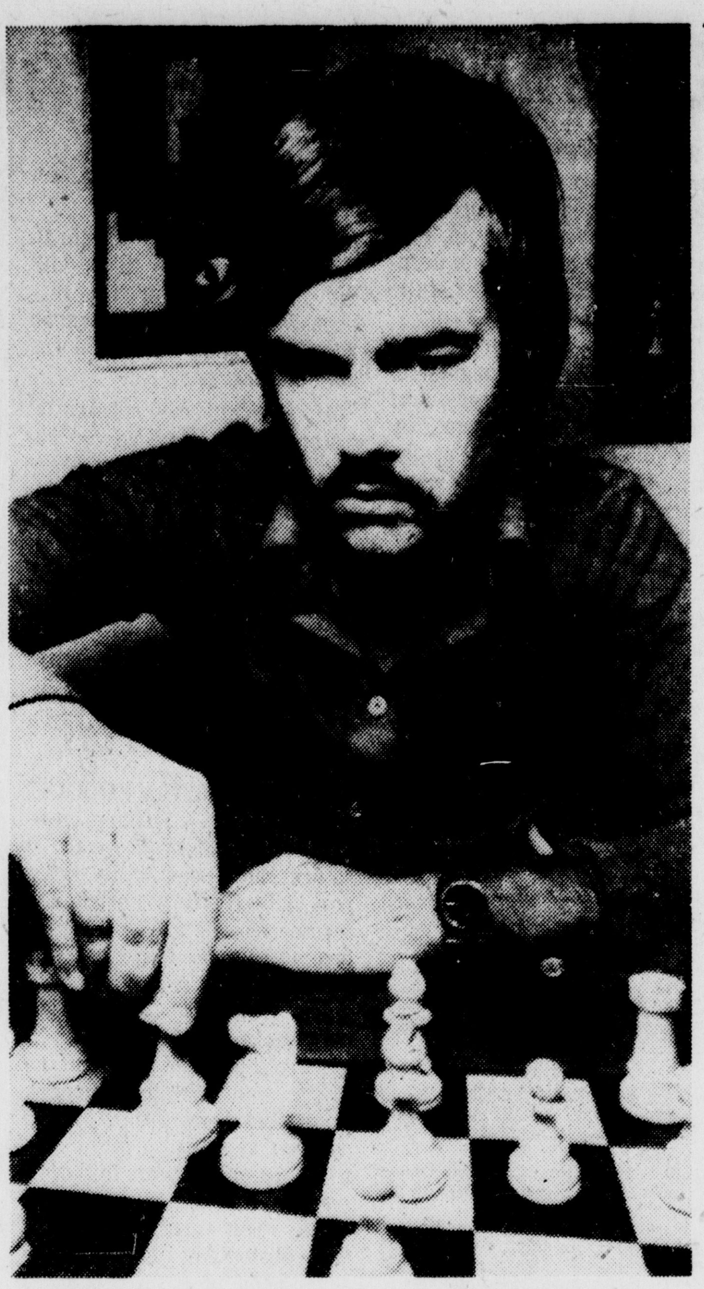
Court Rejects All Appeals From Dr. Finch

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City court of appeals has turned down all appeals by the state and ordered a medical license issued to Dr. R. Bernard Finch, allowing him to practice medicine in Missouri.

John A. Hailey, executive secretary to the state Board of Registration for the Healing Arts, said yesterday the board would ask the Supreme Court to take immediate jurisdiction of the case.

The board had filed a formal request for rehearing with the Kansas City Court of Appeals on Oct. 1 after the court had said that the board must grant Fince a license. Yesterday, the court refused the state a rehearing in the case and rejected a transfer of the matter to the Supreme Court.

Finch spent 12 years in a California prison for murdering his estranged wife, Barbara Jean, in their West Covina, Calif., home in 1959.



AN ART — Walter Browne, 25, looks over his chess board in Berkeley where he practices every day for championship tournaments. The game, which he is good at from practice, is his whole life.

(UPI Telephoto)

More Than A Game, Says Chess Champion

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — "To be good at anything," says Walter Browne, "you have to practice."

Browne, 25, United States chess champion, tries to put in six to eight hours a day refining the creative touches of the game.

"It's an art, a science," said Browne, who lives in a small Berkeley penthouse. "There's mathematics, logic and above all creative ideas and beauty."

The trim, mustachioed Browne is one of the leading challengers to the world title now held by American Bobby Fisher, and is considered a drawing card at the tournaments he attends.

Browne said he remembers when he had to bum around Europe in his attempts to get invited to major tournaments. Now, tourney organizers send him air fare and first-class accomodations.

"You can express yourself in chess," said Browne. "Some players are introverts and some extroverts. It comes out in their games."

Browne said that he and world champ Fisher were friends who have similar backgrounds. Both dropped out of New York's Erasmus High at age 18 and both have a contempt for higher education.

"Teachers are stupid," said Browne. "School is for the masses, not for geniuses."

He said Fischer "puts all his energy into chess. No women; no night life. He is studying all the time."

Browne's day begins with tennis and after lunch he studies chess strategems. After dinner he practices a little more and then usually watches some television before retiring.

When Browne sits down to play an opponent, and he's faced nearly all the modern masters, he plays not only to win, but for the beauty of the movement on the board.

Asked of chess wasn't a strange way to spend one's life, Browne replied:

"The most important thing is to do what you want to do. I love chess, and I'm good enough to make a living at it.

"How many people can say they do exactly what they want and getpaid for it too?"

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazine and Parents' Magazine, unless otherwise stated. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"The Bears and I" — Contemporary saga of the Indians' struggle to keep their homelands. Vietnam veteran seeks solace in the woods and adopts three orphaned bear cubs which offend local Indians. Conflict with Park commission and Indians adds tension. Filmed in British Columbia. Forest fire provides plenty of action.

"Godspell" — Modern musical version of the Gospel with the age-old words portrayed by carefree youths singing to ragtime, jive, waltz and pop music — spirited dancing. (Children over 10)

"What's Up Doc?" — Fast moving, nutty, slapstick comedy set in San Francisco starring Barbra Streisand.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"11 Harrow House" — Low-key comedy about a clever heist of billions of dollars worth of diamonds from headquarters of a clearing house. Some vulgarities and a crime-does-pay ending, but humorous.

"Harold and Maude" — Black comedy about an old woman who teaches a young man how to enjoy life and ends up being his wife.

"Juggernaut" — A sea disaster melodrama on a luxury liner. Huge ransom demanded for location of several bombs. Emphasis is placed on highly technical business of dismantling the bombs. (Product Digest).

"King of Hearts" — An amusing French satire posing the question: Is it the lunatics in possession of a village or armies that make war?

"The Mechanic" — Slick, suspense crime story about a man who executes crimes for the Mafia. Good photography, realistic acting, violence. (For over 14)

"Play It Again Sam" — A one-joke comedy about a movie buff. Most of the comedy stems from Woody Allen's constant self-deprecation. Amusing take-offs on old movies. Mature teens.

"Three Musketeers" — A spirited production of the classic story of bravery and intrigue. Very entertaining, considerable violence, some sex.

"When Eight Bells Toll" — A James Bond type Royal Navy officer masquerades as a marine biologist to break a ring that is hijacking ships for gold bullion. (Boxoffice)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz" — Well made but cynical story of ambitious young man from Montreal's Jewish ghetto. Sex and cursing. (Over 16).

"Cabaret" — Liza Minnelli's dazzling performance in a musical about a decadent time — set in Berlin in the 1930s. Sex and cursing. (For those over 17)

"California Split" — Two totally different people in personality, temperament and values become friends in the hopeless web of the compulsive gambler. Plot is thin, foul language abundant. For over 17. (Film Information)

"Longest Yard" — Overly long film details a football game between convicts and a semi-pro group of prison guards. The two sides try to slaughter one another "legally." Strictly for Reynolds and devoted gridiron fans.

"Parallax View" — Nine witnesses to an assassination die. The remaining witness reopens the case and uncovers an insidious conspiracy. Some cursing, much bloody violence but extremely suspenseful.

"Return of the Dragon" — Bruce Lee appears in Rome to aid a Chinese girl whose restaurant is coveted by gangsters. Done in a tongue-in-cheek manner but very violent Kung Fu battle.

"S.P.Y.S." — Zany spoof of CIA operation in Paris where a couple of bumbling spies go underground to avoid assassination and succeed in messing up French anarchists' plans.

"Vanishing Point" — Accentuated by hard driving rock music and the deafening roar of an engine an ex-race driver determinedly tries to drive a car from Denver to San Francisco in 15 hours. Elaborate efforts are made to slow him down. Sex, nudity, much violence and cursing.

ADULTS ONLY

"Blume in Love" — A self-indulgent romance about a divorce lawyer who tries to win back his own wife. Nudity, sex, cursing. (Not for youth).

"Chinatown" — Gruesome mystery set in Los Angeles of 1937. Good cast and costuming. Brutal violence and nude love scenes.

"Groove Tube" — In spite of some hilarious moments, this spoof of American TV diet is mostly in poor taste. Excessive nudity, sex and cursing.

Sexy Jumper Not A Crime

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A University of Nevada coed who wore a sexy jumper to class has been cleared of indecent exposure charges filed against her for sporting the same outfit at a school dance.

Laura Ann Bode, 23, said the whole case was ridiculous and "a waste of everybody's time."

University Police Chief Keith Shumway said the jumper consisted of a dress held up by two skimpy straps and it only covered the essentials of Ms. Bode's upper torso.

Standard Oil Widow Can't Bankroll Ballet

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rebekah Harkness, widow of William Hale Harkness of the Standard Oil family, is unable to bankroll the Harkness Ballet, and the company may have to disband next year.

A company spokesman said yesterday a $1.5 million deficit is projected next year because of "rapidly rising costs and a bearish stock market."

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and TV Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazine and Parents' Magazine, unless otherwise stated. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"The Bears and I" — Contemporary saga of the Indians' struggle to keep their homelands. Vietnam veteran seeks solace in the woods and adopts three orphaned bear cubs which offend local Indians. Conflict with Park commission and Indians adds tension. Filmed in British Columbia. Forest fire provides plenty of action.

"Godspell" — Modern musical version of the Gospel with the age-old words portrayed by carefree youths singing to ragtime, jive, waltz and pop music — spirited dancing. (Children over 10)

"What's Up Doc?" — Fast moving, nutty, slapstick comedy set in San Francisco starring Barbra Streisand.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"11 Harrow House" — Low-key comedy about a clever heist of billions of dollars worth of diamonds from headquarters of a clearing house. Some vulgarities and a crime-does-pay ending, but humorous.

"Harold and Maude" — Black comedy about an old woman who teaches a young man how to enjoy life and ends up being his wife.

"Juggernaut" — A sea disaster melodrama on a luxury liner. Huge ransom demanded for location of several bombs. Emphasis is placed on highly technical business of dismantling the bombs. (Product Digest).

"King of Hearts" — An amusing French satire posing the question: Is it the lunatics in possession of a village or armies that make war?

"The Mechanic" — Slick, suspense crime story about a man who executes crimes for the Mafia. Good photography, realistic acting, violence. (For over 14)

"Play It Again Sam" — A one-joke comedy about a movie buff. Most of the comedy stems from Woody Allen's constant self-deprecation. Amusing take-offs on old movies. Mature teens.

"Three Musketeers" — A spirited production of the classic story of bravery and intrigue. Very entertaining, considerable violence, some sex.

"When Eight Bells Toll" — A James Bond type Royal Navy officer masquerades as a marine biologist to break a ring that is hijacking ships for gold bullion. (Boxoffice)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz" — Well made but cynical story of ambitious young man from Montreal's Jewish ghetto. Sex and cursing. (Over 16).

"Cabaret" — Liza Minnelli's dazzling performance in a musical about a decadent time — set in Berlin in the 1930s. Sex and cursing. (For those over 17)

"California Split" — Two totally different people in personality, temperament and values become friends in the hopeless web of the compulsive gambler. Plot is thin, foul language abundant. For over 17. (Film Information)

"Longest Yard" — Overly long film details a football game between convicts and a semi-pro group of prison guards. The two sides try to slaughter one another "legally." Strictly for Reynolds and devoted gridiron fans.

"Parallax View" — Nine witnesses to an assassination die. The remaining witness reopens the case and uncovers an insidious conspiracy. Some cursing, much bloody violence but extremely suspenseful.

"Return of the Dragon" — Bruce Lee appears in Rome to aid a Chinese girl whose restaurant is coveted by gangsters. Done in a tongue-in-cheek manner but very violent Kung Fu battle.

"S.P.Y.S." — Zany spoof of CIA operation in Paris where a couple of bumbling spies go underground to avoid assassination and succeed in messing up French anarchists' plans.

"Vanishing Point" — Accentuated by hard driving rock music and the deafening roar of an engine an ex-race driver determinedly tries to drive a car from Denver to San Francisco in 15 hours. Elaborate efforts are made to slow him down. Sex, nudity, much violence and cursing.

ADULTS ONLY

"Blume in Love" — A self-indulgent romance about a divorce lawyer who tries to win back his own wife. Nudity, sex, cursing. (Not for youth).

"Chinatown" — Gruesome mystery set in Los Angeles of 1937. Good cast and costuming. Brutal violence and nude love scenes.

"Groove Tube" — In spite of some hilarious moments, this spoof of American TV diet is mostly in poor taste. Excessive nudity, sex and cursing.

Sexy Jumper Not A Crime

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A University of Nevada coed who wore a sexy jumper to class has been cleared of indecent exposure charges filed against her for sporting the same outfit at a school dance.

Laura Ann Bode, 23, said the whole case was ridiculous and "a waste of everybody's time."

University Police Chief Keith Shumway said the jumper consisted of a dress held up by two skimpy straps and it only covered the essentials of Ms. Bode's upper torso.

Standard Oil Widow Can't Bankroll Ballet

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rebekah Harkness, widow of William Hale Harkness of the Standard Oil family, is unable to bankroll the Harkness Ballet, and the company may have to disband next year.

A company spokesman said yesterday a $1.5 million deficit is projected next year because of "rapidly rising costs and a bearish stock market."

Health Council Opens Offices

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin has announced the opening of its own offices at 1330 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

The council, charged with overseeing and coordinating health planning of all medical groups in the county in the light of needs of the public, will continue to meet at 7:30 a.m. on the second Wednesday of each month.

TONIGHT'S TELEVISION

Unusual on television tonight:

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — "The Mind of Mr. Soames" is the story of a man facing the world after 30 years in a coma. The movie stars Robert Vaughn, Nigel Davenport and Terence Stamp.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 9 p.m. — Robert Mitchum and George Kennedy portray a pair of allies in the old West in "The Good Guys and the Bad Guys." For the sake of civic duty the pair joins hands on the side of the law and firms up an honest alliance.

KQED (9), 9:30 p.m. — Open Studio presents "Black Seeds Keep On Growing," a program about the achievements of the Young Community Developers of Hunters Point.

Robbers Give Up Heavy Bag

DENVER (UPI) — A bag stuffed with $33,000 looked enticing to three would-be robbers yesterday, but they couldn't carry it away.

It was weighted down with $1,000 in quarters.

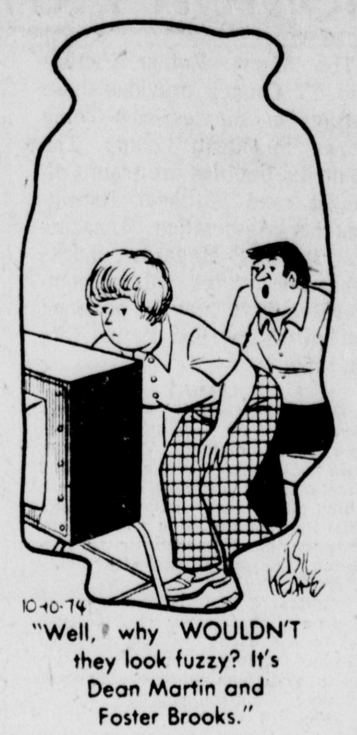
The trio entered the city treasury office shortly after noon while several employees were at lunch, said assistant City Treasurer Bill Costlow.

"They kept a cashier busy making change for a $10 bill while waiting for an opportunity to grab the bag," Costlow said. "It had just been delivered by armored car and hadn't been put away yet. It was just lying there on a countertop."

Costlow said the men, who appeared to be unarmed, waited until two other employees were not looking, then grabbed the bag and dropped it on the floor.

"They apparently decided that it was too heavy for them to run down the hall with," he said, "but at least they picked it up and put it back on the countertop before they escaped."

CHANNEL CHUCKLES



"Well, why WOULDN'T they look fuzzy? It's Dean Martin and Foster Brooks."

TV REVIEW

Good Film On April's Xenia Storm

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC-TV is bumping its low-rated "Sierra" series tonight for an excellent documentary about Xenia, Ohio, the small town devastated by a killer tornado last April and still rebuilding today.

The program isn't one of those quickies in which a network team checks right in after the event, returns six months later for progress footage, then pastes it all together and calls it a documentary.

It instead covers the Xenia story in stages, from the actual tragedy, to the town's effort to assess its losses and dig itself out, and finally to the long summer of still-continuing reconstruction.

Entitled "Tornado! 4:40 p.m., Xenia, Ohio," the opening segment includes not only close-up footage of the twister, filmed with a home movie camera by a Xenia resident, but also the actual sound of the tornado, recorded by another local resident.

It's chilling, spectacular material, to be sure, but the real meat of NBC's show lies in the quiet, low-key way it goes about reporting the reactions of the townsfolk to what had happened and what they hope will happen.

It makes particularly good use of photographs of the city's "old north end," taken the summer before the tornado by Xenia's former mayor, to illustrate what the storm had done to streets of stately old wood homes once surrounded by rows of elderly maple trees.

The verbal contrasts are equally good. A 14-year-old boy, recalling the moments after the twister passed on, said he heard no birds singing, and saw no neighborhood pets, "just people and trash."

His father, whose home and camera shop were destroyed, says he and his family aren't leaving, that "this tornado, dammit, is not going to have the last word."

The show primarily is about spirit and the spirit it conveys, is a good, hopeful one that should be seen by those of us who are convinced the nation has long since departed for hell in a handbasket.

Producer George Murray obviously put in a lot of time, care and thought on this show, as did writer Patrick Trese, who also skillfully handled most of the interviews in the one-hour program.

Mosaic Chamber In Kickoff Concert

The Mosaic Chamber Group will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Monday at the Veterans Memorial Building, San Rafael, as the first of five offerings in the Marin Concert Association's new series.

Admission is by membership only, according to spokesman Esther Dearth, of 441 Via Casitas, Greenbrae, who said information on joining may be obtained from her or Ann Wylie of 98 Coronet Avenue, Mill Valley, or Jo Mulaskey of 18 Sherman Court, Fairfax.

Offshore Port Regulation Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted 78-2 to establish strict licensing procedures to regulate the ownership, construction and operation of deepwater ports off the coasts of the United States.

The bill is a major energy-producing effort by Congress to promote the construction of deepwater ports for use by giant oil tankers while at the same time protecting the environment.

Approval of the bill came yesterday after the Senate defeated, 48-34, an amendment by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., that would have prohibited any person connected directly or indirectly with the oil industry from obtaining a deepwater port license.

Hollings said he wanted to prevent the oil industry from taking control of the nation's deeper water ports "and restore a measure of competition to this industry."

But Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., who moved to table (kill) the amendment, argued that licensees had to be chosen on basis of "what will serve the national interest."

At present, the substantial water depths required for supertankers to operate safety prevents them from entering most U.S. ports.

In 1973, four-fifths of all U.S. petroleum imports arrived by tanker.

The bill would authorize the transportation secretary to issue licenses to own, build and run deep-water ports.

Under its terms, no license could be issued until all affected federal agencies, including Interior, State, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Corps of Engineers, have weighed its impact on laws and programs they administer.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Attorney General would also be required to determine if the issuance of a license would adversely affect competition, and violate the antitrust laws.

The bill allows the EPA administrator to veto the issuance of any license if development of a deepwater port would in any way harm the environment.

The measure would also prevent any deepwater port from being built unless the governor of the coastal states adjacent to the proposed site also approves the issuance of the license.

Crew To Take France To Port

SAINT VAAST LA HOUGUE, France (UPI) — Striking crewmen of the S.S. France voted to return the vessel to its home port of Le Havre yesterday and resume negotiations in their efforts to keep the world's largest passenger ship in service.

The crew seized the France four weeks ago, first immobilizing the ship three miles off Le Havre in the English Channel. Later they were forced by bad weather to sail to a more sheltered mooring near this Normandy peninsula town.

The crew voted 385-101 with two abstentions to accept a seven-point proposal negotiated by maritime unions, the French Line which owns the vessel and the government.

Vive La Difference?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How do Republicans and Democrats differ? The Republican Congressional Campaign Committee newsletter this week suggests the following:

"Democrats buy most of the books that have been banned somewhere. Republicans form censorship committees and read them as a group.

"Republicans consume three-fourths of all the rutabaga produced in this country. The remainder is thrown out.

"Republicans usually wear hats and almost always clean their paint brushes. "Republicans employ exterminators. Democrats step on the bugs.

"Republican boys date Democratic girls. They plan to marry Republican girls, but feel they're entitled to a little fun first.

"Republicans sleep in twin beds — some even in separate rooms. That is why there are more Democrats."

Robbers Give Up Heavy Bag

DENVER (UPI) — A bag stuffed with $33,000 looked enticing to three would-be robbers yesterday, but they couldn't carry it away.

It was weighted down with $1,000 in quarters.

The trio entered the city treasury office shortly after noon while several employees were at lunch, said assistant City Treasurer Bill Costlow.

"They kept a cashier busy making change for a $10 bill while waiting for an opportunity to grab the bag," Costlow said. "It had just been delivered by armored car and hadn't been put away yet. It was just lying there on a countertop."

Costlow said the men, who appeared to be unarmed, waited until two other employees were not looking, then grabbed the bag and dropped it on the floor.

"They apparently decided that it was too heavy for them to run down the hall with," he said, "but at least they picked it up and put it back on the countertop before they escaped."

TV REVIEW

Good Film On April's Xenia Storm

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC-TV is bumping its low-rated "Sierra" series tonight for an excellent documentary about Xenia, Ohio, the small town devastated by a killer tornado last April and still rebuilding today.

The program isn't one of those quickies in which a network team checks right in after the event, returns six months later for progress footage, then pastes it all together and calls it a documentary.

It instead covers the Xenia story in stages, from the actual tragedy, to the town's effort to assess its losses and dig itself out, and finally to the long summer of still-continuing reconstruction.

Entitled "Tornado! 4:40 p.m., Xenia, Ohio," the opening segment includes not only close-up footage of the twister, filmed with a home movie camera by a Xenia resident, but also the actual sound of the tornado, recorded by another local resident.

It's chilling, spectacular material, to be sure, but the real meat of NBC's show lies in the quiet, low-key way it goes about reporting the reactions of the townsfolk to what had happened and what they hope will happen.

It makes particularly good use of photographs of the city's "old north end," taken the summer before the tornado by Xenia's former mayor, to illustrate what the storm had done to streets of stately old wood homes once surrounded by rows of elderly maple trees.

The verbal contrasts are equally good. A 14-year-old boy, recalling the moments after the twister passed on, said he heard no birds singing, and saw no neighborhood pets, "just people and trash."

His father, whose home and camera shop were destroyed, says he and his family aren't leaving, that "this tornado, dammit, is not going to have the last word."

The show primarily is about spirit and the spirit it conveys, is a good, hopeful one that should be seen by those of us who are convinced the nation has long since departed for hell in a handbasket.

Producer George Murray obviously put in a lot of time, care and thought on this show, as did writer Patrick Trese, who also skillfully handled most of the interviews in the one-hour program.

Mosaic Chamber In Kickoff Concert

The Mosaic Chamber Group will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Monday at the Veterans Memorial Building, San Rafael, as the first of five offerings in the Marin Concert Association's new series.

Admission is by membership only, according to spokesman Esther Dearth, of 441 Via Casitas, Greenbrae, who said information on joining may be obtained from her or Ann Wylie of 98 Coronet Avenue, Mill Valley, or Jo Mulaskey of 18 Sherman Court, Fairfax.

Offshore Port Regulation Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted 78-2 to establish strict licensing procedures to regulate the ownership, construction and operation of deepwater ports off the coasts of the United States.

The bill is a major energy-producing effort by Congress to promote the construction of deepwater ports for use by giant oil tankers while at the same time protecting the environment.

Approval of the bill came yesterday after the Senate defeated, 48-34, an amendment by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., that would have prohibited any person connected directly or indirectly with the oil industry from obtaining a deepwater port license.

Hollings said he wanted to prevent the oil industry from taking control of the nation's deeper water ports "and restore a measure of competition to this industry."

But Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., who moved to table (kill) the amendment, argued that licensees had to be chosen on basis of "what will serve the national interest."

At present, the substantial water depths required for supertankers to operate safety prevents them from entering most U.S. ports.

In 1973, four-fifths of all U.S. petroleum imports arrived by tanker.

The bill would authorize the transportation secretary to issue licenses to own, build and run deep-water ports.

Under its terms, no license could be issued until all affected federal agencies, including Interior, State, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Corps of Engineers, have weighed its impact on laws and programs they administer.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Attorney General would also be required to determine if the issuance of a license would adversely affect competition, and violate the antitrust laws.

The bill allows the EPA administrator to veto the issuance of any license if development of a deepwater port would in any way harm the environment.

The measure would also prevent any deepwater port from being built unless the governor of the coastal states adjacent to the proposed site also approves the issuance of the license.

Vive La Difference?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How do Republicans and Democrats differ? The Republican Congressional Campaign Committee newsletter this week suggests the following:

"Democrats buy most of the books that have been banned somewhere. Republicans form censorship committees and read them as a group.

"Republicans consume three-fourths of all the rutabaga produced in this country. The remainder is thrown out.

"Republicans usually wear hats and almost always clean their paint brushes. "Republicans employ exterminators. Democrats step on the bugs.

"Republican boys date Democratic girls. They plan to marry Republican girls, but feel they're entitled to a little fun first.

"Republicans sleep in twin beds — some even in separate rooms. That is why there are more Democrats."

Crew To Take France To Port

SAINT VAAST LA HOUGUE, France (UPI) — Striking crewmen of the S.S. France voted to return the vessel to its home port of Le Havre yesterday and resume negotiations in their efforts to keep the world's largest passenger ship in service.

The crew seized the France four weeks ago, first immobilizing the ship three miles off Le Havre in the English Channel. Later they were forced by bad weather to sail to a more sheltered mooring near this Normandy peninsula town.

The crew voted 385-101 with two abstentions to accept a seven-point proposal negotiated by maritime unions, the French Line which owns the vessel and the government.

ABC Revamps Lineup To Recapture TV Ratings

Senate Democrats Knock Ford's Economic Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's new economic proposals were characterized by two Senate Democrats today as both a continuation of the policies of the Nixon administration and a surrender to the oil producing nations.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Ford's 31-point program "bears too close a resemblance to the fiscal and monetary policies of the previous administration, polices which have long since proved inadequate to meet the emergency."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., added that the President's energy-related proposals fell "far short" of the emergency at hand and were "a surrender" to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Jackson was promoting his own resolution for an immediate 1 million barrel per day cut in oil imports and a domestic oil price "well below" the OPEC prices.

The criticism accompanied some of the most encouraging economic news that Ford has received in his two months in office — a gain of only 0.1 per cent in the September wholesale price index, the smallest increase in a year.

The stock market, responding to Ford's economic program and the price index announcement, shot up more than 20 points during its first hour today. It gained 28.39 points yesterday.

Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board, echoing the optimism Ford expressed yesterday, told Congress' Joint Economic Committee today that he does not share the widespread view that the nation is heading into "a deepening recession."

At a press conference yesterday, the President was still wearing a "WIN" pin in his lapel, stood in brilliant sunshine in the White House Rose Garden and defended his proposals, especially the tax. "WIN" stands for "Whip Inflation Now."

Ford said the surtax would only cost $42 — a mere 12 cents a day — to the family of four with $20,000 in income. The family of four with $16,000 pays only $3 a year, he said. Families earning $15,000 would pay no extra tax.

The tax program, along with other measures he proposed, will reduce the need for federal borrowing, Ford said, and thereby make loans more available to home buyers, reviving a depressed industry.

"I'm convinced, if the Congress responds, if the American people respond in a voluntary way, that we can have hopefully early in 1975 some meaningful reduction in the rate of inflation," Ford said.

Betty Ford Expected To Leave Hospital Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford is expected to be released from the hospital tomorrow, 13 days after undergoing breast cancer surgery, the first lady's doctor said today.

Dr. William Fouty said her recovery has been "excellent" and she is moving actively about her suite at the nearby Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

"All of the sutures from the surgery have been removed and Mrs. Ford has excellent use of her right arm," according to the daily hospital report released at the White House.

"Her postoperative course remains excellent," the medical bulletin said.

Fouty said Mrs. Ford spent an excellent evening yesterday and will have "another ative day" today. He "anticipates that Mrs. Ford will be released from the hospital tomorrow," the hospital bulletin said.

It was learned today that Mrs. Ford has chosen Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld, a Washington television producer, as her new press secretary and State Department employe Nancy Lammerding as White House social secretary.

The two women, whose appointments were expected to be announced formally later in the day, will replace two holdovers from Pat Nixon's staff — press secretary Helen McCain Smith and social secretary Lucy Winchester.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Winchester were personally informed yesterday by Donald Rumsfeld, White House chief of staff, that they would be replaced in a shake-up of Mrs. Ford's staff.

New Hampshire Franklin Bank Alive And Well

FRANKLIN, N.H. (UPI) — The Franklin National Bank of Franklin, N.H., population 7,292, has 4,300 depositors, total assets of $5 million and appears to be in good financial condition.

Assistant Vice President Harry Rogers said yesterday his telephone started ringing when people read or heard about the bankruptcy of the Franklin National Bank in New York, the 20th largest bank in the United States.

"I appreciate the fact people think we're that large," Rogers said. But he would rather they did not think his bank, incorporated in 1879, was in trouble.

"People who called seem to wonder just what this meant, if it was us. Nobody is panicking," he said.

Newspaper Carriers Deserve Whole Week

Independent Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
18 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

This is National Newspaper Week. Traditionally, the press observes its annual week by preening itself a little, and perhaps doing a little self-inspection.

The week climaxes with National Newspaper Carrier Day on Saturday. That day is set aside in honor of the boys (and girls) who deliver the daily paper to your doorstep.

MAYBE IT SHOULD be the other way around. One day is enough for publishers and editors to pat themselves on the back, or even to examine their shortcomings. But the boys who deliver the paper deserve a whole week in their honor.

We say this because, were it not for these youngsters, the work of everybody else in producing this or any other daily paper would go for naught.

As has often been remarked, it's a funny business. You work hard to turn out a good paper, trying to get news of all the many things that interest people into it — and once it rolls off the press, you have to start all over again.

It's a funny business in another way, too.

LONG TRAINING goes into the various job skills required to turn out a daily newspaper. Reporter, advertising solicitor, copy editor, makeup man, pressman — these and a dozen other skills require special instruction, most of it on the job. A seasoned organization, skillful in many specialties, is required to produce a worthwhile daily newspaper.

So, then, what happens?

The product of the work of all these specially trained and specially skilled people — 180 of them fulltime on the Independent Journal, for example — is turned over to boys who are several years away from their first shaves, and for whom carrying the newspaper is just a part-time after-school job.

Moreover, these boys aren't even employees. They are independent contractors. They buy the papers, deliver them, collect for them. If a customer doesn't pay, it's the boy who loses.

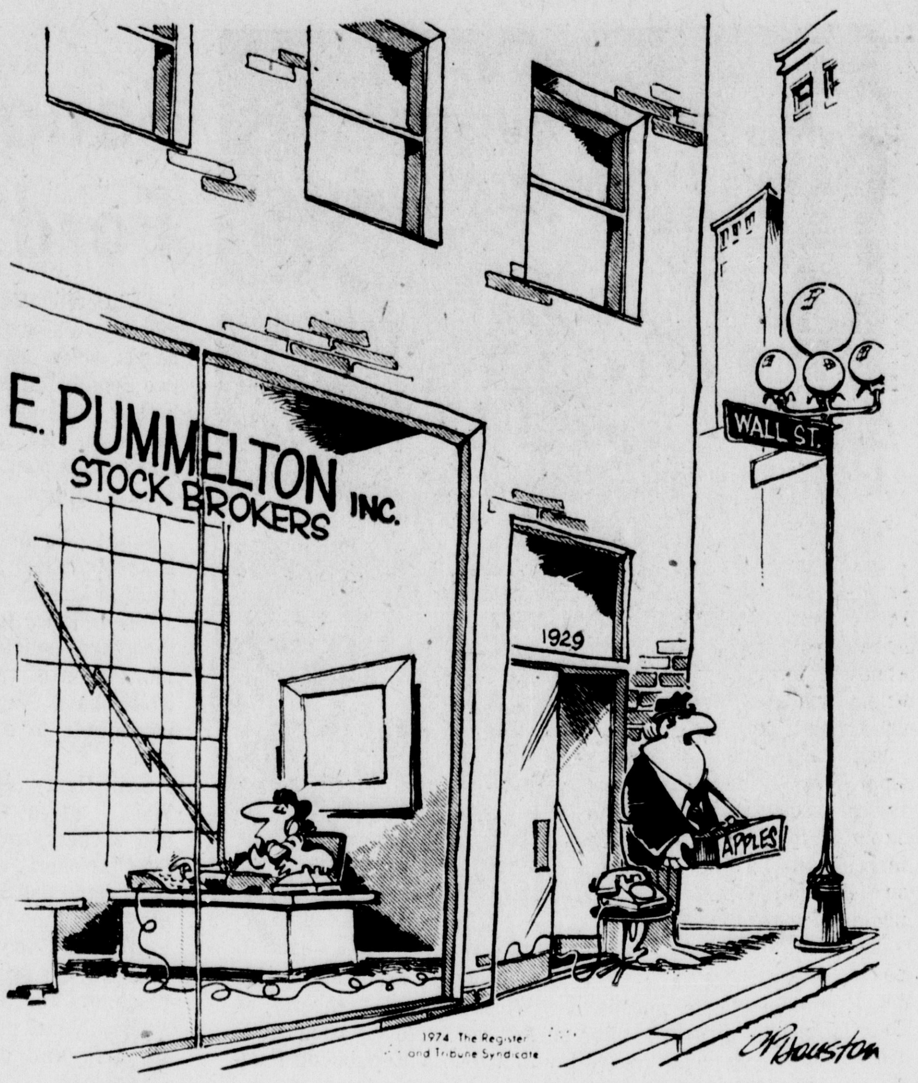
IT'S UP TO EACH of these kids to see that the paper turned out with such labor and expense goes where it's intended to go: to the subscriber.

If he doesn't deliver it promptly, and put it where the subscriber wants it — whether on the front porch, behind the screen door, or in a special container — the result is dissatisfied subscribers. Whatever excellent all those workers were able to put into the product will not be enough if the subscriber doesn't get delivery when and where he expects it.

Talk about responsibility! These kids carry a load of it.

Just about every one of the 775 newspaperboys (and girls) who deliver the Independent Journal feels this responsibility, is conscientious about the job, and delivers the paper properly and on time (provided some of those higher-paid, fulltime people haven't fouled up somewhere to make it come late off the press).

Yes, we say this should be National Newspaper Carrier Week. The boys and girls deserve it.



"Hold, please. I'll see if Mr. Pummelton is taking calls."

Something Board Can Do About Dog Control

On Sept. 11, the I-J reported an incident where a Tiburon woman was attacked by dogs. In spite of the fact that the Humane Society receives $390,000 in county money, supervisor Wornum reportedly indicated that "there is little the board of supervisors can do." I suggest that the county should demand results from the Humane Society, or drop the contract and hire county employees to perform animal control functions.

No less than 15 times in the last year I have called the Humane Society, and have received an equal number of bureaucratic runarounds. My neighbors and I have sent at least eleven letters and petitions to the Humane Society in the past sixty days, asking that our leash law be enforced. And recently a young school girl on our block was walking her dog on a leash, when they were attacked by an unleashed dog. Her dog was killed. Fortunately, this time, the girl was unharmed. But what next? Another dog? A child? Will that bring action? Or will the Humane Society react with the same bureaucratic disinterest as when the lady in Tiburon was attacked by dogs?

Annexation Plan Called Blank Check

The IJ's recent article on annexation (Oct. 2) leaves the impression that the nature, extent and cost of the changes that will be required in the water system of Country Club have been finally, and definitively determined, and that the cost of the changes will be no more than 24 percent $100 assessed valuation.

As I am sure you are aware the nature and extent of the changes that will be required have been left to the unfettered determination of the fire chief and no final decision has been made. Until such a decision has been made and the changes accomplished no one has the foggiest idea what the cost will be (e.g. last year's city "fact sheet" said the cost would be 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation. If we wait another year it might drop to 10 cents).

The only certainties are that annexation will (1) give the fire cnief a blank check to change the entire water distribution system in Country Club in any way that might strike his particular fancy, and (2) empower the city to effectuate the fire chief's decision and hand the bill to the community, the cost to be spread in a manner that has yet to be revealed.

Kaiser Recommended Rejection Of Contract

We feel we must respond to the article in the Oct. 1 issue of the Independent Journal pertaining to the Larkspur ferry terminal project because there was apparently some misunderstanding in so far as actions and attitudes of Kaiser Engineers are concerned.

No one in Kaiser Engineers nor in any of the Kaiser affiliated companies, nor anyone representing the Kaiser interests either directly or indirectly talked to any federal officials or anyone in any way connected with the program at any government level about awarding the Larkspur terminal contract at the full price or about providing additional funds so that it could be awarded at any price level. On the contrary, we recommended to our client that all bids be rejected.

Secondly, when the district voted on Sept. 13 on the list of deletions from the project, we went to work immediately on an expedited basis to make the many changes in the drawings and specifications, not only to delete approximately $4 million in work but also to redesign a lower cost layup berth. Virtually all of this work was completed and delivered to the district at 5 p.m. on Sept. 26.

Reports On Tamalpais Fire District Disputed

In an article concerning the Tamalpais Fire Protection District recently circulated in the October 1974 Almonte Improvement Club Newsletter there were several errors in fact, the more glaring of which we would like to correct.

The statement that "the inability of the chief and the firemen to get along has resulted in a drop of volunteer firemen from 20 to 7" is untrue. Presently the department has a total of 15 active (participating in drills and meetings) volunteers. Within the past three weeks the department has received five additional applications for volunteer firemen.

The statement that "seven regular firemen have taken and passed the County Fire Department exam and are waiting for openings there" is untrue. The Marin County Fire Department recently had 20 openings for which they advertised and for which more than 400 applications were received. Because information concerning the applications and examinations is considered to be personal, the Marin County Fire Department would be at fault to divulge any such particulars. It can be definitely stated, however, that of the total eight regular firemen hired by the Tamalpais Fire Protection District, seven are not on the waiting list for a job opening with the Marin County Fire Department.

The statement that "a proposed contract between the board and the chief which, among other things would require the district to pay the chief $36,000 if and when he does leave the department" is untrue.

Several months ago, because the rules and regulations of the Tamalpais Fire Protection District were undergoing revision, it was suggested that Chief Bennett formulate a memorandum of understanding to form a working basis between the board and himself for this interim period. This memorandum was reviewed and approved by the board subject to approval by county counsel. We cannot relate the figure $36,000 to any part of the memorandum. . .

CAPITOL QUIPS

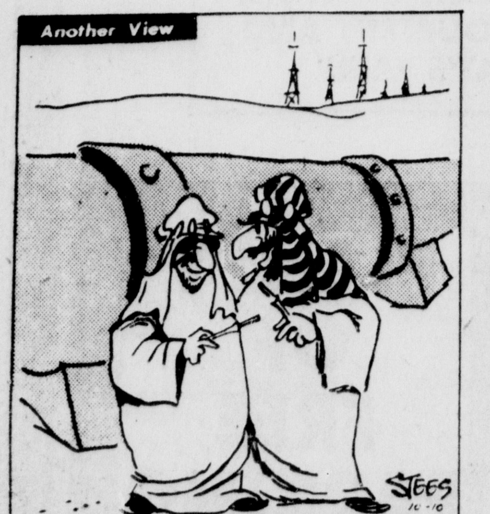
By PHIL DESSAUER

Some experts are saying the Federal Reserve Board should loosen its grip on money and turn it over to housewives, as God intended.

The legal fees for Watergate defendants are terrific. Never have so many lawyers got in trouble for the benefit of so many others.

A super-tax of 20 cents a gallon on gasoline couldn't be passed in Congress. It's a regressive tax — that is, it would cause a lot of people to drive their cars backwards.

President Ford is willing to strike a bargain with his critics. If they won't expect too much from him, he won't provide too much.



"We have nothing to worry about. We can always count on Detroit and the American public."

ERWIN D. CANHAM:

Question May Be How Much We'll Stand

Leaders of the United States government — President Ford, Secretary of State Kissinger, economic coordinator and Treasury Secy. William Simon — have all warned the world in the most apocalyptic terms that the stability of free societies is threatened by economic problems centering on inflation.

Few will disagree with them. Warnings are necessary. How effective they will be depends on policies that are hammered out the hard way, domestically and internationally.

But it may be worth observing that one of the great lessons of this century is the capacity of society to sustain terrible blows and survive.

IN THE 1930s, it was widely believed that a modern war — with the devastating and terrorizing effect of bombing from the air — could not last more than a few weeks. People simply could not take it, it was said.

But they did. Beginning with the Spanish Civil War, it became apparent that civilian populations could absorb hitherto inconceivable punishment. It happened in Spain. It happened in Britain. It happened in the Soviet Union, somewhat differently. It happened in Germany.

Now the world is threatened by economic punishment, and many nations are feeling it. There are two kinds. In the Sahel and in the Indian sub-continent, famine has made heartbreaking inroads. In many of the advanced industrial nations, now including the United States, double-digit inflation is cutting deeply into standards of living, imposing much hardship all along the line, most severely upon the poorest people.

Some alarmed authorities expect dire consequences if the situation cannot be turned around. For many reasons — the cost of energy, climatic change, population growth steadily outstripping economic growth, widening gaps between the haves and the have-nots — they see growing desperation in large parts of the world. Some students, like Prof. Robert Heilbroner in a recent book, see regimes turning to despotism and to nuclear blackmail.

Others, like Secretary Kissinger — and with lesser emphasis, President Ford and Secretary Simon — speak of destructive strain on the framework of financial, social, and political institutions. They recall the depression of the 1930s and fear comparable disruption, or worse.

SUCH WARNING may serve a purpose. But rhetoric alone does little. Fear and foreboding alone do little. There must be planning and action. Thus far, the planning has been fragmentary and ineffective. Proposals that the consumption of imported energy should be cut drastically would be very difficult to carry out in many nations, not least in the United States.

Rhetorical efforts to persuade the oil-producing nations to reduce prices have been ineffective, perhaps counter-productive. Over the long pull, the effects of over-production of oil and restraint on consumption might have a normal effect on artificially inflated prices. That is what the leaders of the other consuming nations seem to be counting on.

When does doom-saying become harmful? When does the voice of moderation muffle desirable concern? It is difficult to say. There is no doubt that the build-up of petro-dollars in the hands of the oil cartel could become absurb. There is no doubt that new sources of energy should be cultivated with all possible zeal, especially of renewable sources of energy as contrasted to the finite supply of oil.

But it is also true, surely, that the peoples and the institutions of the world continue to show how much punishment they can take without collapse. Call it the instinct for survival. Call it the ability to muddle through. Belt-tightening, reduction of waste, a little popular response all along the line, can accomplish a great deal in the aggregate. Such response may also help provide the margin which can be used for the rescue of peoples and societies who are indeed in the gravest distress.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH:

There is only one road to cheaper oil and gasoline for Americans. That road is less use of oil and gasoline.

As recently as two weeks ago, high officials in Washington clung to the hope of finding another road. They thought there were two possible alternates.

One would be the formation of a common front by the big oil-consuming countries for bargaining with the Arabs.

The other would be the actual use of American military power against the Arabs.

EVENTS HAVE SHOWN that a common front is simply not attainable now. And the political downfall of General Spinola in Portugal virtually rules out any use of American military power in the eastern Mediterranean which is not sanctioned by the western European allies.

No one today would support or approve of such military action against the Arabs. Britain, France, and West Germany all oppose any such action.

Last October, the United States could bypass the disapproval of the west European allies by sending its arms for Israel through the Portuguese air bases in the Azores. But what would happen now if Washington tried to use those same bases for military action against Arabs?

The political complexion of the changing regime in Lisbon is not yet fixed. There is no certainty that the flow of power from right to left will go all the way. But General Spinola was a political conservative. He is out. And many of the other conservatives in the officer corps of the three armed services have also been dismissed. Power is shifting from right certainly to center and probably on to left of center. No one can be sure how much farther it will go.

The shift from right toward left has probably already ruled out any use of the Azores bases for purposes unacceptable to the new leaders of the junta in Lisbon.

OF COURSE, the closing of the Azores air bases would not by itself prevent American military operations in Arabia. But it would mean that such an operation would have to be mounted and supplied largely by surface ships operating through the entire length of the Mediterranean. This in turn requires at least the consent of Britain, France, Italy, and West Germany.

The twin question of a united front with those countries, and with Japan, was explored in Washington last week by Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, conferring with finance ministers of the main oil-consuming countries. Literally nothing in the way of an agreed common position against the Arabs was achieved. There was not even agreement on the road to be taken toward such a common front.

France is adamantly opposed to confrontation of any kind with the Arabs. The others are said to be less forceful in their attitude, but in substantial agreement with the French that even a diplomatic and financial common front against the Arab oil producers would be a mistake.

In other words, there is simply no visible possibility of a diplomatic plus financial common front of the oil-consuming countries. Only Washington even wants such a front. So that road is closed.

IN THEORY, it can be argued that the United States has the raw military power to seize the oil-bearing parts of Arabia. But any serious exploration of the consequences makes it clear that the results would only make the world's oil problems worse.

The first landing of American forces in Arabia would undoubtedly mean the blowing up by Arabs of the wells, refineries, and loading pumps and pipelines. Any attempt to reopen the wells and ship out the oil would have to be conducted under guerrilla attack. Moscow would certainly use the occasion to improve its frayed relations with Arabs and with the west Europeans. The survival of the NATO alliance would be in danger. So that road, too, is closed.

All this means that less use of oil and gasoline inside the United States is the only way to get prices down. And even that will not necessarily cause the Arabs to cut the price of their oil. They have said repeatedly that they do not really want to increase their oil sales. They would rather save some of it for their grandchildren. But they have said that they will, if and when Israel hands back the conquered Arab territories.

There seems no reason to doubt that the Arabs really mean it. And recent events have strengthened their position.

Suspension Of Grain Shipments Correct, But Problem Complicated

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor.)

President Ford and two American grain companies are to be commended for the voluntary suspension of a $500 million shipment of grain to the Soviet Union. Concern about the American consumer's grocery bill sparked the action.

The deal, and in fact the whole matter of food exports, needs to be carefully sorted out. Long-range planning is becoming imperative as the United States tries to balance a number of requirements:

ONE IS THE DESIRE to export American foodstuffs to improve the U.S. trade balance. For years Washington has been promoting food exports. The concern now is that if the U.S. starts curbing its sales nations abroad will lose dependable markets.

There is also the need to protect the domestic market at a time of galloping inflation. The sale of grain to the Russians in 1972 sent up a howl from consumers when domestic shortages developed and food prices shot up as a result.

Trade with the Soviet Union is important to Washington's policy of detente. There must be evidence of a willingness to cooperate with the Russians in areas that are mutually beneficial.

Last, but not least, is the need to provide massive food aid for the poorer nations of the world. As population grows, food supply becomes a problem of mounting urgency.

BEHIND THE DILEMMA of how to balance these various priorities lies the basic change in the world's economy. The two North American producers that once carried the grain stocks for the world — the U.S. and Canada — no longer can do so. A disastrous crop in 1972 ate into reserves and the Soviet sale was a contributing factor.

Then Treasury Secretary Shultz admitted the U.S. had been "burned" in the Soviet deal and should not get burned twice. That presumably is what the Ford administration now wants to avoid.

Especially disquieting is Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz's complaint that the Russians gave no advance warning they planned such a massive purchase of corn and wheat. If this is so, it means the joint reporting system set up when Leonid Brezhnev visited Washington is not functioning properly.

American grain exporters now are to meet with the administration to work out a system of voluntary cooperation and reporting in order to assure supplies at home and abroad. This is a good step. It is to be hoped the Russians, too, will see their own interests served in cooperation with the U.S. government.

Newspaper Carriers Deserve Whole Week

Independent Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
18 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

This is National Newspaper Week. Traditionally, the press observes its annual week by preening itself a little, and perhaps doing a little self-inspection.

The week climaxes with National Newspaper Carrier Day on Saturday. That day is set aside in honor of the boys (and girls) who deliver the daily paper to your doorstep.

MAYBE IT SHOULD be the other way around. One day is enough for publishers and editors to pat themselves on the back, or even to examine their shortcomings. But the boys who deliver the paper deserve a whole week in their honor.

We say this because, were it not for these youngsters, the work of everybody else in producing this or any other daily paper would go for naught.

As has often been remarked, it's a funny business. You work hard to turn out a good paper, trying to get news of all the many things that interest people into it — and once it rolls off the press, you have to start all over again.

It's a funny business in another way, too.

LONG TRAINING goes into the various job skills required to turn out a daily newspaper. Reporter, advertising solicitor, copy editor, makeup man, pressman — these and a dozen other skills require special instruction, most of it on the job. A seasoned organization, skillful in many specialties, is required to produce a worthwhile daily newspaper.

So, then, what happens?

The product of the work of all these specially trained and specially skilled people — 180 of them fulltime on the Independent Journal, for example — is turned over to boys who are several years away from their first shaves, and for whom carrying the newspaper is just a part-time after-school job.

Moreover, these boys aren't even employees. They are independent contractors. They buy the papers, deliver them, collect for them. If a customer doesn't pay, it's the boy who loses.

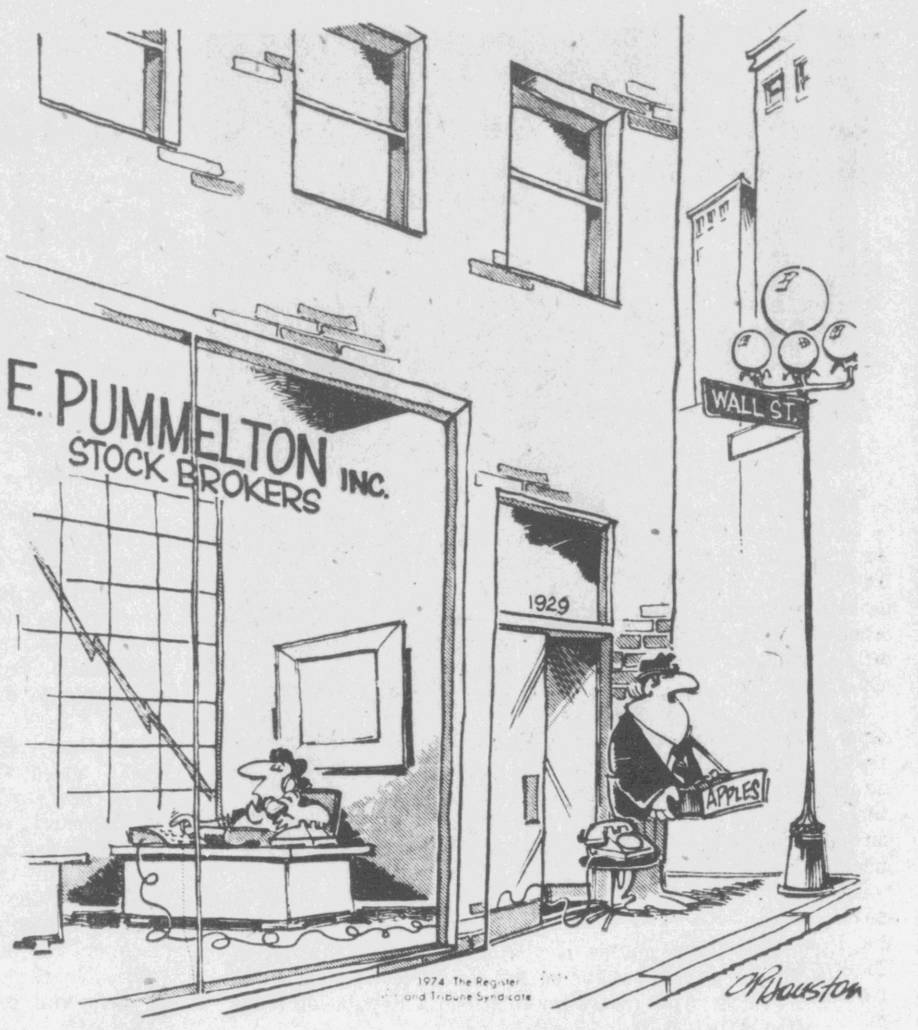
IT'S UP TO EACH of these kids to see that the paper turned out with such labor and expense goes where it's intended to go: to the subscriber.

If he doesn't deliver it promptly, and put it where the subscriber wants it — whether on the front porch, behind the screen door, or in a special container — the result is dissatisfied subscribers. Whatever excellent all those workers were able to put into the product will not be enough if the subscriber doesn't get delivery when and where he expects it.

Talk about responsibility! These kids carry a load of it.

Just about every one of the 775 newspaperboys (and girls) who deliver the Independent Journal feels this responsibility, is conscientious about the job, and delivers the paper properly and on time (provided some of those higher-paid, full-time people haven't fouled up somewhere to make it come late off the press).

Yes, we say this should be National Newspaper Carrier Week. The boys and girls deserve it.



"Hold, please. I'll see if Mr. Pummelton is taking calls."

Something Board Can Do About Dog Control

On Sept. 11, the I-J reported an incident where a Tiburon woman was attacked by dogs. In spite of the fact that the Humane Society receives $390,000 in county money, supervisor Wornum reportedly indicated that "there is little the board of supervisors can do." I suggest that the county should demand results from the Humane Society, or drop the contract and hire county employees to perform animal control functions.

No less than 15 times in the last year I have called the Humane Society, and have received an equal number of bureaucratic runarounds. My neighbors and I have sent at least eleven letters and petitions to the Humane Society in the past sixty days, asking that our leash law be enforced. And recently a young school girl on our block was walking her dog on a leash, when they were attacked by an unleashed dog. Her dog was killed. Fortunately, this time, the girl was unharmed. But what next? Another dog? A child? Will that bring action? Or will the Humane Society react with the same bureaucratic disinterest as when the lady in Tiburon was attacked by dogs?

Annexation Plan Called Blank Check

The IJ's recent article on annexation (Oct. 2) leaves the impression that the nature, extent and cost of the changes that will be required in the water system of Country Club have been finally, and definitively determined, and that the cost of the changes will be no more than 24 percent $100 assessed valuation.

As I am sure you are aware the nature and extent of the changes that will be required have been left to the unfettered determination of the fire chief and no final decision has been made. Until such a decision has been made and the changes accomplished no one has the foggiest idea what the cost will be (e.g. last year's city "fact sheet" said the cost would be 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation. If we wait another year it might drop to 10 cents).

The only certainties are that annexation will (1) give the fire chief a blank check to change the entire water distribution system in Country Club in any way that might strike his particular fancy, and (2) empower the city to effectuate the fire chief's decision and hand the bill to the community, the cost to be spread in a manner that has yet to be revealed.

Kaiser Recommended Rejection Of Contract

We feel we must respond to the article in the Oct. 1 issue of the Independent Journal pertaining to the Larkspur ferry terminal project because there was apparently some misunderstanding in so far as actions and attitudes of Kaiser Engineers are concerned.

No one in Kaiser Engineers nor in any of the Kaiser affiliated companies, nor anyone representing the Kaiser interests either directly or indirectly talked to any federal officials or anyone in any way connected with the program at any government level about awarding the Larkspur terminal contract at the full price or about providing additional funds so that it could be awarded at any price level. On the contrary, we recommended to our client that all bids be rejected.

Secondly, when the district voted on Sept. 13 on the list of deletions from the project, we went to work immediately on an expedited basis to make the many changes in the drawings and specifications, not only to delete approximately $4 million in work but also to redesign a lower cost layup berth. Virtually all of this work was completed and delivered to the district at 5 p.m. on Sept. 26.

Reports On Tamalpais Fire District Disputed

In an article concerning the Tamalpais Fire Protection District recently circulated in the October 1974 Almonte Improvement Club Newsletter there were several errors in fact, the more glaring of which we would like to correct.

The statement that "the inability of the chief and the firemen to get along has resulted in a drop of volunteer firemen from 20 to 7" is untrue. Presently the department has a total of 15 active (participating in drills and meetings) volunteers. Within the past three weeks the department has received five additional applications for volunteer firemen.

The statement that "seven regular firemen have taken and passed the County Fire Department exam and are waiting for openings there" is untrue. The Marin County Fire Department recently had 20 openings for which they advertised and for which more than 400 applications were received. Because information concerning the applications and examinations is considered to be personal, the Marin County Fire Department would be at fault to divulge any such particulars. It can be definitely stated, however, that of the total eight regular firemen hired by the Tamalpais Fire Protection District, seven are not on the waiting list for a job opening with the Marin County Fire Department.

The statement that "a proposed contract between the board and the chief which, among other things would require the district to pay the chief $36,000 if and when he does leave the department" is untrue.

Several months ago, because the rules and regulations of the Tamalpais Fire Protection District were undergoing revision, it was suggested that Chief Bennett formulate a memorandum of understanding to form a working basis between the board and himself for this interim period. This memorandum was reviewed and approved by the board subject to approval by county counsel. We cannot relate the figure $36,000 to any part of the memorandum. . .

Question May Be How Much We'll Stand

Leaders of the United States government — President Ford, Secretary of State Kissinger, economic coordinator and Treasury Secy. William Simon — have all warned the world in the most apocalyptic terms that the stability of free societies is threatened by economic problems centering on inflation.

Few will disagree with them. Warnings are necessary. How effective they will be depends on policies that are hammered out the hard way, domestically and internationally.

But it may be worth observing that one of the great lessons of this century is the capacity of society to sustain terrible blows and survive.

IN THE 1930s, it was widely believed that a modern war — with the devastating and terrorizing effect of bombing from the air — could not last more than a few weeks. People simply could not take it, it was said.

Others, like Secretary Kissinger — and with lesser emphasis, President Ford and Secretary Simon — speak of destructive strain on the framework of financial, social, and political institutions. They recall the depression of the 1930s and fear comparable disruption, or worse.

SUCH WARNING may serve a purpose. But rhetoric alone does little. Fear and foreboding alone do little. There must be planning and action. Thus far, the planning has been fragmentary and ineffective. Proposals that the consumption of imported energy should be cut drastically would be very difficult to carry out in many nations, not least in the United States.

Suspension Of Grain Shipments Correct, But Problem Complicated

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor.)

President Ford and two American grain companies are to be commended for the voluntary suspension of a $500 million shipment of grain to the Soviet Union. Concern about the American consumer's grocery bill sparked the action.

The deal, and in fact the whole matter of food exports, needs to be carefully sorted out. Long-range planning is becoming imperative as the United States tries to balance a number of requirements:

ONE IS THE DESIRE to export American foodstuffs to improve the U.S. trade balance. For years Washington has been promoting food exports. The concern now is that if the U.S. starts curbing its sales nations abroad will lose dependable markets.

There is also the need to protect the domestic market at a time of galloping inflation. The sale of grain to the Russians in 1972 sent up a howl from consumers when domestic shortages developed and food prices shot up as a result.

Last, but not least, is the need to provide massive food aid for the poorer nations of the world. As population grows, food supply becomes a problem of mounting urgency.

BEHIND THE DILEMMA of how to balance these various priorities lies the basic change in the world's economy. The two North American producers that once carried the grain stocks for the world — the U.S. and Canada — no longer can do so. A disastrous crop in 1972 ate into reserves and the Soviet sale was a contributing factor.

Then Treasury Secretary Shultz admitted the U.S. had been "burned" in the Soviet deal and should not get burned twice. That presumably is what the Ford administration now wants to avoid.

Especially disquieting is Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz's complaint that the Russians gave no advance warning they planned such a massive purchase of corn and wheat. If this is so, it means the joint reporting system set up when Leonid Brezhnev visited Washington is not functioning properly.

American grain exporters now are to meet with the administration to work out a system of voluntary cooperation and reporting in order to assure supplies at home and abroad. This is a good step. It is to be hoped the Russians, too, will see their own interests served in cooperation with the U.S. government.

Did San Rafael Council Play April Fool Joke On Itself?

The San Rafael City Council — in an unheralded but dead serious session last April Fool's Day — voted unanimously to proceed with full disclosure of economic interests that might be materially affected by official actions.

And, although the policy adopted by the council did not require disclosure of the actual extent of individual assets and interests, it did require disclosure of local clients generating income of more than $250.

The council endorsed full disclosure before requirements of the Moscone Act were clear. The California Supreme Court two months later ruled the law did not compel disclosure of an official's customers, clients or patients.

THE MOVE for full disclosure was spearheaded rather pointedly by Councilman Jack G. Nixon at that April meeting. "It seems to me this would be an excellent time for this council to take the initiative regardless of what the attorney general, the clerk, the judge, the law, the court, or what they say, and go ahead and each one of us file thoroughly," he told colleagues.

Nixon's proposal that councilmen report all local clients who have generated more than $250 in income was embraced by colleagues Fred E. Jensen and Lawrence E. Mulryan.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini, however, approached Nixon's proposal cautiously.

"But that's not the law. Why should you do it," he said. "It's quite a bit of work for somebody like me who's been in business for 38 years, to put down clients."

Nixon replied he had quite a few clients, too.

The mayor balked at "rushing into something for the fanfare of it" and urged the matter be postponed and considered more carefully in two weeks.

But he was ignored by his eager colleagues, and joined them in voting unanimous approval of the disclosure procedure.

THE RESULT is full disclosure by San Rafael city councilmen, who have voluntarily complied with the spirit of the law while other public officials in Marin slip through its loophole by revealing the broad sources of their incomes but withholding clients' names.

The San Rafael disclosure statements reveal that Bettini on several occasions and Nixon on two occasions were active participants in and cast ballots on matters involving clients.

It appears that neither candidate has much to gain from the issue politically, should they face each other in the city's March mayoralty election.

Food Reserves Total Only 26 Days, Says UN Expert

OTTAWA (UPI) — A United Nations food expert says the world has only 26 days total food reserves and that agriculture aid channeled through the United Nations must be greatly increased to prevent famine, starvation and revolution in the world.

Roy Jackson, the director-general of the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization, told a news conference yesterday the United Nations would be asking food producing nations to develop national reserves and "we may also need an international reserve to act as a sort of international bank."

He said that in United Nations policy "the first priority must be to improve the degree of self-sufficiency in countries that can carry it off."

Jackson said the agriculture aid channeled through the United Nations must be boosted rapidly from the present $1.5 billion to $5 billion in order to pay for international agriculture development.

The alternative, he said, was "famine, starvation and revolution on your hands . . .

"You are going to have social unrest which would lead to revolution, and the fall of governments and the development of dictatorships."

Secret White House Wind Tunnel Where Trial Balloons Blown Up

WASHINGTON — Deep in the heart of the White House, far from the prying eyes of the public and press, is one of the most important rooms in the government. It is the place where they blow up the trial balloons which are floated by the Ford administration.

Thanks to a source who shall remain nameless, I managed to get into the room and see for myself how this all-important operation functions.

THE ROOM was very long — the size of a football field — and divided into workbenches. On each bench was seated a member of the administration or friend of President Ford blowing up large, funny-shaped balloons.

They were so busy with their work, they didn't notice me.

"Say," I said to my source, "isn't that Mel Laird blowing up a balloon over there?"

"Yes," he replied, "the balloon he's blowing up has to do with gas rationing. He tried to float it last week, but it didn't fly."

"So he's going to send it up again?"

"He'll probably try it once more in a different shape and, if it's shot down this time, he'll go on to something else."

"BOY, YOU HAVE to have a lot of air to blow up one of those balloons," I said.

"Mel does. He probably has floated more trial balloons than anyone in the Ford kitchen cabinet."

"How does he do it?" I asked.

"Well, he meets with the president and they decide what trial balloon Mr. Ford wants to send up.

"Let's say the president is thinking about gas rationing but he doesn't know if the public will go for it. So he tells Laird to send up a balloon and see the reaction. Laird comes down here and starts blowing."

"AND THEN HE SENDS it up?" I asked.

"Not really. He has to sell it to somebody. If he sent it up himself, nobody would take the balloon seriously. So he calls up Evans and Novak and says, 'The president is going to institute gas rationing.' "

"And Evans and Novak buy it?"

"Every time," my source said. "They float it in their column and then we wait for congressional and press reaction. If it's negative, the president orders Ron Nessen to shoot the trial balloon down by denying he has any intention of rationing gas."

"Doesn't Laird get angry after blowing up one of those balloons to see it shot down?"

"Heck, no. He works for the Reader's Digest, and this gives him something to do."

"ISN'T THAT Secy. of the Treasury Bill Simon over there?"

"He's blowing up a trial balloon on an income surtax. He'll probably float it at a chamber of commerce dinner in Chicago tonight."

"Who are all those people sticking pins in the balloon that Simon is blowing up?"

"They're Arthur Burns, Alan Greenspan, Roy Ash and Paul McCracken. When it comes to the economy, all Mr. Ford's economic advisers do is stick pins in each other's trial balloons."

"ARE MY EYES deceiving me," I said, "or did Henry Kissinger just walk in?"

"Henry's here quite a bit," my source said. "He just floated a balloon last week on getting tough with the oil-producing countries and it landed with a thud. I guess he wants to take some new balloons with him to the Middle East."

"Look," I said excitedly, "there's Sen. Hugh Scott."

"Poor Hugh," my source said. "The Nixon people used him to launch all their trial balloons on Watergate and he's still trying to get back his second wind."

Taste Is Sweet; Bill Is Bitter

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — America's giant sweet tooth costs the nation millions of dollars in unnecessary medical care, according to a nutritional expert.

The average American consumes 103 pounds of refined white sugar a year, which contributes to health problems such as heart disease, dental decay, obesity and diabetes, said George Briggs, chairman of the nutritional sciences department at the University of California at Berkeley.

Jay W. Tatem Jr., president of the Sugar Association, protested that blaming such health problems on sugar exclusively was misleading and that obesity comes from eating too much food, not just sugar.

They testified Tuesday before a State Assembly committee considering a bill to impose a special tax on refined sugar to provide educational programs on nutrition.

San Francisco Crimes Decline

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of crimes in San Francisco decreased during the first nine months of this year compared with the same period in 1973, the Police Department said Tuesday.

The breakdown, with 1974 figures first:

Assault, 1,941-1,950; burglary, 10,536-11,831; larceny, 9,819-9,680; auto theft, 6,548- 7,183.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By NELS JOHNSON

Did San Rafael Council Play April Fool Joke On Itself?

The San Rafael City Council — in an unheralded but dead serious session last April Fool's Day — voted unanimously to proceed with full disclosure of economic interests that might be materially affected by official actions.

And, although the policy adopted by the council did not require disclosure of the actual extent of individual assets and interests, it did require disclosure of local clients generating income of more than $250.

The council endorsed full disclosure before requirements of the Moscone Act were clear. The California Supreme Court two months later ruled the law did not compel disclosure of an official's customers, clients or patients.

THE MOVE for full disclosure was spearheaded rather pointedly by Councilman Jack G. Nixon at that April meeting. "It seems to me this would be an excellent time for this council to take the initiative regardless of what the attorney general, the clerk, the judge, the law, the court, or what they say, and go ahead and each one of us file thoroughly," he told colleagues.

Nixon's proposal that councilmen report all local clients who have generated more than $250 in income was embraced by colleagues Fred E. Jensen and Lawrence E. Mulryan.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini, however, approached Nixon's proposal cautiously.

"But that's not the law. Why should you do it," he said. "It's quite a bit of work for somebody like me who's been in business for 38 years, to put down clients."

Nixon replied he had quite a few clients, too.

The mayor balked at "rushing into something for the fanfare of it" and urged the matter be postponed and considered more carefully in two weeks.

But he was ignored by his eager colleagues, and joined them in voting unanimous approval of the disclosure procedure.

THE RESULT is full disclosure by San Rafael city councilmen, who have voluntarily complied with the spirit of the law while other public officials in Marin slip through its loophole by revealing the broad sources of their incomes but withholding clients' names.

The San Rafael disclosure statements reveal that Bettini on several occasions and Nixon on two occasions were active participants in and cast ballots on matters involving clients.

It appears that neither candidate has much to gain from the issue politically, should they face each other in the city's March mayoralty election.

FINDING FOSSILS

Michael Hammer looks at one of the 60 million year old fossils found along a 350-mile stretch of Mexican coast. Hammer was digging near Baja, Calif., yesterday. The recent find includes indications that primitive men may have reached North America as long ago as 100,000 years, according to a report released at the Flagstaff, Ariz., meeting of the Vertebrate Paleontological Society of America. The report by Dr. Shelton Applegate, of the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History, also indicated that there was once a seaway across what is now Mexico that connected the Caribbean to the Pacific.

Design Drawings Asked For Tam Playing Field

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District have ordered design drawings for a 65,000 square-foot playing field at Tamalpais Valley School.

Directors Tuesday selected the larger of two plans by designer Asa Hanamoto. The field is expected to take from five to six and a half months to construct and is expected to cost between $31,000 and $46,000, according to director Richard Drever.

Board members set 7 p.m. Oct. 22 to interview applicants for several anticipated openings on the district's parks and recreation commission.

Further information on applying for the commission may be obtained by contacting district mgr. Leonard Mitchell at district offices, 303 Bell Lane.

In other business, Drever was reelected board chairman for 1974-75, Director Frank Purdy was named representative to the Local Agency Formation Commission's advisory committee on a municipal utility district for Marin, and Jack Walker was elected district publicist.

Gypsies Attempt Legal Hex Of Law On Fortunes

Sausalito can't deny gypsies the right to read palms and tell fortunes because it's part of their religion.

This contention is at the heart of a lawsuit filed in Marin Superior Court which challenges Sausalito's 29-year-old law against fortune telling.

In it, James and Dorothy Marie Adams, who say they are gypsies, contend the law violates the First Amendment of the Constitution.

The Adamses said they rented a place to be used as a fortune telling parlor in Sausalito to last July but the ordinance won't let them set up shop.

They are entitled to a court order overturning the city law "because a religion for First Amendment purposes need not be an organized or orthodox religious sect . . . and fortune telling and crude astrology of the gypsies are survivals of tribal religion," the suit said.

In true gypsy fashion, the lawsuit doesn't tell where the Adamses live, and their attorney, Boris J. Baranowski, of Los Gatos, refused to say.

FINDING FOSSILS

Michael Hammer looks at one of the 60 million year old fossils found along a 350-mile stretch of Mexican coast. Hammer was digging near Baja, Calif., yesterday. The recent find includes indications that primitive men may have reached North America as long ago as 100,000 years, according to a report released at the Flagstaff, Ariz., meeting of the Vertebrate Paleontological Society of America. The report by Dr. Shelton Applegate, of the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History, also indicated that there was once a seaway across what is now Mexico that connected the Caribbean to the Pacific.

Design Drawings Asked For Tam Playing Field

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District have ordered design drawings for a 65,000 square-foot playing field at Tamalpais Valley School.

Directors Tuesday selected the larger of two plans by designer Asa Hanamoto. The field is expected to take from five to six and a half months to construct and is expected to cost between $31,000 and $46,000, according to director Richard Drever.

Board members set 7 p.m. Oct. 22 to interview applicants for several anticipated openings on the district's parks and recreation commission.

Further information on applying for the commission may be obtained by contacting district mgr. Leonard Mitchell at district offices, 303 Bell Lane.

In other business, Drever was reelected board chairman for 1974-75, Director Frank Purdy was named representative to the Local Agency Formation Commission's advisory committee on a municipal utility district for Marin, and Jack Walker was elected district publicist.

Nov. 5 Vote May Decide Water Moratorium's Fate

When voters choose Nov. 5 between the two runoff candidates for the Division 1 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District Board of Directors, they may decide the fate of the district's ban on new water connections.

Candidate Richard J. Boylan, 34, of Woodacre favors continuing the water connections moratorium, while his opponent, Betty M. Forry, 50, of Marinwood opposes it.

Winner would be the probable swing vote on the five-member board to press or drop the appeal of a court decision striking down the board's controversial moratorium.

The candidates also hold opposing views on the proposed intertie pipeline with North Marin County Water District which would import some 4,000 acre-feet of Russian River water annually to central and north Marin.

Mrs. Forry favors the intertie, saying it would "give us adequate time to explore other water sources." Boylan opposes it, believing that it would create "unstoppable pressure for growth."

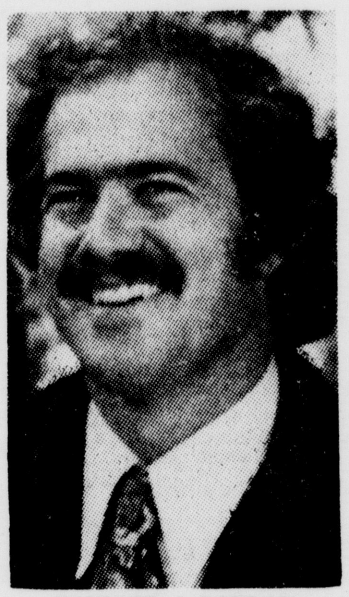
Boylan believes that the water district has responsibility to help stay within limited growth goals set down in the county general plan, acting to complement population planning goals of planning departments and commissions.

Mrs. Forry has said she also favors growth control, but such control should be handled through rezoning and growth control ordinances by the county and cities, not the water district.

Mrs. Forry sees reclamation of waste water and water conserving programs as directions to meet Marin Municipal's long-term water needs. She also believes that expansion of present district facilities and new dam construction are other water supply possibilities.

Boylan, seeking election "because the people of Marin want a strong conservationist who will continue the policy of no new water hookups until growth control ordinances are implemented," told a recent campaign audience that even if the proposed intertie were built, "it would not meet our current water deficit."

BETTY FORRY
Favors intertie



RICHARD J. BOYLAN
Opposes intertie

Each candidate received about 26 per cent of the vote in the June election for Division 1, which includes San Geronimo Valley, Terra Linda, Marinwood, Santa Venetia and Sleepy Hollow. The winner will replace board president Jack R. Felson, who did not seek reelection.

Boylan, who was born in North Hollywood and has lived in Marin since 1971, is a clinical social worker with Marin Community Mental Health Services. He worked on the Fairfax Open Space Citizens Committee and is zoning committee chairman for the San Geronimo Valley Planning Group.

Boylan lives in Woodacre with his wife, Charlotte, and 1-year-old daughter.

He holds masters' degrees in educational administration from Fordham University and social work from the University of California at Berkeley. Boylan is a member of the Sierra Club.

Mrs. Forry was born in Sacramento and attended the University of New Mexico and the College of Marin. A business woman and homemaker, she was chairman of the California Recreation Commission from 1961-67 and a member of the county grand jury in 1972-73. Mother of a grown daughter and two sons, she and her husband, Dewey, have lived in Marin for 14 years.

Betty Forry is a member of the Marin Conservation League and the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and is a former vice president of the Sunny Hills governing council.

Burton Votes For Warfare Curbing Bills

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. John L. Burton, Marin-San Francisco congressman, has voted for a series of bills to curb gas and biological warefare and reduce military expenditures.

Burton voted for a resolution by Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, calling for ratification of the Geneva Protocol of 1925 banning gas and bacteriological warfare. It passed 315-70.

He then voted for an amendment to delete a $5.8 million authorization for nerve gas production facilities at the Army's Pine Bluff, Ark., arsenal, while authorizing $3 million for continued nerve gas research. It passed 214-186.

In other military fund cut votes, as tabulated by Government Research Corp., the Marin-San Francisco Democrat:

FAST WORK ON 'JERSEY' BARRIER

Workmen (top photo) apply finishing touches to a "jersey" barrier, named for its use on New Jersey turnpikes. It is being constructed for the first time in Marin on the Highway 101 median for 12,500 feet from the Greenbrae Bridge to Alto. An unusual moving form (top photo, left) shapes wet concrete as it pours the 32-inch-high barrier, leaving workers with only light troweling to complete the job. The mechanical form can travel at a rate of 1,200 feet per day.

A steel reinforcing rod (lower photo) inside the barrier is further strengthened from the bottom by steel rods from a prelaid concrete base. The job is part of the State Highway Department's widening of Highway 101.

Visit Plan Due Inside Prison Walls

San Quentin Prison is expanding its family and conjugal visits program to within the walls.

The San Quentin News reported yesterday that three trailers would be bought at a cost of $22,780 — from the inmate welfare fund — and placed inside the prison. Each will have two bedrooms and a kitchen.

The visits are now conducted in buildings outside the walls, and only convicts held in minimum custody are allowed to participate.

The prison's newspaper said that the trailers would be used by men from the "mainline" population with the exclusion of those in segregation units or close custody housing.

The program is expected to begin in early January, according to prison information officer William D. Nyberg. Prisoners will be allowed to sign up for either 19-hour or 43-hour visits, excluding Wednesdays, Nyberg said.

Mrs. Walker Is Selected

Shirley A. Walker, trustee of the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District, has been elected to represent Marin County at the Delegate Assembly of the California School Boards Association.

She defeated trustee Bette Wallace of the Tamalpais High School District board, and Eugene E. Jacks of the San Anselmo School District in balloting by Marin school board members.

Helen Rudee of the Santa Rosa City School District was chosen to represent Sonoma County.

The assembly meets Dec. 4-5 in Anaheim.

Boy Retrieves Stolen Bicycle

A 13-year-old Novato boy, holding a knife to the throat of a 9-year-old boy yesterday, robbed him of his bicycle and two cents, according to Novato police.

The robbery took place at about 6:15 p.m. at the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks north of Lamont Avenue, police said. The younger boy pursued his attacker and retrieved his bicycle in spite of being jabbed, but not cut, in the legs with the knife, police reported.

Dance Planned At Union Hall

The band "Ibericos" and singer Henrique Cordeiro will provide the entertainment Saturday for a dance at the carpenters hall, 647 Lindaro Street, San Rafael from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Host Agnelo Clementino — director of the radio program "Voice of the Portuguese Colony" — said admission is $2.

Pianist To Give Workshop Oct. 21

Pianist Carole Ozanian Walsh will give a workshop for piano teachers at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 21 at the Redwood Retirement Residence, 40 Camino Alto, Mill Valley.

She will play and discuss new piano publications during the free session sponsored by the Marin Music Teachers' Association.

Car Rolls Down 450-Foot Cliff; Woman 'Serious'

A 20-year-old Sausalito woman was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital after the car in which she was a passenger ran off Shoreline Highway and rolled down a 450-foot cliff.

The woman, Michael E. Sims, of 507 Eastrby Street, suffered a cut scalp, a possible broken right finger and two broken legs, according to the hospital.

The driver, George Christopher Chandler, 27, of the same address, was not injured in the incident which occurred about 3.2 miles south of the Muir Beach Overlook.

Highway patrolmen said there was no apparent reason for the accident.

Exhibit Planned

Michael W. Davis of Novato will exhibit oil paintings and water colors at the Mill Valley Public Library beginning next Tuesday through Oct. 31 from 2 to 9 p.m.

Weissich Says Bennett Still Owes Him $2,305

The man who defended William M. Bennett on two drunk charges says his former client still owes him $2,305 in legal fees.

William O. Weissich, a San Rafael attorney, filed suit last week in Marin Municipal Court against Bennett, 55, of Kentfield, a member of the state board of equalization.

The suit claims Weissich, a former Marin district attorney, performed $2,625 worth of legal work for Bennett but has been paid only $320.

Weissich represented Bennett on a 1971 drunken driving charge in which Bennett was found guilty by a jury in Marin Municipal Court, but the jury was overruled by Judge Robert A. Smallman, trying the case.

Weissich also handled a charge of drunkenness in public stemming from a 1971 arrest of Bennett in Sausalito. After winning a change of venue to San Jose, Bennett pleaded no contest and was fined $35.

The fee dispute between Bennett and Weissich is not the first disagreement the two have had. Weissich last year accused Bennett of preparing a $2 million false arrest suit against Sausalito police, then typing Weissich's name on top.

The suit was dismissed by a Marin Superior Court Judge on grounds Bennett purposely failed to show up at a pretrial hearing.

Fire Causes $8,500 Damage To Home

Fire did damage estimated at $8,500 to the home of Dale Cochran at 2805 Topaz Drive in the Bahia section of Novato at 7:19 a.m. yesterday.

The fire started in the laundry room, probably from combustible material near a heater, firemen reported. The damage was listed at $5,000 to the house and $3,500 to the contents.

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. John L. Burton, Marin-San Francisco congressman, has voted for a series of bills to curb gas and biological warefare and reduce military expenditures.

Burton voted for a resolution by Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, calling for ratification of the Geneva Protocol of 1925 banning gas and bacteriological warfare. It passed 315-70.

He then voted for an amendment to delete a $5.8 million authorization for nerve gas production facilities at the Army's Pine Bluff, Ark., arsenal, while authorizing $3 million for continued nerve gas research. It passed 214-186.

In other military fund cut votes, as tabulated by Government Research Corp., the Marin-San Francisco Democrat:

Voted for an amendment cutting in half the $75 million authorization for the Safeguard antiballistic missile system and deleting a $45 million authorization for ABM research and development. It failed, 182-219.

Voted for an amendment to delete $169.5 million for counterforce nuclear research and development programs. It failed, 69-238.

Voted for an amendment to reduce from $922.6 million to $622.6 million the fiscal 1975 appropriation for South Vietnam military assistance. It passed, 233-157.

Voted for an amendment to reduce the limit on defense appropriations to $81.2 billion in fiscal 1975. It failed, 178-216.

Voted against the Defense Department appropriation bill of $83.4 billion for fiscal 1975. It passed, 350-43.

Voted for a 60-day extension of Export-Import Bank authority beyond the end of the last fiscal year. It passed, 271-113.

Voted against an amendment to reduce the limit on campaign expenditures by House candidates from $75,000 to $42,500. It failed, 187-223.

Nov. 5 Vote May Decide Water Moratorium's Fate

When voters choose Nov. 5 between the two runoff candidates for the Division 1 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District Board of Directors, they may decide the fate of the district's ban on new water connections.

Candidate Richard J. Boylan, 34, of Woodacre favors continuing the water connections moratorium, while his opponent, Betty M. Forry, 50, of Marinwood opposes it.

Winner would be the probable swing vote on the five-member board to press or drop the appeal of a court decision striking down the board's controversial moratorium.

The candidates also hold opposing views on the proposed intertie pipeline with North Marin County Water District which would import some 4,000 acre-feet of Russian River water annually to central and north Marin.

Mrs. Forry favors the intertie, saying it would "give us adequate time to explore other water sources." Boylan opposes it, believing that it would create "unstoppable pressure for growth."

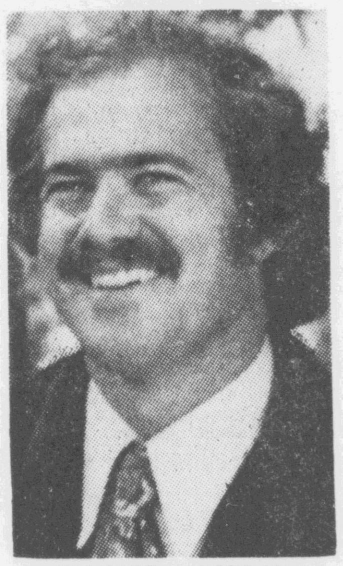
Boylan believes that the water district has responsibility to help stay within limited growth goals set down in the county general plan, acting to complement population planning goals of planning departments and commissions.

Mrs. Forry has said she also favors growth control, but such control should be handled through rezoning and growth control ordinances by the county and cities, not the water district.

Mrs. Forry sees reclamation of waste water and water conserving programs as directions to meet Marin Municipal's long-term water needs. She also believes that expansion of present district facilities and new dam construction are other water supply possibilities.

Boylan, seeking election "because the people of Marin want a strong conservationist who will continue the policy of no new water hookups until growth control ordinances are implemented," told a recent campaign audience that even if the proposed intertie were built, "it would not meet our current water deficit."

BETTY FORRY
Favors intertie



RICHARD J. BOYLAN
Opposes intertie

Each candidate received about 26 per cent of the vote in the June election for Division 1, which includes San Geronimo Valley, Terra Linda, Marinwood, Santa Venetia and Sleepy Hollow. The winner will replace board president Jack R. Felson, who did not seek reelection.

Boylan, who was born in North Hollywood and has lived in Marin since 1971, is a clinical social worker with Marin Community Mental Health Services. He worked on the Fairfax Open Space Citizens Committee and is zoning committee chairman for the San Geronimo Valley Planning Group.

Boylan lives in Woodacre with his wife, Charlotte, and 1-year-old daughter.

He holds masters' degrees in educational administration from Fordham University and social work from the University of California at Berkeley. Boylan is a member of the Sierra Club.

Mrs. Forry was born in Sacramento and attended the University of New Mexico and the College of Marin. A business woman and homemaker, she was chairman of the California Recreation Commission from 1961-67 and a member of the county grand jury in 1972-73. Mother of a grown daughter and two sons, she and her husband, Dewey, have lived in Marin for 14 years.

Betty Forry is a member of the Marin Conservation League and the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and is a former vice president of the Sunny Hills governing council.

Visit Plan Due Inside Prison Walls

San Quentin Prison is expanding its family and conjugal visits program to within the walls.

The San Quentin News reported yesterday that three trailers would be bought at a cost of $22,780 — from the inmate welfare fund — and placed inside the prison. Each will have two bedrooms and a kitchen.

The visits are now conducted in buildings outside the walls, and only convicts held in minimum custody are allowed to participate.

The prison's newspaper said that the trailers would be used by men from the "mainline" population with the exclusion of those in segregation units or close custody housing.

The program is expected to begin in early January, according to prison information officer William D. Nyberg. Prisoners will be allowed to sign up for either 19-hour or 43-hour visits, excluding Wednesdays, Nyberg said.

Mrs. Walker Is Selected

Shirley A. Walker, trustee of the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District, has been elected to represent Marin County at the Delegate Assembly of the California School Boards Association.

She defeated trustee Bette Wallace of the Tamalpais High School District board, and Eugene E. Jacks of the San Anselmo School District in balloting by Marin school board members.

Helen Rudee of the Santa Rosa City School District was chosen to represent Sonoma County.

The assembly meets Dec. 4-5 in Anaheim.

Boy Retrieves Stolen Bicycle

A 13-year-old Novato boy, holding a knife to the throat of a 9-year-old boy yesterday, robbed him of his bicycle and two cents, according to Novato police.

The robbery took place at about 6:15 p.m. at the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks north of Lamont Avenue, police said. The younger boy pursued his attacker and retrieved his bicycle in spite of being jabbed, but not cut, in the legs with the knife, police reported.

Dance Planned At Union Hall

The band "Ibericos" and singer Henrique Cordeiro will provide the entertainment Saturday for a dance at the carpenters hall, 647 Lindaro Street, San Rafael from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Host Agnelo Clementino — director of the radio program "Voice of the Portuguese Colony" — said admission is $2.

Pianist To Give Workshop Oct. 21

Pianist Carole Ozanian Walsh will give a workshop for piano teachers at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 21 at the Redwood Retirement Residence, 40 Camino Alto, Mill Valley.

She will play and discuss new piano publications during the free session sponsored by the Marin Music Teachers' Association.

Car Rolls Down 450-Foot Cliff; Woman 'Serious'

A 20-year-old Sausalito woman was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital after the car in which she was a passenger ran off Shoreline Highway and rolled down a 450-foot cliff.

The woman, Michael E. Sims, of 507 Eastrby Street, suffered a cut scalp, a possible broken right finger and two broken legs, according to the hospital.

The driver, George Christopher Chandler, 27, of the same address, was not injured in the incident which occurred about 3.2 miles south of the Muir Beach Overlook.

Highway patrolmen said there was no apparent reason for the accident.

Exhibit Planned

Michael W. Davis of Novato will exhibit oil paintings and water colors at the Mill Valley Public Library beginning next Tuesday through Oct. 31 from 2 to 9 p.m.

Weissich Says Bennett Still Owes Him $2,305

The man who defended William M. Bennett on two drunk charges says his former client still owes him $2,305 in legal fees.

William O. Weissich, a San Rafael attorney, filed suit last week in Marin Municipal Court against Bennett, 55, of Kentfield, a member of the state board of equalization.

The suit claims Weissich, a former Marin district attorney, performed $2,625 worth of legal work for Bennett but has been paid only $320.

Weissich represented Bennett on a 1971 drunken driving charge in which Bennett was found guilty by a jury in Marin Municipal Court, but the jury was overruled by Judge Robert A. Smallman, trying the case.

Weissich also handled a charge of drunkenness in public stemming from a 1971 arrest of Bennett in Sausalito. After winning a change of venue to San Jose, Bennett pleaded no contest and was fined $35.

The fee dispute between Bennett and Weissich is not the first disagreement the two have had. Weissich last year accused Bennett of preparing a $2 million false arrest suit against Sausalito police, then typing Weissich's name on top.

The suit was dismissed by a Marin Superior Court Judge on grounds Bennett purposely failed to show up at a pretrial hearing.

Fire Causes $8,500 Damage To Home

Fire did damage estimated at $8,500 to the home of Dale Cochran at 2805 Topaz Drive in the Bahia section of Novato at 7:19 a.m. yesterday.

The fire started in the laundry room, probably from combustible material near a heater, firemen reported. The damage was listed at $5,000 to the house and $3,500 to the contents.

Hostage Treated 'Like A Lady'

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — A U.S. woman official freed from a 13-day kidnap ordeal at the hands of leftist guerrillas says she was treated "like a lady and a diplomat" and grew to like her courteous captors.

"We hostages got to know them and even to like them a little under the necessity of sharing food and water," U.S. Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison said.

The seven guerrillas ended their siege at the Venezuelan Consulate last night, freeing their seven hostages unharmed and flying off to asylum in Panama.

In Panama City, mustached guerrilla chief Radames Mendez Vargas arrived with his ragtag band and said, "A war is not lost with one battle. There will be other actions against the Dominican government."

Miss Hutchison, a 47-year-old native of Newark, Del., told a late night news conference she "never thought they'd carry out their promise and shoot us."

"They were very courteous to me and the other two ladies," she said. "They treated me like a lady and like a diplomat."

Miss Hutchison, wearing a red evening gown and blue brooch, chain-smoked cigarettes while talking with reporters at the home of U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch, but otherwise appeared calm.

She burst into tears, however, when embassy employees later came in to hug her.

Miss Hutchison said the small room the hostages were kept in was "claustrophobic." The Dominican government cut off electricity and water to the building for most of the siege, but allowed daily food deliveries.

The guerrillas kidnaped her as she drove to work Sept. 27 and took her to the consulate. They quickly captured the building and seized six other hostages — two Venezuelan diplomats, a Spanish priest and three Dominican employees.

The leftists demanded a $1 million ransom, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe passage abroad. They threatened to kill a hostage every two hours to press demands, but let four deadlines pass without any slayings.

President Joaquin Balaguer offered the guerrillas one "final and definitive" offer Monday night: a flight out of the country in exchange for the captives.

Miss Hutchison praised the U.S., Venezuelan and Spanish ambassadors for their negotiations with the guerrillas on behalf of the hostages and said she was "especially grateful" for the efforts of Balaguer.

The kidnapers' first two choices for asylum — Mexico and Peru — turned them down. Panama finally agreed to take the leftists "to help the Dominican government end this unfortunate situation."

Dictionary Helps British With American Words

LONDON (UPI) — The British schoolboy got a new dictionary today to help him translate American.

The third edition of the Oxford School dictionary includes such strange American as elevator (lift), movie (cinema), candy (sweets) and dime (4.375 pence).

Perhaps unnecessarily, the new school dictionary tells children the meaning of space-age terms such as blast-off, booster, launching pad and splashdown. It also defines hijack, crossfire and escalate.

The new words among the 25,740 entries do provide a clue to shifting British styles of life, besides the "many more American words and meanings which are now met with," the publisher said.

Equal Live Music Request Made

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has asked the city to grant permission for equal amounts of live music to be featured at the Old Mill and Sweetwater taverns on Throckmorton Avenue.

At present the Sweetwater can have music and the Old Mill cannot. The city council will review the situation at a special meeting next Thursday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

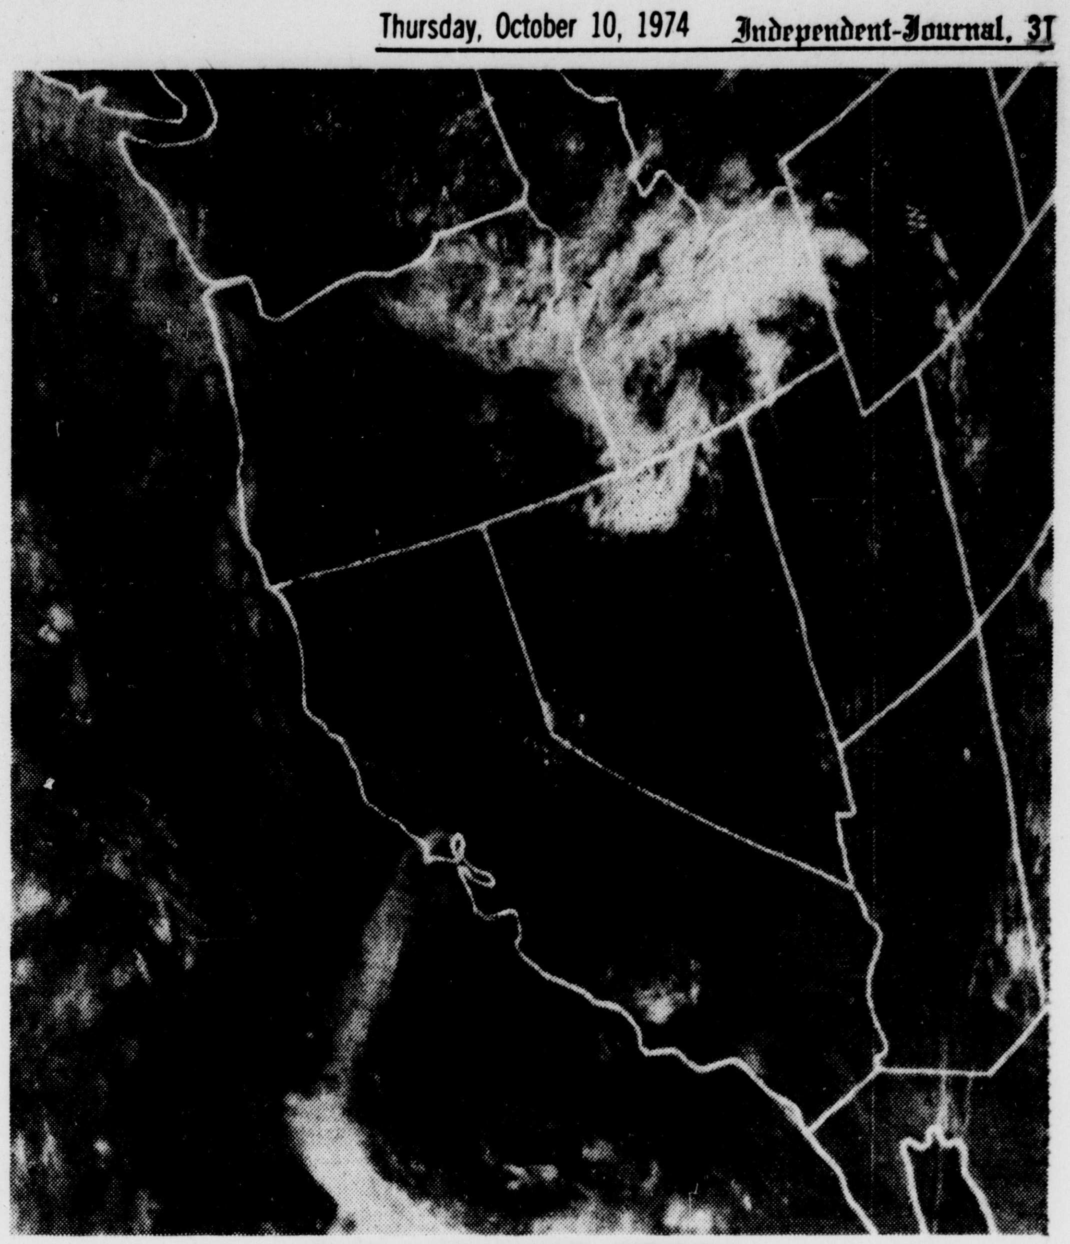
Also at its Monday meeting the chamber asked the city to provide some kind of replacement parking to make up for spaces which might be lost if the city goes through with a proposal to rearrange the bus depot parking lot.

Election Slated In Harmer Seat

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has called a special election to fill the state Senate seat left vacant when Sen. John Harmer was appointed lieutenant governor.

In making the announcement yesterday Reagan endorsed the bid of Assemblyman Newton R. Russell, R-Tujunga, to fill the 21st senatorial district post.

Reagan set the primary election for Dec. 10. A runoff election will be held Jan. 7 if no candidate receives 50 per cent of the vote in the primary.



THE MOVING STORM

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration photo taken yesterday morning shows a storm over southern Idaho. It is the same storm that brought thunder showers to California Monday. A circulation system is off the southern California coast but only fair weather clouds are associated with it. (UPI Telephoto)

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Minor Sore Throat Rarely Needs Concern, Treatment

A minor sore throat in a healthy person seldom requires concern or treatment. The best advice I can give is to lay low for two or three days, get at least eight hours sleep, limit your social activities and cut down on tobacco and alcohol. Steam inhalations or a couple of aspirin tablets will relieve the distress and promote rest.

For years startling claims have been made for mouthwashes and gargling products as relief for minor sore throat. These products have been under fire lately.

In fact, rinsing the mouth and gargling with ordinary tap water reduces the number of oral bacteria, which shows that the effect of gargling is purely mechanical. Some people add a pinch of salt or baking soda to the water.

Gargling with hot water is more effective than with tepid or cold water but iced drinks are more soothing when the throat is sore and swallowing is painful.

If using an expensive gargle, rather than ordinary water, makes your throat feel better, use one. But you'd probably get the same results from tap water.

Gargles have little, if any effect on a strep throat, since strep throat requires at least 10 days of penicillin. Antibiotics are recommended when the person has high fever, feels toxic and can't swallow. Penicillin is a must for the person who has a history of rheumatic fever or other ailments that are triggered by streptococci.

A laboratory culture is the only way to determine if the germs causing your sore throat are streptococci, staphylococci, diplococci or viruses. On the other hand, the physician has a pretty good idea when your sore throat is more than a minor disorder.

SALIVARY STONES

Mrs. T. J. K. writes: My salivary glands are blocked due to the formation of tiny crystals. Max, my teen-age son, has the same trouble. What causes this condition?

REPLY

These are salivary calculi — tiny stones that obstruct the salivary glands. In some instances, the opening of the gland is too narrow for the crystals to pass. In other cases, the saliva is too concentrated. In your family, hereditary could be a factor. Your physician can determine which of these possibilities is to blame for your condition.

LEG SHAVING

E. G. writes: I shave my legs every other day. Will this habit stimulate more hair to grow?

REPLY

This old fallacy was popular among boys just starting to shave. They thought that the more they shaved, the more hair would sprout. Growth of the hair is a perfectly natural process that has nothing to do with the frequency of shaving. When the legs are shaved, stubble forms and gives the impression that hair growth is stimulated.

LIQUOR CURE

A reader writes: Someone told my diabetic husband that drinking rum or scotch will burn up his excess sugar. I can't believe this is true. Is it?

REPLY

No. The body treats alcohol as it does other carbohydrates. Diabetics can have an occasional drink, but the calories and grams must be incorporated into their diet.

DIGITALIS SIDE EFFECT

P. T. L. writes: I have to take digitalis all the time. Is there any danger that this drug will slow down my pulse to a dangerous level?

REPLY

Yes, and when this occurs, your physician will cut the dosage or have you stop taking the drug for a few days. Slow pulse associated with nausea is a sign of digitalis intoxication.

HOUSEHOLD HEPATITIS

A reader writes: My neighbor has hepatitis. Would I be asking for trouble if I paid her a visit?

REPLY

You may visit your friend, but avoid personal contact with her. Don't use her personal toilet articles or dishes.

TOMORROW: Brain research.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Heavy Winter Due, Scientist Says

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The coming winter could be "very severe," according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology meteorologist.

Dr. Hurd C. Willett, admitting his prediction is based on limited information, said yesterday he expects a severely cold winter over much of the country, but relatively mild west of the Continental Divide. He said the winter may average more than six degrees colder than normal in north central and northeastern sections.

Willett said he had predicted

Hostage Treated 'Like A Lady'

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — A U.S. woman official freed from a 13-day kidnap ordeal at the hands of leftist guerrillas says she was treated "like a lady and a diplomat" and grew to like her courteous captors.

"We hostages got to know them and even to like them a little under the necessity of sharing food and water," U.S. Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison said.

The seven guerrillas ended their siege at the Venezuelan Consulate last night, freeing their seven hostages unharmed and flying off to asylum in Panama.

In Panama City, mustached guerrilla chief Radames Mendez Vargas arrived with his ragtag band and said, "A war is not lost with one battle. There will be other actions against the Dominican government."

Miss Hutchison, a 47-year-old native of Newark, Del., told a late night news conference she "never thought they'd carry out their promise and shoot us."

"They were very courteous to me and the other two ladies," she said. "They treated me like a lady and like a diplomat."

Miss Hutchison, wearing a red evening gown and blue brooch, chain-smoked cigarettes while talking with reporters at the home of U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch, but otherwise appeared calm.

She burst into tears, however, when embassy employees later came in to hug her.

Miss Hutchison said the small room the hostages were kept in was "claustrophobic." The Dominican government cut off electricity and water to the building for most of the siege, but allowed daily food deliveries.

The guerrillas kidnaped her as she drove to work Sept. 27 and took her to the the consulate. They quickly captured the building and seized six other hostages — two Venezuelan diplomats, a Spanish priest and three Dominican employees.

The leftists demanded a $1 million ransom, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe passage abroad. They threatened to kill a hostage every two hours to press demands, but let four deadlines pass without any slayings.

President Joaquin Balaguer offered the guerrillas one "final and definitive" offer Monday night: a flight out of the country in exchange for the captives.

Miss Hutchison praised the U.S., Venezuelan and Spanish ambassadors for their negotiations with the guerrillas on behalf of the hostages and said she was "especially grateful" for the efforts of Balaguer.

The kidnapers' first two choices for asylum — Mexico and Peru — turned them down. Panama finally agreed to take the leftists "to help the Dominican government end this unfortunate situation."

Dictionary Helps British With American Words

LONDON (UPI) — The British schoolboy got a new dictionary today to help him translate American.

The third edition of the Oxford School dictionary includes such strange American as elevator (lift), movie (cinema), candy (sweets) and dime (4.375 pence).

Perhaps unnecessarily, the new school dictionary tells children the meaning of space-age terms such as blast-off, booster, launching pad and splashdown. It also defines hijack, crossfire and escalate.

The new words among the 25,740 entries do provide a clue to shifting British styles of life, besides the "many more American words and meanings which are now met with," the publisher said.

Equal Live Music Request Made

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has asked the city to grant permission for equal amounts of live music to be featured at the Old Mill and Sweetwater taverns on Throckmorton Avenue.

At present the Sweetwater can have music and the Old Mill cannot. The city council will review the situation at a special meeting next Thursday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

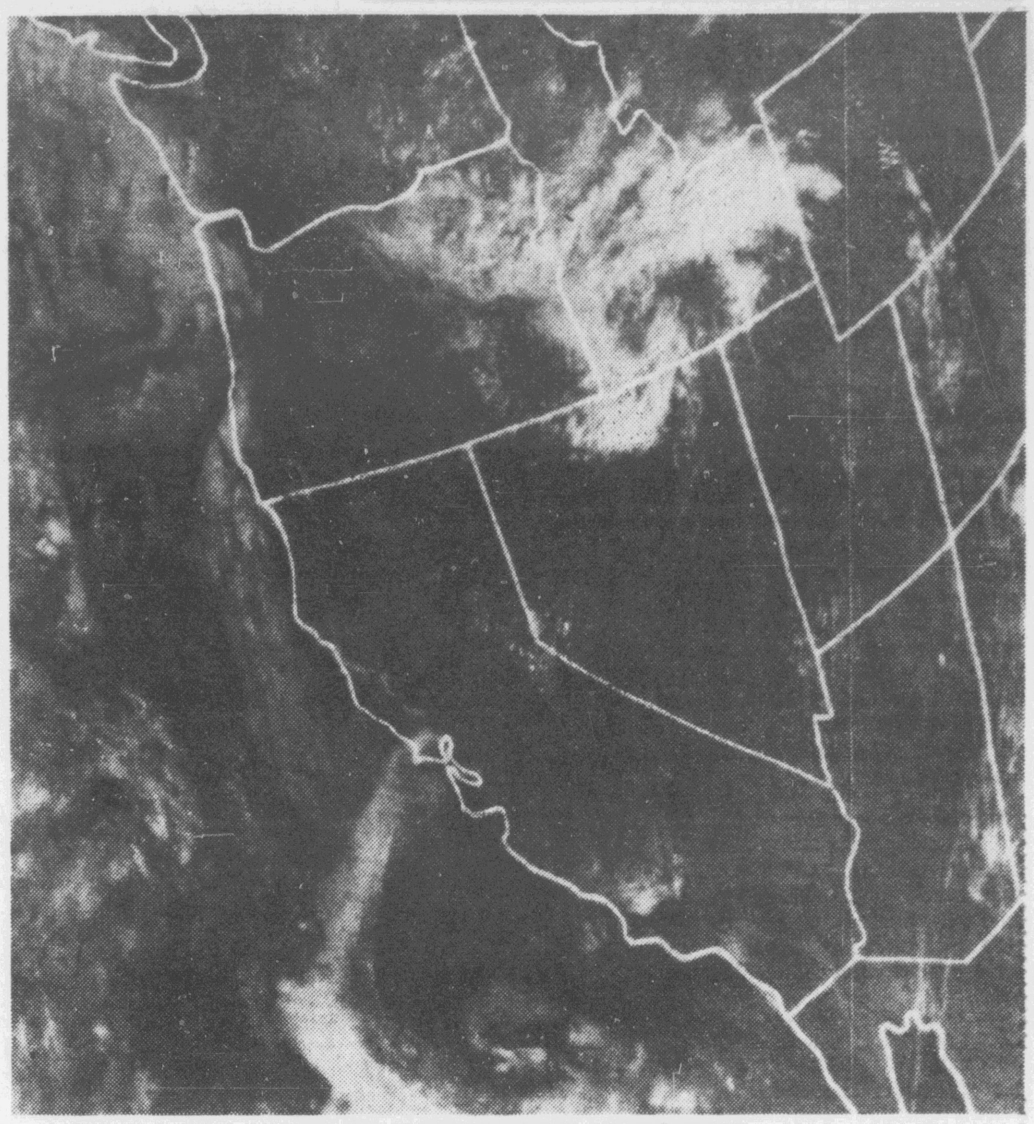
Also at its Monday meeting the chamber asked the city to provide some kind of replacement parking to make up for spaces which might be lost if the city goes through with a proposal to rearrange the bus depot parking lot.

Election Slated In Harmer Seat

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has called a special election to fill the state Senate seat left vacant when Sen. John Harmer was appointed lieutenant governor.

In making the announcement yesterday Reagan endorsed the bid of Assemblyman Newton R. Russell, R-Tijunga, to fill the 21st senatorial district post.

Reagan set the primary election for Dec. 10. A runoff election will be held Jan. 7 if no candidate receives 50 per cent of the vote in the primary.



THE MOVING STORM

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration photo taken yesterday morning shows a storm over southern Idaho. It is the same storm that brought thunder showers to California Monday. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Minor Sore Throat Rarely Needs Concern, Treatment

A minor sore throat in a healthy person seldom requires concern or treatment. The best advice I can give is to lay low for two or three days, get at least eight hours sleep, limit your social activities and cut down on tobacco and alcohol. Steam inhalations or a couple of aspirin tablets will relieve the distress and promote rest.

For years startling claims have been made for mouthwashes and gargling products as relief for minor sore throat. These products have been under fire lately.

In fact, rinsing the mouth and gargling with ordinary tap water reduces the number of oral bacteria, which shows that the effect of gargling is purely mechanical. Some people add a pinch of salt or baking soda to the water.

Gargling with hot water is more effective than with tepid or cold water but iced drinks are more soothing when the throat is sore and swallowing is painful.

If using an expensive gargle, rather than ordinary water, makes your throat feel better, use one. But you'd probably get the same results from tap water.

Gargles have little, if any effect on a strep throat, since strep throat requires at least 10 days of penicillin. Antibiotics are recommended when the person has high fever, feels toxic and can't swallow. Penicillin is a must for the person who has a history of rheumatic fever or other ailments that are triggered by streptococci.

A laboratory culture is the only way to determine if the germs causing your sore throat are streptococci, staphylococci, diplococci or viruses. On the other hand, the physician has a pretty good idea when your sore throat is more than a minor disorder.

SALIVARY STONES

Mrs. T. J. K. writes: My salivary glands are blocked due to the formation of tiny crystals. Max, my teen-age son, has the same trouble. What causes this condition?

REPLY

These are salivary calculi — tiny stones that obstruct the salivary glands. In some instances, the opening of the gland is too narrow for the crystals to pass. In other cases, the saliva is too concentrated. In your family, hereditary could be a factor. Your physician may be able to determine which of these possibilities is to blame for your condition.

LEG SHAVING

E. G. writes: I shave my legs every other day. Will this habit stimulate more hair to grow?

REPLY

This old fallacy was popular among boys just starting to shave. They thought that the more they shaved, the more hair would sprout. Growth of the hair is a perfectly natural process that has nothing to do with the frequency of shaving. When the legs are shaved, stubble forms and gives the impression that hair growth is stimulated.

LIQUOR CURE

A reader writes: Someone told my diabetic husband that drinking rum or scotch will burn up his excess sugar. I can't believe this is true. Is it?

REPLY

No. The body treats alcohol as it does other carbohydrates. Diabetics can have an occasional drink, but the calories and grams must be incorporated into their diet.

DIGITALIS SIDE EFFECT

P. T. L. writes: I have to take digitalis all the time. Is there any danger that this drug will slow down my pulse to a dangerous level?

REPLY

Yes, and when this occurs, your physician will cut the dosage or have you stop taking the drug for a few days. Slow pulse associated with nausea is a sign of digitalis intoxication.

HOUSEHOLD HEPATITIS

A reader writes: My neighbor has hepatitis. Would I be asking for trouble if I paid her a visit?

REPLY

You may visit your friend, but avoid personal contact with her. Don't use her personal toilet articles or dishes.

TOMORROW: Brain research.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

He said the winter may average more than six degrees colder than normal in north central and northeastern sections.

NOTEBOOKS FOUND — Leonardo da Vinci's jottings, copyings and technical drawings have surfaced after a mistake that miscatalogued them in Spain's Royal Library for 135 years.

(Christian Science Monitor Photo)

Around the middle of the last century, a clerk at work in the Royal Library of Spain nodded for a moment. In that moment he made a tiny mistake, a mistake that muddled up the library's records for the next 135 years.

Instead of cataloguing two red leather volumes as Aa 119 and Aa 120, he wrote them down as Aa 19 and Aa 20. And so two notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci's jottings, copyings, technical drawings, and diagrams were as good as lost. And with them proof that we of the 20th century are not as clever as we thought. Leonardo was 500 years ahead of us in describing, for instance, one use of ball bearings we didn't think of until the 1920's.

His discussions of tides and of flying birds, instructions on such matters as making one church bell sound like four, building a fortress or a canal, were all shut away from the world by that small cataloguing error.

Then in June, 1965, a young American was using the library to study medieval sonnets. He noticed something fishy about those catalog numbers and asked to see the books to which they referred.

"I recognized them," Dr. Jules Piccus said, still a little awed after nine years. "I had da Vinci's books in my hand."

Da Vinci left all his papers to his pupil, Francisco Melzi, who in turn bequeathed them to his son, Orazio. Orazio was dim enough and unappreciative enough to give them all away.

Some found their way to England and some to France. Three (the Madrid Codices) ended up at the Royal Court of Spain, where they were bound into two red-leather volumes.

About 1830 they were transferred to the Royal (now the National) Library, where they were miscatalogued by that sleepy clerk.

After their long spell in the darkness, the Madrid Codices are seeing the light of day — with a vengeance.

McGraw-Hill, the New York publishers, made an arrangement with the Spanish Ministry of Education to print them in facsimile, and seven years ago the notebooks began a secret, highly dramatic journey with a Guardia Civil escort. Their destination was a printing works in Lucerne, Switzerland, where they were kept under close guard.

Now the facisimiles are finished. For readers in search of culture, prestige, or financial investment, $750 will bring a five-volume, leatherbound, numbered set. Of course there may well be none left to buy — after a thousand had been printed the plates were destroyed.

Dr. Silvio A. Bedini, director, National Museum of History and Technology in Washington, D.C., persuaded Madrid that 14 of the original pages should be shown in the United States.

The pages can be seen at the institution hanging in their glass cases, meticulously protected against theft, damage, and the effects of light.

The day before the exhibition opened, Prof. Ludwig H. Heydenreich of the University of Munich, explained to an invited audience what makes the Madrid Codices important.

In his other writings Leonardo often mentioned a book on the science of mechanics. Only a few pages that might have come from it were known. But now in Codex Madrid I, we have its first draft, full of notes and working drawings "precise and clear down to the smallest details."

The Codex contains still more proof that this 15th-century genius possessed a remarkable degree of 20th century knowledge.

It included a surprise for Dr. Preston Basset, former president of the Sperry Gyroscope Company, who said:

"My greatest shock in looking over the da Vinci sketches was the balls nested around a conical pivot. When we were developing our blind-flying gyro instruments in the 1920's . . . we thought we had an innovation with our conical pivot ball bearing, but it is a dead-ringer of da Vinci's sketch!"

A diagram of a crude bicycle puts in an appearance in one of da Vinci's notebooks (the Codex Atlanticus).

While de Vinci was filling these notebooks with information about ball bearings and military architecture, and planning to build a canal, he was also painting his incredibly moving Last Supper (1495-1498).

By 1975 the 14 pages will have been returned to Spain. They probably will not leave the country again soon.

Of course, one glimpse of Leonardo's Virgin of the Rocks, or the Mona Lisa, or the Last Supper, would move most of us more surely than hours spent over the Madrid Codices.

All the same, anything is important and exciting that make us aware of a man who refused to impose limits on himself. He is recognized as the man who refused to believe that a great painter couldn't be a great scientist and that a man of the 15th century couldn't think 20th-century thoughts. Sigmund Freud compared him to one "who woke too early in the darkness, while the others were all asleep."

Da Vinci left all his papers to his pupil, Francisco Melzi, who in turn bequeathed them to his son, Orazio. Orazio was dim enough and unappreciative enough to give them all away.

Some found their way to England and some to France. Three (the Madrid Codices) ended up at the Royal Court of Spain, where they were bound into two red-leather volumes.

About 1830 they were transferred to the Royal (now the National) Library, where they were miscatalogued by that sleepy clerk.

After their long spell in the darkness, the Madrid Codices are seeing the light of day — with a vengeance.

McGraw-Hill, the New York publishers, made an arrangement with the Spanish Ministry of Education to print them in facsimile, and seven years ago the notebooks began a secret, highly dramatic journey with a Guardia Civil escort. Their destination was a printing works in Lucerne, Switzerland, where they were kept under close guard.

Now the facisimiles are finished. For readers in search of culture, prestige, or financial investment, $750 will bring a five-volume, leatherbound, numbered set. Of course there may well be none left to buy — after a thousand had been printed the plates were destroyed.

Dr. Silvio A. Bedini, director, National Museum of History and Technology in Washington, D.C., persuaded Madrid that 14 of the original pages should be shown in the United States.

The pages can be seen at the institution hanging in their glass cases, meticulously protected against theft, damage, and the effects of light.

The day before the exhibition opened, Prof. Ludwig H. Heydenreich of the University of Munich, explained to an invited audience what makes the Madrid Codices important.

In his other writings Leonardo often mentioned a book on the science of mechanics. Only a few pages that might have come from it were known. But now in Codex Madrid I, we have its first draft, full of notes and working drawings "precise and clear down to the smallest details."

The Codex contains still more proof that this 15th-century genius possessed a remarkable degree of 20th century knowledge.

It included a surprise for Dr. Preston Basset, former president of the Sperry Gyroscope Company, who said:

"My greatest shock in looking over the da Vinci sketches was the balls nested around a conical pivot. When we were developing our blind-flying gyro instruments in the 1920's . . . we thought we had an innovation with our conical pivot ball bearing, but it is a dead-ringer of da Vinci's sketch!"

A diagram of a crude bicycle puts in an appearance in one of da Vinci's notebooks (the Codex Atlanticus).

While de Vinci was filling these notebooks with information about ball bearings and military architecture, and planning to build a canal, he was also painting his incredibly moving Last Supper (1495-1498).

By 1975 the 14 pages will have been returned to Spain. They probably will not leave the country again soon.

Of course, one glimpse of Leonardo's Virgin of the Rocks, or the Mona Lisa, or the Last Supper, would move most of us more surely than hours spent over the Madrid Codices.

All the same, anything is important and exciting that make us aware of a man who refused to impose limits on himself. He is recognized as the man who refused to believe that a great painter couldn't be a great scientist and that a man of the 15th century couldn't think 20th-century thoughts. Sigmund Freud compared him to one "who woke too early in the darkness, while the others were all asleep."

A's To Enter World Series Mired In A Batting Slump

Jackson Ailing But Will Play Against Dodgers

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oakland A's go after their third straight World Series championship with ailing Reggie Jackson and the team's other erstwhile sluggers in a slump.

But the resourceful A's manage somehow to score, and they still have magnificent pitching to use against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Both were apparent yesterday in the 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles which gave Oakland the American League pennant, three games to one.

The A's scored their first run on four consecutive walks in the fifth inning and another in the seventh on their lone hit, a double by Jackson following another of the 11 walks off Mike Cuellar and Ross Grimsley.

Winning pitcher Jim (Catfish) Hunter and reliever Rollie Fingers held the Orioles to five hits, with Baltimore finally ending a 30-inning scoring drought on Boog Powell's ninth inning hit.

The A's pitching is what impressed Earl Weaver, the Baltimore manager. He predicted it would enable Oakland to join the 1936-39 and the 1949-53 New York Yankees as the only teams ever to win three World Series in a row.

"Pitching dominated the playoffs," Weaver said. "But that's the way we got into it, the way they got into it, and the way they're going to win the World Series."

After banging three home runs to beat Hunter 6-3 in the series opener, the Orioles scored only one more run. Through the fifth inning of the final game, they had gone 15 innings without advancing a runner beyond first base.

The A's weren't much better at the plate as they battled a Baltimore pitching staff which Oakland owner Charles O. Finley had feared would be tough to beat.

Jackson, playing the final three games as a designated hitter while hobbled with a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg, had two hits in the four games.

Oakland's other three top run-producers, all of whom knocked in 73 runs or more during the regular season, didn't fare much better.

Sal Bando did have two homers among his three hits, and his first homer won the third game 1-0. Joe Rudi was limited to two hits and Gene Tenace went 0-for-11.

Ironically, it was the hitless Tenace who drew the fifth inning walk off Cuellar which forced home the first run yesterday.

Just before the game, manager Alvin Dark had observed: "The thing about our ball club is that some way, somehow, we're going to find a way to score."

The A's, who return home today, held a victory dinner in Baltimore last night after a relatively mild clubhouse celebration.

"You don't have the hoopla you had before," Jackson said of the post-game scene. "Maybe it's because we were expected to win. If we don't, we're bums."

But he added: "If we win the World Series again, then we'll howl an hour or so."

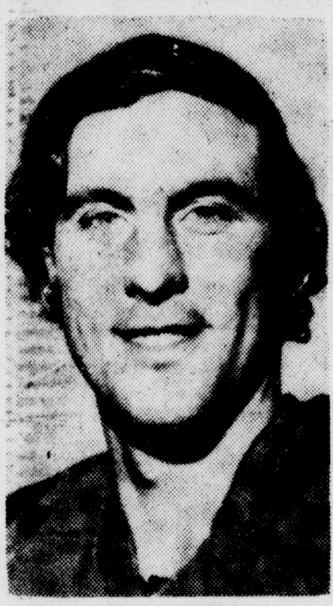
A Lesson On Punting

The 40 Marin County Goal Rushers who showed up for last night's meeting found out that the kicking part in pro football is a much thought out portion of the game.

The teacher for the session at Holiday Inn in Terra Linda was 49er punter Tom Wittum, the best in the NFL's national conference last year in his rookie season. (He sat out his first year in 1972 on the taxi squad.)



TOM WITTUM

It was a very interesting time for the 49er boosters group and quite educational for the 15 or so youngsters who got some good tips on punting from one of the best men in the business.

The 24-year-old kicker was drafted eighth in 1972 out of Northern Illinois University and he and his wife Susan still live at Round Lake, Ill., in the off season. He teaches high school physical education and driver education at nearby Gray's Lake, Ill.

Wittum was a three-sport athlete at Round Lake High, winning letters in football, baseball and basketball. A third baseman, he turned down a contract offer from the Chicago White Sox after high school and attended Northern Illinois on a baseball scholarship. Why did he pick football instead of baseball in the pro ranks?

"I didn't get along with the White Sox people who came out to sign me," he said, adding that they wanted him to skip college and play right then. "Anyway, I've always liked football better than baseball."

THERE ARE TWO set punt formations the 49ers are using this year, depending on the defensive alignments of the opposition, as explained by Wittum. If the other team has one man deep to receive the punt, the linemen are bunched up close to one another. But if three men are back, the 49ers split their two ends wide in a slot formation.

The timing is also different on his punts out of the two formations. On the slot formation setup he takes two steps before punting the ball, and in the formation in which the linemen are in tight he takes three steps. And, he informed the boosters, the players are advised beforehand as to which side of the field he is punting toward.

"We would rather have the punt receiver move to the side catching the ball than to have the ball come straight at him."

WHEN ASKED WHAT head coach Dick Nolan told the team Monday after Sunday's 34-9 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals, Reed said Nolan's message was: "You don't really win with what you have in your head on a Sunday, you win with what's in your heart." The 49er rooters hope that message doesn't go unheeded.

When asked about the poor officiating at last week's game, a questioner wanted to know if the game officials are rated after each game. Wittum answered in the affirmative. Then booster Bebe Ford asked, "By who, the Mafia?"

Mrs. Ford is quite a 49er follower as evidenced by the personalized license plates on her car: "GO49RS."

ABOUT THE QUARTERBACK situation, Wittum said Dennis Morrison has been passing very well in practice. A replacement for Joe Reed, Morrison could be a pleasant surprise Monday night in Detroit.

At least Wittum is not lacking in confidence. "For the rest of the year we feel we could have our best season," he said.

Okay you fans, hold on to those season tickets a little longer.

Two Rookies Keep Seals From Winning

OAKLAND (AP) — Thanks to St. Louis Blues rookies Doug Palazzari and Lary Sacharuk, the St. Louis Blues managed to avoid losing their opening game of the 1974 National Hockey League season to last year's doormats, the California Golden Seals.

Palazzari and Sacharuk each scored third-period goals to lift the Blues to a 4-4 tie with California before 5,812 fans at the Oakland Coliseum last night.

Palazzari scored two goals on the night. The first one evened the score at 2-2 early in the second period. His tying goal came at 10:17 of the third on a rebound from Bill Collins.

Sacharuk's goal in the final period cut St. Louis' deficit to 4-3. Brian Ogilvie, another Blues rookie, scored the other goal.

Newcomer Len Frig and veteran Stan Weir scored all four goals for California, giving the Seals a 2-1 lead in the first period and a 4-2 advantage in the third.

"I'm not disappointed," said Seals' coach Marshall Johnston, regarding the tie. "We played pretty well, but there are some things we need work on.

"I'd say for an 18-year-old, with a lot of pressure on him, Rick Hampton did a very good job," he added.

Hampton, considered a key player in the Seals' future, was credited with one assist — a long pass toward the net which Frig tipped in for the second of his two goals.

"We should have had the win," said Seals goalie Gilles Meloche. "Sacharuk surprised me," Meloche admitted. "I didn't think he could shoot that well."

Lions Favored Because They're Getting Better

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers are hurting and the Detroit Lions are getting well, which may be why the winless Lions are favored for Monday night's clash.

Jim Johnson has a bruised shoulder and toe; Mel Phillips will try to play with a cast on his broken arm; and Windlan Hall has a sprained ankle. That's three-fourths of what is supposed to be the 49ers' starting defensive backfield.

Meanwhile, it was announced yesterday that the pin may stay in Steve Spurrier's injured shoulder longer than expected and not come out tomorrow as scheduled.

Spurrier had hoped to be ready for the 49ers game against the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles Oct. 20.

DODGERS' DELIGHT — Dodgers' center fielder Jimmy Wynn smiled while waving the champagne bottle around after dousing manager Walt Alston in dressing room yesterday. Alston was happily drying his face after the Dodgers crushed Pittsburgh, 12-1, in Los Angeles to clinch the National League pennant.

(UPI Telephoto)

Good Times For Dodgers' Garvey

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The last time the Los Angeles Dodgers were in the World Series — 1966 — Steve Garvey was a freshman defensive back at Michigan State.

"I remember I used to skip lunch so I could watch the Series on TV," he said. "Those were the days when I was on the meat squad and I was bumping heads with the likes of George Webster and Clint Jones.

"This," he added with a wide grin, "is a lot more enjoyable."

Garvey, now the premier first baseman of the Dodgers, bumped some heads of his own yesterday. The 5-10, 190-pound ex-Spartan football player drilled a pair of two-run homers in a 12-1 Dodgers' romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates to give Los Angeles its first National League pennant in eight years.

With Don Sutton pitching three-hit ball for eight innings, the Dodgers polished off the Eastern Division champons three games to one.

By beating the Pirates, the Dodgers put themselves up against the Oakland A's, who have won two straight world titles.

"They're the best in baseball right now," continued Garvey, who was four for five and scored four runs yesterday. "But we want a chance to prove that we're the best."

NBC NAMES ANNOUNCERS FOR SERIES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Curt Gowdy, Tony Tubek and Vince Scully were named to do the National Broadcasting Company telecasting of all 1974 World Series games in Los Angeles.

Gowdy, Kubek and Monte Moore will handle the television chores when the series games are played in Oakland.

Jim Simpson covers the radio broadcasting play-by-play, aided by Moore in Los Angeles and Scully in Oakland.

MADDEN SAYS

Woods Helping To Improve Chargers

OAKLAND (UPI) — "It's guys like this that have turned San Diego around," says Oakland Raider Coach John Madden, pointing to Don Woods name among the top National Football League rushers.

Woods is a rookie from New Mexico Highlands who ran for 157 yards against Miami and 133 more against Philadelphia. He is third in the entire National Football League in rushing, nine yards back of O.J. Simpson, and his 7.6 yards per carry is far and away tops among the leaders.

Oakland has to call on San Diego Sunday and Madden says the Chargers are a much improved club over last season's 2-11-1 dissension-ridden club.

Dan Fouts of the Chargers is sixth among conference passers and Gary Garrison leads American Football Conference receivers with 18 catches.

"Fouts is a good accurate passer who gave us trouble last year and that was his first start," Madden said. "They had different offensive ideas last year but now they're pretty solid. They're running more and running better, particularly to the outside."

Meanwhile, the Raiders keep saying that halfback Clarence Davis, who hurt his knee badly against Cleveland last Sunday, and quarterback Ken Stabler, who banged his knee slightly, both will be ready for the Chargers.

Belvedere Netter To Face Gonzales

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — John Williams of Belvedere lost only two games in two matches yesterday to qualify for today's start of the $25,000 Almaden Vineyards Vintage Pebble Beach Senior Open Tennis Championships.

Williams may be sorry he went to even that little trouble to get into the field, however. Today he has to take on top-seeded Pancho Gonzales.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers are hurting and the Detroit Lions are getting well, which may be why the winless Lions are favored for Monday night's clash.

Jim Johnson has a bruised shoulder and toe; Mel Phillips will try to play with a cast on his broken arm; and Windlan Hall has a sprained ankle. That's three-fourths of what is supposed to be the 49ers' starting defensive backfield.

Meanwhile, it was announced yesterday that the pin may stay in Steve Spurrier's injured shoulder longer than expected and not come out tomorrow as scheduled.

Spurrier had hoped to be ready for the 49ers game against the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles Oct. 20.

Jackson Ailing But Will Play Against Dodgers

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oakland A's go after their third straight World Series championship with ailing Reggie Jackson and the team's other erstwhile sluggers in a slump.

But the resourceful A's manage somehow to score, and they still have magnificent pitching to use against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Both were apparent yesterday in the 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles which gave Oakland the American League pennant, three games to one.

The A's scored their first run on four consecutive walks in the fifth inning and another in the seventh on their lone hit, a double by Jackson following another of the 11 walks off Mike Cuellar and Ross Grimsley.

Winning pitcher Jim (Catfish) Hunter and reliever Rollie Fingers held the Orioles to five hits, with Baltimore finally ending a 30-inning scoring drought on Boog Powell's ninth inning hit.

The A's pitching is what impressed Earl Weaver, the Baltimore manager. He predicted it would enable Oakland to join the 1936-39 and the 1949-53 New York Yankees as the only teams ever to win three World Series in a row.

"Pitching dominated the playoffs," Weaver said. "But that's the way we got into it, the way they got into it, and the way they're going to win the World Series."

After banging three home runs to beat Hunter 6-3 in the series opener, the Orioles scored only one more run. Through the fifth inning of the final game, they had gone 15 innings without advancing a runner beyond first base.

The A's weren't much better at the plate as they battled a Baltimore pitching staff which Oakland owner Charles O. Finley had feared would be tough to beat.

Jackson, playing the final three games as a designated hitter while hobbled with a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg, had two hits in the four games.

Oakland's other three top run-producers, all of whom knocked in 73 runs or more during the regular season, didn't fare much better.

Sal Bando did have two homers among his three hits, and his first homer won the third game 1-0. Joe Rudi was limited to two hits and Gene Tenace went 0-for-11.

Ironically, it was the hitless Tenace who drew the fifth inning walk off Cuellar which forced home the first run yesterday.

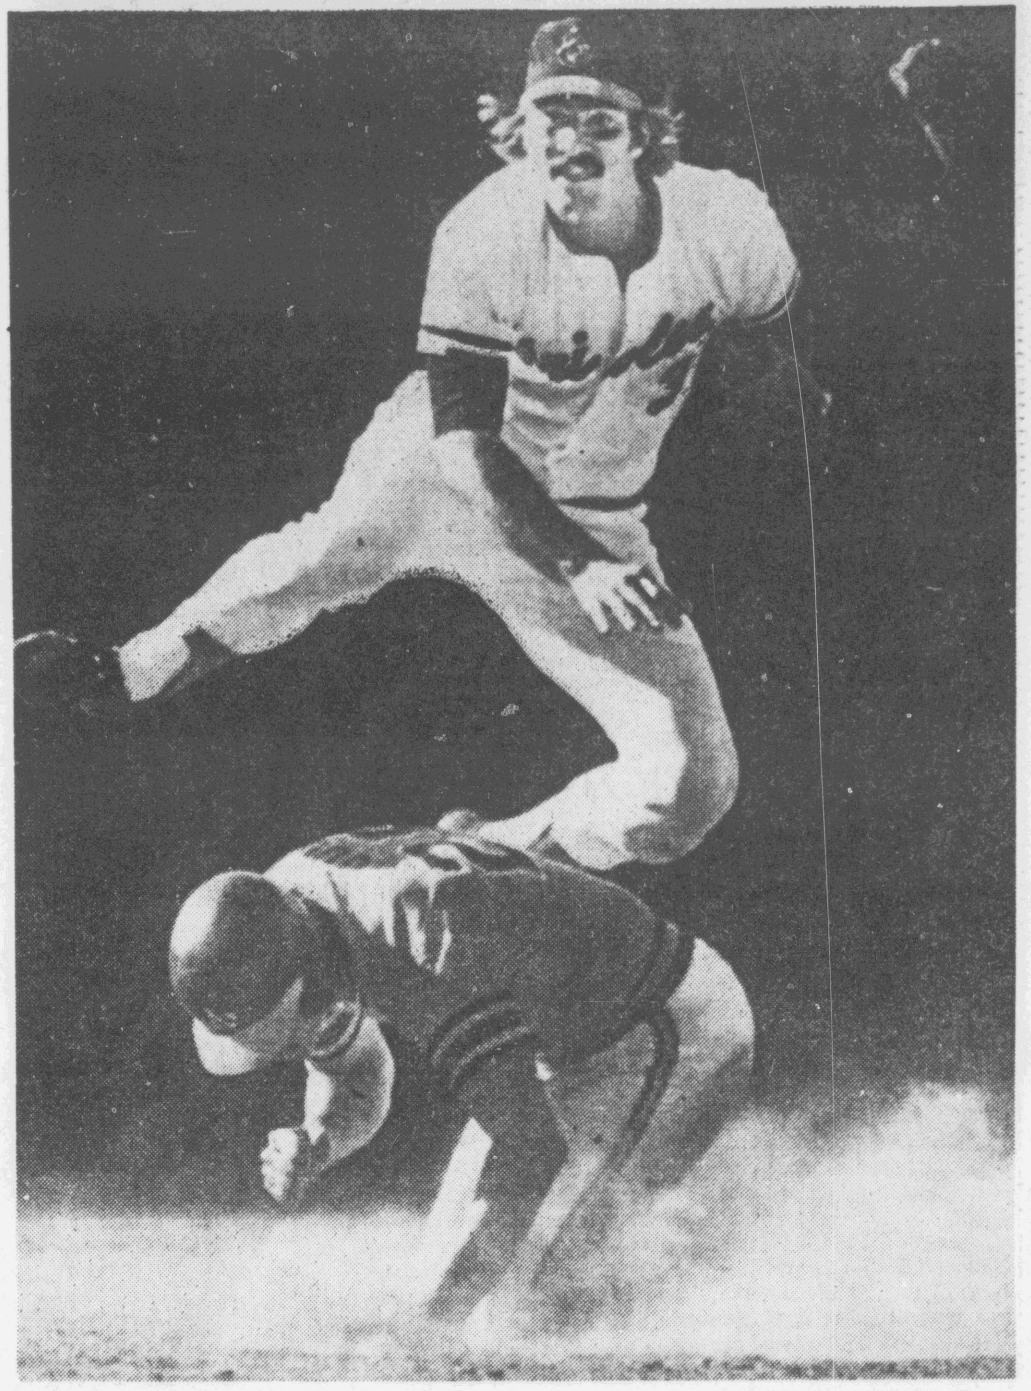
Just before the game, manager Alvin Dark had observed: "The thing about our ball club is that some way, somehow, we're going to find a way to score."

The A's, who return home today, held a victory dinner in Baltimore last night after a relatively mild clubhouse celebration.

"You don't have the hoopla you had before," Jackson said of the post-game scene. "Maybe it's because we were expected to win. If we don't, we're bums."

But he added: "If we win the World Series again, then we'll howl an hour or so."

See A's box score on inside page.



TWIN KILLING — Orioles' shortstop Mark Belanger hurdled A's runner Joe Rudi after making forceout at second base and throwing to first to complete a double play. Action took place in the seventh inning yesterday at Baltimore.

DODGERS' DELIGHT — Dodgers' center fielder Jimmy Wynn smiled while waving the champagne bottle around after dousing manager Walt Alston in dressing room yesterday. Alston was happily drying his face after the Dodgers crushed Pittsburgh, 12-1, in Los Angeles to clinch the National League pennant.

MADDEN SAYS

Woods Helping To Improve Chargers

OAKLAND (UPI) — "It's guys like this that have turned San Diego around," says Oakland Raider Coach John Madden, pointing to Don Woods name among the top National Football League rushers.

Woods is a rookie from New Mexico Highlands who ran for 157 yards against Miami and 133 more against Philadelphia. He is third in the entire National Football League in rushing, nine yards back of O.J. Simpson, and his 7.6 yards per carry is far and away tops among the leaders.

Oakland has to call on San Diego Sunday and Madden says the Chargers are a much improved club over last season's 2-11-1 dissension-ridden club.

Dan Fouts of the Chargers is sixth among conference passers and Gary Garrison leads American Football Conference receivers with 18 catches.

"Fouts is a good accurate passer who gave us trouble last year and that was his first start," Madden said. "They had different offensive ideas last year but now they're pretty solid. They're running more and running better, particularly to the outside."

Meanwhile, the Raiders keep saying that halfback Clarence Davis, who hurt his knee badly against Cleveland last Sunday, and quarterback Ken Stabler, who banged his knee slightly, both will be ready for the Chargers.

Belvedere Netter To Face Gonzales

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — John Williams of Belvedere lost only two games in two matches yesterday to qualify for today's start of the $25,000 Almaden Vineyards Vintage Pebble Beach Senior Open Tennis Championships.

Williams may be sorry he went to even that little trouble to get into the field, however. Today he has to take on top-seeded Pancho Gonzales.

Good Times For Dodgers' Garvey

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The last time the Los Angeles Dodgers were in the World Series — 1966 — Steve Garvey was a freshman defensive back at Michigan State.

"I remember I used to skip lunch so I could watch the Series on TV," he said. "Those were the days when I was on the meat squad and I was bumping heads with the likes of George Webster and Clint Jones.

"This," he added with a wide grin, "is a lot more enjoyable."

Garvey, now the premier first baseman of the Dodgers, bumped some heads of his own yesterday. The 5-10, 190-pound ex-Spartan football player drilled a pair of two-run homers in a 12-1 Dodgers' romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates to give Los Angeles its first National League pennant in eight years.

With Don Sutton pitching three-hit ball for eight innings, the Dodgers polished off the Eastern Division champons three games to one.

By beating the Pirates, the Dodgers put themselves up against the Oakland A's, who have won two straight world titles.

"They're the best in baseball right now," continued Garvey, who was four for five and scored four runs yesterday. "But we want a chance to prove that we're the best."

One More Setback For WFL

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The troubled World Football League got some more bad news last night when the league's best franchise left three-quarters of the 70,000-seat Legion Field in Birmingham empty.

The WFL, which had to drop two franchises and move two others recently because of poor support, pointed to Birmingham as its pride and joy. The Americans once drew 55,000 fans in a rainstorm.

But after back-to-back upset losses to Portland and the Hawaiians, only 25,621 fans showed up at Legion Field last night to watch Birmingham gain revenge on Portland 30-8.

The Storm jumped off to an 8-0 lead before Birmingham erupted for 15 points in the second quarter and then added another 15 in the second half while shutting off Portland's offense.

Charley Harraway and Joe Profit plunged for touchdowns and George Mira threw seven yards to Dennis Holman for one TD and 13 yards to Jim Bishop for another for the Americans, now 12-3. Portland's only score came on an eight-yard pass from Pete Beathard to Robert Holmes.

The victory left the Americans one game behind the Central Division-leading Memphis Southmen, who beat the Charlotte Hornets 27-23.

Southmen 27, Hornets 23

Danny White threw TD passes of 13 and 19 yards to Edward Marshall in the final period to lift the Southmen over Charlotte, playing its first home game since being transplanted from New York two weeks ago.

Blazers 45, Fire 17

Running back Tommy Reamon threw a 60-yard TD pass to Matt Maslowski and set up two more scores with long runs as the Blazers blasted Chicago to move two games up on Charlotte in the WFL East.

Hawaiians 25, Bell 22

Al Davis' third TD of the game on an eight-yard pass from Norris Weese with 2:45 left carried the surging Hawaiians past Philadelphia.

"After all, there's more to life than a little white ball," he said.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

The 50-Yard Lob

By LEE TREVINO

Hubert Green is the best I ever saw on little pitch shots that require backspin. Hubie can make a ball back up from 30 yards away by choking down on his club.

A mistake many players make with short irons (wedge, 9-8-7) is in taking a full motion. The trouble is that they decelerate in the hitting area and the ball takes off like a knuckler. It may wobble off anywhere, with no control. Others try to cut across the ball, but they don't hit it hard enough to get any "bite" on it.

It's an easy shot that's just as easy to mess up by trying something fancy.

Choke down on the grip about four inches. Don't take a big riffle — cut back 50 per cent on the backswing — then accelerate through the ball.

Place a shag bag out 40 or 50 yards from the practice tee. Take your normal swing and observe the results. Putrid, eh?

So cut that backswing in half, and hit the ball crisp and firm. From 40 to 60 yards, more clubhead speed means more spin and control. It'll end floaters and "fat" shots.

Reuss in the third inning and Ken Brett in the fifth — staked Sutton to a 5-0 lead. As it turned out, the Dodgers' $114,000 right-hander needed only the first shot.

Sutton has won 11 straight games (he gave up only one run in 17 innings against the Pirates in the playoff series) and has 15 victories in 16 decisions since July 25.

He won 19 games during the regular season despite 14 starts — and nine weeks — without a triumph.

"Before the game, I didn't think that I was going to have to pitch as well against them as I did on Saturday," noted Sutton, who stopped Pittsburgh 3-0 on four singles in the playoff series opener.

"I felt more relaxed. I thought if I could get by the first inning I'd be all right."

"I don't even want to think about Oakland," said Jimmy Wynn, whose run-scoring double in the first inning scored Davey Lopes to get Los Angeles in front 1-0. "I'll start thinking about them on Friday."

The Dodgers' win was a complete turnabout after a 7-0 Pittsburgh blitz Tuesday in which the Pirates collected 10 hits and Danny Murtaugh, the 57-year-old Pirate skipper, was asked about reports of his retirement from baseball.

"I might have something to say about that within a week or two or three days," he replied.

Willie Stargell accounted for Pittsburgh's only run on Walter O'Malley's 71st birthday with a seventh-inning homer off Sutton.

The Dodgers will go with 20-game winner Andy Messersmith against the A's in the World Series opener here Saturday at 4 p.m. EDT and use Sutton in the second contest Sunday.

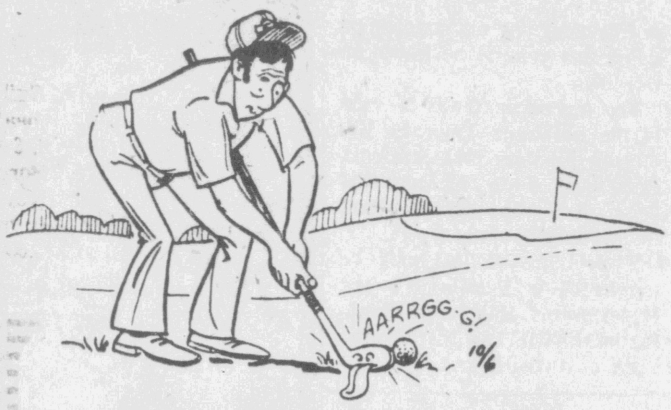
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



The 50-Yard Lob

By LEE TREVINO

Hubert Green is the best I ever saw on little pitch shots that require backspin. Hubie can make a ball back up from 30 yards away by choking down on his club.

A mistake many players make with short irons (wedge, 9-8-7) is in taking a full motion. The trouble is that they decelerate in the hitting area and the ball takes off like a knuckler. It may wobble off anywhere, with no control. Others try to cut across the ball, but they don't hit it hard enough to get any "bite" on it.

It's an easy shot that's just as easy to mess up by trying something fancy.

Choke down on the grip about four inches. Don't take a big riffle — cut back 50 per cent on the backswing — then accelerate through the ball.

Place a shag bag out 40 or 50 yards from the practice tee. Take your normal swing and observe the results. Putrid, eh?

So cut that backswing in half, and hit the ball crisp and firm. From 40 to 60 yards, more clubhead speed means more spin and control. It'll end floaters and "fat" shots.

PREP NOTES

Are San Marin Gridders As Good As Record Indicates?

By DAVID EINSTEIN

San Marin High School's football team had a dream of a preseason, but it was followed by a rough awakening in the Marin County Athletic League season opener last Friday night. Now the question is being asked, are the Mustangs as good as their first three games suggested?

With halfback Wayne Roche running wild for eight touchdowns, San Marin scored 120 points in victories over Canyon of Castro Valley, Analy of Sebastopol and Sonoma Valley. Against San Rafael, however, Roche managed only 88 yards rushing and a single TD in a 7-7 tie.

It was no secret that San Marin played a weak pre-season schedule. Just how weak is now becoming clear, and their early success may work against the Mustangs in the MCAL.

"There's no doubt we've been hurt by having to play teams that aren't as good as teams in our league," says first-year coach John Treu. "We did things in earlier games that didn't hurt us, that did hurt us against San Rafael.

Treu had no control over the schedule: it was drawn up two years ago when he was just an assistant coach under Bob Martin. If he had his choice, Treu says, "I'd have teams that are more on a par with teams in the MCAL."

Other Marin teams, notably Terra Linda, Redwood and San Rafael, play strong pre-season schedules year after year. It hurts them sometimes in the won-lost column, but it gives them an advantage when the league season starts. And they avoid the kind of distasteful surprise that San Marin got against San Rafael.

Coach Don Lucas of Terra Linda schedules strong non-league opponents because, "I like the competitive aspect of it, to be very frank. If you play good competition, the kids go out and meet the challenge."

On the other hand, playing a super team can get you roughed up. "Not so much by injuries, but because it's physically taxing," says Lucas. He gave as an example Terra Linda's final pre-season game, a 21-6 loss to Livermore.

"We didn't have any idea how strong Livermore was, but now we know."

One advantage to playing weak teams, says Lucas, is that it gives you a chance to look at all your players without getting ruined. But that, too, can backfire. When you finally face a tough opponent, "The kids who have been playing half a ball game will have their tongues hanging out." It remains to be seen whether early success spoils San Marin. The Mustangs' next three opponents are Redwood, Tamalpais and Marin Catholic, none a contender, so it won't be until Nov. 2 that Treu will find out how good his team really is. On that day, San Marin plays the powerful Novato Hornets, in what might be a battle for the MCAL title.

Warrior Guards May Move To Frontcourt

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — That battle for guard spots on the Golden State Warriors squad may not turn out to be quite so fierce after all.

That's because with the departure of Cazzie Russell to Los Angeles and Clyde Lee to Atlanta, some of those guards are going to have to fill in at forward, too.

Phil Smith, a 6-foot-5 rookie who figures to be a good one, will move into a part-time forward role and the Warriors will keep six of the eight guards now on the squad.

The Warriors, unbeaten in National Basketball Association exhibition action, call on Portland tonight.

That unbeaten pre-season record has not given coach Al Attles much confidence.

"I don't put too much faith in the exhibition season," says Attles. "The only thing that's good is some of the younger players are getting confidence. And they're going to need it when the season starts."

Wristwrestling: Strength, Courage

By DIANE FISHER

Charles Schulz' Snoopy may not have raw strength and courage but the wristwrestling hall of fame has a place for him.

The cartoon beagle will receive his laurels for popularizing the 13th World Wristwrestling Championship Saturday in Petaluma. The hall of fame is a new addition to this year's contest. In order to be nominated, one must be a great champion or work hard toward the betterment of wristwrestling, according to tournament chief Bill Sobranes. Also included in the hall of fame will be wristwrestling artifacts such as the original world championship table.

The highlight of the day, however, will still be the matches.

There are four weight divisions for men — featherweight (150 pounds and under), lightweight (151-175), middleweight (176-200), heavyweight, 201 and over) and one open class for women.

Several wristwrestling favorites are returning to defend their titles. Among them is current heavyweight champion Bill Harrison of San Jose. Harrison has gained 55 pounds, weighing in at 323 compared to his 1973 weight of 268.

Bill says he did it on purpose because his "feet felt a little light" in last year's match.

Harrison started wristwrestling as a child against a 60-year-old man from the Phillipines who taught him the tricks of the sport. Later came the nights spent in local bars wristwrestling with friends.

Bill is not training in preparation for the championships. "My job as an iron worker keeps me in pretty good shape," he said.

Jim Dolcini of Petaluma is considered to be Harrison's toughest competition.

Dolcini has won the heavyweight title twice but missed last year's championships. If Dolcini wins the 1974 title, he would equal the record set by Duane Benedix.

The women's championship is held by Jill Edwards of Seattle, Wash. Since there are no weight classes, it is possible for a 120 pound woman to be pitted against another who weighs 200, in which case the championship's motto of raw strength and courage would certainly be appropriate.

The contestants come from all parts of the country. The lightest man to enter weighs 115 pounds and the heaviest weighs 334.

ABC's Wide World of Sports is televising the championships again this year to be shown on Oct. 19.

The tournament will be held in the Petaluma Veterans Memorial Building, 1094 Petaluma Boulevard South. Eliminations begin at 1 p.m. Saturday and the evening finals at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $5 and may be purchased in Petaluma at the Underground Hideaway, Radio Station KTOB, Lan Mart Coffee Shop, or at the door.

Gunshot Wound Is Fatal For Helen Maravich

HICKORY, N.C. (UPI) — Mrs. Helen Maravich, mother of basketball star Pete Maravich, died last night of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound, authorities said today.

A spokesman at the Catawba County sheriff's office said Mrs. Maravich died at Catawba Memorial Hospital after being transported from Boone where she lived. The spokesman said the death had been ruled as suicide.

Deputy Jerry Shockley said officers were summoned by Mrs. Maravich's 10-year-old daughter Diana. Her husband, Appalachian State basketball coach Press Maravich, was not at home at the time, he said.

Shockley said a .22 caliber derringer was found in the home. He said Mrs. Maravich suffered a single wound to the right side of the head.

PREP NOTES

Are San Marin Gridders As Good As Record Indicates?

By DAVID EINSTEIN

San Marin High School's football team had a dream of a preseason, but it was followed by a rough awakening in the Marin County Athletic League season opener last Friday night. Now the question is being asked, are the Mustangs as good as their first three games suggested?

With halfback Wayne Roche running wild for eight touchdowns, San Marin scored 120 points in victories over Canyon of Castro Valley, Analy of Sebastopol and Sonoma Valley. Against San Rafael, however, Roche managed only 88 yards rushing and a single TD in a 7-7 tie.

It was no secret that San Marin played a weak pre-season schedule. Just how weak is now becoming clear, and their early success may work against the Mustangs in the MCAL.

"There's no doubt we've been hurt by having to play teams that aren't as good as teams in our league," says first-year coach John Treu. "We did things in earlier games that didn't hurt us, that did hurt us against San Rafael.

Treu had no control over the schedule: it was drawn up two years ago when he was just an assistant coach under Bob Martin. If he had his choice, Treu says, "I'd have teams that are more on a par with teams in the MCAL."

Other Marin teams, notably Terra Linda, Redwood and San Rafael, play strong pre-season schedules year after year. It hurts them sometimes in the won-lost column, but it gives them an advantage when the league season starts. And they avoid the kind of distasteful surprise that San Marin got against San Rafael.

Coach Don Lucas of Terra Linda schedules strong non-league opponents because, "I like the competitive aspect of it, to be very frank. If you play good competition, the kids go out and meet the challenge."

On the other hand, playing a super team can get you roughed up. "Not so much by injuries, but because it's physically taxing," says Lucas. He gave as an example Terra Linda's final pre-season game, a 21-6 loss to Livermore.

"We didn't have any idea how strong Livermore was, but now we know."

One advantage to playing weak teams, says Lucas, is that it gives you a chance to look at all your players without getting ruined. But that, too, can backfire. When you finally face a tough opponent, "The kids who have been playing half a ball game will have their tongues hanging out." It remains to be seen whether early success spoils San Marin. The Mustangs' next three opponents are Redwood, Tamalpais and Marin Catholic, none a contender, so it won't be until Nov. 2 that Treu will find out how good his team really is. On that day, San Marin plays the powerful Novato Hornets, in what might be a battle for the MCAL title.

Warrior Guards May Move To Frontcourt

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — That battle for guard spots on the Golden State Warriors squad may not turn out to be quite so fierce after all.

That's because with the departure of Cazzie Russell to Los Angeles and Clyde Lee to Atlanta, some of those guards are going to have to fill in at forward, too.

Phil Smith, a 6-foot-5 rookie who figures to be a good one, will move into a part-time forward role and the Warriors will keep six of the eight guards now on the squad.

The Warriors, unbeaten in National Basketball Association exhibition action, call on Portland tonight.

That unbeaten pre-season record has not given coach Al Attles much confidence.

"I don't put too much faith in the exhibition season," says Attles. "The only thing that's good is some of the younger players are getting confidence. And they're going to need it when the season starts."

Q. If I were to sell my 3,000 shares of American Express Income Fund they would, despite reinvestment of all distributions, be worth less than I paid. It occurs to me by plowing back distributions, I am compounding a bad situation. I have adequate income and am interested in preserving capital. Should my quarterly distributions be invested in another fund? — R.H.

A. Although American Express Income Fund has performed better than average in declining periods, it has failed to do as well as average in the past decade. The yield, however, is currently 7.6 per cent from a good-quality balanced portfolio. Future distributions should be used to buy no-load Johnston Fund, an excellent long-term performer. This move will also help spread your risk.

Q. I have 500 shares of Champion International (NYSE) costing 11⅞. Would you advise me to switch or do you think the stock has potential? — A.C.

A. These shares, now trading at about 4X projected 1974 results (the lowest P/E in a decade), have thoroughly discounted the slump in the building industry and declining lumber prices. Building materials accounted for 53 per cent of sales and 65 per cent of operating profits in 1973. As the company is currently set up, some 37 per cent of its building products volume is purchased from others, which tends to reduce profit margins. This situation should be corrected, however, by the $1.25 billion 5-year planned capital expansion program, designed to increase capacity primarily in its building products operations.

Paper continues to be in tight supply, although some easing in demand appears to be stabilizing prices. This segment of Champion's business contributes 35 per cent of sales and 29 per cent of pre-tax earnings. Profits here should continue strong for the next several quarters, balancing any weakness in the building products area. The third major division, household furnishings, was able to widen profit margins on higher sales last year, a condition which should continue. Shares have above-average potential and should be held for higher levels.

Stock Market Continues Rally In Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Encouraged by favorable economic reports, traders and investors moved off the sidelines today to push prices sharply higher in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange, continuing a rally begun in the previous session.

A major factor in the surge was a Labor Department report wholesale prices had slowed in September, registering their slimmest gain in 11 months. Observers, however, cautioned the prices may rise in the near future because poor weather hurt some harvests and will send farm prices higher. The rise for September was 0.1 per cent, or 1.2 per cent on an annual basis.

Knoll Townhouses Are Going On Sale

Fifty-two new units of The Knoll townhouses will go on sale this weekend with a grand opening on Knollwood Road off Biscayne Drive in Peacock Gap.

Developer is Inland Steel Development Corp., the same firm that developed Quail Hill in Terra Linda. Fox & Carskadon is the exclusive agent for the project.

Prices, starting at $77,500, include carpets, built-ins, light fixtures, and garage door openers. The models have varied floor plans, overlook the fairways and greens of Peacock Gap Country Club.

The 52 new units are similar in exterior appearance but have no connection with the original 30 units of The Knoll built in 1965. G. Paul Leal, vice president at Fox & Carskadon, said the new homes are equipped with central heating and interior utilities that are different from those in the original 30 homes.

The new townhomes come in two and three bedroom models with varied floor plans, high ceilings, custom fireplaces, large view decks, raised dining rooms and formal living rooms. They have skylit baths, stairwells and kitchens, custom dressing rooms, large storage areas, laundry chutes, double garages with electric door openers. Special options include wet bars and dumb waiters.

The sales office at The Knoll will be open every afternoon seven days a week, beginning Saturday.

Sequoia Theater To Reopen As Two Theaters Next Month

Sequoia Theater in Mill Valley, which is undergoing major remodeling, will reopen next month as a unique twin-theater, showing two different movies from two separate distributors.

"All films will be top Universal products," announced Debbie Ruble, manager. The present theater seating section will be partitioned in the middle, with 450 seating on either side for a total of 900 seats.

"We hope to have double snack bars so that customers can buy tickets and enter to the right or to the left," said Mrs. Ruble. The marquee will be divided into "Sequoia I" and "Sequoia II."

One of the two theaters is scheduled to open during the first or second week in November with "Airport 1975," and the second is expected to be ready about Thanksgiving.

Adult admission will be $2.75, with no loge section.

SAN RAFAEL TRADING Company, a collection of 27 shops, will celebrate its grand opening this coming Sunday afternoon at 512 Third Street, across from United Markets.

Free refreshments will be served to customers from noon to 5 p.m. Louis A. Yuvan, owner of San Rafael Trading Company, and Manager Nancy Hedlund announced that the grand opening will feature a grand display of clocks, jewelry, nautical antiques, Victorian and European furniture, oak and pine, old wicker, new wicker, copper and brass, country kitchenware, and an exhibit of old buggies.

Among the latest shop-owners to join San Rafael Trading Company are:

Doree Gester of San Rafael, who operates the Melange; Marlene Black of Corte Madera, Country Treasures; Laura and John Mouer of San Anselmo, Sally of the Sawdust; Joan Purvis of Novato, Kilroy's Antiques; Andrea Goldman and Judy Auraback of Lafayette; Mike Roberts of Lafayette; Sandra Van Dyke of San Rafael; Laura Giovanoni of Larkspur; and Dan Cross of San Rafael.

ENVIRO-THERM Inc., a new company that specializes in installing insulation and acoustical systems to cut down energy waste in existing homes and businesses, has just been formed as an extension of McPhail's Inc., 917 C Street, San Rafael.

Heading the new firm is Judd DeBoer of San Rafael, a resident of Marin for six years. A graduate of Willamette University in Salem, Ore., DeBoer has had varied experience in insulation, construction and finance. Joining him in the new venture is John MacPhail Jr., executive vice-president of McPhail's Inc.

DeBoer said that Enviro-Therm has a unique method for spraying insulation and acoustical material onto walls and overhead areas in metal buildings and other kinds of construction including multi-family housing. He explained that the company uses cellulose material that has higher thermal and acoustical efficiency than mineral or glass fibers and is guaranteed for the life of the home to resist fire and vermin, and is guaranteed not to settle or deteriorate.

"Enviro-Therm hopes to alleviate the waste of energy that occurs in uninsulated homes and commercial buildings," said DeBoer. He noted that the state, HUD, and FHA have all undertaken new commitments on fuel conservation, including insulation requirements in homes.

NORTHWESTERN PACIFIC Railroad plans to move its San Francisco District freight sales office to Petaluma next Tuesday, General Traffic Representative George Farosich announced. The new Petaluma office will be located at 200 Lakeville Street, adjacent to NWP's Petaluma station.

NWP also maintains an area freight sales office on the north end of the railroad, at Eureka.

TOUCH OF GLASS, founded in San Rafael five months ago as a maker of leaded glass terrariums, is incorporating and expanding its products for nationwide sales.

Richard Levinson of Novato, who founded the firm at 51 Belvedere Street, said he now produces stained glass lamps, wooden planters, jewelry boxes and related items in addition to the terrariums. As president of the new corporation, Levinson will manage the shop and represent the company in nationwide sales.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Diversifying A Way To Spread A Risk

By ROGER E. SPEAR and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. If I were to sell my 3,000 shares of American Express Income Fund they would, despite reinvestment of all distributions, be worth less than I paid. It occurs to me by plowing back distributions, I am compounding a bad situation. I have adequate income and am interested in preserving capital. Should my quarterly distributions be invested in another fund? — R.H.

A. Although American Express Income Fund has performed better than average in declining periods, it has failed to do as well as average in the past decade. The yield, however, is currently 7.6 per cent from a good-quality balanced portfolio. Future distributions should be used to buy no-load Johnston Fund, an excellent long-term performer. This move will also help spread your risk.

Q. I have 500 shares of Champion International (NYSE) costing 11⅞. Would you advise me to switch or do you think the stock has potential? — A.C.

A. These shares, now trading at about 4X projected 1974 results (the lowest P/E in a decade), have thoroughly discounted the slump in the building industry and declining lumber prices. Building materials accounted for 53 per cent of sales and 65 per cent of operating profits in 1973. As the company is currently set up, some 37 per cent of its building products volume is purchased from others, which tends to reduce profit margins. This situation should be corrected, however, by the $1.25 billion 5-year planned capital expansion program, designed to increase capacity primarily in its building products operations.

Paper continues to be in tight supply, although some easing in demand appears to be stabilizing prices. This segment of Champion's business contributes 35 per cent of sales and 29 per cent of pre-tax earnings. Profits here should continue strong for the next several quarters, balancing any weakness in the building products area. The third major division, household furnishings, was able to widen profit margins on higher sales last year, a condition which should continue. Shares have above-average potential and should be held for higher levels.

Stock Market Continues Rally In Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Encouraged by favorable economic reports, traders and investors moved off the sidelines today to push prices sharply higher in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange, continuing a rally begun in the previous session.

A major factor in the surge was a Labor Department report wholesale prices had slowed in September, registering their slimmest gain in 11 months. Observers, however, cautioned the prices may rise in the near future because poor weather hurt some harvests and will send farm prices higher. The rise for September was 0.1 per cent, or 1.2 per cent on an annual basis.

Knoll Townhouses Are Going On Sale

Fifty-two new units of The Knoll townhouses will go on sale this weekend with a grand opening on Knollwood Road off Biscayne Drive in Peacock Gap.

Developer is Inland Steel Development Corp., the same firm that developed Quail Hill in Terra Linda. Fox & Carskadon is the exclusive agent for the project.

Prices, starting at $77,500, include carpets, built-ins, light fixtures, and garage door openers. The models have varied floor plans, overlook the fairways and greens of Peacock Gap Country Club.

The 52 new units are similar in exterior appearance but have no connection with the original 30 units of The Knoll built in 1965. G. Paul Leal, vice president at Fox & Carskadon, said the new homes are equipped with central heating and interior utilities that are different from those in the original 30 homes.

The new townhomes come in two and three bedroom models with varied floor plans, high ceilings, custom fireplaces, large view decks, raised dining rooms and formal living rooms. They have skylit baths, stairwells and kitchens, custom dressing rooms, large storage areas, laundry chutes, double garages with electric door openers. Special options include wet bars and dumb waiters.

The sales office at The Knoll will be open every afternoon seven days a week, beginning Saturday.

Sequoia Theater To Reopen As Two Theaters Next Month

Sequoia Theater in Mill Valley, which is undergoing major remodeling, will reopen next month as a unique twin-theater, showing two different movies from two separate distributors.

"All films will be top Universal products," announced Debbie Ruble, manager. The present theater seating section will be partitioned in the middle, with 450 seating on either side for a total of 900 seats.

"We hope to have double snack bars so that customers can buy tickets and enter to the right or to the left," said Mrs. Ruble. The marquee will be divided into "Sequoia I" and "Sequoia II."

One of the two theaters is scheduled to open during the first or second week in November with "Airport 1975," and the second is expected to be ready about Thanksgiving.

Adult admission will be $2.75, with no loge section.

SAN RAFAEL TRADING Company, a collection of 27 shops, will celebrate its grand opening this coming Sunday afternoon at 512 Third Street, across from United Markets.

Free refreshments will be served to customers from noon to 5 p.m. Louis A. Yuvan, owner of San Rafael Trading Company, and Manager Nancy Hedlund announced that the grand opening will feature a grand display of clocks, jewelry, nautical antiques, Victorian and European furniture, oak and pine, old wicker, new wicker, copper and brass, country kitchenware, and an exhibit of old buggies.

Among the latest shop-owners to join San Rafael Trading Company are:

Doree Gester of San Rafael, who operates the Melange; Marlene Black of Corte Madera, Country Treasures; Laura and John Mouer of San Anselmo, Sally of the Sawdust; Joan Purvis of Novato, Kilroy's Antiques; Andrea Goldman and Judy Auraback of Lafayette; Mike Roberts of Lafayette; Sandra Van Dyke of San Rafael; Laura Giovanoni of Larkspur; and Dan Cross of San Rafael.

ENVIRO-THERM Inc., a new company that specializes in installing insulation and acoustical systems to cut down energy waste in existing homes and businesses, has just been formed as an extension of McPhail's Inc., 917 C Street, San Rafael.

Heading the new firm is Judd DeBoer of San Rafael, a resident of Marin for six years. A graduate of Willamette University in Salem, Ore., DeBoer has had varied experience in insulation, construction and finance. Joining him in the new venture is John MacPhail Jr., executive vice-president of McPhail's Inc.

DeBoer said that Enviro-Therm has a unique method for spraying insulation and acoustical material onto walls and overhead areas in metal buildings and other kinds of construction including multi-family housing. He explained that the company uses cellulose material that has higher thermal and acoustical efficiency than mineral or glass fibers and is guaranteed for the life of the home to resist fire and vermin, and is guaranteed not to settle or deteriorate.

"Enviro-Therm hopes to alleviate the waste of energy that occurs in uninsulated homes and commercial buildings," said DeBoer. He noted that the state, HUD, and FHA have all undertaken new commitments on fuel conservation, including insulation requirements in homes.

NORTHWESTERN PACIFIC Railroad plans to move its San Francisco District freight sales office to Petaluma next Tuesday, General Traffic Representative George Farosich announced. The new Petaluma office will be located at 200 Lakeville Street, adjacent to NWP's Petaluma station.

NWP also maintains an area freight sales office on the north end of the railroad, at Eureka.

SEN. JOHN V. TUNNEY
Introduces legislation

Offshore Oil Legislation Introduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., joined by 12 other senators from coastal states, introduced legislation yesterday calling for a delay in government offshore oil and gas leasing plans.

In introducing the resolution, Tunney said it was intended to halt Interior Department plans for "massive" offshore leasing until the environmental impact can be measured and coastal development plans drawn up.

The California Democrat said "serious questions" had been raised about department plans for leasing at least 10 million acres a year in offshore areas.

Tunney said testimony at Senate hearings this week had indicated that the department would not be able to "assure that the United States will receive a fair return" from the leasing program.

"Moreover, coastal states are only in the beginning stages of developing coastal management plans to deal with the environmental and social impacts of massive offshore drilling," Tunney said, "but the department threatens to proceed with precipitous leasing, riding roughshod over the concerns of coastal states."

Joining Tunney in sponsoring the resolution to delay offshore leasing were Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Edward Brooke, R-Mass.; Clifford Case, R-N.J.; Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Bob Packwood, R-Ore.; John O. Pastore, D-R.I.; William Roth, R-Del.; Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.; Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and William D. Hathaway, D-Maine.

The legislation would call upon the Secretary of the Interior to offer offshore leases only after environmental research has been reviwed by the Council on Environmental Quality and the National Academy of Sciences.

It would also ask for holding up of leasing until coastal states were making at least "reasonable progress" toward coastal zone management plans and for assurances to Congressional committees that the environment would be protected.

Today is Thursday, Oct. 10, the 283rd day of 1974 with 82 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

American actress Helen Hayes was born Oct. 10, 1900.

On this day in history:

In 1845, the U.S. Naval Academy was formally opened at Ft. Severn, Annapolis, Md.

In 1911, Chinese revolutionaries overthrew the Manchu Dynasty.

In 1963, a dam burst in northern Italy, drowning an estimated 3,000 persons.

In 1973, Vice President Spiro Agnew resigned under an agreement with the Justice Department to plead no contest to income tax evasion charges. He was fined $10,000 and put on three years' probation.

A thought for the day: American writer and philosopher Henry David Thoreau said, "Go where we will on the surface of things, men have been there before us."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No Medal Is Awarded In Race For Second Place In Bridge

When the opponents have led their best suit against your no-trump contract, you are in a race: You want to set up and cash your own tricks before the enemy can set up and cash theirs. Since no medal is awarded for second place in this race, keep the race in mind when you choose the right suit to develop.

NO PROMISE

The bidding will not surprise those familiar with the Stayman Convention. North's response of two clubs did not promise a club suit, but merely asked South whether or not he had a biddable major suit.

If South held a major suit of four or more cards he would simply bid it. Unable to do so, he bid two diamonds. This ended the attempt to reach a good major-suit contract.

North went back to no-trump, and South proceeded on to game. Nothing had been lost on this little fishing expedition.

LONGEST SUIT

West opened the five of spades, and South won the first trick with the king. The longest suit in the combined hands was clubs, but South dared not go after that suit.

See what happens if South leads a club at the second trick. West wins with the king of clubs and leads another spade. South has to take the ace of spades. Now West can get the ace of clubs and the rest of his spades. To put it another way, West wins the race.

South saw that he couldn't allow the opponents to gain the lead twice. He had to develop a suit that gave the enemy only one chance to lead.

At the second trick, therefore, South led the king of hearts. East won and returned a spade, but now South could collect nine tricks: two spades, three hearts and four diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one no-trump. The next player passes.

You hold:
♠- A Q 5 3 ♦- 7 y
♥- Q J 10 6 ♣- 9 8 4.

What do you way?

ANSWER: Two clubs (if your partner is a good player).

This is the Stayman Convention, asking your partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards. Otherwise he bids two diamonds.

The greatest payroll for any civilian organization is that of the U.S. Post Office with 696,840 listed on July 1, 1972.

SEN. JOHN V. TUNNEY
Introduces legislation

Offshore Oil Legislation Introduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., joined by 12 other senators from coastal states, introduced legislation yesterday calling for a delay in government offshore oil and gas leasing plans.

In introducing the resolution, Tunney said it was intended to halt Interior Department plans for "massive" offshore leasing until the environmental impact can be measured and coastal development plans drawn up.

The California Democrat said "serious questions" had been raised about department plans for leasing at least 10 million acres a year in offshore areas.

Tunney said testimony at Senate hearings this week had indicated that the department would not be able to "assure that the United States will receive a fair return" from the leasing program.

"Moreover, coastal states are only in the beginning stages of developing coastal management plans to deal with the environmental and social impacts of massive offshore drilling," Tunney said, "but the department threatens to proceed with precipitous leasing, riding roughshod over the concerns of coastal states."

Joining Tunney in sponsoring the resolution to delay offshore leasing were Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Edward Brooke, R-Mass.; Clifford Case, R-N.J.; Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Bob Packwood, R-Ore.; John O. Pastore, D-R.I.; William Roth, R-Del.; Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.; Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and William D. Hathaway, D-Maine.

The legislation would call upon the Secretary of the Interior to offer offshore leases only after environmental research has been reviwed by the Council on Environmental Quality and the National Academy of Sciences.

It would also ask for holding up of leasing until coastal states were making at least "reasonable progress" toward coastal zone management plans and for assurances to Congressional committees that the environment would be protected.

In 1911, Chinese revolutionaries overthrew the Manchu Dynasty.

In 1963, a dam burst in northern Italy, drowning an estimated 3,000 persons.

In 1973, Vice President Spiro Agnew resigned under an agreement with the Justice Department to plead no contest to income tax evasion charges. He was fined $10,000 and put on three years' probation.

A thought for the day: American writer and philosopher Henry David Thoreau said, "Go where we will on the surface of things, men have been there before us."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No Medal Is Awarded In Race For Second Place In Bridge

When the opponents have led their best suit against your no-trump contract, you are in a race: You want to set up and cash your own tricks before the enemy can set up and cash theirs. Since no medal is awarded for second place in this race, keep the race in mind when you choose the right suit to develop.

NO PROMISE

The bidding will not surprise those familiar with the Stayman Convention. North's response of two clubs did not promise a club suit, but merely asked South whether or not he had a biddable major suit.

If South held a major suit of four or more cards he would simply bid it. Unable to do so, he bid two diamonds. This ended the attempt to reach a good major-suit contract.

North went back to no-trump, and South proceeded on to game. Nothing had been lost on this little fishing expedition.

LONGEST SUIT

West opened the five of spades, and South won the first trick with the king. The longest suit in the combined hands was clubs, but South dared not go after that suit.

See what happens if South leads a club at the second trick. West wins with the king of clubs and leads another spade. South has to take the ace of spades. Now West can get the ace of clubs and the rest of his spades. To put it another way, West wins the race.

South saw that he couldn't allow the opponents to gain the lead twice. He had to develop a suit that gave the enemy only one chance to lead.

At the second trick, therefore, South led the king of hearts. East won and returned a spade, but now South could collect nine tricks: two spades, three hearts and four diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one no-trump. The next player passes.

You hold:

♠- A Q 5 3	♦- 7 y
♥- Q J 10 6	♣- 9 8 4.

What do you way?

ANSWER: Two clubs (if your partner is a good player).

This is the Stayman Convention, asking your partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards. Otherwise he bids two diamonds.

The greatest payroll for any civilian organization is that of the U.S. Post Office with 696,840 listed on July 1, 1972.

Good Sign For Ford On Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government index of wholesale prices gained only 0.1 per cent in September, giving President Ford the first encouraging economic news since taking office.

It was the smallest increase in a year.

the index on wholesale prices released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics today was 167.2 — meaning wholesale goods that cost $100 in 1967 cost $167.20 today.

On an unadjusted basis the index was actually down 0.1 per cent but the adjusted figure better reflects economic trends.

Ford has made the economy his top priority issue and this week proposed to Congress 31 steps to take to help fight inflation. Since taking office in August, Ford has only heard of higher consumer prices, higher wholesale prices and swelling unemployment.

But the wholesale price index generally signals how prices of consumer goods will increase or decrease at a later date. The small wholesale increase last month could be reflected in lower consumer prices later.

The September increase was the smallest since October 1973 when there was a drop of 0.1 per cent but it was still 19.7 per cent higher than a year ago.

The statistics showed prices of foods edged downward 0.3 per cent after two months of higher prices.

This decline, however, may be short lived if grain crop setbacks continue. Beef and veal accounted for most of the decline in consumer food prices. Higher prices were reported for sugar and confectionary, fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, processed poultry, dairy products, processed fruits and vegetables.

The index of farm products declined 1.9 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis, the first month to month drop since June after two months of increases of around 7 per cent each month.

The index for industrial commodities, the basics for industries, gained 1 per cent, the smallest increase since an 0.8 per cent rise in October, 1973.

Since passenger cars did not decline as they usually do in September, prices of consumer durables moved up 1.6 per cent. Household appliances and furniture were also higher.

Higher prices were reported for industrial chemicals, fabricated metal products, iron and steel, electric power, plastic products, motor vehicle parts and some refined petroleum products.

Lower prices were reported for propane gas, residual fuel oil, lumber, inedible fats and oils, and textile products.

Some of the price declines reported are also symptoms of a sluggishness in the economy.

For example, lumber and wood products declined for the fifth consecutive month, explained in part by the slump in construction where unemployment is higher than 10 per cent.

Lumber and wood products prices were actually 0.8 per cent lower than a year ago. The only other major commodity group showing a drop from last September was farm products, down 8.8 per cent from September, 1973, and down 3.4 per cent from last month.

The most striking rise from last year was the 117 per cent increase in prices for sugar and confectionary goods. These prices were up 10.2 per cent from August.

While the price of refined petroleum products was 85 per cent higher than a year ago these goods declined 0.4 per cent from August.

CONFIDENCE — Both Labor Party leader Harold Wilson (top) being kissed by Maureen Thompson, and Conservative Edward Heath (bottom) exuded confidence as they campaigned yesterday on the eve of the British elections. Bomb Threat Mars Vote As Britons Rush To Ballot

LONDON (UPI) — A bomb scare today forced evacuation of Liberal party headquarters in London as Britons streamed in a heavy turnout to vote for a new parliament for the second time in seven months.

Police searched the building near the Strand, one of London's main downtown thoroughfares, but found nothing and allowed staff to return after 35 minutes.

Telephone operator Penny Sander said a man with a deep voice who did not identify himself called at 12:45 P.M. and said "There is a bomb there. It is going off in 15 minutes."

Police were called and ordered the building evacuated but said after a close search it apparently was a hoax.

The Liberal headquarters was ransacked in a break-in on election eve yesterday.

A spokesman said at first "This looks like another Watergate." But police said later it appeared to be a plain case of burglary.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's governing Labor party, campaigning with strongly leftleaning policies including state control of wide sections of industry still in private ownership, was heavy favorite in opinion polls to win — perhaps by a landslide.

But polls indicated up to 4 million of the nearly 41 million registered voters were still undecided as late as last night on how they would ballot.

Resurgent Scottish Nationalists in Scotland appeared poised to seize a number of parliamentary seats from the Labor party.

All this, commentators said, could mean another hung election, similar to that on Feb. 28 when no party won an overall majority in parliament, or even an upset result.

The London Daily Express called it "the most baffling as well as the most crucial election Britain has known in years." A London Daily Telegraph headline spoke of a possible stalemate.

Both Wilson and Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath voted early in the Westminister district of London, near the Houses of Parliament — a district which has had a large Conservative majority for more than 50 years.

Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe voted with his wife Marion at the Devonshire village of Cobbaton, where he has a country cottage.

The voting percentage in February was 78.8 per cent, nearly a record for Britain where election turnouts normally are smaller than in some other European countries where an 85 per cent vote is normal.

British commentators predicted a 75 per cent vote this time, though they said the apparently high percentage of eleventh hour "don't knows" could hit the over-all total.

Joerger's Growth Vow Is Flayed

By ERNEST MURPHY

Challenger William Kortum yesterday accused incumbent Sonoma Supervisor Phillip L. Joerger of reneging on a promise to seek county support of Petaluma's fight to save its growth-control ordinance.

Despite Joerger's pledge, Kortum said during a news conference, records show he never afterward asked the board of supervisors to allow a county legal brief in support of the controversial Petaluma plan, and because a court-imposed deadline has passed, it is now too late for the county to act.

Joerger responded by calling Kortum's charge a "cheap shot," and called it "just another political ploy to hurt my credibility."

The incumbent supervisor said, "I pressed just as hard as I could" to get support for Petaluma's fight.

Kortum, seeking to replace Joerger in the election next month, presented the following timetable, which was confirmed by a check of county records and by county officials:

On May 7, Sonoma County Counsel James P. Botz asked the supervisors to authorize him to file an amicus curiae (friend of the court) brief with the Ninth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, where Petaluma was planning to appeal an adverse decision by federal District Judge Lloyd H. Burke. The judge had ruled in January that Petaluma's 500-units-a-year growth limit was unconstitutional because it restricted free travel rights of citizens.

The county board sidestepped Botz' request by instructing him to investigate whether Burke's ruling would adversely affect the county.

On May 10, Joerger, a former Petaluma city councilman, announced he would henceforth support Petaluma's growth limiting effort, and he promised to ask the county board to join the city in appealing Burke's ruling.

On June 20, Botz returned to the board with his findings. His conclusion was that the ruling against Petaluma would cripple the county's own planning effort because "under Judge Burke's decision, if (land-use planning) results in a limitation on the housing market, it is unconstitutional." Botz again asked the board for permission to join Petaluma's appeal, but no action was taken.

Supervisor Charles Hinkle of Santa Rosa was asked whether Joerger had sought county support of the Petaluma plan.

Since the day he announced his support of it, Hinkle said, "he hasn't done a thing" to enlist the county in the court fight.

Once before, Hinkle said, he himself had made a motion asking that the board help Petaluma in court but "it didn't get a second —not even from Phil."

Petaluma City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said this week that more than 30 cities and counties and a half-dozen semipublic agencies such as the Sierra Club have joined Petaluma's appeal by filing amicus curiae briefs before Sept. 30, the last day the circuit court would accept them.

Briefs came from the County of Marin and the City of Los Angeles, among others, although none was offered by Sonoma County.

"It makes Petaluma look bad in court to have the county which surrounds it not supporting it," Kortum said at his press conference yesterday.

Joerger said he plans soon to offer more detailed and "well thought out" rebuttals of Kortum's charge.

"This has been his strategy

Worker Shot In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A maintenance man was killed shortly after midnight today when he was hit by gunshots from a hotel facing the building roof where he and other members of a business workers's union were meeting, police reported.

Longshoremen, grain handlers, foremen and other workers at Buenos Aires Harbor were called off the job by their unions today to protest the murder of a union leader yesterday.

Police said that the victim this morning was identified as Horacio Oscar Avalo, and that it was not clear whether his killer was aiming for Avalo or another member of the labor group, the Business Employees' Association of the cities of Lanus and Avellaneda outside Buenos Aires.

Directors Switch Marin City Policy

Vote Would Spread Cheaper Housing

By PAUL CANE

Reversing a long-held position, directors of the Marin County Housing Authority last night decided that they want both phases of Marin City redevelopment to provide for housing low and moderate-income families.

Over the strenuous objection of board chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., the board voted 4-1 to meet with the county redevelopment agency to push for 20 per cent low and moderate-income housing in the Richardson Highlands development.

The price ranges to be used as guidelines in determining inexpensive housing are to be those of the federal government — which are considerably lower than county standards — the board said.

Planned for the development are 139 townhouses in the first phase, and 240 apartments in the second. Currently, only the second phase is slated to provide some inexpensive housing, and the authority previously approved that plan.

Directors Dorothy Oczkus and Myrna Bergerson are to meet with representatives of the county redevelopment agency to plead the case of additional housing for low and moderate-income families. The date for the meeting, and the redevelopment agency representatives, have not been determined.

The authority took the position at the request of representatives of the Marin County Legal Aid Society, speaking for the Marin City Tenants' Council. L. Naomi Wilkes of legal aid told the board that it should "reaffirm support" for housing the poor, and endorse the tenants' drive to add more low and moderate-income housing to redevelopment plans.

(Legal aid has threatened to sue to halt the project, on the grounds that residents were not consulted in the planning process.)

(That threat has drawn angry complaints from the county board of supervisors that the Legal Aid Society was misusing the legal process to overturn a political decision, limiting inexpensive housing to moderate income levels.

(Supervisors also reject the claim residents were not consulted in the planning, noting that the matter has been thrashed out in public debate and hearings within the community, before the housing authority and redevelopment agency and at meetings of the supervisors and the county planning commission.)

Ehrlich, in voting against the endorsement, said, "I'm 100 per cent behind the tenants. But I don't think we should reverse the position we've held during months of discussion without a report from staff or a meeting with the redevelopment agency."

He proposed that fact-finding meetings with the agency be held before the board considered changing its mind on inexpensive housing in the first phase.

Discussion of the proposal was marked by spirited debate between Ehrlich, other directors, and members of the small audience at Manzanita Center, Marin City.

"To think about this for a while is to minimize antagonism with the redevelopment agency," Ehrlich said.

"At the expense of the poor people," charged Miss Wilkes.

"No, at the expense of two weeks or a month," Ehrlich retorted.

Mrs. Oczkus, a newly appointed director, concluded the debate when she said she didn't want any more staff reports or delays. "Studies, studies, studies — I'm tired of them all," she said.

"How could you be tired of them? You've only been on the board three weeks," Ehrlich observed.

Three Win Nobel For Medicine

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — An American and two Belgians who worked closely together in human cell biology today won the 1974 Nobel Prize in medicine for their research on the causes of cancer and its early detection and treatment.

George Emil Palade of Yale University and Belgians Christian de Duve and Albert Claude, both of whom did research at Rockefeller Institute in New York, shared the $123,000 prize for "their discoveries concerning the structure and functional organization of the cell."

Dr. Nils Ringertz, a spokesman for the Caroline Institute which handed out the award, said Claude's findings have meant much to research into causes and treatment of cancer.

He said due to his cell research and by using a centrifugal method "we can find the tumors very quickly." This method uses a spinning motion to separate the nucleus of the cell from the rest of the cell.

Prof. Sten Orrenius, another member of the Institute, said their research in repairing and defending the human cell, had led to discoveries of substances which can destroy "medicines that otherwise could cause cancer."

He said Claude was "the one who started the whole thing with cell biology. In 1945 he worked out a method called differential centrifugation.

The institute officials said Palade was Claude's pupil and helped him develop the method. "De Duve found out how the cell can absorb or destroy good or bad substances without killing the whole cell," officials said.

Another member of the institute, said, "Thanks to de Duve's discoveries we can now discover disease when a baby is still in the womb and therefore interrupt the pregnancy."

Claude, 75, informed in Brussels of the prize, said "I hardly dare to believe it."

De Duve said in New York, "Well, I'm very surprised, very pleased."

"Are you sure?" Palade asked in Halifax, Nova Scotia, where he was on a lecture tour. "Fabulous! wonderful!"

New Trial In Water Case Seen

The Marin Municipal Water District and a San Rafael developer, which locked horns in February over Marin's water moratorium, may have to fight the legal battle all over again, and pay for it all over again. (Another water district story, page 4).

That's because a court reporter's shorthand notes of the two-day trial were stolen from her car Sunday.

Without the notes, the state court of appeals can't reivew Marin Judge E. Warren McGuire's decision that the moratorium is illegal.

Water district attorney Douglas P. Ferguson said today that the situation could be resolved in one of three ways:

He and Albert Bianchi, attorney for the McCarthy Co., could stipulate, or agree, on a set of facts which could be used by the appelate court.

Judge McGuire could develop his own set of facts and give them to the appeals court.

Or the entire trial could be held again.

While not ruling out the first two possibilities, Ferguson said he is doubtful they would come about.

In its suit, the McCarthy Co., which wants water for a 292-unit housing project near the Civic Center, argued the water district board enacted the moratorium in an illegal attempt to control growth.

McGuire agreed, ruling that the district had no power "in the field of zoning, land use, density of population control."

But pending the outcome of the appeal, the moratorium remains in effect.

Court reporter Annemarie Olding of San Leandro said a thief broke into her car in Richmond and took a suitcase containing the notes, which are a verbatim account of testimony at the trial.

Government Export Control Said Here

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford's decision to stop the sale of grain to Russia means, in effect, government control of exports, an Ohio State University grain marketing economist said yesterday.

Dr. John W. Sharp said Ford had been motivated by consumer groups who believe that fulfilling the sale of grain to Russia would shorten supplies and cause an increase in prices in this country.

Coal Miners Returning In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Under orders from United Mine Workers (UMW) officials, hundreds of coal miners began returning to the pits today, ending walkouts triggered by roving pickets protesting so-called immoral textbooks used in Kanawha county schools.

Not all of the miners were expected to be back on the job today but coal industry officials expressed hope the walkouts would be over by the end of the week.

The protest itself tapered off, according to Kanawha County Sheriff Kemp Malton, whose office has been the target of a dozen anonymous phone calls threatening to blow up the jail unless a leader of the protest was released.

"It's quiet for a change," Malton said. "There's been nothing to the threats so far."

The sheriff's office said it had received "a dozen calls made by male callers that a bomb would be detonated at the jail early this morning if the Rev. Ezra Graley is not released."

Graley, a fiery leader of the book-banning forces, was sentenced to 60 days in jail earlier this week for violating a court order banning picketing.

"We have 10 patrol cars with 20 men," said a police official. "State police and city police are helping, too. We cannot allow people to do this. It's just a terrible situation."

BRIEFING — With part of the newly arrived force of 400 riot policemen standing in formation in the background, top police officials discuss the explosive situation in racially torn Boston.

400 Riot Police Arrive In Racially Torn Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Four-hundred riot-trained state and metropolitan police arrived in racially torn Boston today to help protect children and enforce a court ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools by busing.

The reinforcements were called to help local police cope with the widespread violence that has erupted in both white and black sections of the city, in schools and outside them, throughout the day and night.

State and Metropolitan District Police were ordered here after U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity turned down a dramatic appeal for U.S. marshals by Mayor Kevin H. White, who conceded the city no longer could maintain the peace and implement the busing order.

Meanwhile, in Washington, President Ford said yesterday in response to a reporter's question at his news conference:

"I deplore the violence that I have read about and seen on television. I think that is most unfortunate. I would like to add this, however:

"The court decision in that case, in my judgment, was not the best solution to quality education in Boston. I have consistently opposed forced busing to achieve racial balance as a solution to quality education and, therefore, I respectfully disagree with the judge's order."

Ford urged that "the citizens of Boston respect the law" and added: "I hope and trust it is not necessary to call in federal law enforcement officials."

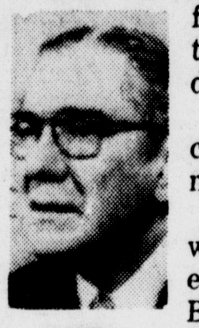
Mills Linked To Auto Incident



Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills appeared intoxicated and had blood and scratches on his face when his car was stopped for speeding with its lights out near the Jefferson Memorial early Monday, according to U.S. Park Police.

"An occupant who got out of the car identified himself as Congressman Mills," a police report said.

A woman passenger of the car, who appeared drunk and highly emotional, jumped into the Tidal Basin near the memorial.

She was rescued and later was taken to a mental hospital for observation.

A Mills aide said earlier that Mills was not at the scene of the 2 a.m. incident, but had loaned his car to a neighbor that night.

18 Workers Die

MANILA (UPI) — Scaffolding around a skyscraper in suburban Makati collapsed today and at least 18 construction workers plunged to their deaths, the official Philippine News Agency reported.

Thirteen of the workers were dead at the scene. The other five died on arrival at the nearby Makati Medical Center, PNA said.

The accident occurred on the 15th floor of the U.S. First National City Bank project.

Gas Comes Ashore

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Several containers of a highly toxic poisonous gas believed buried safely at sea shortly after World War II apparently tore loose during stormy weather and washed ashore yesterday on Florida's east coast.

Dr. Dave Crane, Brevard County health officer, said he considered the gas containers a lethal menace.

Crane said Civil Defense authorities would not give out much information, but they said the gas canisters are believed to be those buried out at sea shortly after World War II.

To Televise Shot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The launch of two cosmonauts from Russia's Baikonur spaceport will be televised live to the United States for the first time, under a new international agreement.

John P. Donnelly, assistant NASA administrator for public affairs, said the agreement outlining news coverage of next July's Soviet-American spaceflight also calls for transmission of all the radio communications from the Soviet Soyuz spacecraft to the U.S. Apollo control center at Houston where it will be released to the public.

Russ Space Shots

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The North American Air Defense Command, the nation's watchdog of orbiting satellites, says the Soviet Union placed 11 more payloads into space in September, boosting the total number of man-made objects in outer space to 3,233.

The Soviets also led the count in August with seven payloads, compared to two for the United States and one for The Netherlands. The Russians now have a total of 22 pieces of debris in space, along with the payloads.

More Rounded Up

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli troops today rounded up two more groups of religious jews near Jericho who tried to set up squatters camps in opposition to a return of parts of the occupied West Bank to Jordan.

Local newsmen said about 100 persons scattered through the rocky gullies at Ein Qilt were being collected in buses after the soldiers picked up another group of 45 at dawn near Ma'ale Adumim, the traditional site of the New Testament's Inn of the Good Samaritan.

Alderman Convicted

CHICAGO (UPI) — Alderman Thomas E. Keane, Mayor Richard J. Daley's righthand man, was convicted of mail fraud and conspiracy yesterday. U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson said the jury's guilty verdict represented the "conviction of a system."

Keane, 69, faces a maximum sentence of 90 years in prison. Defense attorneys said they would appeal.

To Visit UN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Polish Communist leader Edward Gierek, a former coal miner, likes to tour industrial areas as well as conduct affairs of state.

Today he was to indulge in both by visiting Pittsburgh and the United Nations.

Gierek was to leave Washington early today aboard a special Air Force plane for New York to address the United Nations. Afterward, he was to travel to Pittsburgh. He will visit Houston later in the week.

Quints Eating

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Russell, Michelle, Sandra, Belinda and Jennifer — the quintuplets born to a Maryland couple — have taken their first gulps of regular air and their first taste of real food.

The quints were given their first taste of food by mouth yesterday. They also breathed room air instead of oxygen inside an incubator. And they were presented to their mother for the first time.

They were born Tuesday.

Summit Still On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has publicly confirmed that the fourth U.S.-Soviet summit conference in Washington in 1975 is still on, and that he may meet with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev even before then.

At his third news conference, Ford told newsmen that he would "certainly consider" meeting Brezhnev before the 1975 encounter "if there is a reason for us to meet."

Kennedy's Wife Hits Other Car

McLEAN, Va. (UPI) — Joan Kennedy, the wife of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was charged with drunken driving yesterday after her convertible bumped into a car stopped at a red light in suburban Virginia.

There were no injuries, and total damage in the three-car collision was estimated at $1,400.

Edward McGrath, whose car was struck, said Mrs. Kennedy, 38, "was very concerned about the accident and very upset. I really thought she was a nice lady.

"She said over and over again she was really sorry that it happened and just thankful that no one was hurt."

LIVING ROOM LOBBYING

John Bell (standing) of Novato, a Pan-American Airlines copilot, tells a gathering of fellow employees and their families in the Tamalpais Valley home of Gary Harmon, how they can help in the fight to overcome the giant company's economic woes. The scene yesterday was similar to others taking place recently throughout the nation as members of the airline's Employee Action Committee, like Bell, urged a passive push to force the U.S. Government to end preferential treatment given foreign competing air lines. One lobbying employee is reported even to have joined Sen. William Proxmire's daily jog in Washington.

Mental Health Crisis Unit Delayed Again On License

Yet another delay in the long quest by the crisis unit of the Marin Community Mental Health Services for a state license appeared this week when a two-month continuance was granted for a necessary hearing for the license.

A public hearing on the need for a 14-bed "intermediate care" crisis unit had been scheduled for Oct. 17 before the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin, but it has been postponed 60 days. No time for another hearing has been set.

Joan Ripple, executive director for Comprehensive Health Planning, said the crisis unit staff asked the postponement in order to provide more data on costs of the unit and need for such a facility.

Such data had been requested by staff of Comprehensive Health, a body which determines and certifies need for both mental and physical treatment facilities.

Approval of Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin and also of the Bay Area council is needed before a state license for the crisis unit can be provided.

The crisis unit currently is treating both mental patients and alcoholics (in a detoxification setting), and some of them remain more than 24 hours. If they were not kept overnight, the facility would not need a state license, officials said.

Last July, the Marin Hospital District board, which rents space in its building in Greenbrae to the crisis unit, finally agreed to a new contract with county officials on the assumption that a license for the facility was forthcoming soon.

REMAINS BURIED IN BASEMENT

Police (right photo) removed a sack of bones they found in the basement of a Brooklyn, N.Y., club after digging a hole (left photo) into the basement. One of the two badly decomposed corpses discovered in the basement of Otto's Social Club is believed to be of Coney Island crime figure Dominic Sciala, who disappeared in January. The area around Otto's is considered the territory of the Mafia family of disabled Joseph Colombo Sr. (UPI Telephoto)

Jury Choice Altered By Judge Sirica

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In apparent response to prosecution complaints, presiding Judge John J. Sirica today issued orders that altered slightly the final jury selection process in the Watergate coverup trial.

Sirica's order would give the defendants five of the final six peremptory challenges instead, as Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski alleged, the final nine challenges.

On the eighth day of jury selection, Sirica continued questioning in closed court prospective jurors on whether they should be eliminated for cause.

After this process is completed, expected before the end of the week, defense lawyers will be permitted to make 15 peremptory challenges.

Jaworksi hinted in court documents yesterday that some prospective jurors — whom he said Sirica had retained for possible jury serivce — felt that if would be unfair to prosecute the defendants since former President Richard M. Nixon had been pardoned.

Returned Water Service Cost Up

Residents whose water service is turned off for nonpayment of bills will pay more to have water turned on again, the Marin Municipal Water District directors decided yesterday. (Another water district story, page 1.)

Directors also dropped the requirement of a $10 deposit by renters or new occupants of homes to turn on water service. Marin municipal was the only one of eight major water districts still requiring such deposits, according to Gen. Mgr. J. Dietrich Stroeh, and staff time and bookkeeping costs were not offset by the approximately $3,225 the district collected in fees.

New costs to restore service to water users who don't pay their bills will be $10 during the workday and $25 after work hours, up from a $5 flat fee.

The Marin Municipal Water District directors also:

TIME OFF — Eliminated compensatory time off, requiring nonmanagement employees be paid overtime rate for hours worked over eight per day, to conform with the 1974 Fair Labor Standards Act requirements.

SPILLS — Approved $25,000 budget to eliminate drains to streams or lakes at San Geronimo and Bon Tempe treatment plants to prevent alum spills.

MUIR WOODS — Ordered annexation of uninhabited parcels of Muir Woods National Monument to the district.

PURCHASE — Awarded a $3,484 contract to Curtin-Matheson Co. of Brisbane for purchase of laboratory instruments.

METERS — Awarded a $8,538.35 contract to Rockwell Manufacturing Co. of San Francisco for 250 water meters.

ANALYSIS — Awarded water quality analysis contracts to Cook Research Laboratory in Menlo Park for $932 and Breje and Race of Snta Rosa for $200.

REPORT — Received year-ending financial report.

CLAIMS — Approved ordinance on procedures for claims of money or damages against the district.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 1 p.m., Oct. 16, at the district office, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera.

NOBEL

Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. It was the second consecutive year that three men have shared the Nobel Prize for medicine.

The announcement by the Swedish Academy of Sciences said the award was for "their discoveries concerning the structure and functional organization of the cell." Dr. Miklos Muller, a colleague of de Duve's at Rockefeller University in the department of biochemical cytology said the research was connected ith the fight against cancer.

"I think it's highly justified," Muller said. "He is a devoted scientist who's done a large number of important discoveries in cell biology. The major thing connected with his name is lysomos — these structures are the structures involved in the digestion within the cells and the theoretical as well as practical and medical aplications. They are a new approach to cancer research."

The Swedish academy said Claude was a pioneer in the 1930s and 1940s in the art of using the electron microscope and centrifugation to study cell structure and by these methods had made a breakthrough in modern cell biology.

Claude's methods, the academy said, were used and further developed by Palade who was his co-worker at the Rockefeller Institute and also was among the first to combine those two techniques.

"In a series of extremely elegant papers, Palade and his co-workers ... demonstrated many fascinating details of the secretary process (of the cells)," the academy said.

De Duve, according to the academy, used Palade's findings as a basis for his own research on lysosomes, parts of the cell that function both as repairmen of faulty cell parts and as defenders against foreign organisms.

The academy said the 1974 medicine prize winners together have created modern cell biology.

It said they had also demonstrated that what used to be a cell with often mysterious parts is really a sophisticated organization with units for the production of ... life and units for disposal of worn out parts and for defense against bacteria and other foreign organisms.

Palade, was born in Jassy, Romania and received his bachelors of arts degree from Hasdeu Lyceum, in Bazau, Romania and his M.D. from the University of Bucharest. He came to the United States in 1946 and became a naturalized citizen in 1952.

New Water Service For Olema

The state public utilities commission has approved a plan to have the North Marin County Water District take over water service to Olema, letting the Olema Water System go out of business.

The approval Tuesday allows the district to buy out the Olema system before Jan. 1 for $6,500. Each agency, and town residents, supported the change.

The commission found the Olema system had lost nearly $800 in the first four months of the year, and said that the water district could do a more efficient job of handling the water needs of the approximately 40 customers in the area.

The transfer is in the best interest of the residents of the area, and no public hearing is required, the commission ruled.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Deborah Joy Kantaeng, 19, charged with murdering a man she said had raped her, was released from jail yesterday on $10,000 bond.

Woman Dies In Bridge Leap

The California Highway Patrol has reported that a 36-year-old Sacramento woman leaped to her death yesterday near the north tower of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Patrolmen said Marjorie Horton left a note in her purse talking about domestic problems. Her body was found floating in the bay at about 1:30 p.m.

She had left her car in a parking area at the north end of the bridge and her purse on the bridge railing.

Kissinger In Mideast Conference

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met for two hours today with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi on the first full day of his new Middle East mission. He said "we are working fast" on the groundwork for the possible start of Arab-Israeli peace talks.

There were minor differences between Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Kissinger on the start of the peace talks. Sadat, who met with Kissinger briefly last night, wants them at an early date but Kissinger prefers extended negotiations, including more talks in Washington to settle some outstanding issues, before the Geneva talks resume.

One of the items to be discussed includes an Israeli withdrawal from the occupied Right Bank of the Jordan, a problem complicated by attempts by a group of Israeli religious Jews to set up permanent settlements there. Israeli forces have been trying to force them out.

Another was a report from Beirut that Syria was not willing to extend the U.N. peace keeping mandate in the Golan Heights area when it expires Nov. 30. Kissinger hopes to get the mandate extended for six months but Syria demands further Israeli withdrawal, especially around the town of Quenitra.

Despite the many difficulties Kissinger told newsmen today after his meeting with Fahmi — which was extended a full hour — "We are working fast."

"We had a good talk in preparation for the meeting tonight with the president," he said. "We discussed the situation in detail and, as I said before, President Ford is committed to continuing U.S. efforts to achieve peace."

Following his talks with Fahmi, Kissinger put aside his diplomatic dealings to visit several Cairo tourist sights.

Kissinger said he would return to Cairo for further talks after a meeting Sunday with King Faisal in Saudi Arabia.

"I will come back here Sunday," he said.

Truck Injures Stockton Man

Leroy Stricklin, a 54-year-old construction worker from Stockton, was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital with fractured ribs and multiple bruises received earlier when hit by a truck on private property near the freeway bypass at Atherton Avenue and Armstrong Street.

Stricklin was standing in the front of his truck talking to another truck driver, when Bell made a right turn in front of the Johnson truck and ran over Stricklin.

through this whole campaign — to destroy my credibility," Joerger said, "and I don't think the people of the second district are going to go for it."

In a three-way primary race in June, Kortum finished well ahead of Joerger but fell about 50 votes short of the number necessary for election. The third candidate, Rohnert Park Mayor Louis G. Beary, was eliminated.

Mailing Foul-Up Swamps Voters With Fact Sheets

A mailing foul-up at the Civic Center has resulted in three — and in some cases eight — election "fact sheets" having been sent to each household of unincorporated areas around San Rafael.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella has told supervisors that his office was responsible for the snafu, which the estimated cost local taxpayers about $800.

"I'd like to apoligize to the board and the public," Campanella told supervisors Tuesday.

The election fact sheets were sent to voters in the proposed county service area No. 19, which, if formed, will finance improved fire protection to Santa Venetia, Bayside Acres, California Park, Bret Harte, Los Ranchitos, McNear's and possibly Country Club.

"Fortunately it was in (Supervisor Robert A.) Roumiguiere's district," needled colleague Arnold M. Baptiste.

Banker, Family Freed In Ransom

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — An Ypsilanti banker, his wife and two children were freed today after the banker paid an undisclosed ransom to four masked gunmen.

State police said only that the banker, Richard Green, and his family were reunited safe and sound.

Authorities said Green, an assistant manager at an Ypsilanti branch of the State Savings Bank, told them the four men entered his home at 9 p.m. yesterday, seized him and his family and held them overnight.

Nuclear Fueled Additions Set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Half of new electric generating capacity to be added by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. through 1980 will be nuclear fueled.

PG&E President John F. Bonner said yesterday that a quarter of the company's plants will be hydroelectric and about one sixth geothermal.

Bonner said 13 per cent of the 4.5 million kilowatts of added generating capacity will be in oil or gas plants and these will be primarily used for meeting peak loads.

Plan Discussion Set

A citizens committee studying a new general plan for Mill Valley will discuss proposals for the East Mill Valley area today at 7:30 p.m. in the city library board room, according to Planning Director Tom W. Newton.

CLOTHES TO AID HONDURAS STORM VICTIMS

Gladys Locke (left) folds clothing while Mabel Heino and Ida Resanovich sort clothing by size and weight in boxes at the Fairfax Seventh-Day Adventist Church. It's to be sent to hurricane flood victims in Honduras. Sinaloa Junior High School students in Novato collected the clothing and it is being packed by the church volunteers to go to the church's West Coast disaster aid warehouse in Watsonville to be shipped to Central America. The church has been designated a clothing collection agency for Honduras by the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Dramatic Savings Seen By Cutting Driving Pct.

DETROIT (UPI) — American motorists could save more than 22 billion gallons of gasoline a year by cutting back their driving by about 20 per cent. They could also pocket a cool $13.3 billion in savings.

To conserve energy and fight inflation, President Ford has appealed to American motorists to drive fewer miles. Considering there are about 100 million cars on U.S. highways, traveling more than a trillion miles a year, the potential fuel savings can be dramatic.

Analysts at the Ford Motor Co.'s Customer Services Division estimate the average car owner drives about 13,000 miles a year. The Environmental Protection Agency's recent gas mileage tests of 1975 models indicates the mathematical average car gets 13.6 miles per gallon.

Using those figures as a guide, the average motorist consumes about 956 gallons of gas in 12 months. Based on the current 60 cents a gallon price of gas, the yearly expenditure for fuel would be $576 per motorist.

Cutting back to 12,000 miles a year, the average car would consume 882 gallons of gasoline at a cost of $529. That 7.7 per cent reduction in miles covered each year would mean a $45 saving for the average driver.

Cutting driving by 15.3 per cent — to 11,000 miles a year — would drop fuel consumption to 809 gallons at a cost of $485, or $89 below the cost of driving 13,000 miles a year.

A dramatic reduction would occur if drivers cut their mileage by just over 20 per cent to 10,000 miles a year. That driver would use 735 gallons of fuel at a cost of $441 — a saving of 221 gallons of fuel and $133.

If all of the 100 million cars on the road achieved a similar reduction, the potential savings for the nation in a year's time would be about 22.1 billion gallons of gasoline and $13.3 billion.

Nature Film To Be Shown

A nature film, "Otters, Clowns of the Sea," will be shown Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Richardson Bay Wildlife Sanctuary's education center in Tiburon.

Also Sunday, sanctuary Mgr. Philip Schaeffer will hold a nature hike for beginning nature students at 9 a.m. at the sanctuary.

Ford Hasn't Changed Mind

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald Ford is still a "probable" presidential candidate in 1976.

The President was asked at his third news conference yesterday if the harsh reaction to his pardon of former President Richard Nixon and the illness of his wife Betty have altered plans stated at his first news conference that he would probably be a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1976.

"The words that I used, if I recall accurately, were that I would probably be a candidate in 1976," Ford said. "I have seen nothing to change that decision and if and when there is, I will promptly notify you."

Chief Says Boy Wasn't Mistreated

Police Chief Lawrence R. Kelly of San Rafael today released portions of a report disputing contentions by a Terra Linda mother that her son was improperly treated during a murder investigation.

The report — in the form of a six-page letter to asst. Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas — takes issue with claims made by Jeannette Pomeroy that the civil rights of her 12-year-old son, Daniel, were violated by San Rafael police inspectors.

Kelly, who was reported yesterday to be unwilling to release the letter, said he is doing so now because his offer to meet with Mrs. Pomeroy to discuss the matter has not been accepted.

Kelly did not permit the Independent-Journal to read the letter, saying it describes evidence uncovered during the investigation into the knife-and-bludgeon slaying of Lucy Ann Gilbride Aug. 27. But he did paraphrase portions of it.

An investigation of the conduct of inspectors Bart W. Stinson and Raymond Maynard showed young Pomeroy was not held for more than five hours, as his mother charged, but for about two and one-half hours, the chief reports.

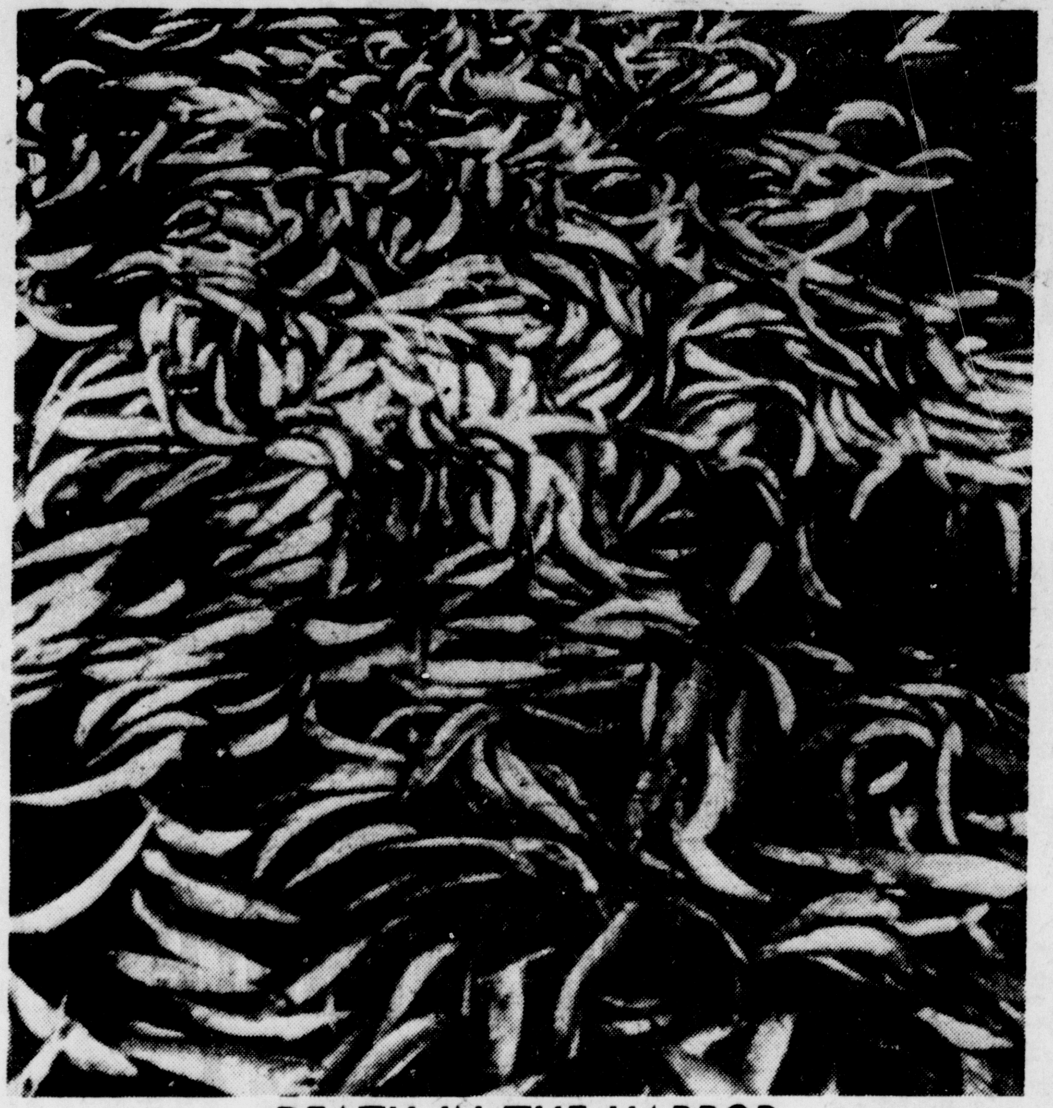
Stinson and Maynard went to Pomeroy's house at about 3 p.m. Aug. 30 to talk to the youth. The three then went to the police station, arriving at 3:23, according to police logs, and Pomeroy was allowed to leave with his mother about 6 p.m., said Kelly.

Replying to the charge that the officers lured the youth to the station, Kelly said Pomeroy volunteered to go with them.

The inspectors did give one explanation when they first asked the youth to accompany them and changed it once they left the house, Kelly said, but this was so they would not have to question the youth in front of two sisters who were home at the time.

Kelly said young Pomeroy never asked to make a telephone call, but when Stinson brought the subject up he said he wanted his mother called. Stinson immediately called Mrs. Pomeroy, Kelly said.

He also countered Mrs. Pomeroy's contention that her son was kept in a chilly room. The youth never complained about being cold, but when Kelly brought up the subject and young Pomeroy said he was a little cold, a jacket was given him, the chief said.



DEATH IN THE HARBOR

Thousands of anchovies who died Monday float on the water in Ocean Shores, Wash., where local officials were readying for clean-up operations, hopefully with the help of the tide and seagulls. The six-inch fish, possibly fleeing predators, swam into a boat basin and suffocated when they used up all the oxygen in the water.

Political Hiring by GSA Claimed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional subcommittee said today civil service hiring laws were violated by General Service Administration officials to get government jobs for political favorites.

The report said a GSA "special referral unit" used pressure to get jobs for chauffeurs of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder.

The report also said a number of "referrals" from Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., were given "special" treatment by the GSA unit.

The House subcommittee on manpower and civil service made public previously classified findings by Civil Service Commission investigators into hiring practices of the GSA.

The report noted that Robert Kunzig, appointed by former President Richard M. Nixon as GSA administrator in 1969, created the "special referral unit" within GSA to better respond to job placement requests from congressmen and administration officials.

The commission said an investigation of 20 individual hiring cases showed "in at least 12 cases either a clear violation or evidence indicating a probable violation of law, regulation, policy or merit principles."

The report was compiled in September, 1973, and subcommittee Chairman David Henderson, D-N.C., said disciplinary actions recommended by the commission against a number of GSA officials were still pending a year later.

"During the course of the investigation, allegations were received from several sources that appointments and promotions to some positions required a prior political clearance by the White House," the commission report said.

It cited individual cases su as the placing of Tom Win former chauffeur for Mitch when he was chairman of t Committee to Re-Elect t President, as a "confidenti assistant" in GSA headqua ters.

In another case, the repo said, Carl Foster, identified a "driver aide" to Magrud when the latter also worked f the Committee to Re-Elect t President, was hired by GSA a forklift driver in a GSA war house at Franconia, Va.

This is the 25th year that the "Messiah" has been performed at the college during the Christmas season. The performance is scheduled for Dec. 6.

Elusive Man Nabbed In Marin City

Marin sheriff's deputies searching a Marin City apartment yesterday arrested in connection with at least seven criminal cases a young man who had eluded them several times before.

Deputies said they entered the apartment for a different matter and recognized the girlfriend of Terry Lee Grinner, 23, prompting a thorough search of the residence.

Lifting a blanket which covered a television stand, a deputy found Grinner rolled up in a ball.

Later yesterday, he was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on the six Marin cases, then ordered to return to court today for consideration of reducing his $10,000 bail.

The most serious Marin charges facing Grinner, of 945 Drake Avenue, Marin City, are felony counts of assaulting a policeman and his former girlfriend on separate occasions.

He also is charged with resisting arrest in at least four escapes from officers, and of two counts of driving without a license.

Also pending are Sonoma County charges of armed robbery, felony assault and rape, and a San Francisco warrant, said Marin deputies.

KEEP IT SIMPLE

Keep it simple . . . These are the words to remember when you're trying to shoot photographs that say something . . . Try to tell only one story at a time with background and accessories pointing up the central object in your shots. Too many ingredients will spoil your central theme. Plan your picture before you shoot and save yourself disappointment and film.

How to do it? . . . There's no single rule, but we suggest that before you shoot any picture of the youngsters at play . . . a scenic view . . . people, etc . . . you make a complete mental picture of what you want to include. Analyze it carefully to find the important elements in the mental picture and concentrate on them. Then place your camera and subjects to include just the mental picture.

It's not easy to keep your picture uncluttered, but if you practice you can reach the important point of simplicity in your pictures.

HIT-RUN AFTERMATH

San Rafael policeman Walter Kosta eyes an auto that crashed driverless through a hedge at 209 H Street in San Rafael at 9:55 p.m. yesterday. Driver Patricia V. Byrne, 42, of 49 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael, was thrown from the auto after colliding with a hit-run car on H Street near Center Street. The hit-and-run vehicle, described as a white late model Cadillac, sped off on Forbes Avenue after running over Mrs. Byrne's leg. She was treated at Marin General Hospital and released. The other driver was still at large today.

Reagan Declares Brown Takes Dictatorial Stance

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "It sounded like 'Sieg heil,'" Gov. Ronald Reagan said while asserting that the Democratic gubernatorial candidate was taking a dictatorial stance.

The governor was speaking about Edmund G. Brown Jr. yesterday while campaigning for the Republican candidate for the governorship, Houston I. Flournoy.

"Sig heil" was the salute phrase to Germany's Adolf Hiter during his Nazi regime.

Reagan asserted that Brown "sounded very dictatorial" durng a televised debate against Flournoy and revealed a "total gnorance of the workings of tate government."

"We have a Constitution and Bill of Rights, but he was alking about reorganizing the egislature himself," Reagan eclared.

Flournoy said he believed Brown's statements were "somewhat overblown," but hat he would not use "Sieg eil" in describing them.

Brown called Reagan's remarks "absurd and beneath the ignity of his office." He also held that the governor's desire to help Flournoy's "faltering campaign caused him to exercise extremely poor judgment."

During the debate, Brown had accused Flournoy of standing for "recycled Reaganism."

Flournoy agreed in general that he would follow the Reagan philosophy but said he differed with the governor in that he favors additional school appropriations and state help in home purchases.

Reagan has advocated a tight state budget and conservatism.

The governor said "Reaganism is an issue in this campaign." However, "I know Hugh has ideas of his own, and good ones, but I know he will stay with this kind of philosophy," he added.

Flournoy accused Brown, the secretary of state, of employing "cynical double standard" in enforcing California's election laws, contending his opponent had not been fair to Republicans.

In echoing Flournoy's assertions, Reagan said Brown's office was "full of incompetence" and held that "the only room Brown can find in the Capitol is the press room."

The Republican candidate also contended that lobbyists fighting the state's new election reforms had retained the law firm of Brown's father, former governor Edmund G. Brown.

The senior Brown denied the assertion.

Bolinas Couple Protests Pardon

PEACEFUL PROTEST — Pausing outside the Bolinas Community Public Utility District office, Judith and Peter Weston discuss their decision to withhold their federal income tax this year in protest of President Ford's pardon of former president Richard M. Nixon.

(Photo by Bob Hax)

By PAUL LIBERATORE

There it was, tucked among the gray columns of her daily newspaper, a story about a 73-year-old California woman's indignant protest over President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon.

The little old lady, the news account said, was so mad that she returned to the White House an American flag that once had flown over the Capitol, a gift for selling war bonds. And she wasn't paying any more income taxes, either.

That was all the inspiration Judith Weston needed. From her Bolinas home, after obtaining support from her husband, Peter, she fired off a personal letter to Gerald Ford:

"It is with great sorrow and after much deliberation that we have decided to refuse to pay any income taxes to the government this year. We have decided to take this drastic and obviously unlawful step in order to protest your hasty pardon of ex-President Nixon."

For the Westons, after a long string of what they consider government immoralities, this was the last straw. "I paid for the Christmas Eve bombing of Cambodia, but I'm not going to pay Nixon, an obvious criminal, over $800,000," Judith said recently from behind a meeting table at the office of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District Office.

"I've always been concerned about paying taxes for things I don't believe in: the Vietnam war, the secret government of the CIA," Peter said softly. "But I've never done anything like this before."

Both are aware of the possible consequence of their peaceful protest — prison. "It seems frightening, the terrible things they can do to you," Judith said. "but what is more terrible than pardoning Nixon? Many of our friends have told us, 'That's wonderful, what you are doing, I wish I had the guts to do it.' People are so terribly afraid of going to jail."

But the Westons don't plan sitting around and waiting to be prosecuted for their beliefs. They will continue their active roles as participants in the local government of Bolinas. They have three children, ages 6 through 13, to raise, and interests of their own to pursue.

Judith, a brightly attractive woman in her mid-30s with a quick wit and seemingly boundless energy and talents, recently was appointed a director of the public utility district. She also has been a prime mover in the Bolinas planning group, which has completed a general plan for the community.

Until a few weeks ago, she reported on local events for a West Marin weekly newspaper. She wrote two or three outrageously funny columns for the Pacific Sun before resigning by comparing the demands of producing a weekly column with making love to a gorilla. Her crochet work recently appeared in a book and allied exhibit of native folk art. A musician as well as an artist, she plays the banjo, guitar and bass.

Peter, 44, is an intellectual turned farmer. He spent the first 34 years of his life in school, obtaining a masters degree in audiology. He owned and operated rock recording studios in San Francisco and Sausalito before selling his interests in 1972 and buying a small spread in the Bolinas "banana belt," a sunny strip of fertile land along the Bolinas-Olema road. There, he raises laying hens and this year is growing oats on a three-acre experimental plot. He recently was appointed to the Bolinas-Stinson School District board.

Judith gets a flat $175 a month for her utility district work. The rest of the couple's income is self derived, eliminating any possible hassle with employers over withholding their taxes.

Their modest tax protest, which they describe as "a middle-class" gesture, is only one way to influence government policy decisions, they say. "The other way is to run for lo office and be honest about Judith asserted. "We sho push for local government p er, which is more manageal Another way is to be aware what public officials are do and be there when they doing it."

Through it all, the Westo have maintained their sense humor and their hope that president will respond to pr sures to change his position the pardon, as evidenced their final line in their letter Ford: "You should change yo mind, and in that case, y may disregard this letter."

Gun-Carrying Initiative Fails

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposed initiative requiring mandatory sentences for gun-carrying criminals and drug pushers has failed to qualify for the statewide ballot.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. yesterday announced that the initiative fell 141,306 voter signatures short of qualifying. The measure received 184,198 valid signatures but needed 325,504 to qualify.

The measure, strongly supported by Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and various groups of police officers, would have appeared on the first statewide ballot after the Nov. 5 election if it had qualified.

Enforced Speed Law Tied To Larger CHP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The highway patrol's new and old commissioners said yesterday more patrolmen will be needed if the state wants to fully enforce the 55 mph speed limit — more than 500 new officers could be needed.

Commissioner Walter Pudinski, who Monday announced his resignation, and Dan Lanza, who was named by Gov. Ronald Reagan to replace Pudinski when he returns to the ranks Nov. 1, said the additional men would be needed if the CHP is expected to enforce the controversial speed limit next year.

Pudinski, who earlier became involved in a controversy over the reduced speed limit, said the additional traffic officers could cost taxpayers $9 million.

If the men were added it would push the number of uniformed officers to 6,100.

Lanza told UPI in an interview, "If the new administration decides that more emphasis should be placed on the 55 mph ... then we are going to need more manpower."

"Right now we just don't have the manpower despite the fact our enforcement is a couple hundred per cent over what it was on speed," Lanza said. "We don't have the manpower to make the proper dent in it."

Pudinski said if the conditions remain the same and the patrol is expected to fully enforce the lower speed a minimum of 550 officers would be needed.

He said the CHP now is preparing two budgets. One includes the additional men and the other does not. The patrol's budget this fiscal year is $177 million.

Pudinski said if California is again hit by gasoline shortages the driving public may again begin obeying the reduced speed limit. Early this year motorists drove slower because of the "energy crisis," he said, but as gasoline became available and summer approached "they returned to their old driving habits."

Lanza said, "We have too many people who are not willing to go 55 to comply with the law. We have too much disrespect for it."

Lanza said the 55 mph speed limit is saving lives and motorists overall have slowed down. But he added until "the motoring public themselves discipline themselves to hold to 55—more so than what they're doing—it's a tough problem."

Beef, Pork Shortages Seen In '75

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new Agriculture Department report on the livestock industry indicates there will be a lot of beef and pork this fall, but the amount of meat in groceries could decrease sharply in the first three months of 1975.

Rising feed prices, anticipated short supplies of feed grain and soybeans and the farmer's relatively low return for meat animals are forcing cutbacks in the livestock feeding industry. The report said hog producers will breed the fewest number of sows this fall since 1965, and the number of cattle on feed is the lowest in more than six years.

Poultry production is being cut one-tenth.

All this means that more beef and pork will be available this fall than during the summer months — figures indicate a 3 per cent increase in commercial beef production and an 8 per cent increase in pork.

But look for lower supplies and higher prices during January, February and March of 1975, as current cutbacks in livestock feeding begin to affect the market.

The report said commercial beef production is estimated to be around 6 billion pounds during the fall, while pork production will be around 3.5 billion pounds. By winter, commercial beef production should fall to 5.8 billion pounds and pork will be down to 3.1 billion pounds.

ROPE AND IMAGINATION

Children living on farms don't always have access to the sophisticated playground equipment their city counterparts take for granted, so they make do with what they have. These two girls in Bayport, Wis., use their imagination to turn a rope hanging from a tree into a swing.

Cuba Releasing Four Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four Americans who ended up in jail apparently because they got too close to Cuba will be released as a personal goodwill gesture to two senators who visited there.

A spokesman for Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said yesterday the Czech embassy, which has handled Cuban affairs since diplomatic relations were broken some time ago, announced the imminent release of the four.

He quoted the Cuban government as saying the release was a goodwill gesture to the two senators personally "and not to the United States."

They were identified as Susan Lane Brown, Royalton, Vt.; David Bruce Mirenberg, Upper Sagon, Pa.; Philip Burris, Oakland, Calif.; and Richard Peter Johnson, also of California. They were all charged with drug-related offenses.

Burris and Johnson were arrested Nov. 14, 1970, and charged with taking drugs to Cuba and entering the country without visas. They claimed no drugs were aboard, but their plane landed in Cuba because it was running out of gas.

Mirenberg and Ms. Brown were arrested in Cuban waters Sept. 17, 1973, aboard the yacht Sahiva and charged with drug possession.

Pell and Javits visited Cuba 10 days ago, spoke with officials including Castro, and toured areas of the island. They said they were even allowed to speak with several prisoners.

There are 25 American prisoners in Cuba, nine held for political reasons and the rest on a series of charges ranging from hijacking to drug smuggling.

Girl Battles To Survive Rabies Bite

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — A 6-year-old Indian girl battling to become only the third known survivor of rabies remained hospitalized in a coma and in critical condition today.

The child, Kathy Roubideaux, of Mission, S.D., was bitten by a rabid dog two weeks ago while visiting her grandmother on the Navajo Reservation near Window Rock, Ariz.

The girl was admitted to the Bernalillo County Medical Center Monday and has been unconscious since. Authorities said the fact the child has survived longer than most rabies victims is an indication she may be able to survive the disease.

Dr. Michael Hattwick, a staff member of the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., and the physician who treated an Ohio boy who survived rabies last year, is in Albuquerque to advise a local team of doctors working on the case.

Hospital officials said the child was bitten by a house pet two weeks ago and although the animal became ill and died a few days later, the girl's parents did not realize the dog was rabid.

Soviet-U.S. Economic Ties Eyed

MOSCOW (UPI). — Soviet experts want greater economic co-operation with the United States and energy is one field in which the two nations could work together, Nikolai Inozemtsev, vice-chairman of the Soviet State Planning Committee, said today.

Inozemtsev said Soviet economists are drafting a development program "bearing in mind the prospects of expansion of economic and commercial co-operation with the United States."

In an interview with the official Tass news agency, Inozemtsev said he will announce this at a meeting of the American-Soviet trade and Economic Council meeting here Monday.

The Soviet economist said a wide field for joint activity was "the setting up of new power production facilities in the USSR."

He said most industrial countries were short of fuel and raw materials while the Soviet Union had gas and coal reserves.

A delegation of 15 top U.S. corporate executives is due here tomorrow for the council meeting and for a week-long promotion of better trade relations.

The council was established a year ago with joint directorship and offices in New York and Moscow. The Soviet directors toured the United States early this summer.

The United States will export about $1.6 billion in goods to the Soviet Union this year, up from $600 million two years ago. Soviet exports into the U.S. market have increased from almost nothing to $300 million.

Inozemtsev said he believed expansion of mutually advantageous co-operation between the two countries "is a natura demand of the epoch of th scientific and technical revolu tion..."

He said the Soviet Union a ready had close contacts wit West European and Japanes companies.

The council, he said, wa considering implementation c 30 joint projects on a larg scale.

Silicone Surgeons Told Of Possible Infections

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said today the nation's plastic surgeons are being notified of a possible infection problem involving thousands of silicone breast implants and testicle replacements.

Involved are about 50,000 pair of breast implants which are used as mammary replacements following surgery or accident, and about 2,000 pair of silicone testicles also used as replacements following surgery or accident.

The FDA said a packaging problem identified by the manufacturer, Dow Corning of Hemlock, Mich., indicated that some of the implants might have been exposed to germs making a post-surgery infection possible.

The FDA said, however, that any problem would develop immediately after surgery and anyone who has received an implant but developed no immediate complications should not be worried.

The FDA said the company is notifying surgeons and distributors that the problem can be corrected by proper sterilization but that the products should not be used until after that has been accomplished. The devices were distributed nationwide and in some overseas countries.

Marine Life Lecture Slated

Dr. Gordon L. Chan, head of a scientific team that recorded marine life of the Pacific Revillagigedo Islands last April, will appear at Dominican College at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to describe his trip.

The lecture in room 26 of Bertrand Hall will be illustrated by slides.

Integration Plan Is Ordered

STOCKTON (UPI) — The Stockton Unified School District has been ordered to carry out an integration plan for the district's 30,000 school pupils.

Superior Judge John F. Keane issued the order yesterday in a four-year-old court battle waged by the California Rural Legal Assistance on behalf of minority race residents.

The schools will be required to present the court with a plan and then carry it out.

State Is Fighting Light Timber Fire

COLFAX (UPI) — The state Division of Forestry was hoping today to contain a fire which has blackened 115 acres of brush, grass and light timber on the south side of the American River's North Fork.

Spokesmen said 150 men were fighting the fire about six miles southeast of Colfax in Placer County.

Forms Set To Discuss Sonoma Dam

Supporters and opponents of Sonoma County's controversial Warm Springs Dam will argue the case in a series of public forums jointly sponsored by Sonoma State College and Santa Rosa Junior College.

All the meetings will be at 7:30 p.m.

Sessions are planned for Monday at the Sonoma State College Commons; Tuesday in Burbank auditorium at Santa Rosa Junior College; Wednesday at Kenilworth Junior High School in Petaluma and on Thursday at Sonoma High School in Sonoma.

The forums, which will include discussions and question-and-answer periods, are the idea of Santa Rosa resident Frank La Berge.

Sonoma County voters on Nov. 5 will decide whether to allow the $114 million Army Corps of Engineers project to be built in the Dry Creek Valley northwest of Healdsburg.

Brown To Speak Tuesday At Kent Woodlands Dinner

Edmund G. Brown Jr., Democratic nominee for governor, will speak at a fund-raising dinner for his campaign at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Kent Woodlands home of Roger Kent, 200 Woodland Avenue.

No-host cocktails and a buffet dinner will be served. Admission is $25, or included with the purchase of a $125 ticket to a Brown dinner to be held in San Francisco on Oct. 18.

Brown will be introduced by William Matson Roth of Ross, unsccessful contender in the June primary against Brown for the nomination. Roth got more votes than Brown in Marin in June.

The event will be Brown's only appearance in Marin before the November general election.

Reservations are being handled by the Brown for Governor Committee, 188 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

BEHR — Sen. Peter H. Behr, of San Rafael, Republican nominee for reelection in the Second District, has promised to open an office in Petaluma if he wins next month's election. Sonoma County "deserves a full-staffed legislative office with direct communication to Sacramento," he said. His new district includes the North Coast to the Oregon border.

BURTON — Rep. John L. Burton of San Francisco, Democratic nominee in the Fifth Congressional Distrct, has urged the Army Corps of Engineers to scrub the Warm Springs Dam in Sonoma County from its list of projects to be built. Citing widespread public opposition to the dam, Burton offered to arrange a meeting between corps officials and citizen groups to discuss alternatives to the dam.

Greenland, with an area of 840,000 square miles, is the world's largest island.

Barry Seeks 'Button' Ban

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has proposed a constitutional amendment to limit the power of the president to "push the button" starting a nuclear war.

"I don't think it will happen," said the Arizona Republican and former presidential nominee, "but it would be a good thing to guard against.

"We could come up someday with a fanatic who, as president, wanted to destroy the Soviets and the Chinese," Goldwater said. "Let's say that the president did want to destroy the world. We haven't taken away the power for him to reach in and push that red button."

$230,000 Spent For Rivers Issue

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More than $230,000 has been spent so far by groups for an against the controversial wild and scenic rivers initiative on the November ballot, state records disclosed yesterday.

Opponents have outspent the major group supporting Prop. 17, "Friends of the River," $116,263 to $115,066 since the drive began last January to put the measure on the ballot.

But "Californians Against Prop 17" ran up a $78,174 deficit in its opposition to the initiative, which would halt construction of the Melones Dam on the Stanislaus River near Modesto.

Contributions collected to fight the initiative included a loan of $26,500 from John Hertle of Modesto. Loans totaling more than $37,000 have been made to "Friends of the River," including four loans for $14,000 from Gerald H. Meral of Berkeley and one for $10,000 from Keith Roberts of San Francisco.

The bulk of financial support against Pro. 17 has come from ranchers in the Modesto, Stockton and Manteca area near the Melones dam. The largest contribution was $10,000 from the San Francisco-based farming group Reclaimed Island Lands.

Loans, contributions and more than $45,000 earned selling $2.50 tickets for boat rides on the Stanislaus River made up the $126,000 collected by "Friends of the River."

The remaining 16 measures were put on the ballot by the legislature, 15 are constitutional amendments and one is a $150 million school building aid bond issue.

None of the propositions have drawn anything near the financial interest that Prop. 17 has.

A statement filed by the "Committee for Fair Play" in support of Prop. 5 shows that $49,491 has been spent for passage of the measure, which would eliminate requirements that city, county and public district employees live within the governmental district for which they work.

The group has run up a $29,317 deficit and collected $21,174 in contributions from police officer's and firemen's associations around the state. The largest single contributio were $4,000 from the Inglewo Police Officers Association a $3,340 from the Oakland Poli Officers Association.

The only other stateme filed with the state shows th $6,208 has been collected support of Prop. 15, whi would repeal the requireme that development and low-re housing projects be approv by the voters.

A FEMALE FIRST — Reva Richmond answers a call from the dispatcher in the Marin County Sheriff's Office as she prepares to ride out on patrol. The first woman assigned to such duty, Mrs. Richmond is expected to be on her own in the next few weeks, performing tasks that have been relegated, traditionally, to the men in the sheriff's department.

Changing Gloria Also Sees Change

By JOAN LISETOR

"So much has changed, so little has changed since the last time I was here," Gloria Steinem told the audience last night at the College of Marin. Few in the capacity audience of 2,300 raised their hands when she asked how many had been there when she spoke last in the college gymnasium in January of 1973.

Ms. Steinem began her talk, "Future Aspects of Liberation," reading a statement by Inez Garcia, who was recently convicted in Monterey County of murdering a man who raped her. The statement, taken from testimony during the trial, was Ms. Garcia's explanation of why she killed the man.

"This is a symbolic case for women who are fed up that rape is not considered a serious crime," Ms. Steinem said. "This situation, this tragedy expresses why women are not able to plan for the future, because they are too busy struggling for survival."

Those who assume we just want a piece of the pie as it exists are wrong. What we want is change, she said.

"THE REASON we haven't dared to look forward is we have been trained not to look at the future," she said. "The church taught us to live for life after death, and how did they ever get that one over on us? Industry and corporations have told us to work for retirement. This deferred life offers no place for spontaneity. We need to humanize our sense of time and live in the present."

Ms. Steinem cited changes in the past two years — enormous changes in the attitudes of blue collar women (the wives of blue collar workers); the organizing of groups of women, such as blacks, laborers, secretaries and stewardesses ("Some even wear buttons saying 'Don't fly me. Go fly yourself.' "); the progressive steps taken by the Young Women's Christian Association and women's auxiliaries; and political gains.

The greatest gains, she said, are in the area of consciousness.

"We feel differently about ourselves, and we feel differently about other people. In some sense that effect has given us new life, but we must respect the reality that economic and daily life has not improved," she said.

"Yes, we have made symbolic victories, but look at the overall problems. The number of women receiving unemployment and welfare is up. With our rising expectations, we must have reality and think in long and short-term goals."

The woman's utopian dream is not ironclad, she said. Its hallmark is its built-in mechanism for change.

TO REACH utopia there must be reproductive freedom, the right to have children as well as the right not to, she said. This involves the legalization of abortion, organizing clinics, exposing forced sterilization and going after the antifeminists lobbies, which oppose these things and "are funded by the John Birch Society, fundamentalists churches and some insurance companies," she said.

We need to think about nationalist concerns and listen to the futurists who are telling us Brazil is emerging as a fourth power nation.

"Brazil is a Catholic, male dominated country devoted to expanding its population. We need to think about how this change in power will affect feminism," she said.

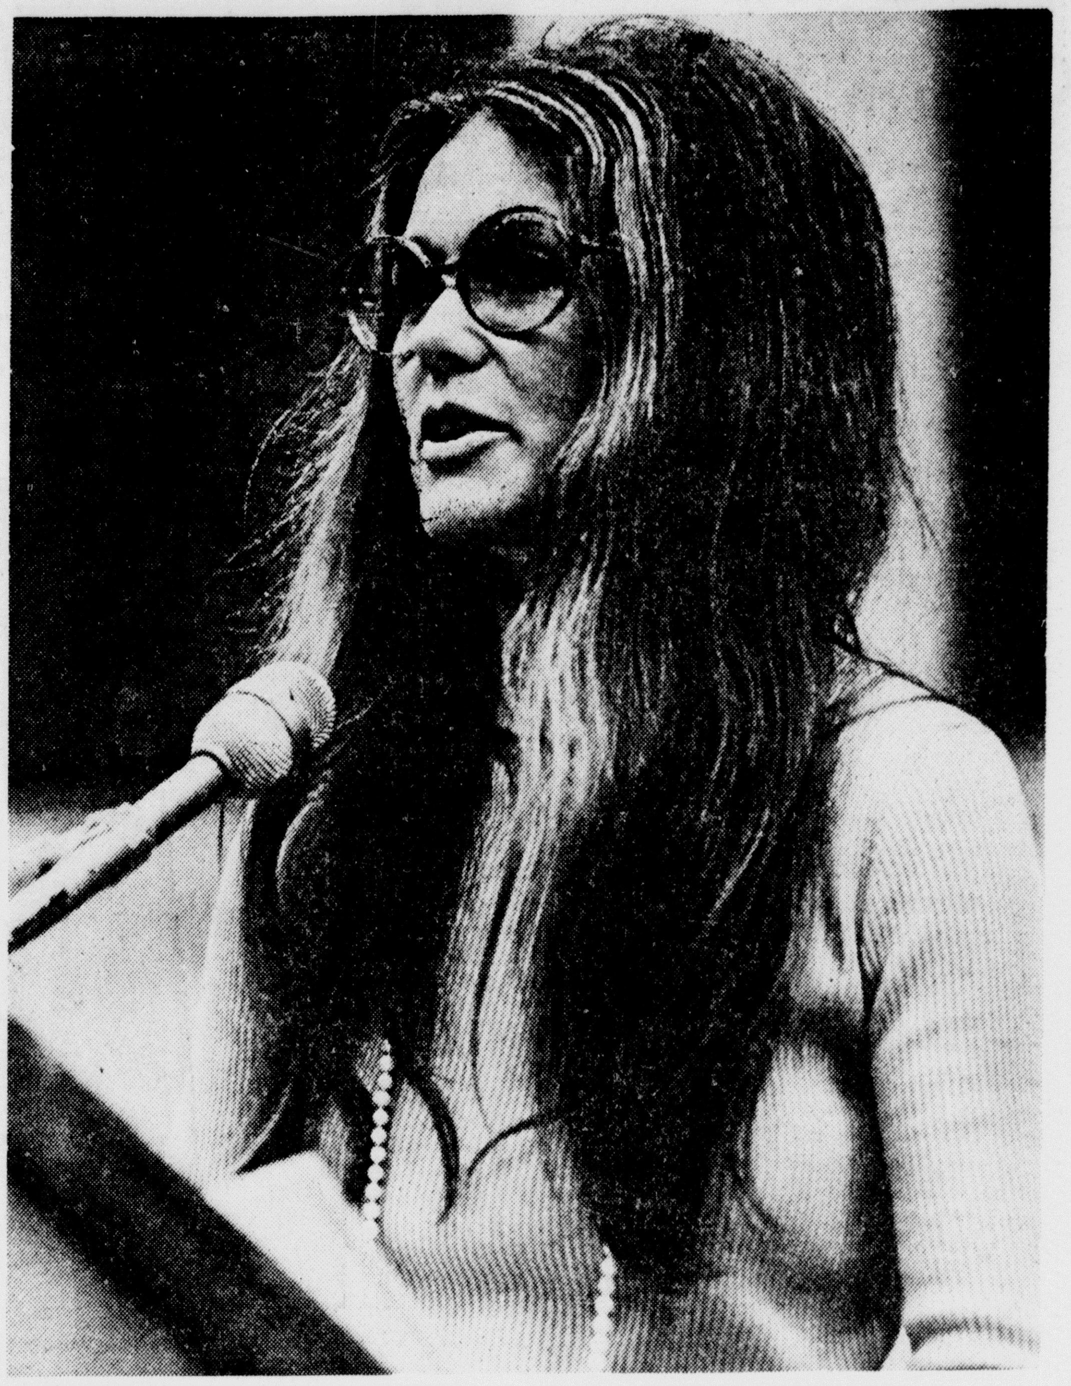
We need to think about the family, she said.

"We don't want to replace an old imperative with a new imperative," she said. "I'm forever asked, 'What are we going to replace the family with?' It's time to start looking for a choice of honorable options — living alone, living with others."

SO MUCH, TOO, about Gloria Steinem has changed. While her style is still easy and warm, some of the sparkle is gone. There is still humor when she says, "People say you can't have a serious revolution about who's going to wash the dishes. Those are the people who don't wash dishes." She can laugh with the movement by saying, "Feminism may be the only decent export this country has ever had."

There is something that goes beyond the external changes. Gone are the Steinem trademarks, the streaked hair, the wire rimmed glasses. For those who are still more interested in what she is like than in what she says, her hair is redder, her glasses horn-rimmed.

The movement is changing and so is its number one spokes-person.



CAPACITY CROWD HEARS GLORIA STEINEM — Speaking last night at the College of Marin Gloria Steinem discussed the changes that have taken place regarding the women's movement in the past two years and the movement's long and short term goals.

Marin's Female Deputy Goes On Patrol In A Man's World

By BETH ASHLEY

Marin Women

Thursday, October 10, 1974 Independent-Journal, 13

People aren's "running off the road" any more when they spot Reva Richmond driving by, but she is definitely a novelty: she is the first woman sheriff's deputy in Marin to be assigned to patrol.

Deputy Richmond began her new assignment last week. For a few weeks more she will "ride double" with her supervisor Sgt. Robert Bertram, but thereafter she'll be on her own, doing work that until now has been traditionally a man's job in Marin.

She expects to be assigned out of the sheriff's main office at the civic center in San Rafael, but she's uncertain whether any limitations will be placed on her: "I'm the first of a kind, and I think no one knows quite what to do with me."

But Deputy Richmond is prepared for anything. She has taken the same courses, passed the same tests, trained in the same pistol shooting and tactics of self-defense as male deputies.

HER DUTIES ordinarily would include answering calls on missing persons, family disturbances, burglar alarms, public brawls. She would check commercial buildings ("If I find one unlocked, I would assume a burglary is in progress. I would go in."). She would make car stops, if she sees a traffic violation or suspected stolen car.

Her first few days on the job, Sergeant Bertram helped her practice car stops and how to approach people or enter darkened buildings with caution.

"No, I'm not scared," she said.

DEPUTY RICHMOND is married to Deputy Robert Richmond, who works out of the Kentfield substation. Does she get tips on patrolling from him? "No, we hardly see each other. He works from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., I work from 4 until midnight. We don't even have the same days off."

Reva Richmond was born Reva Gottlieb. Her father Paul was a bartender for years at San Rafael Joe's and The Chateau, and her mother Dorothy is "the lady in the box office" at the Rafael Theater in San Rafael. She was graduated from San Rafael High School, worked for some time at clerical work in San Rafael before becoming a clerk-typist for the County of Marin.

SHE WAS ASSIGNED to the sheriff's office in 1965 and met her husband-to-be the following year. In 1969 she took a test to become a jail matron, supervising women inmates in the county jail.

"It was a good job, but there was one bad thing — I was confined just like an inmate, in a place with no windows."

Shortly after becoming a matron, her job was upgraded to the "deputy one" classification. In March she took a test to become a "deputy two," and did so well she soon came to the top of the list for appointment to her present job.

Her first assignment was to the civil division, where her job was to serve legal papers for the sheriff's office. She "rode double" until she had learned the legal ramifications of the papers, the geography of country roads and best ways to approach people.

IT WAS DURING this period that she knew her appearance startled the public.

"People were surprised to see me. They'd make remarks like 'You're the prettiest deputy I ever saw.' It's been an advantage, so far, being a female. Many are elated to see a female out there doing a job like this. The only disadvantage I have over a man is physical strength."

But she has taken classes in self defense, and Sgt. George Reuss, training officer, said she is "very competent" with a pistol. She wears a 38 caliber Smith and Wesson special revolver: "It weighs 13 pounds including the belt — it makes a good sauna belt," she said.

She is currently attending Dominican College in San Rafael studying basic law. "I'd say 70 per cent of the deputies are taking classes to qualify for promotions." Next step in the ladder from a deputy two is a sergeant's rank.

"I DON'T HAVE any great ambitions or goals" within the sheriff's office, she said, but she thinks the opportunities are great for the next two women who will be assigned to patrol, Deputies Marty Machado and Mary Anne Brown "They're younger than I am," she said. Deputy Richmond is 45.

She has two daughters. Melody Lane, age 23 and studying for a master's degree at Oregon State University, is "very pleased" at her mother's new career. Becky, 18 and a student at College of Marin, "has found it hard to live in a house with two police officers. When you're in high school, and you know what your friends are doing, you want to do the same things, whether or not a police officer will approve. At age 18, though, it changes. I hope it will be easier for her from now on."

DEPUTY RICHMOND said she is "not a libber" but believes in equal pay for equal work, and equal opportunity for women.

Half of the male deputies on the force have been "real good" about her joining the ranks, "the other half wish it had never come to pass — not that they're against me personally, but they wish times hadn't changed.

"But their attitude in general is they can't change things so they might as well accept it."

Said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, in welcoming Deputy Richmond to the ranks — "Whether they are men or women, every one of our deputies will continue to receive the best training possible so they can do their jobs and be a credit to the people and County of Marin."

Marin Women Being Nominated For Club's Achievement Awards

A Woman of Achievement Award will be given Oct. 22 by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Marin County.

Hundreds of organizations in Marin have been invited to nominate women for outstanding achievements in keeping with objectives of the BPW federation. Nominees need not be members of the organization and "in fact need not even be employed," according to Laura Craig, public relations chairman of the club.

Awards will be made at a dinner at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 22 at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael. None of the nominees will be informed before that evening of their candidacy; even the panel of judges will remain anonymous until that time.

Gifts will be given to the top winners, certificates to all nominees.

Objectives of the BPW federation are to elevate the standards for women in business and in the professions, to promote the interests of these women, to bring about a spirit of cooperation among them and to extend their opportunities through education.

Individuals or organizations wishing to make nominations may do so by writing their name, the name of their nominee and a 200-word statement about the nominee and sending it to Women of Achievement Program, P.O. Box 363, San Rafael, 94901. Deadline is Oct. 15.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Roses Are A Girl's Dad's Best Friend, So Donor Learns

RAP:

I fell in love with this girl at work, but she left for college. She said I could write to her, and I'm tryingto get up the nerve.

We never went out, but we talked a lot. I gave her a dozen roses as a goodbye gift and asked her out to lunch, but she said the girls had planned a lunch for her and she was awfully sorry.

The next day she told me roses were her Dad's favorite flower and she'd served him a birthday dinner by candlelight, with them as a centerpiece. (I'd had a birthday that week too.)

About the only encouragement I had from her was when she brought cookies to work and urged me to have one even though I said "No, thank you." (I'm trying to lose weight.)

Should I write? — R.

DEAR R.:

By all means — write. But don't build up your hopes too much. A girl who said roses are her father's favorite flower (not hers) and uses them to decorate HIS birthday dinner table (not yours), still needs a lot of persuading! — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

When I met Ben I thought he was cute and cool. He was very tan and had hair to his shoulders. On the beach, he looked great. We had wonderful talks. This summer I was pretty sure I was in love with him.

Then he went back home. I saw him again last week (we'd been writing almost every day). H. and S., he's lost his tan, his hair is short, and he even wears his pants too short. He just isn't cute anymore at all.

Can you be in love with a guy by letter, but not in person? — SORTA DOUBTFUL

DEAR SORTA:

I'd say you were in love with a summer memory. Beach romances often fade with the tan. — HELEN

DEAR SORTA:

Why not keep writing (if he does), but cool it to friendship? By next summer, maybe short hair and pants will be less important than a good personality. — SUE

RAP:

You said "Ellynn" (who wrote "What Is Getting to Know Yourself?") has also written "What is a Crush?" and "What is a First Love?" Is there a way I could have a copy of all three? I want them for my scrap book. — COLLECTOR

DEAR COLLECTOR:

Since many of you collectors have asked for a copy of Ellynn's insightful columns, we've had several thousand printed up (all three on one sheet), and we'll send a copy to anyone who encloses a long (No. 10), self-addressed, stamped envelope with their request.

If you want extra copies for your friends, enclose extra stamps.

Address your requests to us, Helen and Sue Bottel, P.O. Box 23057, Sacramento, 95823. — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer — c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Why Do Wives Work? Both For Luxuries, Necessities

NEW YORK (UPI) — To determine the effects of inflation on American households, an employment agency has just completed a national random survey.

The report on the survey by Staff Builders Inc. includes these highlights:

Three out of four or 75 per cent of the nation's housewives are working wives.

Seventy-four per cent of these working wives say they could not maintain their current standard of living if they stopped working.

Fifty-seven per cent said their salaries pay for necessities only; 19 per cent said their salaries pay for luxuries only; 24 per cent said salaries pay for both.

Forty-seven per cent became two-income families in the past two years; 40 per cent in the past year.

Forty-four per cent of working wives responding to the survey have fulltime jobs; 56 per cent hold temporary or part-time jobs.

From the looks of the survey it appears the battle against inflation is a big reason many wives work.

Bloomdales Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Bloomdale, owners of the Novato Coffee Shop for six years in the late 50s and early 60s, were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception and buffet supper at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Sparks of Strawberry.

The Bloomdales now live in Nice, a community on the shores of Clear Lake.

Among the 70 guests was Bloomdale's uncle, Alex Robertson, from London, Canada; cousins Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Eliason of Seattle and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Engvall of San Bruno, sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Easton of Visalia, and many longtime friends from Bellflower where the couple was married.

Born and educated in Canada, Bloomdale moved to Bellflower when his family purchased a sweet shop there. He met his bride-to-be when she moved there from Arkansas.

Bloomdale was employed as an accountant in Wilmington for 17 years, then worked for the Army Transport Service in Seattle as a purser. Following their years in Novato, he served 12 years in the Military Sea Lift Command. Shortly before his retirement in 1972 his wife accompanied him on a seven-month tour of duty in Sasebo, Japan.

For many years Mrs. Bloomdale worked as executive secretary for the Home Insurance Co. of New York in its San Francisco office, retiring in 1967. In 1968 she worked as consulting secretary for the consul general of South Vietnam in San Francisco.

The Bloomdales have two children, Jeanne Ann (Mrs. Sparks) and Robert, who now lives in Utah. There are five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

He Was On Run For 23 Years

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Crippled in his teens, James L. Ward hobbled from job to job through 50 states and 23 years, always looking back for the federal agent he knew would someday arrest him.

In San Antonio, Tex., several days ago, Ward went to San Fernando Cemetery to see his father's grave. Beside it was a tombstone with his own name on it.

Ward knew it was time to end his days as a federal fugitive, a role he began by failing to register for the Korean War draft.

"I tell you it's something else," he said yesterday. "It's the first time I've been able to step outside."

He had just surrendered to federal marshals who confirmed they were no longer interested in prosecuting him.

By his own account, Ward, 41, held 693 jobs during his days on the run and he had the payroll stubs to prove it.

He was in an Oklahoma City hospital when he turned 18 and faced Selective Service registration. But he had been injured in separate auto and motorcycle accidents in 1952.

"I was at Crippled Children's Hospital," he said. "I was supposed to register for the draft and my mom went by the draft board and told them when I got out she would bring me to register."

His sister Dorothy drove him to the draft board office a few months later. He was in a wheel chair and the staff had to go downstairs to talk to him.

"They took one look at him, one look at his legs and told him he would never have to register again," she said. "That was the beginning of it — a misunderstanding."

Ward said he never reported for a physical.

"The people up there saw my legs," he said. "They knew all about it. I just didn't go. My card read 4F."

Ward said he left and worked across the United States, mostly in Ohio.

"When I came back a year later my mother told me the FBI had a stack of warrants for my arrest, enough to put me away for 20 years, and I had better leave town.

"All I had was a bus ticket to St. Joseph, Mo., and $5 on me," he said. "I was crippled and couldn't work. I've got both my hips cut completely out and replaced with steel and grafts."

Agents followed him for years, checking with relatives to see if they had heard from him. He said he was afraid to call home and lost contact with relatives.

"I probably know half the people in the United States," he said. "I've worked in every town."

He said he went to Texas to see his father's grave and "couldn't believe my eyes."

"There were three tombstones, my father, Vinnie, my brother, Lewis, and the other one was me, James L. Ward. I don't know if there's a body in it or not. Maybe it's just a memorial."

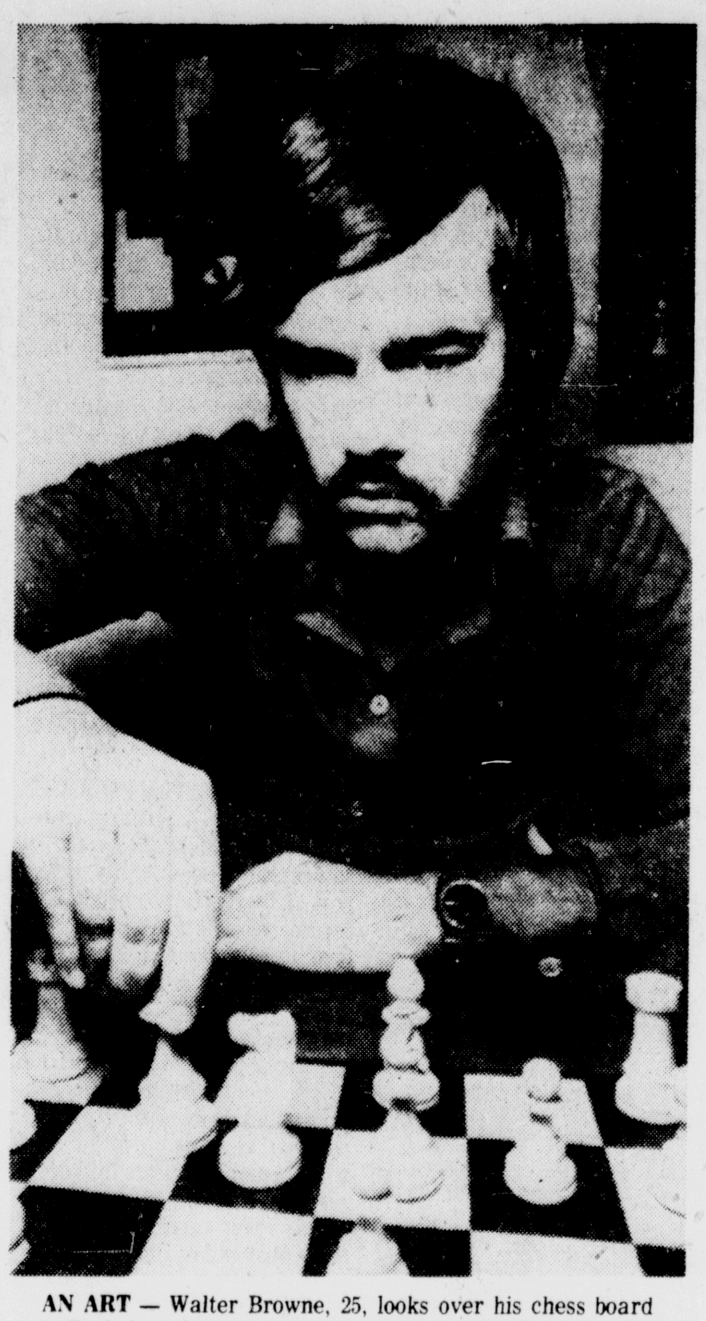
Court Rejects All Appeals From Dr. Finch

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City court of appeals has turned down all appeals by the state and ordered a medical license issued to Dr. R. Bernard Finch, allowing him to practice medicine in Missouri.

John A. Hailey, executive secretary to the state Board of Registration for the Healing Arts, said yesterday the board would ask the Supreme Court to take immediate jurisdiction of the case.

The board had filed a formal request for rehearing with the Kansas City Court of Appeals on Oct. 1 after the court had said that the board must grant Fince a license. Yesterday, the court refused the state a rehearing in the case and rejected a transfer of the matter to the Supreme Court.

Finch spent 12 years in a California prison for murdering his estranged wife, Barbara Jean, in their West Covina, Calif., home in 1959.



AN ART — Walter Browne, 25, looks over his chess board in Berkeley where he practices every day for championship tournaments. The game, which he is good at from practice, is his whole life.

(UPI Telephoto)

More Than A Game, Says Chess Champion

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — "To be good at anything," says Walter Browne, "you have to practice."

Browne, 25, United States chess champion, tries to put in six to eight hours a day refining the creative touches of the game.

"It's an art, a science," said Browne, who lives in a small Berkeley penthouse. "There's mathematics, logic and above all creative ideas and beauty."

The trim, mustachioed Browne is one of the leading challengers to the world title now held by American Bobby Fisher, and is considered a drawing card at the tournaments he attends.

Browne said he remembers when he had to bum around Europe in his attempts to get invited to major tournaments. Now, tourney organizers send him air fare and first-class accomodations.

"You can express yourself in chess," said Browne. "Some players are introverts and some extroverts. It comes out in their games."

Browne said that he and world champ Fisher were friends who have similar backgrounds. Both dropped out of New York's Erasmus High at age 18 and both have a contempt for higher education.

"Teachers are stupid," said Browne. "School is for the masses, not for geniuses."

He said Fischer "puts all his energy into chess. No women; no night life. He is studying all the time."

Browne's day begins with tennis and after lunch he studies chess strategems. After dinner he practices a little more and then usually watches some television before retiring.

When Browne sits down to play an opponent, and he's faced nearly all the modern masters, he plays not only to win, but for the beauty of the movement on the board.

Asked of chess wasn't a strange way to spend one's life, Browne replied:

"The most important thing is to do what you want to do. I love chess, and I'm good enough to make a living at it.

"How many people can say they do exactly what they want and getpaid for it too?"

FAMILY

"The Bears and I" — Contemporary saga of the Indians' struggle to keep their homelands. Vietnam veteran seeks solace in the woods and adopts three orphaned bear cubs which offend local Indians. Conflict with Park commission and Indians adds tension. Filmed in British Columbia. Forest fire provides plenty of action.

"Godspell" — Modern musical version of the Gospel with the age-old words portrayed by carefree youths singing to ragtime, jive, waltz and pop music — spirited dancing. (Children over 10)

"What's Up Doc?" — Fast moving, nutty, slapstick comedy set in San Francisco starring Barbra Streisand.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"11 Harrow House" — Low-key comedy about a clever heist of billions of dollars worth of diamonds from headquarters of a clearing house. Some vulgarities and a crime-does-pay ending, but humorous.

"Harold and Maude" — Black comedy about an old woman who teaches a young man how to enjoy life and ends up being his wife.

"Juggernaut" — A sea disaster melodrama on a luxury liner. Huge ransom demanded for location of several bombs. Emphasis is placed on highly technical business of dismantling the bombs. (Product Digest).

"King of Hearts" — An amusing French satire posing the question: Is it the lunatics in possession of a village or armies that make war?

"The Mechanic" — Slick, suspense crime story about a man who executes crimes for the Mafia. Good photography, realistic acting, violence. (For over 14)

"Play It Again Sam" — A one-joke comedy about a movie buff. Most of the comedy stems from Woody Allen's constant self-deprecation. Amusing take-offs on old movies. Mature teens.

"Three Musketeers" — A spirited production of the classic story of bravery and intrigue. Very entertaining, considerable violence, some sex.

"When Eight Bells Toll" — A James Bond type Royal Navy officer masquerades as a marine biologist to break a ring that is hijacking ships for gold bullion. (Boxoffice)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz" — Well made but cynical story of ambitious young man from Montreal's Jewish ghetto. Sex and cursing. (Over 16).

"Cabaret" — Liza Minnelli's dazzling performance in a musical about a decadent time — set in Berlin in the 1930s. Sex and cursing. (For those over 17)

"California Split" — Two totally different people in personality, temperament and values become friends in the hopeless web of the compulsive gambler. Plot is thin, foul language abundant. For over 17. (Film Information)

"Longest Yard" — Overly long film details a football game between convicts and a semi-pro group of prison guards. The two sides try to slaughter one another "legally." Strictly for Reynolds and devoted gridiron fans.

"Parallax View" — Nine witnesses to an assassination die. The remaining witness reopens the case and uncovers an insidious conspiracy. Some cursing, much bloody violence but extremely suspenseful.

"Return of the Dragon" — Bruce Lee appears in Rome to aid a Chinese girl whose restaurant is coveted by gangsters. Done in a tongue-in-cheek manner but very violent Kung Fu battle.

"S.P.Y.S." — Zany spoof of CIA operation in Paris where a couple of bumbling spies go underground to avoid assassination and succeed in messing up French anarchists' plans.

"Vanishing Point" — Accentuated by hard driving rock music and the deafening roar of an engine an ex-race driver determinedly tries to drive a car from Denver to San Francisco in 15 hours. Elaborate efforts are made to slow him down. Sex, nudity, much violence and cursing.

ADULTS ONLY

"Blume in Love" — A self-indulgent romance about a divorce lawyer who tries to win back his own wife. Nudity, sex, cursing. (Not for youth).

"Chinatown" — Gruesome mystery set in Los Angeles of 1937. Good cast and costuming. Brutal violence and nude love scenes.

"Groove Tube" — In spite of some hilarious moments, this spoof of American TV diet is mostly in poor taste. Excessive nudity, sex and cursing.

Sexy Jumper Not A Crime

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A University of Nevada coed who wore a sexy jumper to class has been cleared of indecent exposure charges filed against her for sporting the same outfit at a school dance.

Laura Ann Bode, 23, said the whole case was ridiculous and "a waste of everybody's time."

University Police Chief Keith Shumway said the jumper consisted of a dress held up by two skimpy straps and it only covered the essentials of Ms. Bode's upper torso.

Standard Oil Widow Can't Bankroll Ballet

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rebekah Harkness, widow of William Hale Harkness of the Standard Oil family, is unable to bankroll the Harkness Ballet, and the company may have to disband next year.

A company spokesman said yesterday a $1.5 million deficit is projected next year because of "rapidly rising costs and a bearish stock market."

Robbers Give Up Heavy Bag

DENVER (UPI) — A bag stuffed with $33,000 looked enticing to three would-be robbers yesterday, but they couldn't carry it away.

It was weighted down with $1,000 in quarters.

The trio entered the city treasury office shortly after noon while several employees were at lunch, said assistant City Treasurer Bill Costlow.

"They kept a cashier busy making change for a $10 bill while waiting for an opportunity to grab the bag," Costlow said. "It had just been delivered by armored car and hadn't been put away yet. It was just lying there on a countertop."

Costlow said the men, who appeared to be unarmed, waited until two other employees were not looking, then grabbed the bag and dropped it on the floor.

"They apparently decided that it was too heavy for them to run down the hall with," he said, "but at least they picked it up and put it back on the countertop before they escaped."

TV REVIEW

Good Film On April's Xenia Storm

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC-TV is bumping its low-rated "Sierra" series tonight for an excellent documentary about Xenia, Ohio, the small town devastated by a killer tornado last April and still rebuilding today.

The program isn't one of those quickies in which a network team checks right in after the event, returns six months later for progress footage, then pastes it all together and calls it a documentary.

It instead covers the Xenia story in stages, from the actual tragedy, to the town's effort to assess its losses and dig itself out, and finally to the long summer of still-continuing reconstruction.

Entitled "Tornado! 4:40 p.m., Xenia, Ohio," the opening segment includes not only close-up footage of the twister, filmed with a home movie camera by a Xenia resident, but also the actual sound of the tornado, recorded by another local resident.

It's chilling, spectacular material, to be sure, but the real meat of NBC's show lies in the quiet, low-key way it goes about reporting the reactions of the townsfolk to what had happened and what they hope will happen.

It makes particularly good use of photographs of the city's "old north end," taken the summer before the tornado by Xenia's former mayor, to illustrate what the storm had done to streets of stately old wood homes once surrounded by rows of elderly maple trees.

The verbal contrasts are equally good. A 14-year-old boy, recalling the moments after the twister passed on, said he heard no birds singing, and saw no neighborhood pets, "just people and trash."

His father, whose home and camera shop were destroyed, says he and his family aren't leaving, that "this tornado, dammit, is not going to have the last word."

The show primarily is about spirit and the spirit it conveys, is a good, hopeful one that should be seen by those of us who are convinced the nation has long since departed for hell in a handbasket.

Producer George Murray obviously put in a lot of time, care and thought on this show, as did writer Patrick Trese, who also skillfully handled most of the interviews in the one-hour program.

Mosaic Chamber In Kickoff Concert

The Mosaic Chamber Group will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Monday at the Veterans Memorial Building, San Rafael, as the first of five offerings in the Marin Concert Association's new series.

Admission is by membership only, according to spokesman Esther Dearth, of 441 Via Casitas, Greenbrae, who said information on joining may be obtained from her or Ann Wylie of 98 Coronet Avenue, Mill Valley, or Jo Mulaskey of 18 Sherman Court, Fairfax.

Offshore Port Regulation Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted 78-2 to establish strict licensing procedures to regulate the ownership, construction and operation of deepwater ports off the coasts of the United States.

The bill is a major energy-producing effort by Congress to promote the construction of deepwater ports for use by giant oil tankers while at the same time protecting the environment.

Approval of the bill came yesterday after the Senate defeated, 48-34, an amendment by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., that would have prohibited any person connected directly or indirectly with the oil industry from obtaining a deepwater port license.

Hollings said he wanted to prevent the oil industry from taking control of the nation's deeper water ports "and restore a measure of competition to this industry."

But Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., who moved to table (kill) the amendment, argued that licensees had to be chosen on basis of "what will serve the national interest."

At present, the substantial water depths required for supertankers to operate safety prevents them from entering most U.S. ports.

In 1973, four-fifths of all U.S. petroleum imports arrived by tanker.

The bill would authorize the transportation secretary to issue licenses to own, build and run deep-water ports.

Under its terms, no license could be issued until all affected federal agencies, including Interior, State, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Corps of Engineers, have weighed its impact on laws and programs they administer.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Attorney General would also be required to determine if the issuance of a licens would adversely affect compet tion, and violate the antitru laws.

The bill allows the EPA a ministrator to veto the issuanc of any license if development a deepwater port would in an way harm the environment.

The measure would also pr vent any deepwater port fro being built unless the governo of the coastal states adjacent t the proposed site also approve the issuance of the license.

Vive La Difference?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How do Republicans and Democrats differ? The Republican Congressional Campaign Committee newsletter this week suggests the following:

"Democrats buy most of the books that have been banned somewhere. Republicans form censorship committees and read them as a group.

"Republicans consume three-fourths of all the rutabaga produced in this country. The remainder is thrown out.

"Republicans usually wear hats and almost always clean their paint brushes. "Republicans employ exterminators. Democrats step on the bugs.

"Republican boys date Democratic girls. They plan to marry Republican girls, but feel they're entitled to a little fun first.

"Republicans sleep in twin beds — some even in separate rooms. That is why there are more Democrats."

Crew To Take France To Port

SAINT VAAST LA HOUGUE, France (UPI) — Striking crewmen of the S.S. France voted to return the vessel to its home port of Le Havre yesterday and resume negotiations in their efforts to keep the world's largest passenger ship in service.

The crew seized the France four weeks ago, first immobilizing the ship three miles off Le Havre in the English Channel. Later they were forced by bad weather to sail to a more sheltered mooring near this Normandy peninsula town.

The crew voted 385-101 with two abstentions to accept a seven-point proposal negotiated by maritime unions, the French Line which owns the vessel and the government.

UP AND AWAY — President Ford is escorted by his daughter, Susan, and the new White House dog, Liberty, as he strides to a helicopter on the executive mansion lawn. The President left yesterday to attend a Republican fund-raising dinner in Philadelphia.

(UPI Telephoto)

Senate Democrats Knock Ford's Economic Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's new economic proposals were characterized by two Senate Democrats today as both a continuation of the policies of the Nixon administration and a surrender to the oil producing nations.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Ford's 31-point program "bears too close a resemblance to the fiscal and monetary policies of the previous administration, polices which have long since proved inadequate to meet the emergency."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., added that the President's energy-related proposals fell "far short" of the emergency at hand and were "a surrender" to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Jackson was promoting his own resolution for an immediate 1 million barrel per day cut in oil imports and a domestic oil price "well below" the OPEC prices.

The criticism accompanied some of the most encouraging economic news that Ford has received in his two months in office — a gain of only 0.1 per cent in the September wholesale price index, the smallest increase in a year.

The stock market, responding to Ford's economic program and the price index announcement, shot up more than 20 points during its first hour today. It gained 28.39 points yesterday.

Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board, echoing the optimism Ford expressed yesterday, told Congress' Joint Economic Committee today that he does not share the widespread view that the nation is heading into "a deepening recession."

At a press conference yesterday, the President was still wearing a "WIN" pin in his lapel, stood in brilliant sunshine in the White House Rose Garden and defended his proposals, especially the tax. "WIN" stands for "Whip Inflation Now."

Ford said the surtax would only cost $42 — a mere 12 cents a day — to the family of four with $20,000 in income. The family of four with $16,000 pays only $3 a year, he said. Families earning $15,000 would pay no extra tax.

The tax program, along with other measures he proposed, will reduce the need for federal borrowing, Ford said, and thereby make loans more available to home buyers, reviving a depressed industry.

"I'm convinced, if the Congress responds, if the American people respond in a voluntary way, that we can have hopefully early in 1975 some meaningful reduction in the rate of inflation," Ford said.

Betty Ford Expected To Leave Hospital Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford is expected to be released from the hospital tomorrow, 13 days after undergoing breast cancer surgery, the first lady's doctor said today.

Dr. William Fouty said her recovery has been "excellent" and she is moving actively about her suite at the nearby Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

"All of the sutures from the surgery have been removed and Mrs. Ford has excellent use of her right arm," according to the daily hospital report released at the White House.

"Her postoperative course remains excellent," the medical bulletin said.

Fouty said Mrs. Ford spent an excellent evening yesterday and will have "another ative day" today. He "anticipates that Mrs. Ford will be released from the hospital tomorrow," the hospital bulletin said.

It was learned today that Mrs. Ford has chosen Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld, a Washington television producer, as her new press secretary and State Department employe Nancy Lammerding as White House social secretary.

The two women, whose appointments were expected to be announced formally later in the day, will replace two holdovers from Pat Nixon's staff — press secretary Helen McCain Smith and social secretary Lucy Winchester.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Winchester were personally informed yesterday by Donald Rumsfeld, White House chief of staff, that they would be replaced in a shake-up of Mrs. Ford's staff.

New Hampshire Franklin Bank Alive And Well

FRANKLIN, N.H. (UPI) — The Franklin National Bank of Franklin, N.H., population 7,292, has 4,300 depositors, total assets of $5 million and appears to be in good financial condition.

Assistant Vice President Harry Rogers said yesterday his telephone started ringing when people read or heard about the bankruptcy of the Franklin National Bank in New York, the 20th largest bank in the United States.

"I appreciate the fact people think we're that large," Rogers said. But he would rather they did not think his bank, incorporated in 1879, was in trouble.

"People who called seem to wonder just what this meant, if it was us. Nobody is panicking," he said.

Newspaper Carriers Deserve Whole Week

Independent Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
18 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

This is National Newspaper Week. Traditionally, the press observes its annual week by preening itself a little, and perhaps doing a little self-inspection.

The week climaxes with National Newspaper Carrier Day on Saturday. That day is set aside in honor of the boys (and girls) who deliver the daily paper to your doorstep.

MAYBE IT SHOULD be the other way around. One day is enough for publishers and editors to pat themselves on the back, or even to examine their shortcomings. But the boys who deliver the paper deserve a whole week in their honor.

We say this because, were it not for these youngsters, the work of everybody else in producing this or any other daily paper would go for naught.

As has often been remarked, it's a funny business. You work hard to turn out a good paper, trying to get news of all the many things that interest people into it — and once it rolls off the press, you have to start all over again.

It's a funny business in another way, too.

LONG TRAINING goes into the various job skills required to turn out a daily newspaper. Reporter, advertising solicitor, copy editor, makeup man, pressman — these and a dozen other skills require special instruction, most of it on the job. A seasoned organization, skillful in many specialties, is required to produce a worthwhile daily newspaper.

So, then, what happens?

The product of the work of all these specially trained and specially skilled people — 180 of them fulltime on the Independent Journal, for example — is turned over to boys who are several years away from their first shaves, and for whom carrying the newspaper is just a part-time after-school job.

Moreover, these boys aren't even employees. They are independent contractors. They buy the papers, deliver them, collect for them. If a customer doesn't pay, it's the boy who loses.

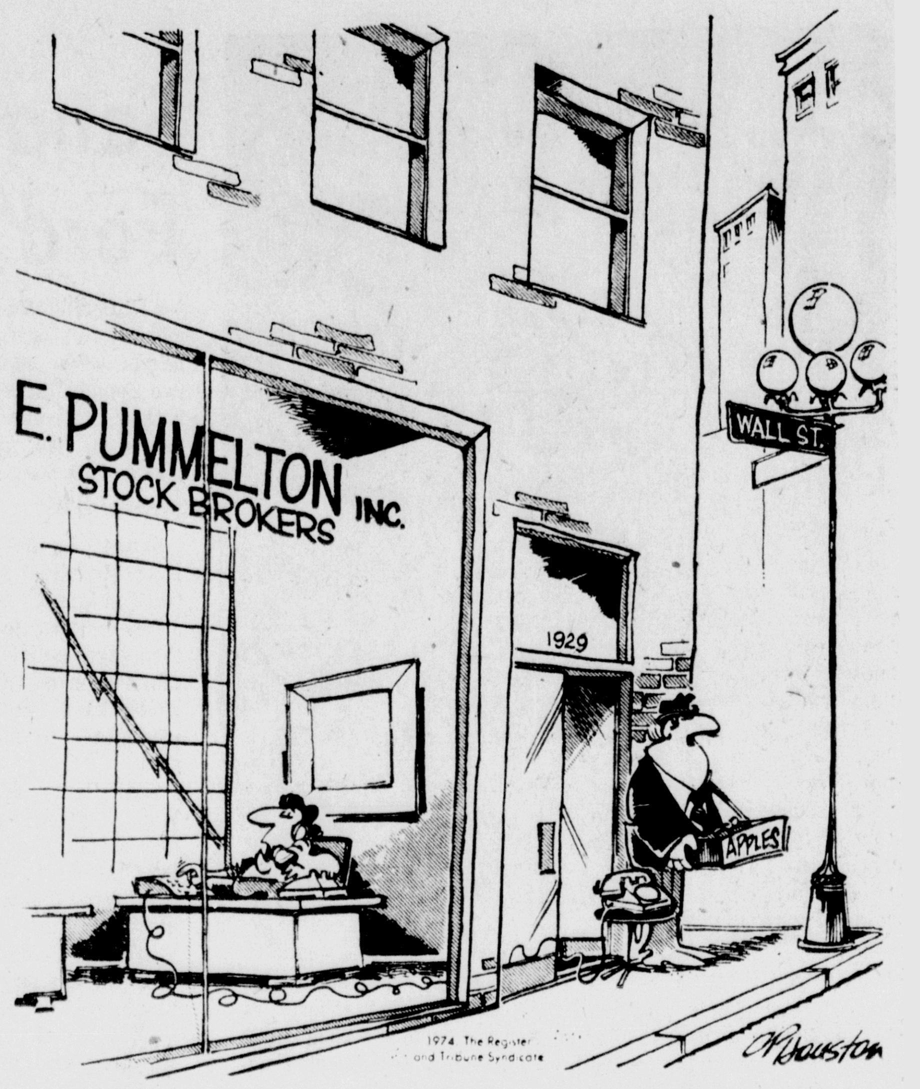
IT'S UP TO EACH of these kids to see that the paper turned out with such labor and expense goes where it's intended to go: to the subscriber.

If he doesn't deliver it promptly, and put it where the subscriber wants it — whether on the front porch, behind the screen door, or in a special container — the result is dissatisfied subscribers. Whatever excellent all those workers were able to put into the product will not be enough if the subscriber doesn't get delivery when and where he expects it.

Talk about responsibility! These kids carry a load of it.

Just about every one of the 775 newspaperboys (and girls) who deliver the Independent Journal feels this responsibility, is conscientious about the job, and delivers the paper properly and on time (provided some of those higher-paid, full-time people haven't fouled up somewhere to make it come late off the press).

Yes, we say this should be National Newspaper Carrier Week. The boys and girls deserve it.



"Hold, please. I'll see if Mr. Pummelton is taking calls."

Something Board Can Do About Dog Control

On Sept. 11, the I-J reported an incident where a Tiburon woman was attacked by dogs. In spite of the fact that the Humane Society receives $390,000 in county money, supervisor Wornum reportedly indicated that "there is little the board of supervisors can do." I suggest that the county should demand results from the Humane Society, or drop the contract and hire county employees to perform animal control functions.

No less than 15 times in the last year I have called the Humane Society, and have received an equal number of bureaucratic runarounds. My neighbors and I have sent at least eleven letters and petitions to the Humane Society in the past sixty days, asking that our leash law be enforced. And recently a young school girl on our block was walking her dog on a leash, when they were attacked by an unleashed dog. Her dog was killed. Fortunately, this time, the girl was unharmed. But what next? Another dog? A child? Will that bring action? Or will the Humane Society react with the same bureaucratic disinterest as when the lady in Tiburon was attacked by dogs?

Annexation Plan Called Blank Check

The IJ's recent article on annexation (Oct. 2) leaves the impression that the nature, extent and cost of the changes that will be required in the water system of Country Club have been finally, and definitively determined, and that the cost of the changes will be no more than 24 percent $100 assessed valuation.

As I am sure you are aware the nature and extent of the changes that will be required have been left to the unfettered determination of the fire chief and no final decision has been made. Until such a decision has been made and the changes accomplished no one has the foggiest idea what the cost will be (e.g. last year's city "fact sheet" said the cost would be 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation. If we wait another year it might drop to 10 cents).

The only certainties are that annexation will (1) give the fire chief a blank check to change the entire water distribution system in Country Club in any way that might strike his particular fancy, and (2) empower the city to effectuate the fire chief's decision and hand the bill to the community, the cost to be spread in a manner that has yet to be revealed.

Kaiser Recommended Rejection Of Contract

We feel we must respond to the article in the Oct. 1 issue of the Independent Journal pertaining to the Larkspur ferry terminal project because there was apparently some misunderstanding in so far as actions and attitudes of Kaiser Engineers are concerned.

No one in Kaiser Engineers nor in any of the Kaiser affiliated companies, nor anyone representing the Kaiser interests either directly or indirectly talked to any federal officials or anyone in any way connected with the program at any government level about awarding the Larkspur terminal contract at the full price or about providing additional funds so that it could be awarded at any price level. On the contrary, we recommended to our client that all bids be rejected.

Secondly, when the district voted on Sept. 13 on the list of deletions from the project, we went to work immediately on an expedited basis to make the many changes in the drawings and specifications, not only to delete approximately $4 million in work but also to redesign a lower cost layup berth. Virtually all of this work was completed and delivered to the district at 5 p.m. on Sept. 26.

Reports On Tamalpais Fire District Disputed

In an article concerning the Tamalpais Fire Protection District recently circulated in the October 1974 Almonte Improvement Club Newsletter there were several errors in fact, the more glaring of which we would like to correct.

The statement that "the inability of the chief and the firemen to get along has resulted in a drop of volunteer firemen from 20 to 7" is untrue. Presently the department has a total of 15 active (participating in drills and meetings) volunteers. Within the past three weeks the department has received five additional applications for volunteer firemen.

The statement that "seven regular firemen have taken and passed the County Fire Department exam and are waiting for openings there" is untrue. The Marin County Fire Department recently had 20 openings for which they advertised and for which more than 400 applications were received. Because information concerning the applications and examinations is considered to be personal, the Marin County Fire Department would be at fault to divulge any such particulars. It can be definitely stated, however, that of the total eight regular firemen hired by the Tamalpais Fire Protection District, seven are not on the waiting list for a job opening with the Marin County Fire Department.

The statement that "a proposed contract between the board and the chief which, among other things would require the district to pay the chief $36,000 if and when he does leave the department" is untrue.

Several months ago, because the rules and regulations of the Tamalpais Fire Protection District were undergoing revision, it was suggested that Chief Bennett formulate a memorandum of understanding to form a working basis between the board and himself for this interim period. This memorandum was reviewed and approved by the board subject to approval by county counsel. We cannot relate the figure $36,000 to any part of the memorandum. . .

CAPITOL QUIPS

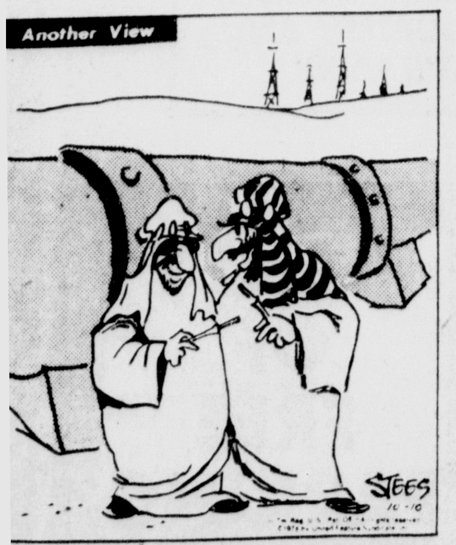
Some experts are saying the Federal Reserve Board should loosen its grip on money and turn it over to housewives, as God intended.

The legal fees for Watergate defendants are terrific. Never have so many lawyers got in trouble for the benefit of so many others.

A super-tax of 20 cents a gallon on gasoline couldn't be passed in Congress. It's a regressive tax — that is, it would cause a lot of people to drive their cars backwards.

President Ford is willing to strike a bargain with his critics. If they won't expect too much from him, he won't provide too much.



"We have nothing to worry about. We ın always count on Detroit and the merican public."

ERWIN D. CANHAM:

Question May Be How Much We'll Stand

Leaders of the United States government — President Ford, Secretary of State Kissinger, economic coordinator and Treasury Secy. William Simon — have all warned the world in the most apocalyptic terms that the stability of free societies is threatened by economic problems centering on inflation.

Few will disagree with them. Warnings are necessary. How effective they will be depends on policies that are hammered out the hard way, domestically and internationally.

But it may be worth observing that one of the great lessons of this century is the capacity of society to sustain terrible blows and survive.

IN THE 1930s, it was widely believed that a modern war — with the devastating and terrorizing effect of bombing from the air — could not last more than a few weeks. People simply could not take it, it was said.

But they did. Beginning with the Spanish Civil War, it became apparent that civilian populations could absorb hitherto inconceivable punishment. It happened in Spain. It happened in Britain. It happened in the Soviet Union, somewhat differently. It happened in Germany.

Now the world is threatened by economic punishment, and many nations are feeling it. There are two kinds. In the Sahel and in the Indian sub-continent, famine has made heartbreaking inroads. In many of the advanced industrial nations, now including the United States, double-digit inflation is cutting deeply into standards of living, imposing much hardship all along the line, most severely upon the poorest people.

Some alarmed authorities expect dire consequences if the situation cannot be turned around. For many reasons — the cost of energy, climatic change, population growth steadily outstripping economic growth, widening gaps between the haves and the have-nots — they see growing desperation in large parts of the world. Some students, like Prof. Robert Heilbroner in a recent book, see regimes turning to despotism and to nuclear blackmail.

Others, like Secretary Kissinger — and with lesser emphasis, President Ford and Secretary Simon — speak of destructive strain on the framework of financial, social, and political institutions. They recall the depression of the 1930s and fear comparable disruption, or worse.

SUCH WARNING may serve a purpose. But rhetoric alone does little. Fear and foreboding alone do little. There must be planning and action. Thus far, the planning has been fragmentary and ineffective. Proposals that the consumption of imported energy should be cut drastically would be very difficult to carry out in many nations, not least in the United States.

Rhetorical efforts to persuade the oil-producing nations to reduce prices have been ineffective, perhaps counter-productive. Over the long pull, the effects of over-production of oil and restraint on consumption might have a normal effect on artificially inflated prices. That is what the leaders of the other consuming nations seem to be counting on.

When does doom-saying become harmful? When does the voice of moderation muffle desirable concern? It is difficult to say. There is no doubt that the build-up of petro-dollars in the hands of the oil cartel could become absurb. There is no doubt that new sources of energy should be cultivated with all possible zeal, especially of renewable sources of energy as contrasted to the finite supply of oil.

But it is also true, surely, that the peoples and the institutions of the world continue to show how much punishment they can take without collapse. Call it the instinct for survival. Call it the ability to muddle through. Belt-tightening, reduction of waste, a little popular response all along the line, can accomplish a great deal in the aggregate. Such response may also help provide the margin which can be used for the rescue of peoples and societies who are indeed in the gravest distress.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH:

There is only one road to cheaper oil and gasoline for Americans. That road is less use of oil and gasoline.

As recently as two weeks ago, high officials in Washington clung to the hope of finding another road. They thought there were two possible alternates.

One would be the formation of a common front by the big oil-consuming countries for bargaining with the Arabs.

The other would be the actual use of American military power against the Arabs.

EVENTS HAVE SHOWN that a common front is simply not attainable now. And the political downfall of General Spinola in Portugal virtually rules out any use of American military power in the eastern Mediterranean which is not sanctioned by the western European allies.

No one today would support or approve of such military action against the Arabs. Britain, France, and West Germany all oppose any such action.

Last October, the United States could bypass the disapproval of the west European allies by sending its arms for Israel through the Portuguese air bases in the Azores. But what would happen now if Washington tried to use those same bases for military action against Arabs?

The political complexion of the changing regime in Lisbon is not yet fixed. There is no certainty that the flow of power from right to left will go all the way. But General Spinola was a political conservative. He is out. And many of the other conservatives in the officer corps of the three armed services have also been dismissed. Power is shifting from right certainly to center and probably on to left of center. No one can be sure how much farther it will go.

The shift from right toward left has probably already ruled out any use of the Azores bases for purposes unacceptable to the new leaders of the junta in Lisbon.

OF COURSE, the closing of the Azores air bases would not by itself prevent American military operations in Arabia. But it would mean that such an operation would have to be mounted and supplied largely by surface ships operating through the entire length of the Mediterranean. This in turn requires at least the consent of Britain, France, Italy, and West Germany.

The twin question of a united front with those countries, and with Japan, was explored in Washington last week by Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger, conferring with finance ministers of the main oil-consuming countries. Literally nothing in the way of an agreed common position against the Arabs was achieved. There was not even agreement on the road to be taken toward such a common front.

France is adamantly opposed to confrontation of any kind with the Arabs. The others are said to be less forceful in their attitude, but in substantial agreement with the French that even a diplomatic and financial common front against the Arab oil producers would be a mistake.

In other words, there is simply no visible possibility of a diplomatic plus financial common front of the oil-consuming countries. Only Washington even wants such a front. So that road is closed.

IN THEORY, it can be argued that the United States has the raw military power to seize the oil-bearing parts of Arabia.

But any serious exploration of the consequences makes it clear that the results would only make the world's oil problems worse.

The first landing of American forces in Arabia would undoubtedly mean the blowing up by Arabs of the wells, refineries, and loading pumps and pipelines. Any attempt to reopen the wells and ship out the oil would have to be conducted under guerrilla attack. Moscow would certainly use the occasion to improve its frayed relations with Arabs and with the west Europeans. The survival of the NATO alliance would be in danger. So that road, too, is closed.

All this means that less use of oil and gasoline inside the United States is the only way to get prices down. And even that will not necessarily cause the Arabs to cut the price of their oil. They have said repeatedly that they do not really want to increase their oil sales. They would rather save some of it for their grandchildren. But they have said that they will, if and when Israel hands back the conquered Arab territories.

There seems no reason to doubt that the Arabs really mean it. And recent events have strengthened their position.

Suspension Of Grain Shipments Correct, But Problem Complicated

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor.)

President Ford and two American grain companies are to be commended for the voluntary suspension of a $500 million shipment of grain to the Soviet Union. Concern about the American consumer's grocery bill sparked the action.

The deal, and in fact the whole matter of food exports, needs to be carefully sorted out. Long-range planning is becoming imperative as the United States tries to balance a number of requirements:

ONE IS THE DESIRE to export American foodstuffs to improve the U.S. trade balance. For years Washington has been promoting food exports. The concern now is that if the U.S. starts curbing its sales nations abroad will lose dependable markets.

There is also the need to protect the domestic market at a time of galloping inflation. The sale of grain to the Russians in 1972 sent up a howl from consumers when domestic shortages developed and food prices shot up as a result.

Trade with the Soviet Union is important to Washington's policy of detente. There must be evidence of a willingness to cooperate with the Russians in areas that are mutually beneficial.

Last, but not least, is the need to provide massive food aid for the poorer nations of the world. As population grows, food supply becomes a problem of mounting urgency.

BEHIND THE DILEMMA of how to balance these various priorities lies the basic change in the world's economy. The two North American producers that once carried the grain stocks for the world — the U.S. and Canada — no longer can do so. A disastrous crop in 1972 ate into reserves and the Soviet sale was a contributing factor.

Then Treasury Secretary Shultz admitted the U.S. had been "burned" in the Soviet deal and should not get burned twice. That presumably is what the Ford administration now wants to avoid.

Especially disquieting is Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz's complaint that the Russians gave no advance warning they planned such a massive purchase of corn and wheat. If this is so, it means the joint reporting system set up when Leonid Brezhnev visited Washington is not functioning properly.

American grain exporters now are to meet with the administration to work out a system of voluntary cooperation and reporting in order to assure supplies at home and abroad. This is a good step. It is to be hoped the Russians, too, will see their own interests served in cooperation with the U.S. government.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"Is this a good tip, or ain't it? No business in the U.S. is as cockeyed as the oil business. If ever a business needed a dictator, it is them. It would be the biggest job held by a single man outside the President; it must not be an oil man, for he is already linked with one side or the other. It's got to be a man that the whole oil industry knows is on the level, fearless, fair, seeking nothing but justice to thousands that produce oil, and millions that use it." — May 16, 1933.

Did San Rafael Council Play April Fool Joke On Itself?

The San Rafael City Council — in an unheralded but dead serious session last April Fool's Day — voted unanimously to proceed with full disclosure of economic interests that might be materially affected by official actions.

And, although the policy adopted by the council did not require disclosure of the actual extent of individual assets and interests, it did require disclosure of local clients generating income of more than $250.

The council endorsed full disclosure before requirements of the Moscone Act were clear. The California Supreme Court two months later ruled the law did not compel disclosure of an official's customers, clients or patients.

THE MOVE for full disclosure was spearheaded rather pointedly by Councilman Jack G. Nixon at that April meeting. "It seems to me this would be an excellent time for this council to take the initiative regardless of what the attorney general, the clerk, the judge, the law, the court, or what they say, and go ahead and each one of us file thoroughly," he told colleagues.

Nixon's proposal that councilmen report all local clients who have generated more than $250 in income was embraced by colleagues Fred E. Jensen and Lawrence E. Mulryan.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini, however, approached Nixon's proposal cautiously.

"But that's not the law. Why should you do it," he said. "It's quite a bit of work for somebody like me who's been in business for 38 years, to put down clients."

Nixon replied he had quite a few clients, too.

The mayor balked at "rushing into something for the fanfare of it" and urged the matter be postponed and considered more carefully in two weeks.

But he was ignored by his eager colleagues, and joined them in voting unanimous approval of the disclosure procedure.

THE RESULT is full disclosure by San Rafael city councilmen, who have voluntarily complied with the spirit of the law while other public officials in Marin slip through its loophole by revealing the broad sources of their incomes but withholding clients' names.

The San Rafael disclosure statements reveal that Bettini on several occasions and Nixon on two occasions were active participants in and cast ballots on matters involving clients.

It appears that neither candidate has much to gain from the issue politically, should they face each other in the city's March mayoralty election.

Secret White House Wind Tunnel Where Trial Balloons Blown Up

WASHINGTON — Deep in the heart of the White House, far from the prying eyes of the public and press, is one of the most important rooms in the government. It is the place where they blow up the trial balloons which are floated by the Ford administration.

Thanks to a source who shall remain nameless, I managed to get into the room and see for myself how this all-important operation functions.

THE ROOM was very long — the size of a football field — and divided into workbenches. On each bench was seated a member of the administration or friend of President Ford blowing up large, funny-shaped balloons.

They were so busy with their work, they didn't notice me.

"Say," I said to my source, "isn't that Mel Laird blowing up a balloon over there?"

"Yes," he replied, "the balloon he's blowing up has to do with gas rationing. He tried to float it last week, but it didn't fly."

"So he's going to send it up again?"

"He'll probably try it once more in a different shape and, if it's shot down this time, he'll go on to something else."

"BOY, YOU HAVE to have a lot of air to blow up one of those balloons," I said.

"Mel does. He probably has floated more trial balloons than anyone in the Ford kitchen cabinet."

"How does he do it?" I asked.

"Well, he meets with the president and they decide what trial balloon Mr. Ford wants to send up.

"Let's say the president is thinking about gas rationing but he doesn't know if the public will go for it. So he tells Laird to send up a balloon and see the reaction. Laird comes down here and starts blowing."

"AND THEN HE SENDS it up?" I asked.

"Not really. He has to sell it to somebody. If he sent it up himself, nobody would take the balloon seriously. So he calls up Evans and Novak and says, 'The president is going to institute gas rationing.' "

"And Evans and Novak buy it?"

"Every time," my source said. "They float it in their column and then we wait for congressional and press reaction. If it's negative, the president orders Ron Nessen to shoot the trial balloon down by denying he has any intention of rationing gas."

"Doesn't Laird get angry after blowing up one of those balloons to see it shot down?"

"Heck, no. He works for the Reader's Digest, and this gives him something to do."

"ISN'T THAT Secy. of the Treasury Bill Simon over there?"

"He's blowing up a trial balloon on an income surtax. He'll probably float it at a chamber of commerce dinner in Chicago tonight."

"Who are all those people sticking pins in the balloon that Simon is blowing up?"

"They're Arthur Burns, Alan Greenspan, Roy Ash and Paul McCracken. When it comes to the economy, all Mr. Ford's economic advisers do is stick pins in each other's trial balloons."

"ARE MY EYES deceiving me," I said, "or did Henry Kissinger just walk in?"

"Henry's here quite a bit," my source said. "He just floated a balloon last week on getting tough with the oil-producing countries and it landed with a thud. I guess he wants to take some new balloons with him to the Middle East."

"Look," I said excitedly, "there's Sen. Hugh Scott."

"Poor Hugh," my source said. "The Nixon people used him to launch all their trial balloons on Watergate and he's still trying to get back his second wind."

Taste Is Sweet; Bill Is Bitter

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — America's giant sweet tooth costs the nation millions of dollars in unnecessary medical care, according to a nutritional expert.

The average American consumes 103 pounds of refined white sugar a year, which contributes to health problems such as heart disease, dental decay, obesity and diabetes, said George Briggs, chairman of the nutritional sciences department at the University of California at Berkeley.

Jay W. Tatem Jr., president of the Sugar Association, protested that blaming such health problems on sugar exclusively was misleading and that obesity comes from eating too much food, not just sugar.

They testified Tuesday before a State Assembly committee considering a bill to impose a special tax on refined sugar to provide educational programs on nutrition.

San Francisco Crimes Decline

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of crimes in San Francisco decreased during the first nine months of this year compared with the same period in 1973, the Police Department said Tuesday.

The breakdown, with 1974 figures first:

Assault, 1,941-1,950; burglary, 10,536-11,831; larceny, 9,819-9,680; auto theft, 6,548- 7,183.

Food Reserves Total Only 26 Days, Says UN Expert

OTTAWA (UPI) — A United Nations food expert says the world has only 26 days total food reserves and that agriculture aid channeled through the United Nations must be greatly increased to prevent famine, starvation and revolution in the world.

Roy Jackson, the director-general of the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization, told a news conference yesterday the United Nations would be asking food producing nations to develop national reserves and "we may also need an international reserve to act as a sort of international bank."

He said that in United Nations policy "the first priority must be to improve the degree of self-sufficiency in countries that can carry it off."

Jackson said the agriculture aid channeled through the United Nations must be boosted rapidly from the present $1.5 billion to $5 billion in order to pay for international agriculture development.

The alternative, he said, was "famine, starvation and revolution on your hands . . .

"You are going to have social unrest which would lead to revolution, and the fall of governments and the development of dictatorships."

FINDING FOSSILS

Michael Hammer looks at one of the 60 million year old fossils found along a 350-mile stretch of Mexican coast. Hammer was digging near Baja, Calif., yesterday. The recent find includes indications that primitive men may have reached North America as long ago as 100,000 years, according to a report released at the Flagstaff, Ariz., meeting of the Vertebrate Paleontological Society of America. The report by Dr. Shelton Applegate, of the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History, also indicated that there was once a seaway across what is now Mexico that connected the Caribbean to the Pacific.

Design Drawings Asked For Tam Playing Field

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District have ordered design drawings for a 65,000 square-foot playing field at Tamalpais Valley School.

Directors Tuesday selected the larger of two plans by designer Asa Hanamoto. The field is expected to take from five to six and a half months to construct and is expected to cost between $31,000 and $46,000, according to director Richard Drever.

Board members set 7 p.m. Oct. 22 to interview applicants for several anticipated openings on the district's parks and recreation commission.

Further information on applying for the commission may be obtained by contacting district mgr. Leonard Mitchell at district offices, 303 Bell Lane.

In other business, Drever was reelected board chairman for 1974-75, Director Frank Purdy was named representative to the Local Agency Formation Commission's advisory committee on a municipal utility district for Marin, and Jack Walker was elected district publicist.

Gypsies Attempt Legal Hex Of Law On Fortunes

Sausalito can't deny gypsies the right to read palms and tell fortunes because it's part of their religion.

This contention is at the heart of a lawsuit filed in Marin Superior Court which challenges Sausalito's 29-year-old law against fortune telling.

In it, James and Dorothy Marie Adams, who say they are gypsies, contend the law violates the First Amendment of the Constitution.

The Adamses said they rented a place to be used as a fortune telling parlor in Sausalito to last July but the ordinance won't let them set up shop.

They are entitled to a court order overturning the city law "because a religion for First Amendment purposes need not be an organized or orthodox religious sect . . . and fortune telling and crude astrology of the gypsies are survivals of tribal religion," the suit said.

In true gypsy fashion, the lawsuit doesn't tell where the Adamses live, and their attorney, Boris J. Baranowski, of Los Gatos, refused to say.

Burton Votes For Warfare Curbing Bills

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. John L. Burton, Marin-San Francisco congressman, has voted for a series of bills to curb gas and biological warefare and reduce military expenditures.

Burton voted for a resolution by Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, calling for ratification of the Geneva Protocol of 1925 banning gas and bacteriological warfare. It passed 315-70.

He then voted for an amendment to delete a $5.8 million authorization for nerve gas production facilities at the Army's Pine Bluff, Ark., arsenal, while authorizing $3 million for continued nerve gas research. It passed 214-186.

In other military fund cut votes, as tabulated by Government Research Corp., the Marin-San Francisco Democrat:

Voted for an amendment cutting in half the $75 million authorization for the Safeguard antiballistic missile system and deleting a $45 million authorization for ABM research and development. It failed, 182-219.

Voted for an amendment to delete $169.5 million for counterforce nuclear research and development programs. It failed, 69-238.

Voted for an amendment to reduce from $922.6 million to $622.6 million the fiscal 1975 appropriation for South Vietnam military assistance. It passed, 233-157.

Voted for an amendment to reduce the limit on defense appropriations to $81.2 billion in fiscal 1975. It failed, 178-216.

Voted against the Defense Department appropriation bill of $83.4 billion for fiscal 1975. It passed, 350-43.

Voted for a 60-day extension of Export-Import Bank authority beyond the end of the last fiscal year. It passed, 271-113.

Voted against an amendment to reduce the limit on campaign expenditures by House candidates from $75,000 to $42,500. It failed, 187-223.

Nov. 5 Vote May Decide Water Moratorium's Fate

When voters choose Nov. 5 between the two runoff candidates for the Division 1 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District Board of Directors, they may decide the fate of the district's ban on new water connections.

Candidate Richard J. Boylan, 34, of Woodacre favors continuing the water connections moratorium, while his opponent, Betty M. Forry, 50, of Marinwood opposes it.

Winner would be the probable swing vote on the five-member board to press or drop the appeal of a court decision striking down the board's controversial moratorium.

The candidates also hold opposing views on the proposed intertie pipeline with North Marin County Water District which would import some 4,000 acre-feet of Russian River water annually to central and north Marin.

Mrs. Forry favors the intertie, saying it would "give us adequate time to explore other water sources." Boylan opposes it, believing that it would create "unstoppable pressure for growth."

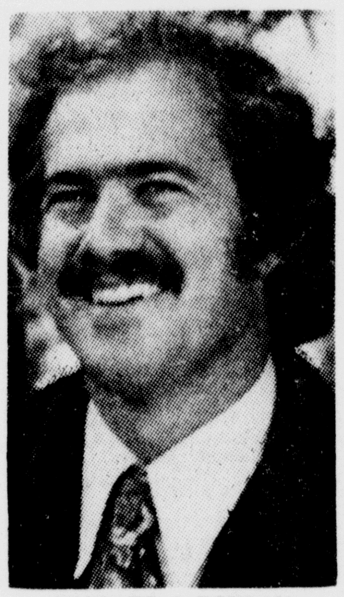
Boylan believes that the water district has responsibility to help stay within limited growth goals set down in the county general plan, acting to complement population planning goals of planning departments and commissions.

Mrs. Forry has said she also favors growth control, but such control should be handled through rezoning and growth control ordinances by the county and cities, not the water district.

Mrs. Forry sees reclamation of waste water and water conserving programs as directions to meet Marin Municipal's long-term water needs. She also believes that expansion of present district facilities and new dam construction are other water supply possibilities.

Boylan, seeking election "because the people of Marin want a strong conservationist who will continue the policy of no new water hookups until growth control ordinances are implemented," told a recent campaign audience that even if the proposed intertie were built, "it would not meet our current water deficit."

BETTY FORRY
Favors intertie



RICHARD J. BOYLAN
Opposes intertie

Each candidate received about 26 per cent of the vote in the June election for Division 1, which includes San Geronimo Valley, Terra Linda, Marinwood, Santa Venetia and Sleepy Hollow. The winner will replace board president Jack R. Felson, who did not seek reelection.

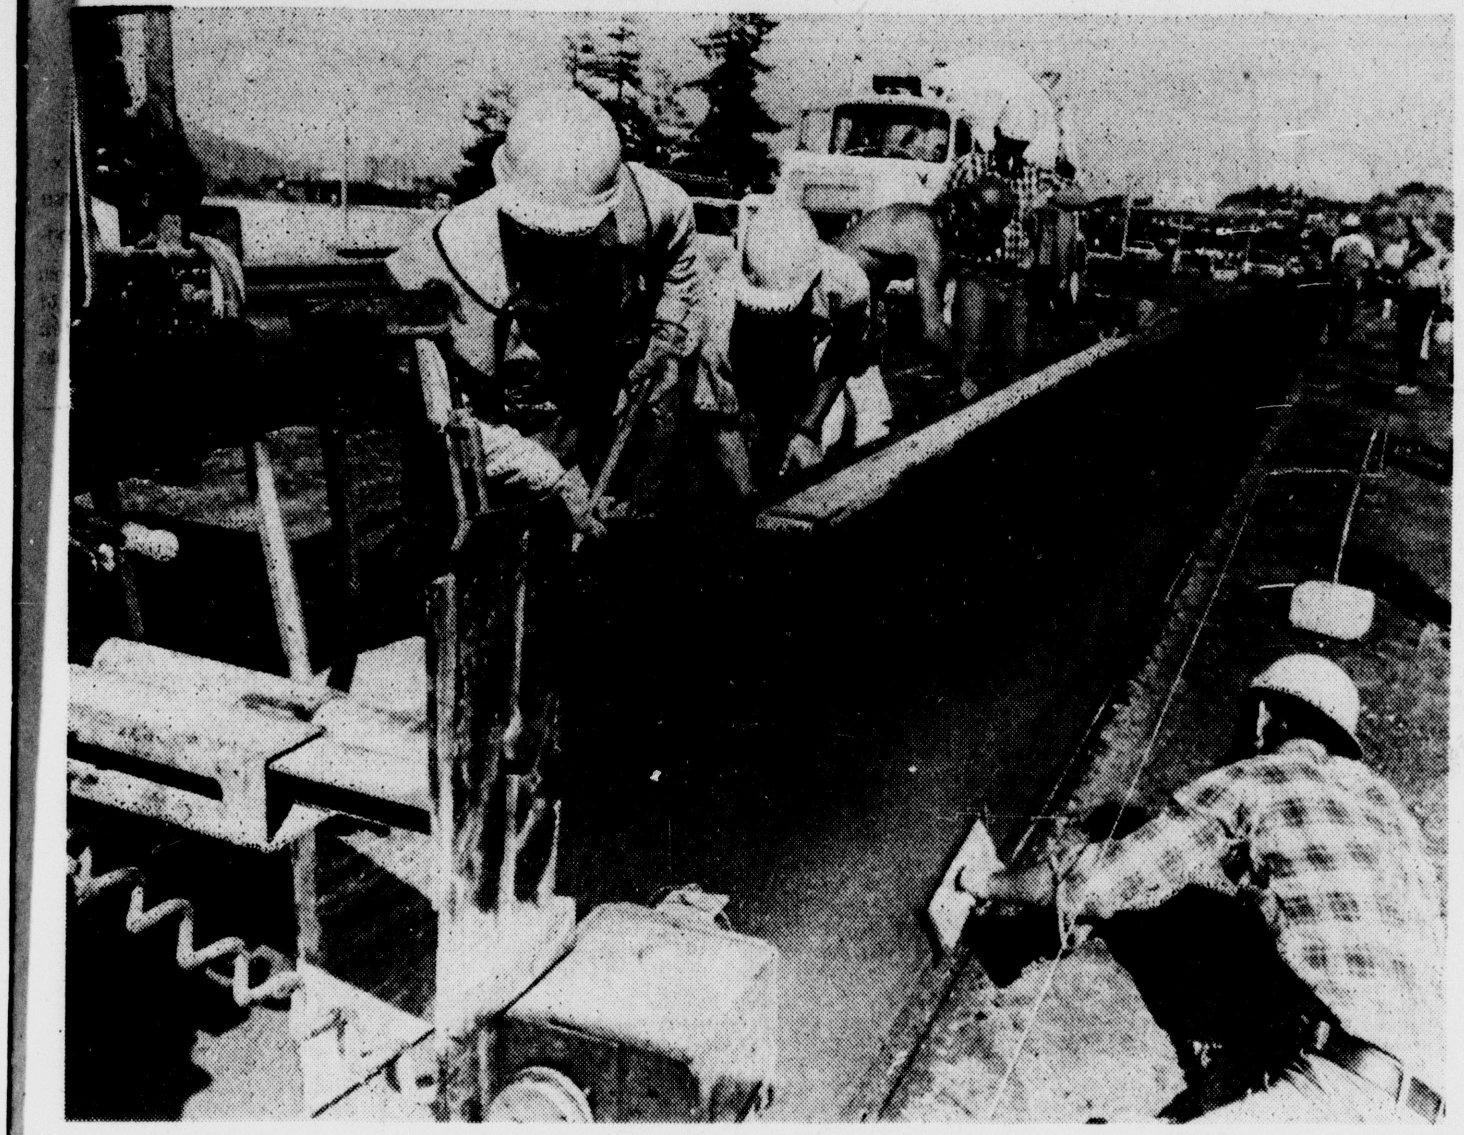
Boylan, who was born in North Hollywood and has lived in Marin since 1971, is a clinical social worker with Marin Community Mental Health Services. He worked on the Fairfax Open Space Citizens Committee and is zoning committee chairman for the San Geronimo Valley Planning Group.

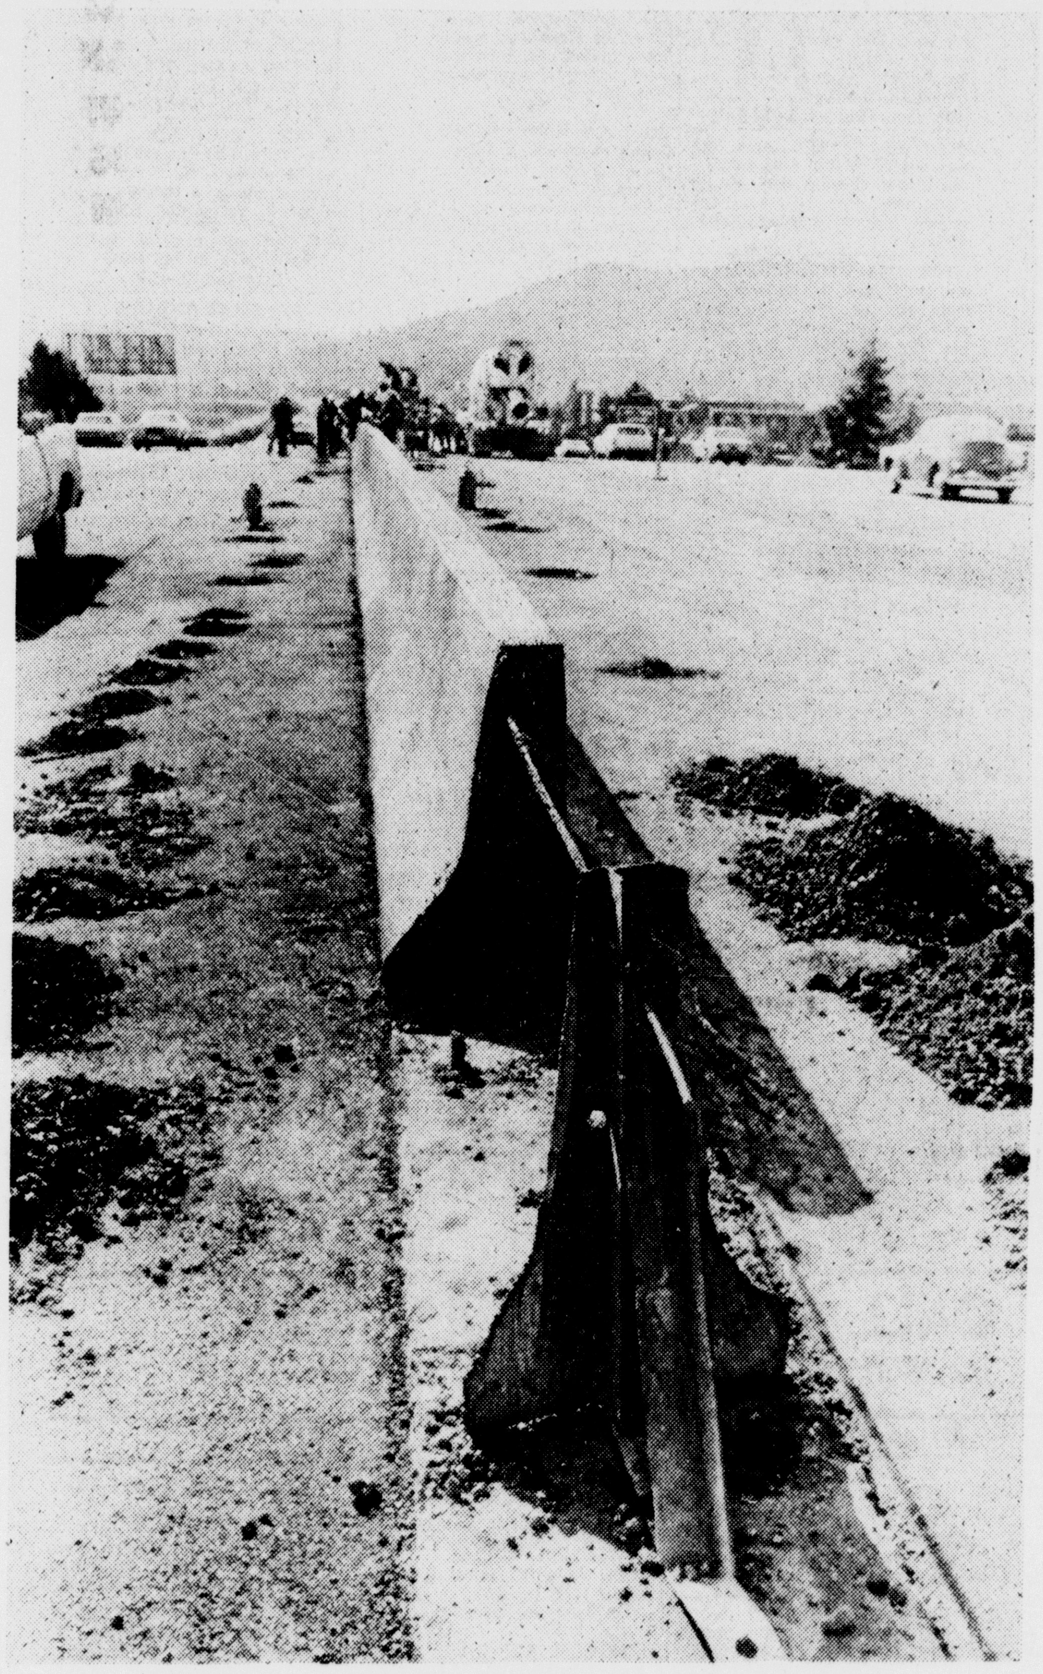
Boylan lives in Woodacre with his wife, Charlotte, and 1-year-old daughter.

He holds masters' degrees in educational administration from Fordham University and social work from the University of California at Berkeley. Boylan is a member of the Sierra Club.

Mrs. Forry was born in Sacramento and attended the University of New Mexico and the College of Marin. A business woman and homemaker, she was chairman of the California Recreation Commission from 1961-67 and a member of the county grand jury in 1972-73. Mother of a grown daughter and two sons, she and her husband, Dewey, have lived in Marin for 14 years.

Betty Forry is a member of the Marin Conservation League and the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and is a former vice president of the Sunny Hills governing council.





FAST WORK ON 'JERSEY' BARRIER

Workmen (top photo) apply finishing touches to a "jersey" barrier, named for its use on New Jersey turnpikes. It is being constructed for the first time in Marin on the Highway 101 median for 12,500 feet from the Greenbrae Bridge to Alto. An unusual moving form (top photo, left) shapes wet concrete as it pours the 32-inch-high barrier, leaving workers with only light troweling to complete the job. The mechanical form can travel at a rate of 1,200 feet per day.

A steel reinforcing rod (lower photo) inside the barrier is further strengthened from the bottom by steel rods from a prelaid concrete base. The job is part of the State Highway Department's widening of Highway 101.

Visit Plan Due Inside Prison Walls

San Quentin Prison is expanding its family and conjugal visits program to within the walls.

The San Quentin News reported yesterday that three trailers would be bought at a cost of $22,780 — from the inmate welfare fund — and placed inside the prison. Each will have two bedrooms and a kitchen.

The visits are now conducted in buildings outside the walls, and only convicts held in minimum custody are allowed to participate.

The prison's newspaper said that the trailers would be used by men from the "mainline" population with the exclusion of those in segregation units or close custody housing.

The program is expected to begin in early January, according to prison information officer William D. Nyberg. Prisoners will be allowed to sign up for either 19-hour or 43-hour visits, excluding Wednesdays, Nyberg said.

Mrs. Walker Is Selected

Shirley A. Walker, trustee of the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District, has been elected to represent Marin County at the Delegate Assembly of the California School Boards Association.

She defeated trustee Bette Wallace of the Tamalpais High School District board, and Eugene E. Jacks of the San Anselmo School District in balloting by Marin school board members.

Helen Rudee of the Santa Rosa City School District was chosen to represent Sonoma County.

The assembly meets Dec. 4-5 in Anaheim.

Boy Retrieves Stolen Bicycle

A 13-year-old Novato boy, holding a knife to the throat of a 9-year-old boy yesterday, robbed him of his bicycle and two cents, according to Novato police.

The robbery took place at about 6:15 p.m. at the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks north of Lamont Avenue, police said. The younger boy pursued his attacker and retrieved his bicycle in spite of being jabbed, but not cut, in the legs with the knife, police reported.

Dance Planned At Union Hall

The band "Ibericos" and singer Henrique Cordeiro will provide the entertainment Saturday for a dance at the carpenters hall, 647 Lindaro Street, San Rafael from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Host Agnelo Clementino — director of the radio program "Voice of the Portuguese Colony" — said admission is $2.

Pianist To Give Workshop Oct. 21

Pianist Carole Ozanian Walsh will give a workshop for piano teachers at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 21 at the Redwood Retirement Residence, 40 Camino Alto, Mill Valley.

She will play and discuss new piano publications during the free session sponsored by the Marin Music Teachers' Association.

Car Rolls Down 450-Foot Cliff; Woman 'Serious'

A 20-year-old Sausalito woman was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital after the car in which she was a passenger ran off Shoreline Highway and rolled down a 450-foot cliff.

The woman, Michael E. Sims, of 507 Eastrby Street, suffered a cut scalp, a possible broken right finger and two broken legs, according to the hospital.

The driver, George Christopher Chandler, 27, of the same address, was not injured in the incident which occurred about 3.2 miles south of the Muir Beach Overlook.

Highway patrolmen said there was no apparent reason for the accident.

Exhibit Planned

Michael W. Davis of Novato will exhibit oil paintings and water colors at the Mill Valley Public Library beginning next Tuesday through Oct. 31 from 2 to 9 p.m.

Weissich Says Bennett Still Owes Him $2,305

The man who defended William M. Bennett on two drunk charges says his former client still owes him $2,305 in legal fees.

William O. Weissich, a San Rafael attorney, filed suit last week in Marin Municipal Court against Bennett, 55, of Kentfield, a member of the state board of equalization.

The suit claims Weissich, a former Marin district attorney, performed $2,625 worth of legal work for Bennett but has been paid only $320.

Weissich represented Bennett on a 1971 drunken driving charge in which Bennett was found guilty by a jury in Marin Municipal Court, but the jury was overruled by Judge Robert A. Smallman, trying the case.

Weissich also handled a charge of drunkenness in public stemming from a 1971 arrest of Bennett in Sausalito. After winning a change of venue to San Jose, Bennett pleaded no contest and was fined $35.

The fee dispute between Bennett and Weissich is not the first disagreement the two have had. Weissich last year accused Bennett of preparing a $2 million false arrest suit against Sausalito police, then typing Weissich's name on top.

The suit was dismissed by a Marin Superior Court Judge on grounds Bennett purposely failed to show up at a pretrial hearing.

Fire Causes $8,500 Damage To Home

Fire did damage estimated at $8,500 to the home of Dale Cochran at 2805 Topaz Drive in the Bahia section of Novato at 7:19 a.m. yesterday.

The fire started in the laundry room, probably from combustible material near a heater, firemen reported. The damage was listed at $5,000 to the house and $3,500 to the contents.

Hostage Treated 'Like A Lady'

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — A U.S. woman official freed from a 13-day kidnap ordeal at the hands of leftist guerrillas says she was treated "like a lady and a diplomat" and grew to like her courteous captors.

"We hostages got to know them and even to like them a little under the necessity of sharing food and water," U.S. Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison said.

The seven guerrillas ended their siege at the Venezuelan Consulate last night, freeing their seven hostages unharmed and flying off to asylum in Panama.

In Panama City, mustached guerrilla chief Radames Mendez Vargas arrived with his ragtag band and said, "A war is not lost with one battle. There will be other actions against the Dominican government."

Miss Hutchison, a 47-year-old native of Newark, Del., told a late night news conference she "never thought they'd carry out their promise and shoot us."

"They were very courteous to me and the other two ladies," she said. "They treated me like a lady and like a diplomat."

Miss Hutchison, wearing a red evening gown and blue brooch, chain-smoked cigarettes while talking with reporters at the home of U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch, but otherwise appeared calm.

She burst into tears, however, when embassy employees later came in to hug her.

Miss Hutchison said the small room the hostages were kept in was "claustrophobic." The Dominican government cut off electricity and water to the building for most of the siege, but allowed daily food deliveries.

The guerrillas kidnaped her as she drove to work Sept. 27 and took her to the the consulate. They quickly captured the building and seized six other hostages — two Venezuelan diplomats, a Spanish priest and three Dominican employees.

The leftists demanded a $1 million ransom, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe passage abroad. They threatened to kill a hostage every two hours to press demands, but let four deadlines pass without any slayings.

President Joaquin Balaguer offered the guerrillas one "final and definitive" offer Monday night: a flight out of the country in exchange for the captives.

Miss Hutchison praised the U.S., Venezuelan and Spanish ambassadors for their negotiations with the guerrillas on behalf of the hostages and said she was "especially grateful" for the efforts of Balaguer.

The kidnapers' first two choices for asylum — Mexico and Peru — turned them down. Panama finally agreed to take the leftists "to help the Dominican government end this unfortunate situation."

Dictionary Helps British With American Words

LONDON (UPI) — The British schoolboy got a new dictionary today to help him translate American.

The third edition of the Oxford School dictionary includes such strange American as elevator (lift), movie (cinema), candy (sweets) and dime (4.375 pence).

Perhaps unnecessarily, the new school dictionary tells children the meaning of space-age terms such as blast-off, booster, launching pad and splashdown. It also defines hijack, crossfire and escalate.

The new words among the 25,740 entries do provide a clue to shifting British styles of life, besides the "many more American words and meanings which are now met with," the publisher said.

Equal Live Music Request Made

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has asked the city to grant permission for equal amounts of live music to be featured at the Old Mill and Sweetwater taverns on Throckmorton Avenue.

At present the Sweetwater can have music and the Old Mill cannot. The city council will review the situation at a special meeting next Thursday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Also at its Monday meeting the chamber asked the city to provide some kind of replacement parking to make up for spaces which might be lost if the city goes through with a proposal to rearrange the bus depot parking lot.

Election Slated In Harmer Seat

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has called a special election to fill the state Senate seat left vacant when Sen. John Harmer was appointed lieutenant governor.

In making the announcement yesterday Reagan endorsed the bid of Assemblyman Newton R. Russell, R-Tijunga, to fill the 21st senatorial district post.

Reagan set the primary election for Dec. 10. A runoff election will be held Jan. 7 if no candidate receives 50 per cent of the vote in the primary.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Minor Sore Throat Rarely Needs Concern, Treatment

A minor sore throat in a healthy person seldom requires concern or treatment. The best advice I can give is to lay low for two or three days, get at least eight hours sleep, limit your social activities and cut down on tobacco and alcohol. Steam inhalations or a couple of aspirin tablets will relieve the distress and promote rest.

For years startling claims have been made for mouthwashes and gargling products as relief for minor sore throat. These products have been under fire lately.

In fact, rinsing the mouth and gargling with ordinary tap water reduces the number of oral bacteria, which shows that the effect of gargling is purely mechanical. Some people add a pinch of salt or baking soda to the water.

Gargling with hot water is more effective than with tepid or cold water but iced drinks are more soothing when the throat is sore and swallowing is painful.

If using an expensive gargle, rather than ordinary water, makes your throat feel better, use one. But you'd probably get the same results from tap water.

Gargles have little, if any effect on a strep throat, since strep throat requires at least 10 days of penicillin. Antibiotics are recommended when the person has high fever, feels toxic and can't swallow. Penicillin is a must for the person who has a history of rheumatic fever or other ailments that are triggered by streptococci.

A laboratory culture is the only way to determine if the germs causing your sore throat are streptococci, staphylococci, diplococci or viruses. On the other hand, the physician has a pretty good idea when your sore throat is more than a minor disorder.

SALIVARY STONES

Mrs. T. J. K. writes: My salivary glands are blocked due to the formation of tiny crystals. Max, my teen-age son, has the same trouble. What causes this condition?

REPLY

These are salivary calculi — tiny stones that obstruct the salivary glands. In some instances, the opening of the gland is too narrow for the crystals to pass. In other cases, the saliva is too concentrated. In your family, hereditary could be a factor. Your physician can determine which of these possibilities is to blame for your condition.

LEG SHAVING

E. G. writes: I shave my legs every other day. Will this habit stimulate more hair to grow?

REPLY

This old fallacy was popular among boys just starting to shave. They thought that the more they shaved, the more hair would sprout. Growth of the hair is a perfectly natural process that has nothing to do with the frequency of shaving. When the legs are shaved, stubble forms and gives the impression that hair growth is stimulated.

LIQUOR CURE

A reader writes: Someone told my diabetic husband that drinking rum or scotch will burn up his excess sugar. I can't believe this is true. Is it?

REPLY

No. The body treats alcohol as it does other carbohydrates. Diabetics can have an occasional drink, but the calories and grams must be incorporated into their diet.

DIGITALIS SIDE EFFECT

P. T. L. writes: I have to take digitalis all the time. Is there any danger that this drug will slow down my pulse to a dangerous level?

REPLY

Yes, and when this occurs, your physician will cut the dosage or have you stop taking the drug for a few days. Slow pulse associated with nausea is a sign of digitalis intoxication.

HOUSEHOLD HEPATITIS

A reader writes: My neighbor has hepatitis. Would I be asking for trouble if I paid her a visit?

REPLY

You may visit your friend, but avoid personal contact with her. Don't use her personal toilet articles or dishes.

TOMORROW: Brain research.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

He said the winter may average more than six degrees colder than normal in north central and northeastern sections.

Da Vinci Wouldn't Accept Limits

NOTEBOOKS FOUND — Leonardo da Vinci's jottings, copyings and technical drawings have surfaced after a mistake that miscatalogued them in Spain's Royal Library for 135 years.

(Christian Science Monitor Photo)

Around the middle of the last century, a clerk at work in the Royal Library of Spain nodded for a moment. In that moment he made a tiny mistake, a mistake that muddled up the library's records for the next 135 years.

Instead of cataloguing two red leather volumes as Aa 119 and Aa 120, he wrote them down as Aa 19 and Aa 20. And so two notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci's jottings, copyings, technical drawings, and diagrams were as good as lost. And with them proof that we of the 20th century are not as clever as we thought. Leonardo was 500 years ahead of us in describing, for instance, one use of ball bearings we didn't think of until the 1920's.

His discussions of tides and of flying birds, instructions on such matters as making one church bell sound like four, building a fortress or a canal, were all shut away from the world by that small cataloguing error.

Then in June, 1965, a young American was using the library to study medieval sonnets. He noticed something fishy about those catalog numbers and asked to see the books to which they referred.

"I recognized them," Dr. Jules Piccus said, still a little awed after nine years. "I had da Vinci's books in my hand."

Da Vinci left all his papers to his pupil, Francisco Melzi, who in turn bequeathed them to his son, Orazio. Orazio was dim enough and unappreciative enough to give them all away.

Some found their way to England and some to France. Three (the Madrid Codices) ended up at the Royal Court of Spain, where they were bound into two red-leather volumes.

About 1830 they were transferred to the Royal (now the National) Library, where they were miscatalogued by that sleepy clerk.

After their long spell in the darkness, the Madrid Codices are seeing the light of day — with a vengeance.

McGraw-Hill, the New York publishers, made an arrangement with the Spanish Ministry of Education to print them in facsimile, and seven years ago the notebooks began a secret, highly dramatic journey with a Guardia Civil escort. Their destination was a printing works in Lucerne, Switzerland, where they were kept under close guard.

Now the facisimiles are finished. For readers in search of culture, prestige, or financial investment, $750 will bring a five-volume, leatherbound, numbered set. Of course there may well be none left to buy — after a thousand had been printed the plates were destroyed.

Dr. Silvio A. Bedini, director, National Museum of History and Technology in Washington, D.C., persuaded Madrid that 14 of the original pages should be shown in the United States.

The pages can be seen at the institution hanging in their glass cases, meticulously protected against theft, damage, and the effects of light.

The day before the exhibition opened, Prof. Ludwig H. Heydenreich of the University of Munich, explained to an invited audience what makes the Madrid Codices important.

In his other writings Leonardo often mentioned a book on the science of mechanics. Only a few pages that might have come from it were known. But now in Codex Madrid I, we have its first draft, full of notes and working drawings "precise and clear down to the smallest details."

The Codex contains still more proof that this 15th-century genius possessed a remarkable degree of 20th century knowledge.

It included a surprise for Dr. Preston Basset, former president of the Sperry Gyroscope Company, who said:

"My greatest shock in looking over the da Vinci sketches was the balls nested around a conical pivot. When we were developing our blind-flying gyro instruments in the 1920's . . . we thought we had an innovation with our conical pivot ball bearing, but it is a dead-ringer of da Vinci's sketch!"

A diagram of a crude bicycle puts in an appearance in one of da Vinci's notebooks (the Codex Atlanticus).

While de Vinci was filling these notebooks with information about ball bearings and military architecture, and planning to build a canal, he was also painting his incredibly moving Last Supper (1495-1498).

By 1975 the 14 pages will have been returned to Spain. They probably will not leave the country again soon.

Of course, one glimpse of Leonardo's Virgin of the Rocks, or the Mona Lisa, or the Last Supper, would move most of us more surely than hours spent over the Madrid Codices.

All the same, anything is important and exciting that make us aware of a man who refused to impose limits on himself. He is recognized as the man who refused to believe that a great painter couldn't be a great scientist and that a man of the 15th century couldn't think 20th-century thoughts. Sigmund Freud compared him to one "who woke too early in the darkness, while the others were all asleep."

A's To Enter World Series Mired In A Batting Slump

Jackson Ailing But Will Play Against Dodgers

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oakland A's go after their third straight World Series championship with ailing Reggie Jackson and the team's other erstwhile sluggers in a slump.

But the resourceful A's manage somehow to score, and they still have magnificent pitching to use against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Both were apparent yesterday in the 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles which gave Oakland the American League pennant, three games to one.

The A's scored their first run on four consecutive walks in the fifth inning and another in the seventh on their lone hit, a double by Jackson following another of the 11 walks off Mike Cuellar and Ross Grimsley.

Winning pitcher Jim (Catfish) Hunter and reliever Rollie Fingers held the Orioles to five hits, with Baltimore finally ending a 30-inning scoring drought on Boog Powell's ninth inning hit.

The A's pitching is what impressed Earl Weaver, the Baltimore manager. He predicted it would enable Oakland to join the 1936-39 and the 1949-53 New York Yankees as the only teams ever to win three World Series in a row.

"Pitching dominated the playoffs," Weaver said. "But that's the way we got into it, the way they got into it, and the way they're going to win the World Series."

After banging three home runs to beat Hunter 6-3 in the series opener, the Orioles scored only one more run. Through the fifth inning of the final game, they had gone 15 innings without advancing a runner beyond first base.

The A's weren't much better at the plate as they battled a Baltimore pitching staff which Oakland owner Charles O. Finley had feared would be tough to beat.

Jackson, playing the final three games as a designated hitter while hobbled with a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg, had two hits in the four games.

Oakland's other three top run-producers, all of whom knocked in 73 runs or more during the regular season, didn't fare much better.

Sal Bando did have two homers among his three hits, and his first homer won the third game 1-0. Joe Rudi was limited to two hits and Gene Tenace went 0-for-11.

Ironically, it was the hitless Tenace who drew the fifth inning walk off Cuellar which forced home the first run yesterday.

Just before the game, manager Alvin Dark had observed: "The thing about our ball club is that some way, somehow, we're going to find a way to score."

The A's, who return home today, held a victory dinner in Baltimore last night after a relatively mild clubhouse celebration.

"You don't have the hoopla you had before," Jackson said of the post-game scene. "Maybe it's because we were expected to win. If we don't, we're bums."

But he added: "If we win the World Series again, then we'll howl an hour or so."

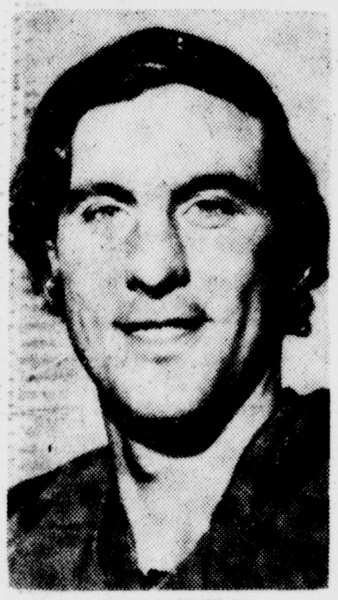
A Lesson On Punting

The 40 Marin County Goal Rushers who showed up for last night's meeting found out that the kicking part in pro football is a much thought out portion of the game.

The teacher for the session at Holiday Inn in Terra Linda was 49er punter Tom Wittum, the best in the NFL's national conference last year in his rookie season. (He sat out his first year in 1972 on the taxi squad.)



TOM WITTUM

It was a very interesting time for the 49er boosters group and quite educational for the 15 or so youngsters who got some good tips on punting from one of the best men in the business.

The 24-year-old kicker was drafted eighth in 1972 out of Northern Illinois University and he and his wife Susan still live at Round Lake, Ill., in the off season. He teaches high school physical education and driver education at nearby Gray's Lake, Ill.

Wittum was a three-sport athlete at Round Lake High, winning letters in football, baseball and basketball. A third baseman, he turned down a contract offer from the Chicago White Sox after high school and attended Northern Illinois on a baseball scholarship: Why did he pick football instead of baseball in the pro ranks?

"I didn't get along with the White Sox people who came out to sign me," he said, adding that they wanted him to skip college and play right then. "Anyway, I've always liked football better than baseball."

THERE ARE TWO set punt formations the 49ers are using this year, depending on the defensive alignments of the opposition, as explained by Wittum. If the other team has one man deep to receive the punt, the linemen are bunched up close to one another. But if three men are back, the 49ers split their two ends wide in a slot formation.

The timing is also different on his punts out of the two formations. On the slot formation setup he takes two steps before punting the ball, and in the formation in which the linemen are in tight he takes three steps. And, he informed the boosters, the players are advised beforehand as to which side of the field he is punting toward.

"We would rather have the punt receiver move to the side catching the ball than to have the ball come straight at him."

WHEN ASKED WHAT head coach Dick Nolan told the team Monday after Sunday's 34-9 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals, Reed said Nolan's message was: "You don't really win with what you have in your head on a Sunday, you win with what's in your heart." The 49er rooters hope that message doesn't go unheeded.

When asked about the poor officiating at last week's game, a questioner wanted to know if the game officials are rated after each game. Wittum answered in the affirmative. Then booster Bebe Ford asked, "By who, the Mafia?"

Mrs. Ford is quite a 49er follower as evidenced by the personalized license plates on her car: "GO49RS."

ABOUT THE QUARTERBACK situation, Wittum said Dennis Morrison has been passing very well in practice. A replacement for Joe Reed, Morrison could be a pleasant surprise Monday night in Detroit.

At least Wittum is not lacking in confidence. "For the rest of the year we feel we could have our best season," he said.

Okay you fans, hold on to those season tickets a little longer.

Two Rookies Keep Seals From Winning

OAKLAND (AP) — Thanks to St. Louis Blues rookies Doug Palazzari and Lary Sacharuk, the St. Louis Blues managed to avoid losing their opening game of the 1974 National Hockey League season to last year's doormats, the California Golden Seals.

Palazzari and Sacharuk each scored third-period goals to lift the Blues to a 4-4 tie with California before 5,812 fans at the Oakland Coliseum last night.

Palazzari scored two goals on the night. The first one evened the score at 2-2 early in the second period. His tying goal came at 10:17 of the third on a rebound from Bill Collins.

Sacharuk's goal in the final period cut St. Louis' deficit to 4-3. Brian Ogilvie, another Blues rookie, scored the other goal.

Newcomer Len Frig and veteran Stan Weir scored all four goals for California, giving the Seals a 2-1 lead in the first period and a 4-2 advantage in the third.

"I'm not disappointed," said Seals' coach Marshall Johnston, regarding the tie. "We played pretty well, but there are some things we need work on.

"I'd say for an 18-year-old, with a lot of pressure on him, Rick Hampton did a very good job," he added.

Hampton, considered a key player in the Seals' future, was credited with one assist — a long pass toward the net which Frig tipped in for the second of his two goals.

"We should have had the win," said Seals goalie Gilles Meloche. "Sacharuk surprised me," Meloche admitted. "I didn't think he could shoot that well."

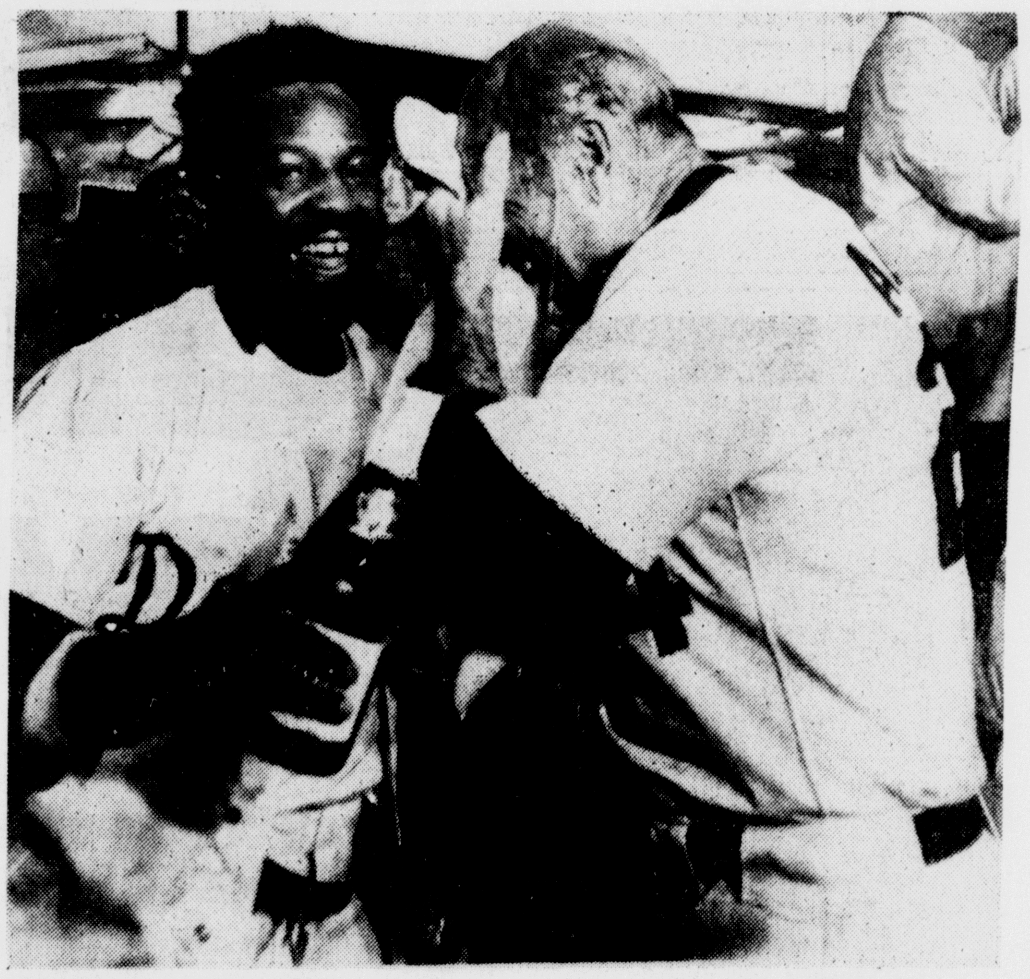
Lions Favored Because They're Getting Better

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers are hurting and the Detroit Lions are getting well, which may be why the winless Lions are favored for Monday night's clash.

Jim Johnson has a bruised shoulder and toe; Mel Phillips will try to play with a cast on his broken arm; and Windlan Hall has a sprained ankle. That's three-fourths of what is supposed to be the 49ers' starting defensive backfield.

Meanwhile, it was announced yesterday that the pin may stay in Steve Spurrier's injured shoulder longer than expected and not come out tomorrow as scheduled.

Spurrier had hoped to be ready for the 49ers game against the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles Oct. 20.



DODGERS' DELIGHT — Dodgers' center fielder Jimmy Wynn smiled while waving the champagne bottle around after dousing manager Walt Alston in dressing room yesterday. Alston was happily drying his face after the Dodgers crushed Pittsburgh, 12-1, in Los Angeles to clinch the National League pennant.

MADDEN SAYS

Woods Helping To Improve Chargers

OAKLAND (UPI) — "It's guys like this that have turned San Diego around," says Oakland Raider Coach John Madden, pointing to Don Woods name among the top National Football League rushers.

Woods is a rookie from New Mexico Highlands who ran for 157 yards against Miami and 133 more against Philadelphia. He is third in the entire National Football League in rushing, nine yards back of O.J. Simpson, and his 7.6 yards per carry is far and away tops among the leaders.

Oakland has to call on San Diego Sunday and Madden says the Chargers are a much improved club over last season's 2-11-1 dissension-ridden club.

Dan Fouts of the Chargers is sixth among conference passers and Gary Garrison leads American Football Conference receivers with 18 catches.

"Fouts is a good accurate passer who gave us trouble last year and that was his first start," Madden said. "They had different offensive ideas last year but now they're pretty solid. They're running more and running better, particularly to the outside."

Meanwhile, the Raiders keep saying that halfback Clarence Davis, who hurt his knee badly against Cleveland last Sunday, and quarterback Ken Stabler, who banged his knee slightly, both will be ready for the Chargers.

Belvedere Netter To Face Gonzales

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — John Williams of Belvedere lost only two games in two matches yesterday to qualify for today's start of the $25,000 Almaden Vineyards Vintage Pebble Beach Senior Open Tennis Championships.

Williams may be sorry he went to even that little trouble to get into the field, however. Today he has to take on top-seeded Pancho Gonzales.

Good Times For Dodgers' Garvey

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The last time the Los Angeles Dodgers were in the World Series — 1966 — Steve Garvey was a freshman defensive back at Michigan State.

"I remember I used to skip lunch so I could watch the Series on TV," he said. "Those were the days when I was on the meat squad and I was bumping heads with the likes of George Webster and Clint Jones.

"This," he added with a wide grin, "is a lot more enjoyable."

Garvey, now the premier first baseman of the Dodgers, bumped some heads of his own yesterday. The 5-10, 190-pound ex-Spartan football player drilled a pair of two-run homers in a 12-1 Dodgers' romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates to give Los Angeles its first National League pennant in eight years.

With Don Sutton pitching three-hit ball for eight innings, the Dodgers polished off the Eastern Division champons three games to one.

By beating the Pirates, the Dodgers put themselves up against the Oakland A's, who have won two straight world titles.

"They're the best in baseball right now," continued Garvey, who was four for five and scored four runs yesterday. "But we want a chance to prove that we're the best."

One More Setback For WFL

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The troubled World Football League got some more bad news last night when the league's best franchise left three-quarters of the 70,000-seat Legion Field in Birmingham empty.

The WFL, which had to drop two franchises and move two others recently because of poor support, pointed to Birmingham as its pride and joy. The Americans once drew 55,000 fans in a rainstorm.

But after back-to-back upset losses to Portland and the Hawaiians, only 25,621 fans showed up at Legion Field last night to watch Birmingham gain revenge on Portland 30-8.

The Storm jumped off to an 8-0 lead before Birmingham erupted for 15 points in the second quarter and then added another 15 in the second half while shutting off Portland's offense.

Charley Harraway and Joe Profit plunged for touchdowns and George Mira threw seven yards to Dennis Holman for one TD and 13 yards to Jim Bishop for another for the Americans, now 12-3. Portland's only score came on an eight-yard pass from Pete Beathard to Robert Holmes.

The victory left the Americans one game behind the Central Division-leading Memphis Southmen, who beat the Charlotte Hornets 27-23.

Southmen 27, Hornets 23

Danny White threw TD passes of 13 and 19 yards to Edward Marshall in the final period to lift the Southmen over Charlotte, playing its first home game since being transplanted from New York two weeks ago.

Blazers 45, Fire 17

Running back Tommy Reamon threw a 60-yard TD pass to Matt Maslowski and set up two more scores with long runs as the Blazers blasted Chicago to move two games up on Charlotte in the WFL East.

Hawaiians 25, Bell 22

Al Davis' third TD of the game on an eight-yard pass from Norris Weese with 2:45 left carried the surging Hawaiians past Philadelphia.

Ex-Cleveland Manager Ponders His Future

CLEVELAND — Like any other suddenly-unemployed baseball manager, Ken Aspromonte is getting in touch with unnamed baseball people to see what's available.

Then the former manager of the Cleveland Indians, dismissed by general manager Phil Seghi at the end of 1974 season, will go to his Washington area home to decide among his options.

One decision he'll have to make, he said in a farewell news conference yesterday, is whether to stay in baseball or look for another profession after 24 years in the sport.

"After all, there's more to life than a little white ball," he said.

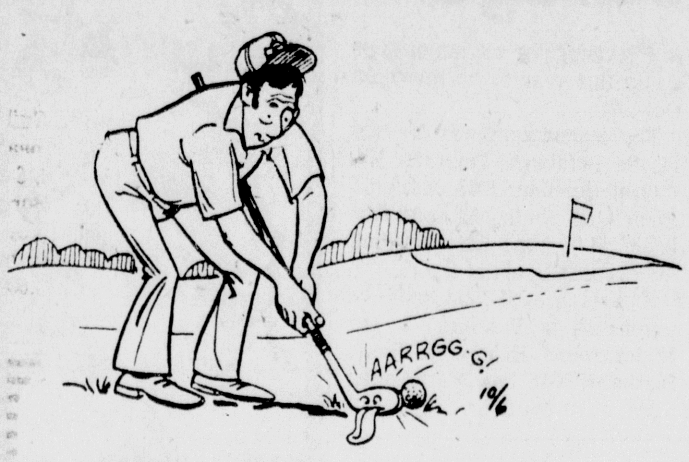
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



The 50-Yard Lob

By LEE TREVINO

Hubert Green is the best I ever saw on little pitch shots that require backspin. Hubie can make a ball back up from 30 yards away by choking down on his club.

A mistake many players make with short irons (wedge, 9-8-7) is in taking a full motion. The trouble is that they decelerate in the hitting area and the ball takes off like a knuckler. It may wobble off anywhere, with no control. Others try to cut across the ball, but they don't hit it hard enough to get any "bite" on it.

It's an easy shot that's just as easy to mess up by trying something fancy.

Choke down on the grip about four inches. Don't take a big riffle — cut back 50 per cent on the backswing — then accelerate through the ball.

Place a shag bag out 40 or 50 yards from the practice tee. Take your normal swing and observe the results. Putrid, eh?

So cut that backswing in half, and hit the ball crisp and firm. From 40 to 60 yards, more clubhead speed means more spin and control. It'll end floaters and "fat" shots.

Norwalk Driver Top Qualifier

PHOENIX (UPI) — Rick Goudy, Norwalk, Calif., dominated action in the first round of the Western U.S. Sprint Car championships at Manzanita Speedway last night.

Goudy turned in the night's fastest qualifying time and earned a front-row berth in Saturday night's finals by winning his 15-lap qualifying race. Other qualifying races were won by Clark Kempleman, Reseda, Calif.; Lee Osborne, Lebanon, Pa.; and Jerry McClung, Phoenix.

Redwood Harriers Triumph

Redwood High School's cross country runners remained at the head of the pack, both in the Marin County Athletic League standings and in their three-way meet yesterday in San Rafael.

The Giants defeated Terra Linda and Tamalpais high schools on the Ridgewood course in San Rafael. The win improved Redwood's record to 6-0 as the Giants remained the only undefeated varsity team. Hal Schulz of Redwood won the three-mile race in 15:45.

In another MCAL meet, San Rafael High won a pair against Drake and Novato at the Sky Ranch course at Bon Tempe Lake near Fairfax. In a non-league match at Phoenix Lake, it was San Marin 35, Mount Tamalpais 40, and Marin Catholic 48, San Marin's Ron Clark winning.

Oregon Practices Pass Defense

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon yesterday practiced on stopping the California passing game.

The Ducks, who face the Bears Saturday at Berkeley in the Pacific 8 opener for both schools, are hoping to contain the passing of quarterback Steve Bartkowski, who leads the league in completions.

Times Changed For Dodger Star

Reuss in the third inning and Ken Brett in the fifth — staked Sutton to a 5-0 lead. As it turned out, the Dodgers' $114,000 right-hander needed only the first shot.

Sutton has won 11 straight games (he gave up only one run in 17 innings against the Pirates in the playoff series) and has 15 victories in 16 decisions since July 25.

He won 19 games during the regular season despite 14 starts — and nine weeks — without a triumph.

"Before the game, I didn't think that I was going to have to pitch as well against them as I did on Saturday," noted Sutton, who stopped Pittsburgh 3-0 on four singles in the playoff series opener.

"I felt more relaxed. I thought if I could get by the first inning I'd be all right."

"I don't even want to think about Oakland," said Jimmy Wynn, whose run-scoring double in the first inning scored Davey Lopes to get Los Angeles in front 1-0. "I'll start thinking about them on Friday."

The Dodgers' win was a complete turnabout after a 7-0 Pittsburgh blitz Tuesday in which the Pirates collected 10 hits and Danny Murtaugh, the 57-year-old Pirate skipper, was asked about reports of his retirement from baseball.

"I might have something to say about that within a week or two or three days," he replied.

Willie Stargell accounted for Pittsburgh's only run on Walter O'Malley's 71st birthday with a seventh-inning homer off Sutton.

The Dodgers will go with 20-game winner Andy Messersmith against the A's in the World Series opener here Saturday at 4 p.m. EDT and use Sutton in the second contest Sunday.

Harry Trump was the most reasonable of bridge guests.
He demanded only two things.
New cards and Early Times.
Emil Frostbutt knew this.
On September 28, 1972, the cards in Frostbutt's posh game room were still in the cellophane.
But the bourbon.....
for some never-to-be-determined reason, Frostbutt had not ordered Early Times.
That night, for the first time in years, Emil Frostbutt played bridge without Harry.

PREP NOTES

Are San Marin Gridders As Good As Record Indicates?

By DAVID EINSTEIN

San Marin High School's football team had a dream of a preseason, but it was followed by a rough awakening in the Marin County Athletic League season opener last Friday night. Now the question is being asked, are the Mustangs as good as their first three games suggested?

With halfback Wayne Roche running wild for eight touchdowns, San Marin scored 120 points in victories over Canyon of Castro Valley, Analy of Sebastopol and Sonoma Valley. Against San Rafael, however, Roche managed only 88 yards rushing and a single TD in a 7-7 tie.

It was no secret that San Marin played a weak pre-season schedule. Just how weak is now becoming clear, and their early success may work against the Mustangs in the MCAL.

"There's no doubt we've been hurt by having to play teams that aren't as good as teams in our league," says first-year coach John Treu. "We did things in earlier games that didn't hurt us, that did hurt us against San Rafael.

Treu had no control over the schedule: it was drawn up two years ago when he was just an assistant coach under Bob Martin. If he had his choice, Treu says, "I'd have teams that are more on a par with teams in the MCAL."

Other Marin teams, notably Terra Linda, Redwood and San Rafael, play strong pre-season schedules year after year. It hurts them sometimes in the won-lost column, but it gives them an advantage when the league season starts. And they avoid the kind of distasteful surprise that San Marin got against San Rafael.

Coach Don Lucas of Terra Linda schedules strong non-league opponents because, "I like the competitive aspect of it, to be very frank. If you play good competition, the kids go out and meet the challenge."

On the other hand, playing a super team can get you roughed up. "Not so much by injuries, but because it's physically taxing," says Lucas. He gave as an example Terra Linda's final pre-season game, a 21-6 loss to Livermore.

"We didn't have any idea how strong Livermore was, but now we know."

One advantage to playing weak teams, says Lucas, is that it gives you a chance to look at all your players without getting ruined. But that, too, can backfire. When you finally face a tough opponent, "The kids who have been playing half a ball game will have their tongues hanging out." It remains to be seen whether early success spoils San Marin. The Mustangs' next three opponents are Redwood, Tamalpais and Marin Catholic, none a contender, so it won't be until Nov. 2 that Treu will find out how good his team really is. On that day, San Marin plays the powerful Novato Hornets, in what might be a battle for the MCAL title.

Warrior Guards May Move To Frontcourt

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — That battle for guard spots on the Golden State Warriors squad may not turn out to be quite so fierce after all.

That's because with the departure of Cazzie Russell to Los Angeles and Clyde Lee to Atlanta, some of those guards are going to have to fill in at forward, too.

Phil Smith, a 6-foot-5 rookie who figures to be a good one, will move into a part-time forward role and the Warriors will keep six of the eight guards now on the squad.

The Warriors, unbeaten in National Basketball Association exhibition action, call on Portland tonight.

That unbeaten pre-season record has not given coach Al Attles much confidence.

"I don't put too much faith in the exhibition season," says Attles. "The only thing that's good is some of the younger players are getting confidence. And they're going to need it when the season starts."

Bowling Tourney

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI) — The pro bowlers will greet 1975 here while competing in the $60,000 Alameda Tournament. Plans for the Dec. 30-Jan. 4 tourney were announced yesterday.

Films on Superbowls VI and VII and 49er and Raider highlights from last season will be shown free to the public tomorrow night in San Anselmo.

The city's parks and recreation department is sponsoring the event, which will be held at Isabel Cook School beginning at 7:30.

Popcorn will also be offered free.

Wristwrestling: Strength, Courage

By DIANE FISHER

Charles Schulz' Snoopy may not have raw strength and courage but the wristwrestling hall of fame has a place for him.

The cartoon beagle will receive his laurels for popularizing the 13th World Wristwrestling Championship Saturday in Petaluma. The hall of fame is a new addition to this year's contest. In order to be nominated, one must be a great champion or work hard toward the betterment of wristwrestling, according to tournament chief Bill Sobranes. Also included in the hall of fame will be wristwrestling artifacts such as the original world championship table.

The highlight of the day, however, will still be the matches.

There are four weight divisions for men — featherweight (150 pounds and under), lightweight (151-175), middleweight (176-200), heavyweight, 201 and over) and one open class for women.

Several wristwrestling favorites are returning to defend their titles. Among them is current heavyweight champion Bill Harrison of San Jose. Harrison has gained 55 pounds, weighing in at 323 compared to his 1973 weight of 268.

Bill says he did it on purpose because his "feet felt a little light" in last year's match.

Harrison started wristwrestling as a child against a 60-year-old man from the Phillipines who taught him the tricks of the sport. Later came the nights spent in local bars wristwrestling with friends.

Bill is not training in preparation for the championships. "My job as an iron worker keeps me in pretty good shape," he said.

Jim Dolcini of Petaluma is considered to be Harrison's toughest competition.

Dolcini has won the heavyweight title twice but missed last year's championships. If Dolcini wins the 1974 title, he would equal the record set by Duane Benedix.

The women's championship is held by Jill Edwards of Seattle, Wash. Since there are no weight classes, it is possible for a 120 pound woman to be pitted against another who weighs 200, in which case the championship's motto of raw strength and courage would certainly be appropriate.

The contestants come from all parts of the country. The lightest man to enter weighs 115 pounds and the heaviest weighs 334.

ABC's Wide World of Sports is televising the championships again this year to be shown on Oct. 19.

The tournament will be held in the Petaluma Veterans Memorial Building, 1094 Petaluma Boulevard South. Eliminations begin at 1 p.m. Saturday and the evening finals at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $5 and may be purchased in Petaluma at the Underground Hideaway, Radio Station KTOB, Lan Mart Coffee Shop, or at the door.

Gunshot Wound Is Fatal For Helen Maravich

HICKORY, N.C. (UPI) — Mrs. Helen Maravich, mother of basketball star Pete Maravich, died last night of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound, authorities said today.

A spokesman at the Catawba County sheriff's office said Mrs. Maravich died at Catawba Memorial Hospital after being transported from Boone where she lived. The spokesman said the death had been ruled as suicide.

Deputy Jerry Shockley said officers were summoned by Mrs. Maravich's 10-year-old daughter Diana. Her husband, Appalachian State basketball coach Press Maravich, was not at home at the time, he said.

Shockley said a .22 caliber derringer was found in the home. He said Mrs. Maravich suffered a single wound to the right side of the head.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Diversifying A Way To Spread A Risk

By ROGER E. SPEAR and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. If I were to sell my 3,000 shares of American Express Income Fund they would, despite reinvestment of all distributions, be worth less than I paid . It occurs to me by plowing back distributions, I am compounding a bad situation. I have adequate income and am interested in preserving capital. Should my quarterly distributions be invested in another fund? — R.H.

A. Although American Express Income Fund has performed better than average in declining periods, it has failed to do as well as average in the past decade. The yield, however, is currently 7.6 per cent from a good-quality balanced portfolio. Future distributions should be used to buy no-load Johnston Fund, an excellent long-term performer. This move will also help spread your risk.

Q. I have 500 shares of Champion International (NYSE) costing 11⅞. Would you advise me to switch or do you think the stock has potential? — A.C.

A. These shares, now trading at about 4X projected 1974 results (the lowest P/E in a decade), have thoroughly discounted the slump in the building industry and declining lumber prices. Building materials accounted for 53 per cent of sales and 65 per cent of operating profits in 1973. As the company is currently set up, some 37 per cent of its building products volume is purchased from others, which tends to reduce profit margins. This situation should be corrected, however, by the $1.25 billion 5-year planned capital expansion program, designed to increase capacity primarily in its building products operations.

Paper continues to be in tight supply, although some easing in demand appears to be stabilizing prices. This segment of Champion's business contributes 35 per cent of sales and 29 per cent of pre-tax earnings. Profits here should continue strong for the next several quarters, balancing any weakness in the building products area. The third major division, household furnishings, was able to widen profit margins on higher sales last year, a condition which should continue. Shares have above-average potential and should be held for higher levels.

Stock Market Continues Rally In Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Encouraged by favorable economic reports, traders and investors moved off the sidelines today to push prices sharply higher in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange, continuing a rally begun in the previous session.

A major factor in the surge was a Labor Department report wholesale prices had slowed in September, registering their slimmest gain in 11 months. Observers, however, cautioned the prices may rise in the near future because poor weather hurt some harvests and will send farm prices higher. The rise for September was 0.1 per cent, or 1.2 per cent on an annual basis.

Knoll Townhouses Are Going On Sale

Fifty-two new units of The Knoll townhouses will go on sale this weekend with a grand opening on Knollwood Road off Biscayne Drive in Peacock Gap.

Developer is Inland Steel Development Corp., the same firm that developed Quail Hill in Terra Linda. Fox & Carskadon is the exclusive agent for the project.

Prices, starting at $77,500, include carpets, built-ins, light fixtures, and garage door openers. The models have varied floor plans, overlook the fairways and greens of Peacock Gap Country Club.

The 52 new units are similar in exterior appearance but have no connection with the original 30 units of The Knoll built in 1965. G. Paul Leal, vice president at Fox & Carskadon, said the new homes are equipped with central heating and interior utilities that are different from those in the original 30 homes.

The new townhomes come in two and three bedroom models with varied floor plans, high ceilings, custom fireplaces, large view decks, raised dining rooms and formal living rooms. They have skylit baths, stairwells and kitchens, custom dressing rooms, large storage areas, laundry chutes, double garages with electric door openers. Special options include wet bars and dumb waiters.

The sales office at The Knoll will be open every afternoon seven days a week, beginning Saturday.

Sequoia Theater To Reopen As Two Theaters Next Month

Sequoia Theater in Mill Valley, which is undergoing major remodeling, will reopen next month as a unique twin-theater, showing two different movies from two separate distributors.

"All films will be top Universal products," announced Debbie Ruble, manager. The present theater seating section will be partitioned in the middle, with 450 seating on either side for a total of 900 seats.

"We hope to have double snack bars so that customers can buy tickets and enter to the right or to the left," said Mrs. Ruble. The marquee will be divided into "Sequoia I" and "Sequoia II."

One of the two theaters is scheduled to open during the first or second week in November with "Airport 1975," and the second is expected to be ready about Thanksgiving.

Adult admission will be $2.75, with no loge section.

SAN RAFAEL TRADING Company, a collection of 27 shops, will celebrate its grand opening this coming Sunday afternoon at 512 Third Street, across from United Markets.

Free refreshments will be served to customers from noon to 5 p.m. Louis A. Yuvan, owner of San Rafael Trading Company, and Manager Nancy Hedlund announced that the grand opening will feature a grand display of clocks, jewelry, nautical antiques, Victorian and European furniture, oak and pine, old wicker, new wicker, copper and brass, country kitchenware, and an exhibit of old buggies.

Among the latest shop-owners to join San Rafael Trading Company are:

Doree Gester of San Rafael, who operates the Melange; Marlene Black of Corte Madera, Country Treasures; Laura and John Mouer of San Anselmo, Sally of the Sawdust; Joan Purvis of Novato, Kilroy's Antiques; Andrea Goldman and Judy Auraback of Lafayette; Mike Roberts of Lafayette; Sandra Van Dyke of San Rafael; Laura Giovanoni of Larkspur; and Dan Cross of San Rafael.

ENVIRO-THERM Inc., a new company that specializes in installing insulation and acoustical systems to cut down energy waste in existing homes and businesses, has just been formed as an extension of McPhail's Inc., 917 C Street, San Rafael.

Heading the new firm is Judd DeBoer of San Rafael, a resident of Marin for six years. A graduate of Willamette University in Salem, Ore., DeBoer has had varied experience in insulation, construction and finance. Joining him in the new venture is John MacPhail Jr., executive vice-president of McPhail's Inc.

DeBoer said that Enviro-Therm has a unique method for spraying insulation and acoustical material onto walls and overhead areas in metal buildings and other kinds of construction including multi-family housing. He explained that the company uses cellulose material that has higher thermal and acoustical efficiency than mineral or glass fibers and is guaranteed for the life of the home to resist fire and vermin, and is guaranteed not to settle or deteriorate.

"Enviro-Therm hopes to alleviate the waste of energy that occurs in uninsulated homes and commercial buildings," said DeBoer. He noted that the state, HUD, and FHA have all undertaken new commitments on fuel conservation, including insulation requirements in homes.

NORTHWESTERN PACIFIC Railroad plans to move its San Francisco District freight sales office to Petaluma next Tuesday, General Traffic Representative George Farosich announced. The new Petaluma office will be located at 200 Lakeville Street, adjacent to NWP's Petaluma station.

Wayne Luck, district traffic representative, will continue to coordinate sales and servicing of freight shippers and receivers on the entire railroad, with Petaluma as his headquarters.

NWP also maintains an area freight sales office on the north end of the railroad, at Eureka.

TOUCH OF GLASS, founded in San Rafael five months ago as a maker of leaded glass terrariums, is incorporating and expanding its products for nationwide sales.

Richard Levinson of Novato, who founded the firm at 51 Belvedere Street, said he now produces stained glass lamps, wooden planters, jewelry boxes and related items in addition to the terrariums. As president of the new corporation, Levinson will manage the shop and represent the company in nationwide sales.

Joining the firm as an officer of the corporation is Sid Levin of Larkspur, who represents financial backers of the company.

Touch of Glass, located around the corner from Tijuana Taco, is open for retail sales and also gives lessons in leaded glass work.

RICHARD M. WILLIAMS of Kelleher Lumber Company in San Rafael was one of 23 redwood lumber specialists from throughout the United States to attend a seminar last week at Simpson Timber Company's Northern California operations in Arcata. The seminar took each person in attendance from the actual forest through all mill operations to the redwood end products and the marketing strategies.

FRANK HOWARD ALLEN & Co. Realtors announced that Margery Nevers, an associate in their Tiburon office for six years, won first place in their recent listing and selling contest. Second place winner Mary Amonette, who has been with Allen's Kentfield office for 10 years, and her husband Clarence will enjoy a week in Las Vegas. She closed $1,341,000 in sales.

Third place winner, Jo Dunbar, with the Kentfield office for four years, will be spending an evening at the Fairmont's Venetian Room in San Francisco with her husband, Dr. Robert Dunbar, for completing $1,244,000 in sales.

SEN. JOHN V. TUNNEY
Introduces legislation

Offshore Oil Legislation Introduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., joined by 12 other senators from coastal states, introduced legislation yesterday calling for a delay in government offshore oil and gas leasing plans.

In introducing the resolution, Tunney said it was intended to halt Interior Department plans for "massive" offshore leasing until the environmental impact can be measured and coastal development plans drawn up.

The California Democrat said "serious questions" had been raised about department plans for leasing at least 10 million acres a year in offshore areas.

Tunney said testimony at Senate hearings this week had indicated that the department would not be able to "assure that the United States will receive a fair return" from the leasing program.

"Moreover, coastal states are only in the beginning stages of developing coastal management plans to deal with the environmental and social impacts of massive offshore drilling," Tunney said, "but the department threatens to proceed with precipitous leasing, riding roughshod over the concerns of coastal states."

Joining Tunney in sponsoring the resolution to delay offshore leasing were Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Edward Brooke, R-Mass.; Clifford Case, R-N.J.; Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Bob Packwood, R-Ore.; John O. Pastore, D-R.I.; William Roth, R-Del.; Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.; Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and William D. Hathaway, D-Maine.

The legislation would call upon the Secretary of the Interior to offer offshore leases only after environmental research has been reviwed by the Council on Environmental Quality and the National Academy of Sciences.

It would also ask for holding up of leasing until coastal states were making at least "reasonable progress" toward coastal zone management plans and for assurances to Congressional committees that the environment would be protected.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

American actress Helen Hayes was born Oct. 10, 1900.

On this day in history:

In 1845, the U.S. Naval Academy was formally opened at Ft. Severn, Annapolis, Md.

In 1911, Chinese revolutionaries overthrew the Manchu Dynasty.

In 1963, a dam burst in northern Italy, drowning an estimated 3,000 persons.

In 1973, Vice President Spiro Agnew resigned under an agreement with the Justice Department to plead no contest to income tax evasion charges. He was fined $10,000 and put on three years' probation.

A thought for the day: American writer and philosopher Henry David Thoreau said, "Go where we will on the surface of things, men have been there before us."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No Medal Is Awarded In Race For Second Place In Bridge

When the opponents have led their best suit against your notrump contract, you are in a race: You want to set up and cash your own tricks before the enemy can set up and cash theirs. Since no medal is awarded for second place in this race, keep the race in mind when you choose the right suit to develop.

NO PROMISE

The bidding will not surprise those familiar with the Stayman Convention. North's response of two clubs did not promise a club suit, but merely asked South whether or not he had a biddable major suit.

If South held a major suit of four or more cards he would simply bid it. Unable to do so, he bid two diamonds. This ended the attempt to reach a good major-suit contract.

North went back to no-trump, and South proceeded on to game. Nothing had been lost on this little fishing expedition.

LONGEST SUIT

West opened the five of spades, and South won the first trick with the king. The longest suit in the combined hands was clubs, but South dared not go after that suit.

See what happens if South leads a club at the second trick. West wins with the king of clubs and leads another spade. South has to take the ace of spades. Now West can get the ace of clubs and the rest of his spades. To put it another way, West wins the race.

South saw that he couldn't allow the opponents to gain the lead twice. He had to develop a suit that gave the enemy only one chance to lead.

At the second trick, therefore, South led the king of hearts. East won and returned a spade, but now South could collect nine tricks: two spades, three hearts and four diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one no-trump. The next player passes.

You hold:

♠- A Q 5 3 ♦- 7 y
♥- Q J 10 6 ♣- 9 8 4.

What do you way?

ANSWER: Two clubs (if your partner is a good player).

This is the Stayman Convention, asking your partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards. Otherwise he bids two diamonds.

The greatest payroll for any civilian organization is that of the U.S. Post Office with 696,840 listed on July 1, 1972.

MICHELIN X STEEL RADIAL TIRES AT ABSOLUTE CLOSE OUT PRICES

Cain's has been hammering the prices of Michelin Tires down for the past few months - lately I've been getting some static from Michelin - Seems the other Michelin-Dealers are complaining. So, I'll just say I'm LOW-BALLING MICHELIN X STEEL RADIAL TIRES - I'm ripping competition and that includes Sears - who does have a steel Radial Tire - But it is not a Michelin - if it were a Michelin then it would say Michelin - But, it says Allstate which does not spell Michelin. But no big deal cause I'll give you more selection and a lower price plus a tire that says Michelin on it.

DORMANT SPRAY
DORMANT SPRAY

Winter is a difficult time for plants. So to make sure that your plants and trees will be healthy and fruitful next Spring, give them the protection they need to survive the Winter — with these fine 49er products.

49er Brand DORMANT SPRAY is an organic copper formulation which will protect your fruit and nut trees from the scales, rots, and fungus growths which wait to attack them during the Winter months.

To protect your indoor and outdoor plants from temperature and transplant shock, use 49er B-1 PLUS HORMONE SOLUTION. It stimulates root growth and hardens plants against Winter chills.
